PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentlewoman from Nevada (Ms. BERKLEY) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Ms. BERKLEY led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

WELCOME TO GURUDEV SHREE CHITRABHANUJI

(Mr. PALLONE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank Gurudev Shree Chitrabhanuji for providing such words of wisdom this morning here on the floor of the House of Representatives.

Gurudev Shree Chitrabhanuji spent 28 years as a Jain monk. During his years in India, he founded the Divine Knowledge Society and other social welfare and emergency relief organizations. He is also a prolific writer, having written more than 25 books that reflect his message of world peace and nonviolence.

The Jain religion, which places heavy emphasis on personal and societal nonviolence in thoughts, speeches and actions, has flourished in India for 3,500 years. This year Jains all around the world celebrate the 2,600th birth anniversary of Lord Mahavere, the last of the revered 24 genas, who spread the Jain message. I guess we could say in a way that Lord Mahavere was ahead of his time, once proclaiming all human beings are equal, whether male or female, rich or poor.

I would like to thank Gurudev Shree Chitrabhanuji again for providing this morning's opening prayer and also Mr. Sushel Jain and all the Jains who have made the trip to Washington this morning to hear this prayer. Many of them are in the gallery. I would also like to thank the House Chaplain Coughlin for allowing us the opportunity to celebrate the Jain spirit here on the House Floor this morning.

ENCROACHMENT ON THE MILITARY

(Mr. GIBBONS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GIBBONS. Mr. Speaker, I wish today to address briefly the issue of urban encroachment on our military training.

Mr. Speaker, for too long we have paid lip service to the fact that our American military will always be the best trained military in the world. Unfortunately, as a Nation, we are on the verge of breaking that promise and breaking faith with those who have volunteered to serve our Nation.

The Armed Forces' readiness is being eroded by urban expansion, environmental regulation, and commercial competition for our airspace, for ranges and for communication frequencies, encroachment issues that are threatening the ability of our servicemen and women to effectively prepare for the challenges which may face our Nation.

The iron law of our military is that training saves lives. When training goes down for whatever reason, accidents and casualties go up. Make no mistake, Mr. Speaker. Encroachment is like a cancer, eating away at our training capabilities. We must always be vigilant to this encroachment and act quickly to revitalize our training so as to keep our faith with those sworn to protect us.

A MONUMENT FOR THE WARRIORS OF WORLD WAR II

(Mr. TRAFICANT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, there are great monuments on the mall. All were earned, all admired. America has a rich history indeed. But if any one group of American patriots deserve a parcel of that hallowed ground on the mall, it is the fighting men and women of World War II.

Washington and Jefferson founded America. Lincoln preserved America. But I say to my colleagues, the fighting men and women, those who survived and those who were killed in action, they saved America. An America that fails to recognize the liberation from tyranny by these great warriors is an America that takes for granted our great freedoms.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the lives and the legacy of the fighting men and women of World War II that not only saved America, they saved the entire world.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE FEDERATION OF ECUADORIAN ENTITIES ABROAD

(Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate a group in my congressional district that has done much for the Ecuadorian community in south Florida and around the world: La Federacion de Entidades Ecuatorianas en el Exterior, or the Federation of Ecuadorian Entities Abroad.

This international group is celebrating its 16th anniversary with festivities this month in Miami where the group was founded. The celebration commemorates the Battle of Pichincha, an important date for Ecuadorian freedom. This battle, won on May 24 in 1822, liberated the capital city of Quito and secured the independence of Ecuador. La Federacion de Entidades Ecuatorianas en el Exterior celebrates freedom and history through civic and educational programs, recognizing the contributions of people with Ecuadorian ancestry.

La Federacion has more than 200 groups in the U.S. and around the world representing more than 1 million U.S. citizens. This fraternal group fosters bonds among people with Ecuadorian roots through social and cultural programs that honor their history and their proud heritage.

On this important anniversary of Ecuadorian independence and this group's founding, I wish the members of La Federacion de Entidades Ecuatorianas en el Exterior many more successful and happy years.

NUCLEAR WASTE TRANSPORTATION

(Ms. BERKLEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. BERKLEY. Mr. Speaker, every day our headlines read about how Vice President CHENEY thinks nuclear power is the answer to our Nation's energy woes. I hope my colleagues and this administration heed my warning, that unless we stop the Yucca Mountain plan, at least 77,000 tons of toxic, dangerous nuclear waste are going to be shipped through 43 States en route to Yucca Mountain.

It is a mathematic certainty that the continuing transfer of lethal waste will result in perhaps hundreds of accidents and the potential for catastrophe is very real. Governors and State legislators across this country have emphatically said they do not want nuclear waste traveling through their States. It is time that we listen to their concerns and heed their warnings.

An accident in one's district could cost billions of dollars in cleanup and the effects on our constituents would be disastrous. Let us eliminate the dangers of this ''mobile Chernobyl'' by developing methods to safely store the waste where it is currently located.

Please join with me in preventing a national disaster.

PRESIDENT'S PLAN MEANS SOLUTION TO THE ENERGY CRUNCH

(Mr. PITTS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, America does not have enough energy to supply all of the demands today. Californians are facing rolling blackouts and Americans everywhere are paying nearly $2 a gallon for gasoline.

Mr. Speaker, this energy crunch should not be a surprise to anyone. We have known for years that this was coming, and we have not built a major oil refinery in the United States in 25 years. It has been just as long since we have built a nuclear power plant.

Our dependence on foreign oil has gone up since the 1970s and 1980s, not down, and the rules for when and where one can sell different kinds of gasoline are so complicated, it is amazing we can keep track of it at all.

This energy crunch has been looming for years, and the previous administration did nothing to prevent it from happening. Last week, our new President presented a balanced comprehensive and sensible plan for getting us out of this mess. But the liberals in town are calling for price caps. If there is anything we learned in the 20th century, it is that Soviet-style command economies do not work. Just look at what happened in California.

Mr. Speaker, we need real solutions. Congress needs to get behind the President's plan, and we need to do it now.

NATIONAL STROKE AWARENESS MONTH

(Mr. HILL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HILL. Mr. Speaker, because May is National Stroke Awareness Month, I rise today to express my concern about the devastating effect stroke has on Americans.

Every 53 seconds, someone in America has a stroke. About 600,000 Americans will have a stroke this year, and 160,000 of them will die. In fact, stroke is the third leading cause of death in America, and one of the leading causes of disability.

Stroke impacts all of our communities. Millions of husbands, wives and children make sacrifices every day to care for loved ones who suffer a stroke.

The good news is that we are conducting exciting research to find new ways to provide rehabilitation to stroke survivors to help them regain lost abilities.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my fellow members to continue to support research efforts to help stroke survivors achieve the greatest quality of life.

SUPPORT THE BUSH TAX PLAN

(Mr. KINGSTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, what the big government liberals in Washington want to do to the working men and women is reach their hand in their pocket, grab the wallet, pull out all of their hard-earned cash, year after year, so that the working people now are paying about 40 percent of their household income in taxes.

What the Bush tax plan is saying is, hey, look, we do not need all of that money we have been grabbing out of your wallet. Let us put it back in there. Then, when the working people can control their own money, they get to save it. How, how about an education account for one of your children? How about a new dryer? How about a long, hard-earned vacation? Better still, if you want to, you go out and buy something on the economy, treat yourself. When you do that, businesses respond by increasing their inventory. They have to hire more people because of the new demand, and when they do, there are more jobs in the economy, more people are working, less people are laid off, less people are on welfare and unemployment, and we have more tax revenues coming in. It is a win-win.

Why do the Washington liberals not get it, Mr. Speaker? People know how to spend their money far better than Washington does. Let us let them keep more of their own money. Support the Bush plan.

SOLUTIONS TO ENERGY CRISIS

(Mr. SHIMKUS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take a minute to talk about the President's energy plan. I am very supportive of it.

As a member of the Subcommittee on Energy and Policy, what we have found out is that we need to have a diversified energy portfolio, just like anyone would have a good diversified investment portfolio. We need to make sure that we have baseload generating capacities using coal, nuclear, hydroelectric power. We cannot continue to rely solely on natural gas as the market, the supply and demand, will just say, the higher the demand, the more limited the market, and the higher the price is.

Energy is an important concern to many Americans. The best way to address the national energy crisis is to increase supply of the generating fuels, and also do some energy conservation to increase the demand.

EXPEDITING CONSTRUCTION OF WORLD WAR II MEMORIAL IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to the bill (H.R. 1696) to expedite the construction of the World War II memorial in the District of Columbia.

The Clerk read as follows:

Senate amendment:

Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

SECTION 1. APPROVAL OF WORLD WAR II MEMORIAL SITE AND DESIGN.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the World War II memorial described in plans approved by the Commission of Fine Arts on July 20, 2000 and November 16, 2000, and selected by the National Capital Planning Commission on September 21, 2000 and December 14, 2000, and in accordance with the special use permit issued by the Secretary of the Interior on January 23, 2001, and numbered NCR–NACC–5700–0103, shall be constructed expeditiously at the dedicated Rainbow Pool site in the District of Columbia in a manner consistent with such plans and permits, subject to design modifications, if any, approved in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

SEC. 2. APPLICATION OF COMMEMORATIVE WORKS ACT.

Elements of the memorial design and construction not approved as of the date of enactment of this Act shall be considered and approved in accordance with the requirements of the Commemorative Works Act (40 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.).

SEC. 3. JUDICIAL REVIEW.

The decision to locate the memorial at the Rainbow Pool site in the District of Columbia and the actions by the Commission of Fine Arts on July 20, 2000 and November 16, 2000, the actions by the National Capital Planning Commission on September 21, 2000 and December 14, 2000, and the issuance of the special use permit identified in section 1 shall not be subject to judicial review.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RYAN of Wisconsin). Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP).

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the legislation under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. STUMP asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, last week the House passed legislation to expedite construction of the World War II memorial by a vote of 400–15.

With the bipartisan help of the Senate leadership and the Committee on Energy, the Committee on Resources, the Committee on Appropriations, and the Committee on Government Affairs, we achieved that goal and now bring back H.R. 1696 to the House with a Senate amendment.

The compromise language accomplishes our objectives of declaring the major design elements to be approved by Congress and finalized, thus bringing the bureaucratic delay to an end, and rendering moot the current litigation brought by the memorial's opponents.

Mr. Speaker, I sincerely hope that this is the last legislative action Congress will have to take before the dedication of the World War II memorial in 2004. However, let me say that no one should question our resolve to see this through. I believe Congress will do whatever it takes, because it is time to build the World War II memorial.

Mr. Speaker, the action Congress takes today is an extraordinary step, based in large part on frustration over the slow progress being achieved by the relevant commissions under the Commemorative Works Act.

I hope everyone involved in the remaining administrative process will become true advocates of getting this memorial back on track.

No one should question our desire to see this memorial begun and finished expeditiously, nor should they question our resolve to overcome any further bureaucratic delay and legal wrangling by the memorial's opponents.

A lengthy democratic process, in the best traditions of our Nation, has been conducted and all sides have been given more than ample opportunity to have their voices heard.

Just as WWII veterans fought 60 years ago for the right of the memorial's opponents to be part of the process, those opponents of the memorial should now respect that democratic process and the final decisions that have been made.

Mr. Speaker, it is time to honor the sacrifices of the World War II generation. Eight years after Congress authorized the construction of this memorial, and six years from the first of 22 public hearings on its site and design, the memorial's construction remains delayed by a procedural issue involving the National Capital Planning Commission (NCPC), one of the agencies required by law to approve the memorial, and a lawsuit filed by a small group of opponents. This legislation would remove those obstacles and require the construction process to promptly go forward.

The legislation accomplishes that goal as follows:

Through sections one and three, the site and design for the World War II Memorial are finalized, expeditious construction is directed, and the prospect of further delay through judicial challenges or other re-considerations of the selected site and design are eliminated. Section one also includes a provision regarding design modifications which is solely intended to address the highly unlikely event that a technical impossibility could occur in the course of construction that might require a limited deviation from the selected design. In light of the careful review the existing plans have already been subject to by the memorial's design, engineering, and construction management professionals, the General Services Administration (GSA), the American Battle Monuments Commission (ABMC), the National Park Service (NPS), the Commission of Fine Arts (CFA) and the National Capital Planning Commission (NCPC), no exercise of this authority is expected. Moreover, as a result of these provisions, funds donated for the Memorial would not be diverted to preparation of the additional mock-up of the Memorial or further presentations on the selected design that have been requested of the NPS by NCPC to administratively redress that agency's procedural issue resolved by this legislation.

The second section directs that the procedural steps of the Commemorative Works Act shall be used for the approval of those few aspects of the Memorial not already finalized. These items are essentially the color of the granite, the flag poles, sculptural elements, the wording of the inscriptions to be placed on the memorial, and final adjustments to the level of lighting. These matters will be presented in due course by the NPS, representing the Secretary of the Interior and acting on behalf of the ABMC, to the two approving commissions designated by the Commemorative Works Act: the CFA and the NCPC.

To further place this legislation in context it is important to briefly describe the extensive, democratic deliberative process through which the site and design were selected.

After receiving Congressional approval in October 1994 to locate the Memorial within the National Monumental Core, many public hearings regarding site selection were conducted including meetings of the National Capital Memorial Commission (NCMC), (May 9 and June 20, 1995), the CFA (July 27 and September 19, 1995), and the NCPC (July 27 and October 5, 1995). In the course of these meetings, the CFA and NCPC, in consultation with the ABMC and NCMC, reviewed eight proposed sites for the Memorial. Through review of these proposals, the possibility of including the Rainbow Pool in the site for the Memorial arose at the June 20, 1995, NCMC public meeting. As the deliberations continued pursuant to the Commemorative Works Act, the appropriateness and potential of the Rainbow Pool as a site for the Memorial became readily apparent. The Rainbow Pool site was approved at an open, public meeting of the CFA on September 19, 1995, and the NCPC on October 5, 1995. President Clinton formally dedicated the Rainbow Pool site on Veterans' Day 1995.

In 1996, a national two-stage competition to select the designer for the Memorial was conducted in accordance with the GSA's Design Excellence program. Over four hundred entries were reviewed by a distinguished Evaluation Board that selected six competition finalists. From these six finalists, a design jury composed of outstanding architects, landscape architects, architectural critics and WWII veterans, independently and unanimously recommended a design team headed by Friedrich St. Florian of the Rhode Island School of Design. The Evaluation Board concurred and ABMC approved the recommendation on November 20, 1996. On January 17, 1997, President Clinton announced the Friedrich St. Florian team as the winning design team, with Leo A. Daly, a pre-eminent national firm, serving as architect-engineer.

Through the Commemorative Works Act process, the World War II Memorial design underwent three general phases of public review and approval: design concept, preliminary design and final design. The Memorial design has evolved through input and participation by the reviewing commissions and the public. In particular, at public hearings held in July of 1997, both the CFA and the NCPC considered Friedrich St. Florian's initial design concept and reconsidered the approvals of the Rainbow Pool Site. Both commissions reaffirmed selection of the Rainbow Pool site on more than one occasion; however, both also requested the consideration of substantial changes to the design concept. The design team subsequently undertook extensive efforts to address all concerns raised by the reviewing commissions and the public. Over the course of three years and nine more public meetings, the Memorial design continued to evolve to its finally approved form. As a result of the extensive public participation and careful review by the respective commissions and other governmental agencies, the final design is one which enhances the site, preserves its historic vistas, and preserves the Rainbow Pool by restoring it and making it a part of a national commemorative work.

Finally, in the course of authorizing this Memorial, Congress asked the American people to support the project through voluntary donations. They certainly responded. The memorial fund-raising campaign, under the leadership of Senator Bob Dole and Frederick W. Smith, Chairman and CEO of FedEx Corporation, received financial support from half a million individual Americans, hundreds of corporations and foundations, dozens of civic, fraternal and professional organizations, 48 state legislatures, 1,100 schools, and more than 450 veterans groups representing 11 million veterans providing the funds necessary to construct the Memorial. With this legislation, we will ensure that the Memorial is created within the lifetimes of a significant number of those we honor.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, last week this body overwhelmingly approved H.R. 1696 by a vote of 400–15. The Members of this body clearly want the construction of a World War II memorial in the District of Columbia to be expedited.

I am pleased that Members of the other body have taken the action to expedite the memorial construction. H.R. 1696, as approved by the Senate, will expedite construction of the World War II memorial at the dedicated Rainbow Pool site on the Mall.

Mr. Speaker, let us approve this measure now and send it back to the President, and move forward with the construction of the World War II memorial in the District of Columbia.

The National World War II Memorial will honor all Americans who served in the Armed Forces during World War II, as well as the millions of other Americans who contributed in so many different ways.

Mr. Speaker, the time to construct this memorial is now. More than 50 years after the end of World War II, there still is no fitting memorial for the service and sacrifices of millions of Americans who preserved democracy and defeated totalitarianism in World War II. Mr. Speaker, the time to construct this memorial is now.

I again commend my friend and colleague, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), for his effective leadership on this issue. I urge every Member of the House to support this resolution. The gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) is one of the heroes of World War II. To the gentleman and the others of his generation, we thank them for their service and sacrifice. It is time to build a memorial to honor their actions. We appreciate them very much.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. KINGSTON).

Mr. KINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me, and for bringing this back so quickly to the House floor after a Senate amendment.

Mr. Speaker, as we approach Memorial Day, I think there are two things that we can keep in mind. Actually, there are countless things we should keep in mind, but there are two things that I always try to emphasize when I am talking to schoolkids.

One is, we should remember in our memorial to our war dead that they were kids themselves. As I look at a group of high school students, and say, ''Think about the graveyards of all the war heroes that we see, and remember, they were closer to your age than the white-haired man in the bleacher who is back here alive today. The people who fought so hard for our freedom and sacrificed their lives, they were yet kids themselves, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 years old; very, very young people.''

We should also remember that they were hometown. There is not a county or city in America that we cannot go to that did not have people who died in World War II. In most towns, they had somebody who died in Vietnam, North Korea, World War I, or any one of other conflicts that have been fought in the name of freedom around our country. As we do this, keep in mind that they were young, and that they were our neighbors and friends.

What we need to do in honoring them is to get this monument built. We have had all kinds of hearings. It has met the approval of the National Environmental Policy Act and the Commemorative Works Act. It has the approval of all the appropriate commissions. It has gone through countless hearings, site and design work has been approved, and the construction permit has already been issued. It is time to move forward.

If we think about it in these terms, 16 million people were involved in World War II. Today, only about 5 million are left alive, and we lose about 1,000 a day. It is time to move forward for the honor of these very brave, very historically significant men and women of such worth to our country.

The fact that we have not already built a monument, to me, is atrocious. I am glad that Democrats, Republicans, and Independents are united on this. Let us pass this bill and let us break ground by Memorial Day.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 8 minutes to the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON).

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend, the gentleman from Illinois, for yielding time to me.

May I begin by thanking the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for his work on this bill, and for his work with the Senate in getting a bill that I think is one that we all appreciate for what it will mean for the memorial that has been under discussion.

I honor the gentleman from Arizona for his service, and understand and appreciate his anxiety to get on with the memorial. Let me say, as a child of World War II who grew up during the war here in the city, I understand why this memorial means so much to the men who fought this war.

It is the case, however, that anyone who loves the city and admires the uniqueness of Washington and the Mall could not possibly want the particular memorial that will go up. The memorial, of course, as I said in my own remarks on the House floor on last Tuesday, was pretty much a done deal, in any case. At least we will not be adding to the injury that many Americans feel about having any man-made object in the midst of one of Washington's great vistas, especially a very controversial design that does not begin to do justice to the men and women of World War II, who brought justice to the world.

At least now we have understood that no memorial can rise without administrative review and oversight. The bill assures us that there will be experts from the National Capital Planning Commission to wrestle with the many problems that remain when we are putting a football field-sized memorial where no object was ever meant to be. This poses unprecedented challenges that I hope the NCPC will meet.

What we are doing is putting a huge memorial below the water table, and we have to have somebody there, for example, to figure out how to pump water, which will need to be pumped out continuously, and how to make sure that it is treated and does not go into the Potomac River and the Chesapeake Bay.

Let me put everybody on notice now, they had better not put a contraption on the Mall that looks like some kind of machinery in order to do that. We have to find a way to do that.

We were very concerned about the wooden foundations on which the Washington Monument is built. In those days, that is how one built a monument. Disturbing the subsoil when the water is pumped out presents a real challenge to the NCPC. Nobody has ever figured out how to do that. They had better figure out how to do that.

What do we do to deal with the old growth trees that are a proxy for the beauty of the Mall itself? We had certainly better not knock them down. If the NCPC had not already been there, the National Park Service, in preparation for the memorial, would already have concrete helicopter pads on the Mall. The NCPC, I thank them very much, stopped that. That is but one indication of why we do need administrative oversight.

For those who come in from Maryland and Virginia, for the millions of tourists who come every day, the NCPC still has to figure out how this memorial, with its tour buses, with its traffic, can go up without closing 17th Street to traffic. That is a challenge I would not want to have.

Many of the elements of the Mall now, such as the lighting and sculptural elements, will be in the hands of the NCPC, so not just anything the builders choose will go up.

I struggled very hard to have this wonderful memorial put in a unique spot. I want Members to go to Constitutional Gardens. Constitutional Gardens is a huge space hidden right off from the Mall. The reason nobody knows about it is because there is a line of trees as one marches toward the Lincoln Memorial, and we have to go up over a hill to see it, but then we come upon a huge space with a wonderful pool and we say, why is there nothing here?

There is nothing there, and that was the first site that everybody wanted for the World War II memorial. I am very, very sorry that that was not the site chosen. Then it would not have been in competition with anything else. It would have been the first memorial to rise there. It is a huge and wonderfully undiscovered space.

Mr. Speaker, I worry about what we are doing to our Mall, quite apart from the World War II memorial, because everybody knew that the World War II memorial, if any memorial deserved to be on the Mall, the World War II memorial did.

I just want to use my 3 minutes left to warn the Congress away from fooling with the Mall. We who live in the District have, in essence, been left by the Framers to be guardians of our city. The Framers always wanted people to live here, people who did not come and go, like Members of Congress or tourists.

I am a fourth-generation Washingtonian for whom this city and its history, not just the city as it is today, means everything. The Mall, Mr. Speaker, is the urban equivalent of the Grand Canyon. There should never be anything in the middle of the Grand Canyon. There should never be anything planted straight in the middle of the Mall.

That is done now. What we have to remember, though, is that the Mall is a very small, centrally-located spot. There is a huge competition to continue to put things on the Mall. It is already crowded. We are grateful that President Reagan signed the Commemorative Works Act, which keeps us from willy-nilly putting anything that comes to mind on the Mall to any person whom we happen to admire.

There was opposition to this memorial, and that opposition has done an important service. Without that opposition, the memorial design would not have been scaled down. There was opposition in the Senate, there was opposition throughout the country. What we would have had was a gargantuan embarrassment to all Americans, and especially to our veterans.

In a democracy, opposition of this kind matters, and often can and in this case has resulted in improvement. Here, unfortunately, we have had a redesign which, like so many redesigns, is pedestrian and will be, unfortunately, invidiously compared with the evocative simplicity of the Vietnam Memorial.

Let this memorial be the last of its kind on the Mall. The NCPC has thoughtfully suggested many other locations in and around the Mall for future memorials.

Finally, let me ask Members to take a walk before the construction begins. Go up to the Washington monument site and look at that unobstructed vista for the last time. I ask Members to see it while they can still contemplate our two great Presidents whose monuments lie at either end of that axis.

And please remember this, that the only eternal cities in the world are not located abroad. They are not only Rome and Paris. Washington is meant to be an eternal city because it is the home of our eternal democratic values.

One of those eternal places in this eternal city is our Mall. It is one of our last remaining spaces left to us by the framers. Let us remember what it was really meant to be.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. SHIMKUS).

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS), who is the ranking member of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs. I know that for Members one of the most special times we have is when we get a chance to help World War II veterans receive the medals.

Most of them decided not to wait around for them. They decided to get home. They received their couple dollars and change and got their train pass and skedaddled home so they could be with their loved ones and get back with everyday living.

Now, in the waning years of their lives, they ask us for help to recover the medals that should have been handed over to them once they left the service.

Many times I ask or they are asked by the media during these presentations ''why?'' They do not do it for themselves; that is the most striking thing. They ask for the medals so that they have something that can be held so they can give it to their children and then their children can give it to their grandchildren so that there is a memory of service before self, of people sacrificing their lives, of friends and loved ones in some very harsh and cruel memories, of a very terrible time in this world's history.

Mr. Speaker, I have been able to do these presentations in many locations. My most favorite ones are when we do the medal presentations in schools. I have done them in grade schools, and I have done them in high schools. The students really get involved. They ask pretty tough questions, and some of these stories are just historic in proportion, as far as what these individual men and women have done in service to their country.

I have two uncles who served in World War II. My father served in the Korean War and hardly talked about the war his whole life until the memorial was built here in Washington, D.C., until the memorial was built in Springfield, Illinois, until he joined the Korean War Veterans Association and wears his little light blue hat.

So building the World War II Memorial now rather than later is critical. It is critical for those remaining veterans who want to have a tribute to their fallen colleagues and friends. It is also important, as this is an eternal city, it is an eternal city that young men and young women, kids of all ages come to learn at the heart of democracy and freedom.

Should they not also learn about the sacrifices made to preserve freedom in this great land? That is why it is so important to move expeditiously now in approving the memorial.

I really applaud the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS), the ranking member; and I ask all of my colleagues to join in support of this resolution.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), the ranking member of the Committee on Armed Services.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS) so much for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, let me take this opportunity to congratulate the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for his leadership on this bill and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS), the ranking member of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs, for doing this important legislation.

It appears to me that after some 60 years, the veterans of what we now call the Second World War should be rightfully honored here in the District of Columbia. We have a memorial to the Vietnam veterans. We have a memorial to those who fought in Korea.

It is the generation that Tom Brokaw, the NBC author and anchorman, calls the greatest generation, yet there is no memorial to them. This bill puts an end to the discussion, the disagreements.

After 22 public hearings on its site and design, it is something that needs to be done. Growing up in the era of the Second World War, my heroes were those who fought, who came home, such as my best friend's older brother, Walter Savio, when he came over to the grade school with his uniform on and his gas mask attached to his side; others like Hector Polla, who did not come back; others like Raymond Howard, who was captured at Corregidor; George Steir, who was shot down while flying his B–17 over Europe. He was a prisoner of war.

So many of them should be honored, and this will be an honor that will pass on to later generations. They will know them as the members of the greatest generation. It is time we put an end to the disagreement and the discussion and do something about it.

Mr. Speaker, I wholeheartedly agree with the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS); and I thank them for their efforts.

I know there are many, many World War II veterans that will be pleased to know that finally the discussion is over. There will be a memorial to them, and I know they will be very grateful.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3½ minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN).

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I want to say it is nice to have the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) precede me, because this is at a higher level than it normally is. I appreciate the gentleman's comments.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to comment on a couple of points: the process and the policy.

First, in terms of the process, it is important to bear in mind that the location and the design have already been decided. There have been three votes by the National Capital Planning Commission; all of them approved this design, and this site. They did scale it back from its original design.

They did compromise, but they came to a conclusion three times. They had 22 public hearings that resulted in that conclusion. The only reason it is not being constructed is, in fact, a technicality. They are arguing that the Harvey Gantz membership, his tenure as chairman should have been expired, but he was not reappointed.

In so many commissions all over the metropolitan area and, in fact, all over the country, people continue to serve until they are replaced. It is really a pure technicality on which this has been stopped.

I think that contributed to the determination of the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) to go forward with this legislation. That decision has been made by the appropriate bodies.

Now, let me go to the second issue. Is it appropriate to put this large a memorial to World War II veterans on the Mall? I think the answer is yes, because we are not just talking about American history. We are talking about a turning point in world history. It was the veterans of World War II who did, in fact, save our world for democracy, for the freedoms that we today take for granted.

Many of them lost their lives. Many are dying today at a rate of a thousand a day. My father has already passed away, but there are going to be very few left. This is important to them. This is important to the country. It is important to the world that it be in a visible place to show the importance that we attach to what they contributed to world history.

Mr. Speaker, I also want to pay some respect to the views of the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) and those who are concerned about what we are doing to the Mall, because while I recognize that we need a memorial that is obvious, that makes a definitive statement with regard to how we feel about World War II veterans, we have to start thinking twice about what we decide should be on that Mall.

This is a sacred national place. The fact is, it is arrogant for this generation to feel that everything that happened in our experience is all that matters.

Mr. Speaker, I want to conclude by saying we see too many proposals to put too many things on the Mall. This is going to last for thousands of years, as it should. But there are other generations who also will have things that need to be memorialized on this sacred place, and I would urge some caution to those who have a dozen other memorials they want to put on the Mall.

Let us pay some cognizance and respect to future generations. Let us go ahead with this memorial. The Senate compromise is a good one. It gives more latitude, but I think the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) makes some good points that we ought to bear in mind, not just now, but in the future as well.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR).

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I will also yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR).

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RYAN of Wisconsin). The gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) is recognized for 6 minutes.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, who is my good friend, and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS), the ranking member of the full committee, a member from my own class for whom I have the highest regard, for yielding the time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in very strong support of the Senate resolution that has come back to us in support of constructing the World War II Memorial on our avenue of democracy where it belongs.

I think it is especially historic in that this is the first year of the new century and the new millennium which allows us some perspective in looking back and recognizing that the victory of liberty over tyranny was the fulcrum of the 20th century.

As we look at that Mall and we think about the history of this Nation, we have the Washington Monument; yes, a monument to a person, but, more importantly, a monument to the founding of our republic.

Then not so far from it on the Mall, the Lincoln Memorial; yes, a memorial to a person, a great person, but also a memorial to the preservation of our union.

Now, for the 20th century, we add to this expression of the history of the United States a memorial to the victory of liberty over tyranny.

The 18th, 19th, and 20th century come together at one moment, in fact, in the revised design of this new memorial. There will be a light fixture in the central sculpture within the Rainbow Falls that will cast itself on the Reflecting Pool from the Lincoln Memorial at the exact place where the Washington Monument's shadow is cast in the reflecting pool in a way that the 18th, 19th, and 20th century all come together in celebration of freedom.

This is exactly the place where this memorial belongs. In fact, if you walk the Mall today, the disrepair of the Rainbow Fountains is a disgrace. And so, the improvements that will be made with the refined design will elevate us all as a people and the expression of our own history.

I believe, along with all the others who have spoken, that the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) and those who have expressed some concerns about the design have been involved in the refinement and improvement of this expression of a free people. Thank goodness we have had over 22 public hearings, various approvals of the Fine Arts Commission and the National Capital Planning Commission, because with every step, it has become better, as it should.

On this Memorial Day that we will celebrate next week, we honor all veterans, all freedom lovers, certainly the 16 million World War II veterans who made our freedom and our ability to stand on this floor today as a free people possible.

We also remember the 5 million who still are living today and whom we hope will see our seriousness in celebrating and commemorating what they have done for the world. Whoever would have thought that we would live at a time or we would have witnessed the fall of the Berlin Wall, and brand new nations emerge with a chance, just a chance, for independence as Eastern and Central Europe come online. Imagine we are able to even e-mail people that we could not even talk to 20 years ago or 40 years ago. What an incredible new moment this is in the history of humankind.

I want to thank all of the Presidents, and there have now been three: President George Bush back in the 1980s, who signed the original authorizing legislation for the memorial; President Bill Clinton, who signed the memorial coins that were minted to pay the costs for the beginning of the memorial's planning; and now, our new President George W. Bush, who has endorsed the construction of this memorial.

President Clinton stood with us as we dedicated the ground. I am sure President George W. Bush will be there when the memorial is finally constructed.

I want to thank the Secretary of Veterans' Affairs, Anthony Principi, for the good words that he spoke this morning in support of this memorial.

So as we think about the importance of this place in American history, let us remember the significance of what these greatest Americans, this greatest generation of Americans, did for the freedom of humankind. Let us build this memorial in a timely way as the 21st century's way of saying thank you to the 20th century and its champions.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank all the Members of the House and the Senate that supported us; but I want to single out a few for special thanks: the chairmen, my two good friends, the gentleman from Utah (Mr. HANSEN) of the Committee on Resources, and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs, and also their ranking members, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS) of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs and the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. RAHALL) of the Committee on Resources.

I would also like to thank the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR), who began this effort some 12 years ago or more, and she still remains a steadfast champion of the World War II veterans. And I appreciate her support very much.

On behalf of the House, I would like to extend our thanks and appreciation to Senators LOTT and DASCHLE for moving this through the Senate so expeditiously, and also single out Senators HUTCHINSON, THOMPSON, STEVENS, and MURKOWSKI for their help on this bill.

I would also like to express my appreciation to the following organizations, which sent in letters of support on H.R. 1696, they are: The American Legion; Veterans of Foreign Wars of the US; Disabled American Veterans; Paralyzed Veterans of America; AMVETS; The Retired Officers Association; Non Commissioned Officers Association; Marine Corps Reserve Officers' Association; Blinded Veterans Association; Military Order of the Purple Heart; Jewish War Veterans of the USA; Association of the United States Army; Fleet Reserve Association; Veterans' Widows International Network, Inc.; National Association for Uniformed Services, and the Enlisted Association of the National Guard of the US.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank members of the American Battle Monuments Commission for their professionalism and dedication to building a memorial that will do justice to our Nation's veterans and our desire to honor those who participated in World War II.

I am absolutely certain that the American Battle Monuments Commission will produce a memorial that all Americans can take pride in for generations to come.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 1696, as amended, a bill that would expedite construction of the world War II Memorial in the District of Columbia. This memorial for the most significant event of the twentieth century is already long overdue, but today Congress is taking action to remove the roadblocks holding up construction of the memorial.

I commend our Senate colleagues on both sides of the aisle for expeditiously taking up H.R. 1696 after House passage on May 15, 2001, and for the thoughtful dialogue that led to the compromise language in the Senate amendment to the bill. I believe that we now have legislation that accomplishes the objectives we sought: to establish definitely that the memorial's location will remain the Rainbow Pool between the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial; that the overall design already selected will be what is built; and that any pending lawsuits will be rendered moot.

Again, I salute the leadership of my distinguished colleague, BOB STUMP, in introducing H.R. 1696, managing its House passage, and negotiating with the Senate on an amendment acceptable to both bodies. I associate myself with his remarks in their substance and in recognizing the contributions of many Members to this legislation.

President Bush's expression of support on May 16, 2001 for moving quickly to begin construction of the memorial gave our legislation a real boost and was much appreciated. He has made it clear he will sign this bill. And with Memorial Day approaching, how could we do less than ensure that our World War II veterans will be honored on this prominent site on the Mall?

Mr. Speaker, the extraordinary action Congress is taking here is not the sort of thing we should do often, but I am convinced that in this instance it is appropriate and necessary. I hope it will serve as a reminder that the patience of Congress and the American people is not endless, and that the agencies and commissions of government are constitutionally accountable to Congress as well as the courts.

The bill would allow the normal and necessary administrative decisions to be made in carrying out the design as memorial construction proceeds. However, I think it is obvious that Congress will not lose its keen interest in the progress of the memorial once this legislation is enacted into law.

Mr. Speaker, the Senate having approved the compromise bill by unanimous consent, I urge every Member of the House to join in supporting our World War II veterans by giving favorable consideration to H.R. 1696, as amended.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RYAN of Wisconsin). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) that the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to the bill, H.R. 1696.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendment was concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that, during further consideration of the bill, H.R. 1, pursuant to House Resolution 143, amendment numbered 3 in House Report 107–69 may be offered out of the specified order and immediately following amendment numbered 5.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 143 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the further consideration of the bill, H.R. 1.

IN THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H.R. 1) to close the achievement gap with accountability, flexibility, and choice, so that no child is left behind, with Mr. HASTINGS of Washington in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The CHAIRMAN. When the Committee of the Whole House rose on Thursday, May 17, 2001, 1 hour and 46 minutes remained in general debate.

The gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) has 55 minutes remaining and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) has 51 minutes remaining.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER).

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I am happy to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. Isakson).

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Ohio for yielding me this time. I am delighted to rise today in support of the number one campaign issue of President George Bush, the number one focus of the House Committee on Education and the Workforce, and a bill to which any number of Members of this House have contributed tremendous time and effort in the interest of improving the education of all America's children, but in particular our most disadvantaged.

I want to particularly thank the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) for his tireless work over the last 4 months and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), ranking member for his tireless effort as well.

The results of the working group and the House Committee on Education and the Workforce is a bipartisan bill that ensures this country has accountability in the expenditure of title I funds, I might add for the first time.

It ensures more flexibility than has ever been allowed with Federal funds to every single one of the 6,000 public school systems in the United States of America.

Most importantly of all, it informs parents and children on an individual basis of their progress, how their schools are doing, and it provides work and money to allow schools that are failing to come up in their performance and ultimately to meet the success that schools that are succeeding are in fact doing.

I want to particularly address myself to the accountability portion this morning, which in later amendments will receive a good certain amount of debate.

Since the inception of title I, there has not been a mechanism for accountability of the progress of America's most disadvantaged students. For the benefit of this Chamber, it is important to understand that title I students are America's poorest students, those on free and reduced lunch, those who most likely have come from an environment that is less than conducive to learning, and those, that after they enter the public school system, more often than other students, that will find themselves dropping out before they ever get a high school diploma.

The important part of the President's initiative is as follows: First we will have an early reading first program that ensures that children will learn to read and comprehend to the third grade level by the time they reach that level. Second, it ensures that, in reading and in arithmetic, children will be tested annually by the local system and by the State on a test approved by the State to ensure that they are progressing at normal levels.

In addition, there is a $675 million increase to a total of $975 million to ensure that reading instruction is the very first and most important and paramount instruction that every child gets.

There are options in this bill, options for the children for the first time and their parents. If a title I child attends a public school that is ranked as failing, then where consistent with State law, that child will have the opportunity to transfer to a public school that is succeeding. For the first time, title I funds will be used to allow transportation of that student to ensure their biggest problem, which is mobility, is overcome; and they can attend the school that is public that is best performing to meet their needs.

In addition, this program focuses on flexibility. Historically, for years, flexibility has been something local systems have not had. As this debate goes on, we will learn local systems will now have up to 50 percent of their own flexibility, flexibility at their own volition.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE) will control the time on the Democrat side.

There was no objection.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, today's consideration of H.R. 1 marks the end of many busy and work-filled nights and weekends over the past 4 months. I strongly believe that this bill enacts meaningful bipartisan education reform by striking the right balance. Clearly from the final resolution of issues in the reported bill, we all gave some, and some probably feel they gave too much. But the result is a bipartisan bill.

Several provisions in the bill are especially worthy of mention. With regard to title I, I am pleased that the amendment protects and preserves many of the core advances that the last reauthorization of ESEA in 1994 instituted, and maintains our existing requirements to develop and implement challenging standards and aligned assessments.

Preserved are title I's targeting of resources to high-poverty school districts and schools. Also maintained are vital national priorities such as the 21st Century Community Learning Centers and the Civic and International Education Programs which are key priorities of mine.

Most importantly, I believe the strong accountability requirements we have added to ESEA greatly improve the bill. These include a requirement to ensure that all children reach a proficient level of performance. Increased teacher quality requirements and a focus on turning around failing schools through the investment of additional help and resources are indeed critical.

In a time when we are in an increasingly competitive world, we can no longer tolerate low-performing schools that place the education of our children at risk. Very simply, this means providing additional resources and intervention to help students in those low-performing schools reach high standards. If schools are still failing after substantive intervention, then consequences must indeed exist.

Fortunately, this bill does not include divisive issues that would distract us from our efforts to gain a bipartisan consensus. H.R. 1, as introduced, did contain many of these provisions including private school vouchers, Straight A's, and cessation of educational services. The inclusion of these provisions could undo the careful bipartisan compromise that this bill represents.

I do not question the motivation of Members who have sought or will seek to offer and support these issues, but I am positive that the passage of such amendments will jeopardize bipartisan support of this bill. I want to thank the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), my ranking member, for his leadership and many hours of hard work on what is a major piece of legislation.

I also want to thank the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER), he did yeoman's service; and the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MINK); the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROEMER); the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE); the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON); and the gentleman from California (Mr. MCKEON) for their hard work on this bill. They and their staffs, along with Sandy Kress from the White House, deserve a tremendous amount of credit for this truly bipartisan bill.

I am proud of this bill. I am pleased with having worked with those on both sides of the aisle. I think all of us share that pride, and the children of this country will be better for it.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I am happy to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. MCKEON), the chairman of the Subcommittee on 21st Century Competitiveness of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. MCKEON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of H.R. 1, the President's number one priority, the Leave No Child Behind Act, because we cannot let this opportunity pass us by.

This bill was a long time coming. We started the reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act in the last Congress under the previous administration. After 2 years of debate and several pieces of legislation, we were unable to put a package together.

So today, under the leadership of President Bush, the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER); the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), ranking member; the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE), the subcommittee chairman; the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE), the ranking member; and several other members of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, we bring H.R. 1 to the floor to begin the process of instituting historic changes to our schools and new opportunities for our Nation's children.

Throughout the legislation, H.R. 1 maintains the four pillars of President Bush's education reform plan: accountability, flexibility and local control, research-based reform, and expanded parental options.

Specifically, I would like to talk about two issues which fall under my jurisdiction as chairman of the Subcommittee on 21st Century Competitiveness, teacher training and education technology.

First, the teacher title builds upon legislation that I, along with the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), current ranking member, authored in the last Congress, the Teacher Empowerment Act. This title provides school districts with the flexibility to decide whether to spend funds on hiring new teachers or improving the skills of the teachers already in the classroom.

In my home State of California, they have already reduced class sizes in the early grades, which is good news. The bad news is that, as a result, there are over 35,000 uncertified teachers now serving in the classroom.

Under H.R. 1, we leave it up to the local school districts to decide what their needs are, while at the same time, calling on them to work towards ensuring that there is a fully qualified teaching force in our classrooms.

Second, in regards to technology, the bill consolidates a number of technology programs into a single stream of funding to our local school districts. This is another important element of expanded local control and flexibility.

Further, we call on recipients to work to fully integrate technology into the curriculum by increasing access to the highest quality teachers and courses possible, regardless of where in the State the students live.

One of my local school districts is already doing this. The Los Angeles County Office of Education has instituted the NCITE program, which stands for National Center for the Improvement of Tools for Educators, California. NCITE is a Web-based learning environment which helps children meet or exceed grade level standards in reading and mathematics. It also assists teachers in the use of research-based assessments, media resources and technology tools. We need to encourage other communities to use these type of tools to educate their children. I believe H.R. 1 does just that.

I wish I had more time to talk about the many other provisions in this bill that will make a real difference in our education system and the work that has gone into making this happen.

But in closing, I would like to say to all of my colleagues that this bill gives us an opportunity; an opportunity to support our President, an opportunity to show bipartisanship, and, most importantly, an opportunity to improve the lives of our Nation's schoolchildren.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROEMER), a member of the core group that helped put together this bill.

(Mr. ROEMER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Chairman, I thank my good friend, the gentleman from Michigan, for yielding me this time.

I want to start off by saying that there are many slogans, many mantras, many shibboleths that many people use to try to describe their concern for our children and trying to improve our public schools in this Nation. A number of us on both sides of the aisle have come together in a bipartisan way to put a bill together; that the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE), the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MINK), myself, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON), the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE), the gentleman from California (Mr. MCKEON), and others have fragilely put together a delicate balance that puts together new ideas, new reforms, new vision to help our children get a better education.

Those core ideas revolve around three concepts: One is accountability; that we cannot continue to do things the same old way in this country and expect great vast new improvements from our teachers and our children and in their performances together. We must attach these requirements to new ideas and new accountability, and that means, yes, some standards and some tests.

Now, those tests should be devised by our local schools and our States, but making sure we do not socially promote; making sure that children are learning from one grade to the next and that a degree means something when they get out of high school. These are important standards.

Second, flexibility, that local schools get the dollars and they decide how the dollars are spent. In this bill, H.R. 1, the base bill, we send the dollars directly to the classroom, not to a governor, not to a bureaucracy, not to administration, but to the classroom.

Now, we are going to have a straight A's proposal that wants to divert the dollars to the governors. We will argue adamantly that those dollars should go to the teachers and the classrooms and the kids.

The third component of this is resources. We have doubled the funding for title I, for the poorest children in this Nation to get good access to a good solid education. These resources and investments are important because some of these children will not pass tests, so we need to remediate those children with after-school programs, summer-school programs and, yes, with tutoring.

Accountability, flexibility, resources for remediation, all good ideas coming together to support a bill that the President of the United States has encouraged bipartisanship on; that he has encouraged that we work together in a civil manner, where Democrats and Republicans can reach across the aisle, as we have done with this core group, to bring this bill to the floor.

I would hope accountability, flexibility, new resources, new investments for remediation and tutoring will bring together bipartisan support on this floor to truly bring ideas together, to give our children a better chance, to get a top-notch, first-rate education in our public schools in this country.

I encourage this body to look at these amendments on testing and not support the Hoekstra-Frank amendment; to look at the amendment, the DeMint amendment on straight A's, that would take money to the governors and bureaucracy at the State level, and let us keep the way we deliver the money to the kids and the classrooms. I urge bipartisan support for this bill.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON) will control time on the majority side.

There was no objection.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. BALLENGER), a distinguished member of the House Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. BALLENGER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I would also like to thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for all their hard work. Their leadership and willingness to work in cooperation is to be commended.

When I look at H.R. 1, I see a bill which will truly reform the way Federal dollars are spent on education. This legislation puts the decision-making in the hands of local teachers and parents, not Washington bureaucrats.

Often, we in Congress let the perfect be the enemy of the good. Does this bill have everything we conservatives want? No. Does this bill have everything liberals want? No. Does H.R. 1 have concrete reforms which will give States and local schools the resources they need to better educate our youth? Absolutely.

H.R. 1 is the President's plan. It allows for local flexibility with greater accountability. It also provides a safety valve for children trapped in failing schools by providing immediate public school choice. We should also note that public school choice would be the option after just 1 year in a failing school and not 3 years, as originally proposed.

Now, I know many of my colleagues on this side of the aisle believe H.R. 1 does not live up to the President's plan. I understand that private school choice is an issue which is a sticking point, and I also support private school choice. However, I ask that we look at the reforms this bill does provide and not what it does not. Do not throw the baby out with the bathwater.

H.R. 1 allows public school choice. It allows children in failing schools to obtain tutoring by private or religiously-affiliated educators. It allows local schools to transfer up to 50 percent of their Federal funding to programs that they believe are best for their needs. These are major reforms which cannot be overlooked. These are the most sweeping changes in the Elementary and Secondary Education Act since its enactment, and we cannot forget this.

Also, just a few minutes ago, the Assistant Secretary told me that my conservative friends should remember that the management of the Department has changed, and their ideas will have some influence there.

I strongly urge my colleagues to support H.R. 1.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HINOJOSA).

Mr. HINOJOSA. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I rise in support of this extremely important bill. Nothing we do in the 107th Congress will be more significant than this reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 as amended.

First, I want to recognize the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for their outstanding leadership in crafting a bipartisan committee bill. I also commend the Members who worked on the committee negotiating groups for their efforts. We have accomplished much with our committee, but much more work needs to be done.

While I am in agreement with the core bill approach, I have grave policy concerns and I continue to believe that our children and the teachers deserve more fiscal resources than are authorized in H.R. 1. High stakes testing is going to hurt limited English proficient children the most. NAEP, or the National Assessment for Education Progress, does not include migrant students in their national sample, and the administration intends to use NAEP as a barometer to show how students are doing. Limited English proficient children should be assessed in a language they understand.

We should provide positive alternatives for the students in the gifted and talented programs as well as advanced placement for the college bound. Let us increase our investment in our country's K–16 students.

Our Nation needs 50,000 bilingual teachers to keep up with the demand, and this bill does not provide anywhere near the resources to meet this crisis. Look at the 2000 Census results and you will see the Latino population growth of 60 percent or more during the last decade. We need more funds to get the job done.

Title III consolidates bilingual education, immigrant education, and foreign language assistance programs and delegates these functions and funds to the States. The bill changes from a well-respected competitive grant to a poorly-funded formula grant program that at present does not count all the eligible population. The elimination of the National Bilingual Clearinghouse makes no sense fiscally or policy-wise.

H.R. 1 does not provide adequate funds nor strong policy support for dropout prevention. I remind my colleagues that already Hispanics suffer from the Nation's highest dropout rate. These students will certainly be neglected and left behind.

Education Committee conferees are urged to protect and save the clearinghouse for all States to utilize the wealth of information such as exemplary programs to serve all eligible students.

Even if title 3 were funded at the maximum level authorized by the committee, we would only reach one-fourth of the children.

We hope that our colleagues in the other Chamber can help us reach the 5 million children seeking our support.

The most egregious provision found both within title 1 and title 3 singles out the parents of limited-English-proficient children and treats them differently from all other parents.

Even if a child is deemed to need special language services under the act, the school may put them in English-only programs without bothering to inform the parents. However, if a parent wants their child in a bilingual program the school must receive parental permission to include the children.

Let us fix this bill so that only those who mistreat our children are left behind.

I am urging my colleagues to vote for H.R. 1 because the core bill is there and because I think we can improve it with the help of our colleagues in the other body.

I am also urging our President as well as the Secretary of Education to support us as we try to improve the bill so that children all over this country may truly benefit. This is the time for leadership and substance over rhetoric.

I have tried to be bipartisan in my approach; however, if vouchers and block grants are added to our core bill on the floor, then I would be forced to urge my colleagues to reject this bill.

Finally, Mr. Chairman, I am including for the RECORD a copy of a letter from the National Education Association in support of my remarks.

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,
Washington, DC, May 16, 2001.

Representative RUBÉN HINOJOSA,
House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE HINOJOSA: On behalf of the National Education Association's (NEA) 2.6 million members, we would like to thank you for your efforts to address the issue of parental consent for participation in bilingual education programs. Specifically, NEA agrees with your opposition to requirements for written parental consent for the provision of non-English education services to limited-English-proficient students.

NEA strongly supports the provision of information to parents and efforts to increase parental involvement in their children's education. However, we oppose parental opt-in requirements, such as those contained in the No Child Left Behind Act (H.R. 1). We believe the proposed opt-in requirements will create unnecessary roadblocks to providing students with needed instructional services. Such requirements would result in increased bureaucracy, while intruding on local school districts' ability to tailor educational programs to serve the needs of their limited-English-proficient students. In addition, students could be placed in educational limbo while schools seek the necessary consent.

Thank you again for your leadership in addressing this important issue.

Sincerely,

MARY ELIZABETH TEASLEY,
Director of Government Relations.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Select Education.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Georgia for yielding me this time.

Regrettably, today, I come to the floor to voice my opposition to H.R. 1. At the beginning of his presidency, President Bush outlined a bold vision for education that would move power and authority back to parents and back to States; a vision that included flexibility in how States and local schools would spend their money; a vision that would empower parents to make more educational decisions for their kids; and a change in process in how we would measure the results that Federal investments resulted in; a change in process where today we measure how we spend our dollars to a reform that said we are going to measure whether our children are learning or not.

The flexibility for States has been eliminated. The parental empowerment has been weakened. The results accountability has been added to the bill, but the red tape, where local school districts and States have to report back to Washington on how they spend their money, has been maintained. We are now going to tell States and local school districts how to spend their money as well as the results they are going to get. What we are left with is Goals 2001, after we fought Goals 2000; and accountability putting us on the road to national testing and spending that only President Clinton could have dreamed of.

It is time to rework parts of H.R. 1. I agree with Sandy Kress, the President's education adviser, in his comments yesterday. H.R. 1 is likely ''going to require further weeks of thought and deliberation to fix.'' It is time to move back to the President's vision of education, not the bill that is working its way through the House today. It is time to send this bill back to committee and let the further weeks of thought and deliberation happen in committee and not in a conference committee.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY).

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Chairman, let me add my compliments to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), the ranking member, and the staffs on both sides who have worked so hard on this bill.

Mr. Chairman, as it stands now, H.R. 1 is good enough. It is not great, mainly for what it leaves out. It would be a better bill if it included my amendment to keep coordinated services as part of the act. That way, children and their families would have a safe place, at or near their school site, in order to have access to services, the services that they need when their lives are so very, very busy.

It is also too bad that my ''Go Girl'' amendment to bring more females into the math, science, engineering, and technology workforce was not included. When women, who are one-half of our population make up only 19 percent of our science, engineering, and technology workforce, we must encourage more girls to study these subjects. ''Go Girl'' would have done that.

On the other hand, H.R. 1 includes testing provisions, provisions that must be removed from this bill.

Two good things about H.R. 1 are what have been excluded in the bill; that are not in the bill. These good things are no private school vouchers and no block grants. Block grants would take education funds from students and schools which need them the most. But if these amendments pass, adding vouchers or block grants, then I would suggest that we defeat H.R. 1.

Mr. Chairman, I encourage my colleagues, keep H.R. 1 clean so we can pass it. Otherwise, H.R. 1 is good enough to vote for. It would be better, however, with coordinated services, ''Go Girl'' programs, school construction, and smaller class size.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3½ minutes to the gentlewoman from New Jersey (Mrs. ROUKEMA).

(Mrs. ROUKEMA asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks and include extraneous material.)

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of this legislation. It is truly an example of bipartisanship, and it is an example of the way that the system is supposed to work.

This process has not been about politics, it has been about children and their educational standards. Yes, I have heard what others have said, and I am pleased to assert that without question this bill is reflective of President Bush's vision for education reform; and the President has indicated his support. So let there be no mistake about that for the people on my side of the aisle.

I also want to point out some of the good parts of this bill. It gives flexibility and local control and maintains it; and that was very important to me and very important on a bipartisan basis. I think the flexibility allows school districts in this bill the ability to target Federal resources where they are needed the most, and that will ensure that State and local officials can meet the unique needs of their students.

It also enhances accountability and demands results through high standards and assessments. Grades three through eight will have student testing. This is a provision that has not been clearly understood; and as a member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, I want to explain this to everyone here.

It is important to emphasize that the States will develop their own standards and assessment. This bill does not dictate a national test. However, what the bill does say, if you are going to accept Federal education funding, then you are going to be held accountable for the results. State test results will be confirmed through the National Assessment of Educational Progress or a similar test. If a State improves on the NAEP, and their State assessments each year show a forward movement, they will be eligible for rewards. Those who do not improve will undergo corrective action.

Striking a balance between State and Federal responsibility is the right approach, and it is the way that we have done it and what the President has approved. I think that is awfully important.

I took leadership in terms of the question of safe schools, and I do not know how much of this has been emphasized in this debate, but namely we put into it mental health screening and services that are available to young people through the schools. Whether we are talking about violence in the schools or aggressiveness in schools, we want to deal with those tragedies and those growing symptoms of problems within the school system, and so we have school-based mental health services. And I was proud of being part of putting that in the bill.

Finally, is this a good bill? Yes. Does it reflect the President's priorities? Absolutely.

Mr. Chairman, those areas where there are continuing disagreements will be taken up in the debate on the amendments. So this is a full process. We can discuss the voucher question yet again. It is one on which I disagree. Vouchers should be out of this legislation, but it will be voted on as an amendment. In the end, we will be passing an historic education bill for our children and for the future of our country.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of this bill. First and foremost, I would like to commend the Education and Workforce Committee Chairman BOEHNER and Ranking Member GEORGE MILLER for their leadership, hard work, and diligence.

This bill is truly an example of bipartisanship. But make no mistake—this was not an easy process. There were many hurdles along the way—and many times we all thought an impasse had been reached. No one on either side ever lost sight of the goal—to ensure that every child, regardless of situation, in every public school in America received a quality education.

This is the way the process is supposed to work—partisan politics have been set aside to make way for a meaningful debate on the issues that matter to America and our children. This process has not been about politics—this process has been about children.

BUSH PLAN

Yes, I am pleased that the bill before us today is bipartisan. But I am also pleased that this bill is reflective of President Bush's vision for education reform—to have the best education system possible to leave no child behind. And President Bush supports this bill—That's what this bill accomplishes. We all won on some issues and we all lost on some issues. But, in the best spirit of compromise, America's children win.

For instance:

H.R. 1 provides unprecedented flexibility and local control.

It is vitally important to cut federal education regulations and provide more flexibility to states and local school districts. We should give our educators the flexibility to shape federal education programs in ways that work best for our teachers and our students.

Flexibility allows school districts the ability to target federal resources where they are needed the most. This will ensure that state and local officials can meet the unique needs of their students.

H.R. 1 dramatically enhances flexibility for local school districts in two ways: (1) through allowing school districts to transfer a portion of their funds among an assortment of ESEA programs as long as they demonstrate results and through the consolidation of overlapping federal programs.

H.R. 1 enhances accountability and demands results.

As we provide more flexibility, we must also ensure that federal education programs produce real, accountable results. Too many federal education programs have failed. For example, even though the federal government has spent more than $120 billion on the Elementary and Secondary Act (ESEA) since its inception in 1965, it is not clear that ESEA has led to higher academic achievement. Federal education programs must contain mechanisms that make it possible for the American people to evaluate whether they work.

This bill provides accountability and demands results through high standards and assessments. And it provides appropriate responses to address failure. States will be required to test students in grades 3–8.

This provision has not been clearly understood.

It is important to emphasize that the states will develop their own standards and assessments. This bill does not dictate a national test. What the bill does is say that if you are going to accept federal education funding, then you are going to be held accountable for results. State test results are confirmed through the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) or similar test, which would be required annually for grades 4 and 8 in reading and math. If a state improves on NAEP and their state assessments each year they will be eligible for rewards, and if it does not, there will be sanctions. We reward states and schools that improve. Those that do not improve will undergo corrective actions. Striking a balance between state and federal responsibility is the right approach to accountability.

H.R. 1 ensures that our schools are safe.

I am pleased that H.R. 1 includes provisions to ensure that schools have the resources they need to combat substance abuse and violence. An important element included here relates to work that I have done on the Committee, during both negotiations and markup. Namely, this bill provides resources to ensure that mental health screening and services are made available to young people. In addressing school safety, we must ensure that children with mental health needs are identified early and provided with the services they so desperately need. Many youth who may be headed toward school violence or other tragedies can be helped if we address their early symptoms. I am pleased that this bill includes school-based mental health services language to ensure school safety and combat substance abuse.

H.R. 1 Promotes Reading First.

The bill also includes the President's Reading First Initiative, which awards grants to states that establish comprehensive reading programs anchored in scientific research. Obviously, in order to improve education we must start by ensuring that every American child can learn to read. States must be given both the funds and the tools they need to eliminate the reading deficit. Unfortunately, our schools have been failing our students on this basic aspect of learning. According to the National Center for Educational Statistics, thirty-eight percent of fourth graders cannot read at a basic level—that is, they cannot read and understand a short paragraph that one would find in a simple children's book. Reading failure has devastating consequences on self-esteem, social development, and opportunities for advanced education and meaningful employment.

By funding effective reading instruction programs, this bill ensures that more children will receive the help they need before they fall too far behind. Better reading programs mean fewer children in special education and fewer children dropping out of high school.

VOTE FOR THIS BILL

Mr. Chairman, this bill represents true bipartisan compromise—a true compromise. Had I written this bill, it would look significantly different. But, I recognize that we cannot allow the perfect be the enemy of the good.

Is this a good bill? Yes.

Does it reflect the President's priorities? Absolutely.

Will it improve education in America today? No doubt about that.

There are issue areas where we genuinely disagree and will have the opportunity to debate in the coming days.

For example, I strongly oppose any efforts to eliminate the testing provisions of the bill, as this is the centerpiece of the President's plan for accountability. In addition, I strongly oppose the re-insertion of vouchers. Instead, I support this bipartisan compromise in its current form: it makes real strides towards improving education for ALL of our nation's children. As such, I oppose any amendments that would erode this compromise or divert us from our goal: to leave no child behind.

This bill takes a meaningful step towards leaving no child behind. I encourage all of my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MINK).

(Mrs. MINK of Hawaii asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Mr. Chairman, I said the other day I deeply appreciated the opportunity to be on the working group and commend the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for the outstanding work that they did in pulling together the essentials for this legislation.

Mr. Chairman, this is a core bill. As we said in the debate on the rule, there were many things on our side that we wanted to have included: The construction provision and the reduction of class size were two paramount things that we will not be able to debate even during the amendment stage.

The reason that I support this bill, notwithstanding the many omissions, is because the compromise that was struck provided for a doubling of the title I funds. It seems to me that this is a crucial test of whether we are serious about this legislation. Let us not forget that title I is premised on the fact that it is to be targeted to poor children. The formula is based upon counting poor children.

So when we hear speeches to the effect that the States ought to be allowed to have the discretion to spend their money any way they see fit, it is a complete annihilation of the process that got us to the formulation of title I back in 1965, and that is to bring specific aid to the poorest schools that cannot finance their educational systems; and, therefore, every year fall further back.

School financing is based upon real property values, and there are many, many places in the country where property values are so low that they cannot fund education adequately compared to the rich and wealthier districts. Let us not destroy that principle by talking about taking the money and letting the States have the opportunity to spend it any way they wish.

Mr. Chairman, there are many other facets to this bill with which I believe improvements can be made; but fundamentally, if we are not able to fund it, we do not have a core agreement.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of H.R. 1, which reauthorizes the Elementary and Secondary Education Act for 5 additional years.

ESEA was passed in 1965 to help America's most disadvantaged children. These are our poorest children, who go to school in crumbling buildings, with outdated textbooks, few if any computers, little access to challenging, up-to-date curriculum, and a teaching force that is often overburdened, inexperienced, underpaid, and undertrained. These are children who have been left behind by the way we fund our schools—through local property taxes. The communities these children live in are often unable to raise sufficient funds to provide for the same high-quality education as in wealthier communities. States also provide resources for education, but don't do enough to eliminate this disparity and ensure every child in the State has equal access to the same, high-quality education. ESEA exists to close the gap in resources to the poorest schools, to provide them with the funds to build a foundation for a solid, high-quality education.

The bill we are considering today, H.R. 1 continues the efforts of ESEA. For one, recognizing that highly qualified teachers are crucial to ensuring that the most disadvantaged students have access to the best education possible, H.R. 1 provides additional resources to help train teachers to improve their skills. Funding under title II is significantly increased, by almost $3 billion. Though almost $2 billion come from consolidating class size reduction funds with other teacher training funds, this represents a significant increase for teacher quality programs.

Unlike children in wealthier communities, children in the poorest schools more often do not come to school ready to learn, not in the first grade, not in any grade. These are the children that have to deal with distractions at home. They face dangerous surroundings, both in and out of school. And they go to schools that are falling apart, have the largest classes, and may not have enough classroom space, forcing some to take place in hallways, cafeterias, gymnasiums, or worse. These children face many obstacles to getting a solid education, and need the best teachers.

Another major improvement included in H.R. 1 is the doubling of title I funds within 5 years. These funds are the main Federal resources that are intended to fill in the gaps between poor schools and wealthier ones and are very much needed. While these funds are doing a great deal of good in many schools, we know the program is currently underfunded and that we need to help many more students. Doubling title I funds over the life of this authorization is a good start toward providing disadvantaged students with the best educational opportunities available, improving teacher quality, and helping struggling schools help themselves.

But there are major problems with this bill. Chief among these is the new annual testing provisions in grades three through eight. These tests simply point out failure, and in many cases are used inappropriately for high-stakes decisions. H.R. 1 fails to provide enough resources to either help students or schools succeed.

H.R. 1 is written with the premise that if we test children enough, we'll know which students are failing, and thus, which teachers and schools are failing. This legislation promotes the idea that if a child fails, the solution is to take away the teacher, or move the child to a different school. And it perpetuates this notion by providing some funds to some schools that fail, but does little to ensure the school has enough resources to succeed in the first place. The annual tests contained in this bill will not be a vehicle for success, but rather a harbinger of punishment for children, teachers, principals, and schools. In the end, it will be communities that suffer from the misplaced emphasis on these tests.

H.R. 1 makes some resources available to failing schools, but not enough. In the 1998–1999 school year, States identified 8,800 schools as needing improvement. Since different States use different standards, this may understate the number of failing schools. And with the new annual tests under H.R. 1, it's likely even more schools will fail. However, this bill authorizes only $500 million to help these schools. While this builds on President Clinton's effort over the last 2 years to provide additional funds for low-performing schools, it does not go nearly far enough to provide the kind of intensive, high-quality support failing schools still need.

H.R. 1 is grievously flawed if it passes the House without sufficient resources to help failing schools. Of the schools identified by States as needing improvement in 1998–1999, only 47 percent of these principals said they got any additional help from their district, from their State, or from the Federal Government. That's less than half. And while these schools are more likely to get help the longer they've been identified as needing improvement, the help isn't likely to come anytime soon. 70 percent of principals in a school that's been struggling for 3 years saw no additional help, and even 38 percent who ran a school that's been struggling for 4 years saw no additional help. Almost a third of principals in struggling schools had no idea what their districts considered to be ''adequate yearly progress'', the State's benchmark for what constitutes success.

Almost half the title I schools identified as low-performing in 1998–1999 were 75 percent or more minority and eligible for free and reduced price lunch. These schools simply cannot turn themselves around without real help.

This issue is not just a national one, but a very local one for me and many of my colleagues. In many of my communities in Hawaii, three-quarters or more schools have been identified as low-performing. Part of this has to do with our State strengthening its education system, but much of it is also a direct result of these schools not having the resources in the first place to provide a high-quality education. Without the necessary additional resources, these schools will continue to fail, and the annual testing provisions in H.R. 1 will only serve as a vehicle for punishing these schools and disrupting communities rather than making a sincere effort to provide help.

Linked to this flaw is the potential havoc public school choice may wreak. The public school choice provisions in H.R. 1 take a backward approach to providing resources to the children that need them most. The intent of ESEA has always been to help poor schools give kids the best education possible by providing them with more resources. H.R. 1 turns this on its head by dictating that, instead of bringing the resources to the student, bring the student to the resources. That logic is inherently backward.

We should not be focusing time, effort, and money on disrupting and dismantling children's base of security, the neighborhood school. Instead, we should be sending in reinforcements: adequate funding, so poor schools have the same chance to succeed as wealthier schools; qualified, strong, and experienced teaching staff, so they form a crucial foundation and get to know students and their individual problems; and the kind of learning atmosphere that voucher proponents endorse private schools for: smaller class sizes, extended learning time and tutoring before and after school, schools that aren't crumbling, schools with computers and modern wiring and infrastructure. We need to turn this debate right-side-up again. Instead of forcing the child to go where the resources are, we should be doing what we should have done all along—bring the resources to the child.

There are other significant problems with H.R. 1. One of the most significant is the various ways it undermines education for students with limited English speaking skills, and those who are recent immigrants. The most important issue is that H.R. 1 blockgrants all of the existing programs for these children into one formula program, but provides too little overall to be distributed in sufficient quantities to be effective. These programs currently are competitive grants and thus are more targeted to students that need them. By turning all these programs into a block-grant, H.R. 1 dilutes these funds, providing less services to the students that most need them. H.R. 1 should keep these programs competitive at least until funding reaches $1 billion.

H.R. 1 also contains a dangerous provision for limited English proficient students, requiring schools to get approval from their parents prior to giving these students access to bilingual education services. This provision could cause significant delays in schools providing these children with an education. These are the most vulnerable of our students—they may have little understanding of our systems, little capacity to understand directions people are giving them, and little chance of becoming dedicated to a system they can't comprehend. By inserting this onerous provision in ESEA, the bill will simply disrupt or even deny to our neediest children educational opportunities on an equal basis, as required by Brown versus Board of Education.

In the end, this bill tries hard to retain some of the best things in ESEA, and even adds some good new ideas, such as the Reading First program. But one good idea cannot disguise many bad ideas. In an apparent fervor to block-grant programs with no consideration for effectiveness, H.R. 1, for example, eviscerates the Class-Size Reduction Program. This is the one program that will really help with reading. It is research-based and scientifically proven to work, as is required of all other programs in the bill, and flexible enough to be used for improving teacher quality. Combined with a genuine effort to help communities repair and build new schools, the Reading First Program and the Class-Size Reduction Program might have actually driven change in education for disadvantaged students.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. KELLER), a member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Chairman, I rise today as an original cosponsor and strong supporter of the President's No Child Left Behind Act. Why do I support this meaningful education reform legislation? Because, for the first time, more children are going to be able to read in this country. Parents are going to get a report card as to how their children's school is performing, and children now trapped in a failing school will have a safety valve to get out.

Mr. Chairman, we do these goals by three key measures. First, we will invest an additional $5 billion over the next 5 years in reading for children in grades K–2. This is critical since currently approximately 70 percent of our fourth graders in inner-city schools cannot read. We must address this issue head on.

Second, we will require that States annually test our children in grades three through eight in reading and mathematics. It is critical to measure their performance on an annual basis to ensure that no child falls through the cracks.

How many times have we turned on the television to see a college athlete explain he is not able to read, yet he was able to graduate from high school. He has fallen through the cracks, and by measuring the performance each year, we are going to put an end to this problem right here in this Congress.

Third, there will be a safety valve for children trapped in failing schools. Specifically this bill provides for immediate public choice, as well as providing tutoring, including those provided by faith-based providers.

I have heard two criticisms of this bill raised by some of my conservative colleagues, and as a conservative myself, I would like to address both of those criticisms head on.

First, they say, ''The President's reforms have been left behind in this bill.'' Let us look at the facts. The President called for more money for reading, testing, and school choice. This bill provides for reading, testing, and immediate school choice that takes place even sooner than the President proposed. It is true that we did not have the votes for private school choice at the committee level.

Mr. Chairman, I support private school vouchers. I argued for them at the committee level, and will support them as an amendment on the floor later today. But even if we do not have the votes for private school vouchers, it is important to realize that public school choice provides a nice safety valve for children trapped in these public schools. It gets them immediate relief, and I believe 90 percent of a loaf of bread is better than none at all. That is why the President himself supports this bill. Do not allow the perfect to be the enemy of the good.

The second criticism is that the Federal Government should not be involved in testing. H.R. 1 explicitly prohibits federally sponsored national tests, prohibits federally controlled curricula criteria, as well as any mandatory national teacher test or certification.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to vote ''yes'' on H.R. 1.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Minnesota (Ms. MCCOLLUM).

Ms. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Chairman, I am very proud of the bipartisan work the Committee on Education and the Workforce has done on this bill. Members have worked together with the White House; and I thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), our chairman, and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), my ranking member, for leading this bipartisan effort.

Mr. Chairman, I want to vote for an education bill that demonstrates leadership and accountability to parents and students; and I want to support a bill that prepares today's students to be active citizens in our democracy and contributing to our economy and our communities. But I will not support a bill where vouchers are included. Vouchers take away scarce resources from our children and provide no accountability for our tax dollars.

Mr. Chairman, I want to support a bill that involves parent and community control at a local level, but I will not support a bill if it takes decisions away from parents and local school districts and creates a new block grant program. I want to support a bill that holds schools accountable for the success of our children's education. We have more work to do on this bill.

When our school districts, teachers, parents, and students look at this bill, will we have passed their test? Special education remains underfunded. Title I remains underfunded, and this bill includes a new, unfunded Federal mandate for our school districts, six more tests for our children.

Mr. Chairman, this bill is not perfect; but I am here to work with all of my colleagues today to pass a bipartisan education bill that is accountable to our communities and our children.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. OSBORNE), a member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce and the principal author of the mentoring provisions of H.R. 1.

(Mr. OSBORNE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. OSBORNE. Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank the gentleman from Georgia for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 1. I would like to thank the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), the ranking member, for their work.

Mr. Chairman, I was formerly in the coaching profession; and each year we evaluated hundreds of transcripts from all across the country. We found over time that even though someone was a high school graduate, and even though their grades were reasonably good on the transcript, we could not determine from their transcripts that they could adequately read, write, do basic math or perform. So we had to rely heavily on SAT and ACT tests.

We have a national crisis in education because so many students are simply passed along. Roughly 68 percent of all fourth graders in the Nation cannot read at a functional level.

So I think H.R. 1 really addresses most of these problems and will alleviate much of the crisis that we see before us.

I would like to mention very quickly two elements of H.R. 1 that may go relatively unnoticed in the discussion today. First is the rural education initiative. Sometimes rural schools are just as distressed as inner-city schools, and I think this element will be addressed in the bill. Small rural schools, 600 students or less, receive very few Federal dollars. They have no grant riders, and many times the funds really that they might receive are not worth the paperwork. So this particular bill will provide a minimum of $20,000 to those schools. This will reach thousands of schools across the country, 400 in my State of Nebraska; and I think it is something that will really help the smaller school because it will enable them to hire a teacher, buy four or five computers, do something meaningful with the grant money that they are currently foregoing.

The second aspect of the bill I would like to mention is that of mentoring. Over the last 10 years, we have spent 80 billion Federal dollars and we have seen absolutely no improvement on test scores or dropout rates. We do not know what return we have gotten for our money.

In the city of Kansas City, over the last 15 years they have spent $2 billion on education; and they spend $8,000 per student, more than $8,000 per student. They have excellent facilities, great teacher salaries and excellent curriculum; and yet they lost their academic accreditation last year, first major city ever to lose accreditation. They flunked every State performance standard.

So one says, well, what is happening here? Why, if they have been given all these tools, would this happen?

I would like to read very quickly a statement from Gary Orfield, a Harvard sociologist who has studied the school system in Kansas City. He said, ''When students come to class hungry, exhausted or afraid, when they bounce from school to school as their families face eviction, when they have no one at home to wake them up for the bus, much less look over their homework, not even the snazziest facilities, the strongest curriculum and the best paid teachers can ensure success.''

So I think that mentoring is something that will address this because it does cut absenteeism, drug abuse, teenage pregnancy, violence, and lowers drop-out rates.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BISHOP).

Mr. BISHOP. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE) for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), for the hard work that they have done in pulling this bipartisan bill together.

Mr. Chairman, when we ask our fellow House Members how Congress can best help fix our schools, we get as many different answers as we have Members. We all feel strongly about education, and we all have our own ideas about what needs to be done; and many of these ideas have merit. That is why I rise today in support of H.R. 1, a bill that offers a balanced, thoughtful, bipartisan course of action for helping achieve the educational results that most of us seek; a bill offering more accountability without undue Federal influence; more flexibility while still targeting many special needs; options for children who are trapped in underperforming schools while retaining public funds for public education and without vouchers; and provisions I strongly pushed to update technology in rural schools and to double title I funding.

We should ask not whether the bill achieves perfection but whether it is a fair, constructive compromise that can move the country closer to achieving better schools and a brighter future. And without question, the answer is yes. I urge my colleagues to join in supporting this legislation. It is a good bill. A lot of people have worked hard on it. It is a bipartisan consensus of what we need to do to move forward on education, and I think that it will make a difference.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Hampshire (Mr. BASS).

Mr. BASS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON) for yielding me a couple of minutes to talk about this wonderful bipartisan bill.

Mr. Chairman, I commend the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), and the chairman, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), for their working together and also the rest of the committee for a very good product, because this bill provides accountability which will improve educational quality. It provides local school administrators and school boards with more flexibility. It consolidates 34 out of 66 programs. It provides accountability with more funding for title I, which is significant. Lastly, it provides relief for children trapped in failing schools.

Now, although H.R. 1 is a good bill, the single greatest change that we could bring to every elementary and secondary school everywhere in the country is to fulfill the Federal Government's obligation to fully fund its share of the cost of education for the disabled. Now, I bring this up because the Senate incorporated an amendment to make IDEA funding mandatory, but this language was left out of the House bill; and I regret the fact that I was unable to offer an amendment of my own to phase in full funding over the next 10 years as a mandatory program.

Now, mandatory phase-in is good for the program if it is done on a percentage basis. It is good because local school boards can plan financially from year to year how much money they are going to have. It is good for education most importantly because we need to meet that unfunded mandate; but lastly and probably even more importantly, it is important for the program to have it funded on a mandatory basis because then the Congress will be forced to address the programmatic side of IDEA and reconcile the program to a budget.

There are two problems with IDEA, the unfunded mandate and the programmatic side. I hope that the House will consider ceding to the Senate's position on IDEA because it is for responsible government, smart tax policy, and good for education. I commend the chairman and the ranking member for a job well done on H.R. 1.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) will control the time on the Democratic side.

There was no objection.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MCCARTHY), a member of the committee.

Mrs. MCCARTHY of New York. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank certainly the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for the work that he has done, as well as the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER).

Mr. Chairman, I have been hearing that there are some people that are unhappy with this bill, and I am sorry to say that is too bad. This is a good bipartisan bill. Both sides gave up a lot, and they did. There are certain things in this bill that I would like to have seen in it, but anyway working on bipartisan, that means each person has to give a little bit. Let us get down to what this bill really does. It is going to help our schools that need the most help, with accountability and flexibility.

Mr. Chairman, I come from Long Island. I have some very wealthy suburban schools. They are doing very well, but I also have schools that are failing terribly because they do not have the resources to do what they have to do.

This bill, through title I, is going to help them. We will be helping all the children across this Nation, and that is what the Committee on Education and the Workforce is supposed to do. With that, I would like to say we on the committee are on that committee because we care about education. So I am hoping that all the Members will listen to us and say this is a good bill, accept it and let us help the children of America. That is why we are here. That is why we sit on all the different committees. We can disagree and we can disagree, but when a bill like this comes out of our committee with good bipartisan support, each of us giving up a little bit of something that we wanted, this bill will help the American people.

President Bush accepts this bill, and we should work with him to make sure it goes flying through this House.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Georgia (Mr. CHAMBLISS).

(Mr. CHAMBLISS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from the Sixth District of Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON) for his leadership on this issue. He is certainly one of the most knowledgeable Members of this House when it comes to education.

Mr. Chairman, I want to take the opportunity to commend the President for ensuring that his administration makes education of our children its number one priority. While this bill is not a perfect bill, I think we owe a great debt of gratitude to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), for the great leadership that they have provided here; and I commend them for bringing both sides together and bringing issues that are important to both sides more towards the middle.

While there are a number of provisions in this bill that I think are very critical, the most important provision, in my opinion, is the Reading First Initiative that we have in this bill that is going to provide flexibility to our States and is going to make reading a number one priority.

My wife is a fifth grade teacher. Her number one frustration with her fifth graders is the fact that too many of them are reading on a first or second grade level and some of them even below that. This bill makes sure that every child in America becomes more proficient in reading by the time they leave the third grade.

As one can imagine, it is frustrating to a teacher not to have children that can read, but imagine the frustration of those children who want to learn but simply are handicapped because they do not have the basic skills.

I commend the administration, and I commend the leadership on the Committee on Education and the Workforce for ensuring that we give priority to the issue of reading and making sure that all of our children learn to read and that we put accountability back on the State and local governments to ensure that they are doing the things necessary to make sure that all of our children are reading much more proficiently and at the early grade level.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. TIERNEY), a member of the committee.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, this bill has many good features to it, and I am sure that if we manage to maintain or keep out of it some of the problems that we have run into in the past it will probably pass this body. We have managed to keep out vouchers. We have managed to keep out block grants, things that in the past administration caused this bill to stop dead in its tracks.

If the President continues to maintain the position that he will not insist on those things, the bill will move forward. We still have to work on modernizing schools. We still have to work on having smaller class sizes. There is much more to be done, but I do want to call some attention to one feature of this bill that I think merits some consideration, and that is the high degree of testing that is being asked for.

We have to keep in mind that there already is testing being done in the States. Virtually every State has a significant amount of testing being done and the Federal Government already requires testing three times in math and reading throughout an elementary school career.

We have to be concerned that the testing that is in this bill does not amount to just quantity over quality, and my fear is that we have not allowed or provided for in this bill a ramping up to scale the capabilities of the testing community to be able to put those 260 additional tests that are now going to be required throughout this country in an appropriate way. We have not allowed time for them to be developed and implemented. We have not allowed enough resources for them to be done. The estimates are that it is $30 per test for the administration and much more for the development. The Congressional Budget Office estimates $650 million a year for these tests. Yet the President is only asking for $350 million.

If we continue in this path, States may feel forced to go to off-the-shelf tests, the lowest common denominator here; and the problem with that is we are going to run into all sorts of difficulties about whether or not this testing procedure then really does measure the progress of our students or is it just putting on them yet an additional burden of still another test in which teachers have to prepare; it has to be developed; they have to take time out of the classroom and away from other subjects that probably should be taught.

So I caution our Members to hopefully go back to the drawing board on the testing provisions and make this truly a good bill, provide the resources that are there, make those tests not something that is required until and unless we do the background work that needs to be done.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from Illinois (Mrs. BIGGERT), a member of the House Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mrs. BIGGERT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON) for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today to express my strong support for H.R. 1, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001.

As a member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, I am pleased to say that H.R. 1 encompasses President Bush's vision for education in America. The bill empowers parents, helps children learn to read at an early age, and grants unprecedented new flexibility to local school districts while demanding results in public education through strict accountability measures.

I know that many of my colleagues have and will speak in more detail about these provisions, so let me turn to a section of the bill that will not receive as much attention but is important because of the direct and positive impact it will have on the estimated 1 million homeless children and youth in our country.

Mr. Chairman, being without a home should not mean being without an education. Yet, that is what homelessness means for far too many of our children and youth today. Congress recognized the importance of education to homeless youth when it enacted in 1987 the McKinney Education Program. But, despite the progress made by this Act over the last decade, we know that homeless children continue to miss out on what is the only source of stability and promise in their lives: school attendance.

Mr. Chairman, H.R. 1 strengthens the McKinney program by incorporating the provisions contained in the McKinney-Vento Homeless Education Act of 2001. This bill ensures that a homeless child is immediately enrolled in school. That means no red tape, no waiting for paperwork, no bureaucratic delays. It limits the disruption caused by homelessness by requiring schools to make every effort to keep homeless children in the school they attended before becoming homeless. It also creates a mechanism to quickly and fairly resolve enrollment disputes, ensuring that such process burdens neither the school nor the children's education. Last, it assists overlooked and underserved homeless children and youth by raising the program's authorizing level to $60 million in fiscal year 2002 and reauthorizing the McKinney-Vento program for another 5 years.

As a former school board and PTA president, I believe H.R. 1 and its homeless education provisions meet our commitment to local control, while making the best use of Federal education dollars. I commend the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman of the committee, as well as the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), the ranking member, for understanding that being homeless should not limit a child's opportunity to learn and for addressing in the bill before us the needs of homeless children.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support the No Child Left Behind Act. This education reform legislation is what America deserves and what America's children need.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. RIVERS), a member of the committee.

Ms. RIVERS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to H.R. 1. Less bad is not good. It is not legitimate to argue for passage of a flawed proposal on the basis that it could be worse.

What we have before us is a huge Federal intrusion into the jurisdiction of State legislatures and local school boards. What we have is a poll-driven illusion of reform through standardized testing, a vehicle that has come under recent scrutiny. Lastly, what we have here is a largely unfunded Federal mandate to further burden local school districts.

This is a power grab by the Federal Government, pure and simple. It represents an attempt to leverage only 7 percent of the funding for American schools into control of the entire K–12 system. Such action flies in the face of our long-standing tradition of local control of education. It also exacerbates an already grave problem in this country. Americans do not participate in school board elections. They do not know their board members, when the board meets or how to raise concerns about the schools. We should not encourage the public to turn their eyes to Washington regarding educational matters; we should, instead, direct them back to their own communities and their local boards of education.

But even if this power grab succeeds, Congress cannot deliver on the promises this bill makes. Testing is not the panacea its advocates claim. Polling shows some 70 percent of the public supports school accountability, and that would seem to show support for this proposal, but we have not asked the follow up question: do you favor a larger Federal role in the operation of your local school district? I dare say the opposition to that would be as high as accountability.

While the Federal Government will help with the costs associated in giving these tests, no dollars are available for the very real costs of scoring the tests nor for any response to what the tests may uncover. This creates a largely unfunded mandate, something we, the Congress, have condemned since 1995.

There is another polling question that might be asked: do you favor requiring local schools to spend more money to comply with Federal requirements?

This bill is a mirage. It is not what it seems to be, and it makes a terrible trade. It stands a two-century tradition of community-controlled schools on its head in exchange for the mere illusion of reform. Vote ''no.''

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PLATTS), a distinguished member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce and the gentleman who replaced the former chairman of that committee, Mr. Goodling.

(Mr. PLATTS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PLATTS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Georgia for yielding me this time.

As a member of the committee, I rise in full support of H.R. 1. I would like to commend the chairman of the committee, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), and the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for working so diligently with each other, as well as with other members from both sides of the aisle, to help craft a bipartisan bill that I believe all of us can enthusiastically support. I certainly want to also commend President Bush for his efforts in this area.

He has brought the issue of education reform to the forefront through the depth of his commitment to improving America's schools. I have had the honor to speak with the President regarding this issue on a number of occasions now. Each time, he has demonstrated to me his genuine, heart-felt belief in the importance of closing the achievement gap in America's education system.

The bill we are about to consider is numbered H.R. 1 for a reason. It is considered by the administration and appropriately by Members of this House as the top priority for our Nation. There is no more important challenge before our Nation than ensuring that the next generation of schoolchildren is fully equipped with the skills and knowledge that they will need to succeed in work and life. Books and chalk boards, good teachers, and a safe learning environment, these are the ingredients to a better future.

Mr. Chairman, H.R. 1 consolidates education programs. It increases flexibility for local schools and, most importantly, and a corner stone of the President's plan, it requires accountability through annual testing. It treats literacy as a new civil right by proposing an investment of $5 billion in literacy programs to guarantee every student can read by grade 3.

An area I have particular interest in is preschool education, and the Early Reading First program proposed by H.R. 1 will help to advance the debate in this area. Too many children, because they come from broken families and shattered communities, first arrive at the schoolhouse already at a tremendous disadvantage. Quality pre-K programs, such as those envisioned in Early Reading First, can do much to ensure that these kids will not have to spend their entire elementary years merely trying to catch up.

I look forward to these and other considerations of the provisions in the bill, and I certainly join with the chairman of the committee and with other Members of the House in fully supporting the President's education plan so that we leave no child behind.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. SOLIS).

Ms. SOLIS. Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank my colleagues as well, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chair of the committee, and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), our ranking member.

As a freshman Member of Congress, it has been an exciting time for me and a challenge to serve on the House Committee on Education and the Workforce, working to draft a bipartisan education bill which truly will help students in California and throughout the country. I have been touring the schools in my district to find out exactly what our teachers, administrators, parents and students really need in terms of help from the Federal Government. I think the bill that was reported out of our Committee on Education and the Workforce makes an excellent start towards helping our students achieve success. I am pleased with the increased funding levels of title I, and the increase targeting of funds to low-income and at-risk students. I am also extremely happy with what was not in the bill, and that is, private vouchers.

Although I am happy with the bill, I do have some concerns. I had hoped that the Republican leadership would have allowed Democrats the opportunity to improve the bill through amendments. I had hoped that school construction, an amendment that was offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. OWENS) would have had some consideration today. Likewise, I also wanted to offer an amendment to allow community learning centers to use their funds to implement programs which would help immigrant students with language and life skills. Unfortunately, we were not allowed to offer these amendments.

I have several concerns with portions of the bill dealing with bilingual and immigrant education. I believe we must dramatically increase funding for bilingual and migrant education in order to meet the needs of States which are experiencing a large influx of immigrant and bilingual students. Also, the bill recommends that students be moved out of bilingual classrooms and into English-only programs within a matter of 3 years. I believe this provision is overly restrictive and has no basis in academic research.

I am also unhappy that the bill requires school districts to try and receive a parent's permission before putting a child into a bilingual education program. Requiring parents to ''opt-in'' in order to place their children in bilingual education is truly unfair.

Mr. Chairman, I think we have a very good education bill before us, given that we did work in a bipartisan effort. I know that some of my Republican colleagues will be offering amendments to add private school vouchers and to also continue the block grant effort. I would urge my colleagues to oppose those amendments and to stay with the base of the bill.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. SCHAFFER), a member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. SCHAFFER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

I am a cosponsor of H.R. 1, and the reason I am is because the President proposed an ambitious plan, a good plan, called No Child Left Behind. This plan was adopted in terms of its vision by the Congress and translated into a bill titled H.R. 1, and that is the version of which I became a cosponsor.

This is an ambitious plan, and it is one that is balanced in its approach to education reform. This is a topic, Mr. Chairman, I take quite personally. I have 5 children; 3 of them have been in school, in public school in Colorado for about 3 hours, and it is them and their peers and children just like them that I think ought to be our primary vision and motivation in considering education issues in this bill in particular. What the President has proposed was a vision for education that spoke directly to them.

Key provisions of the bill, however, have been ripped out of the President's plan by the Committee on Education and the Workforce here in the House and elsewhere. For example, on the policy page of the President's plan, the President outlined the following: ''If schools fail to make adequate yearly progress for 3 consecutive years, disadvantaged students may use title I funds to transfer to a higher performing public or private school.'' This provision, the core provision of the President's plan, has been taken out of his proposal.

The President goes on with respect to flexibility: ''Under this program, charter States and districts would be freed from categorical program requirements in return for submitting a 5-year performance agreement to the Secretary of Education.'' This provision has been stripped from the bill.

Fortunately, today here on the floor, there are a number of amendments that were made in order that allow the President's vision to be restored to, in fact, secure for the President a victory out of the jaws of what appeared to be imminent defeat. We will have, for example, an opportunity to vote on a limited Straight A's provision which allows flexibility to seven States. This is a watered-down provision from what the President proposed, but important, nonetheless, for us to adopt.

Our failure to adopt these important amendments would be a betrayal to our President and I am hopeful, Mr. Chairman, that we will honor the President's vision to leave no child behind by restoring his bill here on the House Floor.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. DAVIS), a member of the committee.

(Mrs. DAVIS of California asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the leadership on both sides, because they have worked diligently to create a document that would focus Federal funds on those students who are most needy.

While each of us would like to see changes in language or additions to the program, it is important to respect the restraints of these compromises and reject attempts to commit major surgery that would kill the patient. Studies regularly show that students learn best in small classes with high quality teachers. One of the most critical focuses of this bill is to infuse significant funding into professional development for educators.

I want to speak in support of one such program that I believe has the potential to dramatically raise the overall performance of teachers, inspiring good teachers to become excellent teachers.

While it is not contained in House bill, it is part of the Senate bill and will be before the conference committee.

This is the authorization of funding for the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, which would support a portion of the application fees so teachers can engage in the demanding year-long demonstration of their accomplishment in the act of teaching.

I particularly support funding to conduct outreach for the program because I believe it is a program that can uniquely energize increasing professional expertise for all teachers, and improve the culture of teaching in schools.

Teachers seeking this certification have to justify the decisions they make every day on how they teach and respond to children of diverse backgrounds, learning styles, and achievement levels. They answer these questions in writing and through videotape portfolios of their own interaction with students. One of the most critical elements is the follow-up self-reflection critiquing their own performance. Teachers who have survived this rigorous process repeatedly tell me that just doing it has made them better teachers.

Mr. Chairman, we need to give incentives to those teachers, especially in the very schools targeted in this bill, so that they will have the opportunity to demonstrate their accomplished teaching skills.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. HUTCHINSON).

(Mr. HUTCHINSON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HUTCHINSON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Chairman, I support the education initiative that is before us because it provides more funds for education, provides assessments of the progress of students, and it provides more flexibility to the States. But it does more, in my judgment, than justify support. It does something for teachers.

My son, Seth, this week is graduating from the public schools in Fort Smith. He has done well, but he has done well to a large extent because of one teacher who went the extra mile to help him out. He provided a difference. His name is Mr. Larry Jones. He gave extra hours, and was a career-minded, student-oriented teacher who made a difference in someone's life. Yet, he received no more pay for his extra ability and devotion.

Quality teachers in my judgment should be paid well, encouraged, and rewarded for their success. This bill includes a provision in title II that I worked on with the committee that allows States and school districts to obtain funding for professional development of teachers; pay differentiation, which rewards teachers' individual efforts based upon leadership, student achievement, and peer review; and it also provides new approaches, funding for new approaches to provide teachers with optional career paths, such as career, mentor, and master teacher designations.

Mr. Chairman, I support this legislation because it acknowledges that teachers are the heart and soul of our education system and should be rewarded and encouraged for their efforts. I hope we can keep teachers in the teaching profession making a difference in the lives of students. I believe this legislation does that. I ask my colleagues to support it.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. ESHOO).

Ms. ESHOO. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

First, I want to salute the leadership of the committee, both the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER), and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) on our side of the aisle. I do not think there is a Member of the House of Representatives that has the passion and the eloquence and is such a virtuoso as the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), so we thank him for his work. We are all grateful to him.

Mr. Chairman, this last Saturday in my congressional district in Palo Alto, California, the Board, the Student Advisory Board for California's 14th Congressional District, presented their annual report to the community.

This year, the 25 exceptional high school students on the Board decided to focus on one of the most critical issues of our time, education. They specifically analyzed recruitment and retention of teachers.

Their proposal included a number of important initiatives, including loan forgiveness, integrated housing and transportation for teachers, scholarships for college students who agree to teach after their graduation, a national teacher academy, Federal grants for continued learning, and skill-based bonuses.

I bring their ideas to the floor of the House today because it is not only important to heed their voices, but because I believe this bill represents a beginning of what we can do for education, and some of their ideas are in this bill.

The underlying bill is a good bill, it is a balanced bill, and it is a bipartisan bill. It includes a 66 percent increase in teacher training and class size reduction. It includes $1 billion for technology programs, a $128 million increase from current law, and $55 million more than the President's plan.

I am pleased that it does not include vouchers. Seventy-one percent of California voters last year chose not to have a State voucher plan because they siphon off some of the most important funding for 90 percent of our students in our country that are in the public education system.

The bill does have its shortcomings. We should fully fund IDEA. We should have school construction. We should take that up after this bill.

I support the underlying bill. I thank the leadership of the Committee, especially our magnificent gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), and I urge our colleagues to vote for it.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Education Reform and a tireless worker on behalf of President Bush's desire to leave no child behind.

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Georgia for his kind introduction, and I thank everyone who worked on this bill; of course, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), but also including the staff. They have done tremendous work here.

This week, the House takes the next step toward the enactment of H.R. 1, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, our best effort to navigate the philosophical differences between our parties and realize our shared vision of a better future for all children.

Prior to 1965, many poor and minority students were denied access to a quality education. In effect, this country had a two-tiered educational system, one with low expectations for poor and minority students and high expectations for others.

Then Washington got involved. Now, after 35 years and more than $130 billion of well-intentioned Washington spending, we have yet to close the achievement gap between disadvantaged students and their more affluent peers. We have allowed ourselves to believe that some children are simply beyond our reach. As a result, this Nation has suffered.

Today, with the consideration of H.R. 1, we have rededicated ourselves to the notion that all children can learn, and we begin the reforms to ensure that no child is limited by a high school education that does not provide him or her with the necessary skills to read and write well. The No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 fundamentally changes our system of education to enhance accountability and focus on student achievement. It increases flexibility, expands options for parents, and ensures that all reforms are tested by scientific research.

Specifically, H.R. 1 builds on the 1994 authorization, focusing on what will be taught and what should be learned at the State and local levels, and it asks schools to demonstrate their ability to drive student results by measuring how well or poorly students perform from one year to the next in reading and math.

Although the bill is careful to preserve a State's ability to design or select its own standards and assessments, the data required by H.R. 1 will help parents, teachers, and other school personnel intervene as soon as a student begins to falter, not after several years of failure.

This is essential. As Lisa Graham Keegan, superintendent of Arizona Public Schools, testified before my subcommittee, these tests are not a punishment for students, teachers, or even the school, they are assessment tools. Without them, we simply cannot measure progress and we cannot have accountability.

Yet, some have raised concerns about the tests in their own States. To the extent there are problems such as low standards and cheating, they should be addressed.

That said, I firmly believe that these concerns should not call into question the need to measure progress. I hope we will focus on our attention on how best to use these tests to enhance student achievement.

H.R. 1 also requires each State to sample students in fourth and eighth grade with the National Assessment for Education Progress, or another independent test of the State's choosing, to confirm the results of the State's assessments. Since the standards and assessments are developed at the State level, I believe a national measure is critical to help the public monitor the quality of standards and assessments in various States.

Currently, NAEP is the only test that will allow comparison between States and student groups, and is the best barometer of student achievement. Most Members of Congress use NAEP data to demonstrate our Nation's education failures. While I feel the need to preserve the balance of the agreement, I hope to work with my colleagues to better inform them about NAEP and to ensure that we do not inadvertently promote low standards students with other independent assessments.

Let me state unequivocally that any effort to strike or weaken the test provisions of the H.R. 1 would play into the hands of the keepers of the status quo, effectively preserving a failed system that does not ask if children are learning. A vote against testing would strike at the heart of President Bush's accountability system. I urge all Members to oppose any such amendment.

H.R. 1 also seeks to address the current lack of accountability for education failure. For our public schools, wherein 90 percent of our children are educated, we provide Federal dollars and technical support as soon as they begin to fail. Yet, after time and assistance, H.R. 1 recognizes that some schools, by virtue of mismanagement or chronic neglect, have not only failed to increase student achievement but have actually retarded educational progress. For these schools, we require a substantial restructuring.

More importantly, we give the children a chance to learn by allowing them to immediately transfer to another, better-performing public or charter school. In addition, we allow students to take their share of Title I dollars to a private entity for tutoring or remediation services to ensure that they get the help that they need.

Finally, H.R. 1 grants new flexibility to States and local school districts, and vests additional power in the hands of practitioners, not bureaucrats.

I urge everyone to support this legislation and to oppose the testing amendment.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. WU), a member of the Committee.

(Mr. WU asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WU. Mr. Chairman, I would like to speak for a moment about H.R. 1, which I consider to be a good bill, but one which could be even better.

There are two notable omissions from this bill: a freestanding effort to reduce class size, and a freestanding effort to build new schools or to repair crumbling schools.

Class size reduction efforts are included in this bill, but they compete, they compete with teacher quality and teacher training programs. I submit to the Members that no school, no parent, should have to choose between having a quality teacher and a small class size, which promotes learning and teaching. This is the only way that we can truly leave no child left behind.

Many Members know that many parents choose to send their children to private school substantially in part to get the benefits of smaller class size. But all children should have the benefit of this kind of education, a small class and a quality teacher.

Small class size, reducing class size, was a freestanding effort lost in the Senate by 50 to 48, and we were not permitted to bring that amendment to this floor. I urge the conferees to restore the freestanding program in the conference committee.

This program has fallen victim to politics associated with the Clinton administration. I think that is extremely unfortunate, because this is not a Clinton idea, this is a commonsense idea, one which benefits all children across America, and we should restore it to this bill any way we can.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) will reclaim his time.

There was no objection.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 4½ minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. EHLERS), a member of the committee.

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me. I also thank him for good service as the chairman of the committee on a very difficult bill.

Mr. Chairman, I am not only thankful for his service, and that of the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), the ranking member, but I am also thankful that we have a good President who supports improving education, and supports it not just because it is a major campaign issue, but supports it from his heart. He also understands the appropriate Federal role, and his work on this reflects that.

We need flexibility and accountability. We need respect for local and State rights and responsibilities. Again, I say that from my heart, because I have served in local, State, and Federal government. This bill provides that flexibility. It also provides that accountability. I urge this body to vote for that bill.

Mr. Chairman, my interest in education extends back many years. I served for 22 years as a professor at the University of California at Berkeley and at Calvin College. My interest in this bill's particular aspect of education developed some 36 years ago when I became involved in working with teachers in elementary schools, trying to improve science education.

This arose very naturally from my background as a scientist. I have taught National Science Foundation summer institutes for elementary school teachers. I have worked in schools with the teachers and the students. I believe I have a good understanding of the issue.

I think it is extremely important that we improve our science education in this Nation, not just because I am a scientist, but because that is where the jobs of the future are. We currently have over 300,000 open jobs in this Nation for scientists, engineers, technicians, and those jobs are not being filled because we are not training the people.

This bill will help to train our children so they will qualify for those jobs in the future. I think that is an extremely important aspect of the bill. But we do have to strengthen the bill a bit because, although the bill asks States to set standards for science, it does not require assessments of student's learning of science.

We hope to take care of that problem in a colloquy which the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and I will engage in in just a moment. The Senate has included science assessments in their bill. We had it in the original bill. It unfortunately is not in the current bill before us, but we are hoping through the colloquy to make sure that is in the bill when it reaches the House for consideration of the conference report.

Let me also make one last comment about ''Leaving no child behind.'' I believe that it is very important to apply that principle to all those who have learning difficulties but are still learning-able. I am referring specifically to dyslexia, in which I have a deep interest because I have a grandchild who has dyslexia. This tie I am wearing today came from a private institution which offers training in dyslexia. My grandson is also in a private school which specializes in dyslexia. We are simply not doing the job in public education to take care of these students, and we must in the future.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to enter into a colloquy with the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

As the gentleman from Ohio knows, I had filed an amendment to restore the science assessment provisions that were included in H.R. 1, as introduced, that would essentially mirror the science assessment language in the Senate bill.

Specifically, my amendment would have required States to assess student performance in science by the 2007–2008 school year. A similar amendment was offered in the last Congress to H.R. 2, where it passed with a vote of 360–62.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. EHLERS. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. BOEHNER. That is correct. I am very familiar with the gentleman's amendment.

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, I understand the gentleman supported making this amendment in order and that it was left out in the amendments that we are considering in this bill.

Mr. BOEHNER. If the gentleman will continue to yield, the gentleman has been a leader in improving science education in our Nation's schools, and I was looking forward to working with the gentleman to debate this issue on the floor. Unfortunately, the amendment was not made in order.

Mr. EHLERS. Would the gentleman agree to include the science assessment amendment in the conference committee to H.R. 1?

Mr. BOEHNER. As the gentleman noted, similar language is in the Senate bill, and I would pledge to work with the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. EHLERS) when we get to conference to ensure ESEA legislation reflects our Nation's dire need for closing the international achievement gap in math and science.

Mr. Chairman, I pledge to work to develop concrete strategies to address this important need.

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Ohio for yielding the time, and I thank him for his leadership. I look forward to continuing our work together, not only on this amendment, but also on the entire bill.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. PRICE).

(Mr. PRICE of North Carolina asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, this education bill represents the first real bipartisan effort of this Congress. I commend the leaders from both sides of the aisle who have put it together. I just hope it stays bipartisan for the sake of our children and our home communities.

The bill will help local school districts meet some of our most pressing education challenges. There is a strong emphasis on early reading and a commitment to title I and special education funding. The bill expands public school choice, which is welcome news in my district where magnet schools have been especially successful. The bill also provides resources and specific remedies to turn around low-performing schools.

In these next hours of debate, we are going to face amendments that could derail this bipartisan success. We will face an amendment to provide public funding for private school vouchers, which would siphon money away from public education, not strengthen it.

We will face amendments to weaken the link between dollars and results. We must maintain accountability to ensure that our children are learning.

Of course, when you have a truly bipartisan piece of legislation, no one gets everything he or she wants. I would have liked to have seen more attention paid to reducing class size. We know that smaller class size improves student learning, especially in the early years. We need to build more schools and hire more teachers to get class size down and to improve the quality of what is going on in the classroom.

Schools in my area are bursting at the seams with thousands of students going to school in hundreds of trailers. We have crumbling classrooms and outdated facilities. Over 90 percent of children in kindergarten through third grade in my district are learning in overcrowded classrooms. There are 24,000 children trying to learn in classrooms with 25 or more students.

So we need local school districts to build more schools; and when new classrooms are built, we need quality teachers to teach in them.

In my State, we have a staggering need to hire 80,000 new teachers in the next 10 years. I actually think that the teacher shortage is the education issue of the next decade, and neither party has paid sufficient attention to it. Without quality teachers in the classroom, no other education reforms we talk about are going to work.

But today, Mr. Chairman, we have a chance to take an important first step, a bipartisan step in the right direction. We can improve American public education in this country together. Vote for the bill and against crippling amendments.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. WICKER).

Mr. WICKER. Mr. Chairman, I rise to enter into a colloquy with the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

The current language of H.R. 1 requires that a school identified for improvement must provide all students enrolled in that school with the option to transfer to another public school within the same local educational agency.

I am concerned that this language may not provide public school choice to students in many rural areas. For example, in my mostly rural congressional district, a school district is often comprised of a limited number of schools, sometimes including only a few elementary schools and one high school.

With few schools from which to choose, there is little or no choice within the same school district and, therefore, no relief for those students.

Mr. Chairman, I am hopeful that as the legislative process continues, the bill can include language such as I proposed to the Committee on Rules which will allow a student trapped in a failing school to transfer to another public school, regardless of the school district.

Will the chairman continue to examine this issue during the conference with the Senate?

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WICKER. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I would be happy to work with the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. WICKER) to address this issue in conference. H.R. 1, as we know, provides for within district school choice and then allows for the establishment of cooperative agreements with neighboring school districts, to the extent practical, if there are no higher-performing schools in the original district.

I understand the gentleman's concerns about meaningful public school choice in rural areas where choices are limited, and I can assure the gentleman that I will work in conference towards giving students at low-performing schools the option of transferring to another public school outside of their current school district.

Mr. WICKER. Reclaiming my time, I thank the gentleman for this assurance.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. SANCHEZ).

Ms. SANCHEZ. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to speak in support of this legislation. This bill is proof that friends on both sides of the aisle, even those who may not agree often, can come together in a bipartisanship way to accomplish a goal.

We cannot hold public schools accountable for improving education unless we give them the funds to ensure that they can meet those goals. I believe that this bill does both.

Mr. Chairman, H.R. 1 authorizes $24 billion in funding for our national kindergarten through 12th grade education programs, a 29 percent increase over the current fiscal year, much more than the funding levels provided by President Bush's own budget.

The bill doubles title I funds over the next 5 years to $17.2 billion, and it includes real support for teacher training.

I am reminded, 2 years ago when then-Vice President Al Gore was in my district and we were talking about school construction, we asked a young student about 12 years old what was the most important thing she was looking forward to in her classroom and she said, well, everybody knows, Congresswoman, that the quality of the teacher is the most important thing for a child to learn.

I am excited that we are doing something about teacher training. This bill also removes provisions diverting funds from public schools, whatever the newest name for them are, including private school choice. Vouchers do not support the vast majority of the students in the United States.

I am reluctant to support some parts of this legislation, but, overall, I am very proud of the work that my fellow members of the Committee on Education and the Workforce have done. And I commend both the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for having made this bill possible, because truly without both gentlemen, this would not have gotten done.

Today, the House has a rare opportunity to get some real work done, and I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 1.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. NETHERCUTT).

Mr. NETHERCUTT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) for yielding the time.

Let me first thank the gentleman for all the hard work he has done in putting together a truly bipartisan education bill.

Mr. Chairman, I would request that the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) enter into a colloquy with me.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. NETHERCUTT. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. BOEHNER. I would be happy to do so.

Mr. NETHERCUTT. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time. I come before the House today to draw the gentleman's attention and the attention of the Committee on Education and the Workforce to the Star Schools program. I believe the Star Schools program has served students in my district and throughout the country very well.

The Star Schools program is a distance-learning network which gives students the opportunity to take classes they have never had before.

As many of my colleagues know, many small, rural and underserved urban school districts cannot afford to hire teachers to offer a wide variety of classes.

In small school districts, distance-learning programs are often the only opportunity students have to take advanced math and science or foreign language classes necessary to apply to college. Underserved urban school districts are often unable to find or afford qualified teachers to offer students unique and upper level courses.

The distance-learning programs offer a cost-effective way to level the playing field for all students, offering them the opportunity to take the same classes as their peers in larger and better-funded schools.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, if the gentleman will continue to yield, I want to thank the gentleman from Washington (Mr. NETHERCUTT) for bringing this to my attention and talking about the importance of distance learning.

I believe strongly that distance learning is an important tool for many local school districts and students. And for this reason, this legislation places strong emphasis on distance-learning programs in the education technology grant program.

Mr. NETHERCUTT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for his comments.

Mr. Chairman, I visited STEP Star, which is the distance-learning program operated by Educational Service District 101 in my own 5th District of Washington. Their program is very impressive. STEP Star and all Star Schools programs provide an irreplaceable education resource to our rural school districts. STEP Star, which is partially funded through the Star Schools program, has made it possible for students in rural school districts, in my district and around the country, to take a variety of classes from a live teacher, whom they can interact with and ask questions of.

Outside of the class hour, programs like STEP Star allow students to talk with teaching staff. Online resources provide for instant exchange of electronic paperwork. Students can communicate with teachers and tutors through e-mail or participate in discussions with fellow classmates through bulletin boards.

So, once again, I thank the gentleman from Ohio for his support of distance-learning programs; and I just ask that as he moves forward with this legislation, to keep in mind the importance of ensuring that distance-learning programs remain affordable to the most vulnerable students and school districts, rural, small, and underserved urban districts.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for his comments and pledge to work with the gentleman on this and other programs as we get into the conference.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT).

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE) for yielding the time to me, and I commend him and the distinguished Members from California and Michigan, as well as the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, for their sincere effort to put together a bipartisan bill.

We are looking back now over the years of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Congress has amended, expanded, streamlined, revised the ESEA eight times creating programs to help migrant children, neglected and delinquent youngsters, limited English proficient students, and other special children.

Programs have been launched to enhance math and science instruction and rid the schools of drugs and violence. Smaller ESEA programs have been created to advance school desegregation, stimulate educational innovation and achieve other important purposes.

However, the face of American education has changed in many ways over the past 30 years. One way it is changing right now that has been addressed earlier but cannot be emphasized too much is that over the next 10 years, we will need to recruit, train and hire 2.2 million new teachers, 2.2 million, just to keep up with attrition and retirement.

Mr. Chairman, I would also say that success in the information age depends not just on how well we educate our children generally, but how well we educate them in math and science specifically.

The majority of these new teachers will be called on to teach math and science. I am proud to have served on the National Commission on Mathematics and Science Teaching chaired by former astronaut and Senator John Glenn.

The Glenn Commission calls for major changes in the quality, quantity, and professional work environment of our math and science teachers.

Although not on the same scale as in the bill that the gentlewoman from Maryland (Mrs. MORELLA) and I produced from the Glenn Commission, this bill includes new math and science partnerships that mirror what we set out to do in the Glenn Commission. It is an excellent start on focusing the attention on math and science education.

The gentlewoman from Illinois (Mrs. BIGGERT) and I, also in committee, put together a bipartisan amendment to strengthen math and science partnerships.

Going farther, one of the main recommendations of the Glenn Commission was to establish regional academies that would recruit talented, mid-career professional and recent graduates in math and science teaching. Unfortunately, that recommendation is not in this bill, and the rule did not allow that and many other important areas to come for debate.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUDER), a member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Chairman, I want to make it clear at the beginning of my remarks that I strongly support our President. I think he is doing a great job. I strongly support the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), our committee chairman. I think he has done a great job in a very difficult situation. But I rise to oppose this education bill, Goals 2001.

I remember as a kid, I heard President Nixon say we are all Keynesians now. Right now I kind of feel like what we are saying is we are all liberals now in education. The fact is, in this Goals 2001, this current bill, unlike Goals 2000 where we were supposed to have the States evolve towards a national plan, we have a national plan.

Unlike the spending in education under former President Clinton, this bill spends more. Unlike the education bills under President Clinton where there was a proposal to just develop and look at a national test, this has national testing; and it has it for 6 years in a row, mandated by a backup of the Federal Government that, if one's State test does not meet the national standards, one can have one's money jerked.

Furthermore, it will lead to, in my belief, a national curriculum. There are more new programs in this bill than there were under President Clinton. At some point, one says when is it a bipartisan bill and when is it just taking two-thirds or more of what the Democrats had proposed in the past?

Now, there are some amendments here that could change the bill. The amendment of the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA) would wipe out the testing and put us back to where we were under President Clinton. The amendment of the gentleman from California (Mr. COX) would have the spending be only a little bit more than under President Clinton. The bill of the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMEY) would take us back to where we were as Republicans last year on school choice. The bill of the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. DEMINT) would take us, not quite back to where we were last year, but at least to the Kennedy position in the Senate.

I know there are not going to be very many conservatives who are going to stand up under the pressures that we are under, and against the polls, and oppose this bill. I do not know whether there will be five of us, whether there will be 10 of us, or whether there are 20 of us; but there are some of us who are going to say that there are still Republicans who are conservative on the education issue, as on other issues.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND).

(Mr. KIND asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KIND. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Michigan for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, as a member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, I rise in strong support of the underlying core bill, H.R. 1, the Elementary and Secondary Education Reauthorization Act.

Let me be clear though, we have a lot of good schools, a lot of good school districts, a lot of good students doing incredibly well in the public education system throughout our country. I am particularly proud of the education system we have in the State of Wisconsin and my district that I represent in western Wisconsin. But there are also a lot of students in need, a lot of schools and school districts in need. That is what this bill is meant to address.

The underlying provisions of this bill, I believe, are very good and receiving wide bipartisan support for good reason. It does retain targeting for the most disadvantaged students throughout the country. It increases resources in key programs. It does consolidate a lot of the programs that exist at the Federal level, but consolidates it with added flexibility to local school districts.

It has an emphasis on early childhood reading programs. It recognizes the importance of professional development programs for our teachers, but also an area that is of particular concern for me, professional development of the leadership of our schools, principals and superintendents.

It recognizes the need for research-based education programming and the important role that technology brings in educating our children today. It also contains measurements, measurements which will hopefully be used for diagnostic purposes with enough remediation resources in order to lift students who are underperforming in our school districts, rather than as a means to just punish schools and our students.

But there is still work that needs to be done. There are some glaring absences in this education bill, not least of which is pre-K education programming. There was an excellent study that came out of the University of Wisconsin just a couple of weeks ago that was published in the Journal of American Medical Association that I would reference my colleagues to, talking about the advantages and the benefits of a good focused pre-K education program. We also need to do a better job and a more efficient job of the education research programs that exist right now.

But perhaps the most glaring weakness of the bill is that we are not living up to our responsibility for special education funding in this country. The gentlewoman from Oregon (Ms. HOOLEY) and I offered an amendment to get the Federal Government to live up to our 40 percent responsibility of special education funding for local school districts. That amendment was not made in order.

We hope to be able to work as the appropriation process moves forward this year in getting enough of our colleagues to recognize the importance of the Federal Government to live up to our cost share for special education expenses.

If we can do one thing that will free up more resources, increase flexibility to local school districts, it is for us to live up to that 40 percent cost share rather than the slightly less than 15 percent that we currently have today. So we have more work to do this year, but H.R. 1 is a good start.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Kentucky (Mr. FLETCHER), a member of the committee.

Mr. FLETCHER. Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the opportunity to speak on this very important subject. I think we all would probably agree that the education of our children is one of our greatest responsibilities.

Let me say thanks to the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) for all of his work, an amazing accomplishment as we pass this bipartisan bill out of the House Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Folks have said, well, it is not perfect. Of course it is not. But it is a very, very good product and a great step in the right direction. Does it please everyone? No, but I think it does an outstanding job to change the direction of education in this country, the first change we have had in probably about 30 years.

The President has established the principles, and I think this bill meets those principles. There are a few things that we might work on as we amend it to try to give students more choice. But right now, the focus that I think we need to look at, too, is particularly on the educational gap that we have in this country.

When I look at minorities and look at only 36 percent of minorities being able to read on grade level by the fourth grade, we have a problem, a serious problem, an unacceptable problem. I believe this legislation, this initiative by the President, will help address that problem, a problem that I would say has been largely ignored over the last several decades.

The gap has not decreased. We have not offered the kind of help in education to empower minorities in this country that we should. I think it is a reflection of some soft discrimination that lowers expectations, that we need to make sure that that is stopped and that we raise expectations, the accountability, the focus on literacy which is needed in this country greatly to make sure that the minorities close that gap.

We have seen that happen in Texas under the President's leadership. I believe it can happen nationally, and I think that is one of the strengths of this bill is to say let us stop that soft discrimination. Let us provide the kind of educational opportunities we need to provide to the minorities in this country so that we give them the kind of freedom for those children to be all that they can be.

Let me say this, with the flexibility it offers, it is the very thing we heard on our education hearing we had in Lexington, Kentucky. We had a hearing on minority education in Lexington, Kentucky, at Booker T. Washington. One of the things we heard from a teacher, Richard Greene, was that give us the flexibility locally that we need to take these children to mentor them, to provide the kind of education that they need, because he does that. He has seen lives turned around.

I believe this education bill will give greater opportunities to make real differences in the lives of those students and allow that teacher, Richard Greene, to provide that mentoring and opportunity to those students to give them the opportunity again to reach their full potential and be all they can be.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

(Mr. ANDREWS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, this Congress, led by the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), has come together to produce an agreement that I believe will make America's public schools better, and I am pleased to support it.

This bill introduces a new principle into Federal education policy; and that is, as we increase resources to public schools, we also increase responsibility. We require schools that have not measured up to figure out how to measure up, and we make a promise that the resources will be provided to make that measurement happen.

I am particularly pleased that, with the cooperation of the majority, we have made efforts in this bill to expand opportunities to use Federal resources for pre-kindergarten education. Under a provision of the manager's amendment, which I worked on with the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), schools will be able to use monies under title IV of this bill to provide quality pre-kindergarten education.

Also, under title I of this bill, the bill clarifies that, in whole school reform, pre-K monies may also be used. I also appreciate the fact that the majority worked with my efforts to provide funding for peer mediation programs so that school violence can be curtailed.

We are going to work together to pass this bill, Republican and Democrat. We will work together and send it to the President's desk. I believe that schools and students all across the country will be better for it. I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. FORD).

Mr. FORD. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE) for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for all the hard work that was expended in crafting a compromise between the two parties.

I will say that I plan to support this legislation for many of the reasons enumerated already, particularly by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND).

I will add that I am a little disturbed and concerned about three issues, Mr. Speaker. One is the enormous gap between the funding levels provided in the authorization, and we all use all this terminology here, meaning, for those who are watching at home, if there is anyone watching at home, the amount of money that we said we would spend and the amount of money that we intend to spend.

The amount of money that we said we want to spend, we indicated in the committee. The amount of money that we intend to spend was decided on the floor not long ago when we passed the budget resolution offered by the majority. The problem is there is an enormous gap between what we said we want to spend and what we actually intend to spend.

So all of this sounds great, but until the appropriators come to meet and decide on what that level of funding would be, we face a problem.

Two, we constantly complain in this body about how the Federal Government is not living up to its responsibility with local governments in terms of providing dollars for special education, or IDEA as we call it.

I hear from educators all across my district, Democrats, Republicans, those who teach in schools where one has a large swath of poor kids and those who teach in districts where one has middle-class or upper-income students.

The former chairman of our committee from Pennsylvania, who was a good man, often complained that before we moved as a Congress to enact new programs, we ought to live up to our commitment; we the Federal Government should live up to our commitment to provide up to 40 percent of funding for IDEA. We are not doing that. Not only are we not doing that, but amendments were blocked by the majority.

The last two points: the most urgent challenge we face in the great State I am from, Tennessee, and the area I am from, Memphis, is building new schools. No money is provided for that and no opportunity to bring an amendment for that.

Lastly, class size reduction. I had the opportunity to speak at one of the finest schools in my district's graduations. Thirty-six students graduated. Wonderful class. The kids are all going to go on to college. I will speak at a few other graduations in the coming days.

As I hear fourth and fifth grade teachers complain about teaching 25 to 30 students, I cannot help but think why the majority would not allow an amendment to deal with class size reduction.

Again, I intend to support this bill; but I submit to this Congress, if 5- and 6- and 7-, 8-, 9-, 10-, 11-, 12-year-olds could vote, they would vote us all out of the place. Because not one of them would support learning in a school that was 40 to 50 years old, where water does not run, where roofs are falling in. We would not subject ourselves to that, and we certainly should not subject our kids to that.

We will pass this bill in the coming days, but I hope we come back and do what is right and build schools for kids all across this Nation.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. WYNN).

Mr. WYNN. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Michigan for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, we may be actually watching Congress at its best; that is to say, that we have managed to, number one, address one of the Nation's most pressing concerns, improving our education system; and, two, we have done it in a very bipartisan method.

To that extent, I want to begin by offering congratulations to the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) for his hard work and also to the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), a Democratic chairman. I think this is a great example of what happens when we work together. We deal with the Nation's business. This is not a perfect product, however; but it certainly is a very good product.

The administration, many of my Republican colleagues want to talk about accountability. We need to ensure the students perform and the schools perform. Those are very good things. My State of in Maryland has been a leader on the question of accountability. The additional tests will help us measure whether our students are achieving or whether we are passing them through.

But in addition to accountability, we also need resources; and that is why I am very pleased that additional resources are in this bill for title I to help disadvantaged students, also for teacher training and class size reduction. I would like a little more for class size reduction, but clearly there has been a substantial improvement led by the Democrats saying we need resources in addition to accountability.

Reading, the foundation for educational achievement, is funded adequately, and I am very pleased with that. And my personal issue, after-school programs, received a substantial increase. We need to provide opportunities for young people to have constructive after-school activities to provide a total environment.

Let me add that we also have in this bill something called public school choice, which is part of the accountability mechanism, and I think that is a good idea. Now, we will hear later about private school vouchers. I think that is a very bad idea. But giving students the opportunity to attend other public magnet schools or charter schools or schools that are performing helps enforce accountability. I think that is very good.

Now, this is not a perfect bill, and there are serious concerns on the question of school construction and school modernization. We have talked a lot about technology. We need more money to modernize our schools to utilize the latest technology. But some things are very basic in terms of school modernization.

Some fourth graders standing out on the steps taking a photo-op with their Congressman said to me, ''Congressman, we need air-conditioning. Because when it gets hot, our teacher gets grouchy.'' And I think that is a real good advertisement for school construction. I hope we pass this bill.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST).

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I do want to compliment the President on his efforts to make education a high priority in this country. The pillars of the next generation rests upon teachers giving knowledge to this new and young and curious, inquisitive generation of Americans.

I want to compliment the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), his staff and the committee on the struggle that they went through to bring this bill to the floor, and there are many good things in this legislation. But this legislation is going to be the quintessential example of the principle of unintended consequences, and I am referring to the accountability part.

People keep talking about accountability and they use the word ''accountability.'' That means piling on of tests. And when the educational system, especially in local areas, know that there are high stakes involved and they know that they are going to get more money for a particular school because they pass a particular test, then the focus is on the test. When the focus is on the test, we do not observe teachers teaching the broad range of knowledge, we observe teachers teaching techniques to the test, and then the children are left out.

So I would urge my colleagues to vote for an amendment when it comes up to deal with this issue.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR).

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Chairman, the relationship between student mobility, or transiency, and academic performance warrants significant national attention. In certain neighborhoods, especially in our inner cities and migrant family situations, rates of family mobility bear a direct correlation to student underachievement. According to a 1994 GAO study on student transiency, 41 percent of all third graders from low-income families in America have attended at least two schools. Nearly one-fifth of all third graders, nearly one-half million students, have attended three or more schools since the first grade.

Lacking permanent shelter of their own, these children and their parents, oftentimes single heads of household, move from place to place throughout the school year. Forced to migrate between the homes of kind relatives and friends, the children of these families are uprooted from the neighborhood elementary school with every move, until the next move to yet another temporary location, usually in another nearby neighborhood. Our Nation's migrant farm workers know too well the constant stress of moving from community to community and taking their children out of school multiple times during the school year. Transient and migrant families need stability for their children to succeed in school.

Mr. Chairman, I will be placing in the RECORD key findings from the GAO study that documented this phenomenon, Elementary School Children: Many Change Schools Frequently, Harming Their Education, and also key articles from the Catalyst for Cleveland Schools. Both support the findings that residential instability is the key corollary to poor student performance.

The revolving door for mobile students, many experts say, has been ignored for too long by educators who accept the notion that there is little they can do about it. But with rising consciousness of these disruptive patterns, local school systems have begun to focus on how to address mobility with specific programs targeted to help these multiple-move families.

As we take H.R. 1 to conference with the Senate, it is my hope we can work together to address this issue. During committee markup, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) offered an amendment to deal with this problem. The gentlewoman from Cleveland, Ohio (Mrs. JONES) knows the critical need for attention to this destabilizing pattern. I look forward to working with the chairman, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), and the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), who have been so kind, to offer any assistance I might provide.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) has expired.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) to complete her dialogue.

Ms. KAPTUR. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. KAPTUR. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank the gentlewoman from Ohio for her deep interest in this issue and her desire to meet the needs of these specific families.

The gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) and the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES) have also expressed their concern regarding this issue and have asked that I work with them to address the problems associated with student transiency.

I think we can focus on the problem in a bipartisan manner and seek solutions that will have broad support in the Congress. I will work with the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) and our counterparts in the Senate to address the issue of transient students and the effects that multiple-family moves have on those children's education.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. KAPTUR. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the chairman for his comments, and I look forward to working with him and others in the conference committee to help these families advance their children's academic performance, especially by encouraging a range of solutions to stabilize their residential situation during the early years of learning for their children.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Chairman, I thank the chairman and the ranking member, and I submit for the RECORD the material I referred to earlier.

Letter Report from General Accounting Office

FEBRUARY 4, 1994.

Hon. MARCY KAPTUR,
House of Representatives.

DEAR MS. KAPTUR: The United States has one of the highest mobility rates of all developed countries; annually, about one-fifth of all Americans move. Elementary school children who move frequently face disruption to their lives, including their schooling. And, sadly, these children are often not helped to adjust to the disruption of a new school—new children, teachers, and principal—and to make sense of the variations in curriculum between the old school and the new. The success of children who change schools frequently may therefore be jeopardized. In addition, as the schools pay greater attention to high academic standards, advocated by national and state leaders, these children may face increased difficulty in achieving success.

In response to these concerns, you asked us to obtain information on children who change schools frequently: (1) their number and characteristics, (2) their success in school relative to children who have never changed schools, (3) the help that federal educational programs, such as Migrant Education and Chapter 1, provide, and (4) the help that improved student record systems could provide.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL CHILDREN: MANY CHANGE SCHOOLS FREQUENTLY, HARMING THEIR EDUCATION

One-sixth of the nation's third graders—more than half a million children—have attended at least three different schools since starting first grade. Unless policymakers focus more on the needs of the children who are changing schools frequently—often poor, inner city, and with limited English skills—these children may continue to do poorly in math and reading and risk having to repeat grades. Local school districts typically provide little additional assistance to these children. The Education Department could help by developing strategies to provide all eligible children, including those who have switched schools frequently, access to federally funded Migrant Education and Chapter 1 services. Timely and comparable record systems are one way to help mobile children receive services. For example, a child's school records often take up to 6 weeks to arrive in a new school, and student records often differ from states and districts.

RESULTS IN BRIEF

One in six of the nation's children who are third-graders—over a half million—have changed schools frequently, attending at least three different schools since the beginning of first grade. Unless policymakers focus greater attention on the needs of children who have changed schools frequently—often low-income, inner city, migrant, and limited English proficient (LEP)—these children may continue to be low achieving in math and reading, as well as to repeat a grade. Local school districts generally provide little additional help to assist mobile children.

The Department of Education can play a role in helping mobile children to receive appropriate educational services in a timely manner. Specifically, the Department can develop strategies so that all eligible children, including those who have changed schools frequently, will have access to federally funded Migrant Education and Chapter 1 services. Children who have changed schools frequently are not as likely to receive services provided by the federal Migrant Education and Chapter 1 programs as children who have never changed schools.

Timely and comparable record systems could be one way to help mobile children receive services. A child's records often take 2 to 6 weeks to arrive in a new school, according to data collected by the California State Department of Education and others. Moreover, student records often are not comparable across states and districts. The federal Migrant Student Record Transfer System (MSRTS), established to transfer information from a migrant child's former school district to a new school district, also does not provide timely and complete information. However, other systems, such as one currently being piloted in a few states, may in the future provide comparable and more timely transfer of student records for all children, including migrants.

CONCLUSIONS

Children who change schools frequently face many challenges to their success in school. Such change can cause disruption and add to the other challenges—low-income, limited English proficiency, and migrant status—that make learning and achievement difficult for them. Nevertheless, many of the children who change schools frequently may be less likely to receive Migrant Education and Chapter 1 programs services than other children meeting program eligibility standards.

LOW-INCOME, INNER CITY, MIGRANT, AND LEP CHILDREN ARE MORE LIKELY TO HAVE CHANGED SCHOOLS FREQUENTLY

Children who are from low-income families or attend inner city schools are more likely than others to have changed schools frequently. Overall, about 17 percent of all third-graders—more than a half million—have changed schools frequently, attending three or more schools since first grade. Of third-graders from low-income families—that is, with incomes below $10,000—30 percent have changed schools frequently, compared with about 10 percent from families with incomes of $25,000 and above. About 25 percent of third-graders in inner city schools have changed schools frequently, compared with about 15 percent of third-graders in rural or suburban schools.

An inner city child, compared with one in a suburban or rural school, may be more likely to change schools frequently, in part, because he or she is more likely to come from a low-income family. Another factor that could contribute to an inner city child changing schools is that such a child may move only a short distance, yet move into a new school attendance area; however, a child in a larger, less densely populated school attendance area—for example, in a suburban or rural school district—may move several miles and still attend the same school.

Migrant and LEP children also are much more likely than others to have changed schools frequently: about 40 percent of migrant children have changed schools frequently, compared with about 17 percent of all children. Among LEP children, about 34 percent have changed schools frequently.

CHILDREN WHO HAVE CHANGED SCHOOLS FREQUENTLY ARE MORE LIKELY TO BE LOW ACHIEVERS AND TO REPEAT A GRADE

Of the nation's third-graders who have changed schools frequently, 41 percent are low achievers, that is, below grade level, in reading, compared with 26 percent of third-graders who have never changed schools. Results are similar for math—33 percent of children who have changed schools frequently are below grade level, compared with 17 percent of those who have never changed schools. In grouping the children who have changed schools frequently into four income categories, we found that within each category, these children are more likely to be below grade level in reading and math than those who have never changed schools. Children who have moved often were also more likely to have behavioral problems, according to a recent study.

Overall, third-graders who have changed schools frequently are two-and-a-half times as likely to repeat a grade as third-graders who have never changed schools (20 versus 8 percent). For all income groups, children who have changed schools frequently are more likely to repeat a grade than children who have never changed schools.

Children who have changed schools frequently, compared with children who have never changed schools, are more than twice as likely to have nutrition and health or hygiene problems, according to teachers.

When children changed schools four or more times, both a Department of Education and a Denver Public Schools study found, they were more likely to drop out of school. Children who changed schools four or more time by eighth grade were at least four times more likely to drop out than those who remained in the same school; this is true even after taking into account the socio-economic status of a child's family, according to the Department study. Children who transferred within the district five or more times dropped out of school at similarly high rates, regardless of reading achievement scores, the Denver study found.

Except for migrant children, little is currently done to help children whose frequent school changes affect the continuity of their schooling. It may be difficult for teachers to focus on the needs of these children, particularly those who enter after school has started, rather than on maintaining continuity for the rest of the class. When children enter classrooms after the beginning of the year, teachers may prejudge them unfavorably. Teachers in schools with high proportions of children who change schools after the beginning of the year indicated that these school changes disrupt classroom instruction, and teachers must spend additional time on noninstructional tasks. Teachers may therefore not have the time to identify gaps in such a child's knowledge; moreover, these gaps may grow as the child is left on his or her own to make sense of the new curriculum and its relation to the one at the previous school. Children who changed schools often, except for migrant children, did not receive specialized educational services, researchers have noted.

MIGRANT CHILDREN WHO HAVE CHANGED SCHOOLS FREQUENTLY ARE LESS LIKELY THAN THOSE NOT CHANGING SCHOOLS TO RECEIVE MIGRANT EDUCATION PROGRAM SERVICES

Of migrant third-graders who have attended three or more schools since first grade, 21 percent receive migrant services, compared with 54 percent of migrants who have not changed schools at all. These results are surprising since the Migrant Education Act is intended to address, to a large degree, the problems mobility creates for migrant children. Migrant children who have changed schools frequently are less likely to attend schools with migrant education programs than those who have never changed schools.

CHAPTER 1 PARTICIPATION RATES LOWER FOR LOW-ACHIEVING CHILDREN WHO HAVE CHANGED SCHOOLS FREQUENTLY THAN FOR LOW-ACHIEVING CHILDREN WHO HAVE NEVER CHANGED SCHOOLS

Low-achieving children who have changed schools frequently are less likely to receive Chapter 1 services than low-achieving children who have never changed schools. Of third-graders who have never changed schools and read below grade level, 25 percent receive Chapter 1 reading services. In contrast, 20 percent of third-graders who have changed schools frequently and read below grade level receive these services. In grades kindergarten through 6, approximately 90,000 additional low-achieving children who have changed schools frequently could receive Chapter 1 reading services if the program provided these services at the same rates to these children as to low-achieving children who have never changed schools.

LACK OF CHAPTER 1 DATA TO EXPLAIN THE LOWER CHAPTER 1 PARTICIPATION RATES OF CHILDREN WHO HAVE CHANGED SCHOOLS FREQUENTLY

The Department of Education has little information on children who change schools frequently and their participation in the Chapter 1 program, as well as the effects that children moving frequently from school to school have had on Chapter 1 services. Therefore, we were unable to explain why low-achieving children who have changed schools frequently may be less likely to be served by Chapter 1 than low-achieving children who have never changed schools. A 1992 Department of Education policy instructs districts to reserve adequate funds so that migrant children who are eligible for Chapter 1 services—even if they arrive late in the school year—will receive them. But nonmigrant children who change schools frequently and are also eligible for Chapter 1 services are omitted in this policy.

We found that about 17 percent of third-graders have changed schools frequently, that is, have attended three or more schools since the beginning of first grade. About one-quarter, or 24 percent, of third-graders have attended two schools; the remaining 59 percent of third-graders have remained in the same school since first grade.

INNER CITY AND LOW-INCOME CHILDREN MUCH MORE LIKELY TO CHANGE SCHOOLS FREQUENTLY

Inner city children are much more likely to change schools frequently, on average, than those in rural or suburban areas or in small cities or towns. One-fourth of third-graders in inner city schools have changed schools frequently, that is, have attended three or more schools since first grade. In comparison, only about one-seventh of children from rural or suburban areas or from small cities or towns have changed schools frequently.

Children from low-income families are more likely to change schools frequently than those from higher income families. Among children in families with annual incomes below $10,000, 30 percent have changed schools frequently, compared with 8 percent of children in families with incomes of $50,000 or more. Overall, the percentage of children who change schools frequently decreases as income increases.

NATIVE AMERICAN, BLACK, HISPANIC, MIGRANT, AND LEP CHILDREN MORE LIKELY TO CHANGE SCHOOLS FREQUENTLY

Native American, black, and Hispanic children are more likely to change schools frequently than Asian or white children. However, these differences are less related to race or ethnicity than to differences in income and, consequently, homeownership versus renter status: renters tend to move much more frequently than homeowners. When we examined 1990 Current Population Survey data reported by the Bureau of the Census, race or ethnic differences in mobility largely disappeared after considering homeownership versus renter status.

Migrant and limited English proficient (LEP) children are much more likely to change schools frequently than all children. About 40 percent of migrant children and 34 percent of LEP children change schools frequently, in comparison with 17 percent of all children. In addition, compared with 59 percent of all children, a smaller percentage of migrant and LEP children have never changed schools—28 and 38 percent, respectively.

Teachers reported that children who change schools frequently, compared with those who have never changed schools, are much more likely to have problems related to nutrition or health and hygiene. Among children who change schools frequently, 10 percent are reported to have nutrition problems, compared with about 3 percent of children who have never changed schools. Similarly, teachers report that 20 percent of children who change schools frequently have health and hygiene problems, compared with 8 percent of children who have never changed schools.

For all children, those who have changed schools frequently are more than twice as likely to repeat a grade as those who have never changed schools. Among children who change schools frequently, about 20 percent repeat a grade; in contrast, among children who have never changed schools, about 8 percent repeat a grade.

Children who change schools frequently are less likely to receive educational support from federal programs than those who have never changed schools. For example, migrant children who change schools frequently are less likely to receive migrant education services than those who have never changed schools. In addition, low-achieving children who change schools frequently are less likely to get Chapter 1 services than those low-achieving children who have never changed schools; this is true for children achieving below grade level in math as well as reading.

MOBILE STUDENTS SCORE LOWER ON STATE TEST

(By Sandra Clark)

Cleveland 4th-graders who changed schools one or more times during the school year scored lower than their stable classmates on all five sections of the Ohio Proficiency Test, according to a CATALYST analysis of test scores from 1997 to 1999.

On average, mobile students scored 5.12 points below their more stable counterparts. The largest spread between the two was in math and science. The smallest gap was in reading.

The analysis of test scores of 16,278 students, 1,914 of whom changed schools at least once during the school year, was conducted for CATALYST by Joshua G. Bagaka's, assistant professor of educational research and statistics at Cleveland State University.

''Across all five parts of the Ohio 4th- and 6th-grade proficiency test, mobile students consistently received lower scores than their stable counterparts,'' Bagaka's says.

''I don't think we need to down play the role of mobility here,'' Bagaka's says. ''Schools should find ways of giving mobile kids special attention because they are at risk of failing.''

Bagaka's analysis also showed that the test scores of mobile students suffered regardless of the students' family income or whether they live with one or both parents.

The analysis also shows: The achievement gap between stable and mobile students by income is often widest for mobile students who pay full price for lunch and smallest for students on free lunch. In many areas, poor mobile students do better than well-off mobile students. (See chart page 5.)

Similar conclusions can be drawn when comparing students from single-parent and two-parent homes. Mobile students from single-parent homes often do just as well as mobile students from two-parent homes. (See chart page 5.)

Mobility refers to students who change schools one or more times during an academic year. Students change schools frequently due to school choice, family moves, poverty, hopelessness, changes in child custody and other problems.

Cleveland's mobility rate has fallen from 19.5 percent in 1998 and 1999 to 15.8 percent in 1999 due in part to the end of desegregation, says Peter A. Robertson, Cleveland Municipal School District's executive director of Research, Evaluation and Assessment.

Individually, however, high-poverty elementary schools such as Willow, East Clark, Bolton and George Washington Carver reported rates nearing 30 percent during the period.

Based on student demographics and test scores from 1997 through 1999, the analysis indicated an achievement gap that varied little even as the test changed in difficulty during the period.

The highest achievement gaps in math and science were 7.5 points and 9.2 points, respectively. The average gap in reading was 3.5 points. Reading is something children can learn at home, says Russell W. Rumberger, education professor at University of California, Santa Barbara. Families rely on schools to teach math and science, which is why the achievement gap in those subjects is largest, Rumberger says.

CATALYST'S findings come as no surprise to Robertson. The district has not targeted mobile students for any special help, Robertson says. However, he adds that districtwide initiatives such as establishing standards and periodically assessing students' strengths and weaknesses should help them. (See story page 9.)

''Beyond that,'' Robertson says, ''we are trying to make sure they have access to good teaching and what we need to do for all kids.''

Cleveland findings reflect studies done elsewhere that linked student mobility to lower achievement.

For example, the Minneapolis Public Schools, the Family Housing Fund and other groups studied mobile students in the city. The year-long study, called the Kids Mobility Project, found that students who moved three or more times earned reading scores that were half that of students who stayed put.

David Kerbow, a University of Chicago researcher who has studied mobility in Chicago Public Schools, says constant movement slows the learning pace for not only mobile students but also their stable classmates. An analysis of math in highly mobile classrooms shows teachers frequently stop and start to integrate new students with varying achievement levels into the class, Kerbow says. Introduction of new material slows as the teacher begins keeping lessons basic. And, over time, students in highly mobile schools get instruction that is about a year behind that of students in more stable schools, Kerbow reports.

MILES PARK FINDS ANSWERS

(By Sandra Clark)

A tour of Miles Park Elementary School offers a snapshot of mobility—its causes, its impact and even a way to minimize its harm.

Any staff member can guide the tour. They all have stories.

Clerk Ella Kirtley can explain what a task it is to keep pace with the rapid student turnover. Librarian Jeanne Irvin says she spends countless hours and dollars retrieving books from students who leave. Second-grade teacher Jane E. Rodgers can demonstrate how she tries to teach an ever-changing class.

The Cleveland Municipal School District, like most in the country, has no official policy for mitigating the impact of mobility. The district has been pushing schools to improve proficiency test scores without taking mobility and its drag on achievement into account, Miles Park Principal William J. Bauer says. So the school struck out on its own, making the needs of mobile students a schoolwide focus.

''The area superintendent says 'You did good [with proficiencies] last year. How much are you going to improve this year?' '' Bauer says. ''There's a new student, there's a new student, there's a new student with grades lower than an LD [Learning Disabled] student. You're a teacher and you're responsible for increasing scores every year.''

The staff is fluent in mobility because enrollment shifts dramatically here. The school's 1999 mobility rate, the most recent available, of 14.7 percent is below the district average for elementary schools, about 16 percent.

Yet, staff sees a constant churning of students in and out of the school. To date, the school's enrollment shifted from 530 students, to 510 and then 571 for a total change of 81. That means about four whole classrooms full of kids have come and gone this school year. The impact the movement has on learning at the school is huge, Bauer says.

Mobility's influence on behavior and achievement becomes clear one day when

Kenneth returns from speech lessons to Rodgers' 2nd-grade class. The tenor of the class shifts. A slight rumble of discord replaces the chatter of children constructing a picture graph.

Kenneth, not his real name, is the most recent of eight new students in Rodgers' class this school year. Kenneth rarely follows school rules and is functioning below grade level, Rodgers says. His classmates know this and give him grief. Little shoves are sent his way, to which he responds by glaring at the tallest kid in class.

He stands out, Rodgers says. Kenneth is the only student not wearing the school's blue and white uniform.

''My students are starting to write paragraphs, and he can't write a sentence,'' Rodgers says. ''I don't have time to work with him.

''I move quicker,'' Rodgers says. ''I'm a 25-year teacher. He had a first-year teacher.''

Students like Kenneth are in danger of failing. A 1994 General Accounting Office report on mobility said 3rd-graders who have changed schools frequently are 2½ times as likely to repeat a grade as 3rd-graders who have never changed schools.

A CATALYST analysis of mobility in Cleveland schools also showed a link between mobility and retention.

The analysis also showed average proficiency test scores of mobile students are about 5 points below scores of stable students.

Janice Smallwood's 4th-grade class at Miles Park has 24 students. Seven are new. When Smallwood tested reading and math levels, students scored between 4.66 and 1.68. Six of the mobile students are at the bottom of the list, scoring below those labeled Learning Disabled. Tianna scored 3.84, the highest of all new students, to rank 11th in the class.

BAD BEHAVIOR

Behavior is high on the list of areas affected by mobility. The GAO report said that children who move frequently are 77 percent more likely to have four or more behavioral problems than those with no or infrequent moves.

This constant movement, loss of friends and the effort it takes to make new ones can be ''a social nightmare,'' says Ted Feinberg, assistant executive director of the National Association of School Psychologists.

Some mobile students are content to quietly scope out the class before inserting themselves into the mix. Some use humor to cope, Feinberg explains. The antics of a 4th-grader who had attended about five schools constantly pulled the class off task, says Miles Park teacher Teresa Goetz. She telephoned the boy's previous school to get his history and found that he had jumped on one child's out-stretched leg, breaking it. In November, the boy transferred to another school.

A move from family to foster care sent a Cleveland student to Hawthorne Elementary School in Lorain. This boy was so desperate to make friends, he stole money from a teacher's purse and passed it out to fellow students, Hawthorne Principal Loretta Jones says.

''What we see are kids who are depressed because they don't have a social network,'' Feinberg says. ''Kids feel awkward and uncomfortable. They try to prove themselves through strength and coolness.''

NO RECORDS

In addition to behavioral and academic problems, mobile students frustrate administrators because the children seldom arrive with records, grades and immunization forms.

Clerk Ella Kirtley spends half her day enrolling new students, withdrawing them and searching for records from their old schools.

Kirtley is retired but Bauer has convinced her to stay on because he doesn't think he can find another clerk who can keep up.

What's scary to Kirtley is how difficult it is to get vital information on students and now quickly that information changes.

Addresses change, telephone numbers change and pagers are cut off so frequently that ''You can't be up to date with emergency cards,'' Principal Bauer says. Sick children have been sent back to class because the school could not find an emergency contact Kirtley says.

TESTING MOBILE STUDENTS

Neither Cleveland schools nor the Ohio Department of Education have official strategies to mitigate the impact of mobility. Academic standards are surfacing as a way to be sure all kids are exposed to the same information and tests even though they change schools. (See story page 9.) The state department also plans to create a system of exchanging student records using Education Management Information Systems. The system should be completed in two years, says department spokeswoman Dorothea Howe.

But for the most part, teachers and principals individually hammer out solutions. Some start by finding out the student's performance level so they can be placed in the appropriate class. This is an informal process at most schools.

For example, at Willow Elementary School, Tannesha Saunders' 4th-grade teacher casually quizzed her when she joined the class in October.

''I think she wanted to see what I knew,'' says Tannesha, who attended four schools in three years. ''She'd teach some stuff then she'd ask some people some questions. Then she'd ask me a question and I answered it.''

Tannesha says the teacher also gave her a buddy, ''Brittany, to help me with my work and show me around like where the lunchroom was.''

Testing for placement of new students is serious business at Miles Park. New students are given the Star Test for reading and Computer Curriculum Corp. math, says Miles Park's Assistant Principal Kelley A. Dudley. Both tests assign a grade equivalent based on the student's score and prescribe what students should study to close any achievement gaps, Dudley says.

Star Test scores correspond with grade-appropriate books in Accelerated Reader. Computer Curriculum aligns math with grade levels and allows students to work on problems during math lab and after school. Students work independently or get tutoring from retired professionals who volunteer.

Paris, a new student in Smallwood's 4th-grade class, moved up a grade level to 3.6, Dudley says. ''He's still behind, but look where he came from,'' she says.

MANAGING MOBILITY

(By Sandra Clark)

THE CAUSES: POVERTY AND FAMILY BREAK-UPS

Miles Park Principal William J. Bauer and other heads of Cleveland elementary schools that experience mobility can only guess why students frequently transfer in and out of their schools.

In most cases, the district does not keep records on why students are withdrawn from school.

School leaders point to income and family instability as primary culprits. Loss of income often means families must move from their houses or apartments. Changes in child custody or guardianship also can cause movement. Some children transfer schools after being placed in foster care.

Then there's homelessness. For example, Kentucky and Case elementary schools serve students in nearby homeless and battered women's shelters.

Families living at the Zelma George Homeless Shelter attend Miles Park, A.B. Hart Middle and South High School. Families can stay only 14 days unless they receive an extension from the shelter, shelter officials say. (See story page 12.)

Welfare reform also plays an increasingly important role in homelessness and school instability. Mobility for families recently cut from welfare is four times higher than that of other families, reports Claudia Coulton, social welfare professor at Case's Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences. About 42 percent of Cuyahoga County families leaving welfare moved within six-months of leaving cash assistance, compared to the national average of 8 percent of families not on welfare moving during the period, Coulton says.

That's not entirely bad news. Many parents now have jobs and can afford to move to better neighborhoods, says Rasool Jackson, Cleveland school's director of Student Administrative Services.

Bauer disagrees, saying welfare reform portends more instability. Bauer says he believes more Miles Park students are losing their homes and moving in with family members since welfare reform took hold.

Another major cause of movement is discomfort with the school. For example, results of a survey of students in Chicago Public Schools showed one reason students transferred was school-related, not that the family changed homes, says David Kerbow, education researcher at the University of Chicago. When conflict with school staff or students occurred, parents chose to leave rather than solve the problem, Kerbow explains.

Margaret V. Alberty was so uncomfortable with teachers handling of her special-needs 4th-grader that she changed schools six times before settling on Willow Elementary School.

Alberty is guardian of 10-year-old Damien Lightfoot, who has Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder.

Alberty says many teachers are unprepared to teach a child with his condition and do not know how to handle Damien when he's upset. He's been grabbed and jerked about by teachers, Alberty says. ''They aggravate you so much you have to take them out of the school.''

It's not unusual for parents like Alberty to change schools because they disagree with a school's academic practices or front-office manners. ''A rude clerk can really damage your school,'' says Doug Clay, a former district researcher now with the Urban School Collaborative at Cleveland State University.

Finally, Peter A. Robertson, Cleveland Municipal School's executive director of Research, Evaluation and Assessment, says a number of Cleveland students transfer to escape poor grades or a special education diagnosis.

Districts and communities across the country are using a variety of strategies to lessen the negative effects of mobility or to limit mobility itself. Some schools have created programs to welcome students and place them in the most suitable classroom. Others go outside the school walls to address housing issues. Here is a list of tactics principals, districts and states have used to manage mobility.

PLACING NEW STUDENTS

When Jo Ann Isken, principal of Moffett Elementary School in Los Angeles County, learned about a kindergartner who was having trouble learning to read, she did a little checking. She found he had attended three different schools, with lengthy absences in between. His lessons had been in English, some in Spanish.

Because of frequent movement among students, Isken set up welcoming procedures for new students. When the new student and parent or guardian arrive, they are asked about the child's school and medical history. ''Immediately, we had an academic, health and family history and we knew what the support needs would be.''

Students are tested and assigned to classes based on achievement levels. Then, measures such as one-to-one tutoring are prescribed, Isken says.

When students leave, they are given transfer forms with immunization data, enrollment dates and names and telephone numbers or contact people at the school. ''Our children (leave) with more information than we got when they came,'' Isken says.

RECORD EXCHANGE

A program designed to serve the children of migrant workers has provided a way to help ensure that student records follow them. New Generation System is a student-record exchange program established in 1995. It is operated by a consortium of 11 states, including Ohio and Texas. Health, academic and demographic information is available to consortium members via the Internet, says Patricia Meyertholen, programs director for the Texas Migrant Information Program.

To protect student privacy, the site is encrypted and requires a password: Only consortium members have access, Meyertholen says.

New Generation System maintains data on about 200,000 of an estimated 784,000 migrant children nationwide, Meyerholen says.

LOW-COST HOUSING

Minneapolis Public Schools attacked mobility at one of its root causes—a lack of low-cost housing.

''It's the 1 percent vacancy rate that wreaks such havoc on family stability,'' says Elizabeth E. Hinz, policy and planning director. ''Housing isn't here, period. Or the housing that's available people can't afford.''

The district joined with groups such as the Family Housing Fund and launched the Kids Mobility Project. The research project explored the effect of constant residential moves on student achievement. It produced a report in 1998 that linked inadequate housing to student mobility, poor attendance and lower reading scores, says Shawna Tobechukwu, spokeswoman for the Family Housing Fund.

Tobechukwu says results were used to lobby the state legislature to increase the budget for low-cost housing. Lawmakers responded to the data and raised the budget by about $96 million in the last two years, says Angie Bernhard, research and policy director at Family Housing Fund. ''The report was a big part of the information we used to make our case,'' Bernhard says. ''It was very persuasive to legislators on both sides of the aisle.''

EXTRA RESOURCES

In 1994, Montgomery County Public Schools in Maryland began allocating extra staff to schools based on mobility rates, poverty rates and the number of students speaking limited English, says Susan F. Marks, the district's executive assistant for School Performance. Lean budgets meant the district, headquartered in Rockville, Md., simply sent an extra teacher or two to high-mobility schools.

Last year, the county revamped the program. For one, it took mobility and language out of the equation and focused on reducing class size at high-mobility schools, says Frank H. Stetson, Community Superintendent for the school system.

In an area where international professionals come and go regularly, mobility and language are not the best indicators of need, Stetson says. Poverty is. And poorer schools tend to have the ''churn'' that chills attendance and achievement, Stetson adds.

''If we used mobility we'd be sending resources to schools that didn't need them,'' Stetson says.

To add resources, the system ranked schools by poverty. Then it gave funds for such items as all-day kindergarten, extra staff to achieve a 15–1 teacher-student ratio and programs like Reading Recovery in the primary grades, Mark says. It also plans to add 41 positions to reduce class size at high-poverty high schools, Marks says.

TRANSPORTATION

A coalition of community organizations has taken steps to reduce school mobility among children in Baltimore County, Md., by providing bus service so that students who move can remain in the same school.

The area has neighborhoods containing hundreds of apartments in low-rise buildings where families constantly move in and out. A move from one apartment to another 10 minutes away could send children to a different school, says Julie J. Gaynor, a Baltimore county teacher and chairwoman of the Stay Put committee.

The Stay Put program was founded in 1992 to cut school mobility. It is a non-profit project of the education committee of the Essex-Middle River-White Marsh Chamber of Commerce.

The group runs several programs such as shuttle buses supplied by the district to transport children who move back to their old school.

Families often move because landlords offer free rent for one month. Stay Put encourages landlords to put the freebie at the end of the lease, increasing the likelihood that kids will finish a school year in one place. At the group's urging, landlords also have donated an apartment which serves as a community center where students who live in the complex can receive after-school tutoring and adults can prepare for the General Education Development Certificate (GED).

Gaynor says a new focus is on opening a conflict mediation center so families can resolve differences rather than move away.

Funding for the community center's staff comes from various sources, including school district grants, Gaynor says.

ACCOUNTABILITY

The California accountability system addresses a common complaint of schools that suffer high mobility: They say they shouldn't be held accountable for the performance of students who entered their schools months, weeks or even days before the high-stakes tests are given.

The California Department of Education figures mobility into its accountability system. Districts are required to report mobility. The state uses the rate to decide which scores will or will not be used in the system.

''If you're not in the district a year, your scores don't count for rewards and interventions for schools,'' says Patrick J. McCabe, in the department's Office of Policy and Evaluation.

California schools report two types of mobility, students who have not been in a district a full year and students who have not been in a school a full year. Schools do not report ''churn,'' the frequent in-and-out movement of students, McCabe says. And scores of students who change schools within the same district are not exempt from the accountability system, McCabe says.

Districts failing to meet targets are given three years and extra money to improve. If no improvement occurs, penalties such as removing the principal, staff or closing the school kick in.

Successful districts receive $70 for every child, McCabe says.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time, and I want to thank all the members of our committee on both sides of the aisle that have participated in this debate and to the other Members that have joined us during this general debate. They were very generous in their congratulating both the chairman and myself, and I want to extend that to the chairman again for the manner in which this bill has been handled.

We have an opportunity here today to change the direction of the Federal role in education, to provide additional resources to local educational agencies with greater flexibility than they have had at any time in the life of this program. They can apply these resources to those needs they think need them the most, that need the attention, that can benefit from the application of those resources to try to get the results that all of us want with the passage of this legislation, but more importantly, to get the results the parents want for children and the children want for themselves.

Our children in America have that potential, they have that ability, and they have that talent. But far too often, far too often, they lose the opportunity to capitalize on their talents, to capitalize on their ability, because they are ignored in the school district or the school district is without resources, or children are mischaracterized. A lot of things happen during the educational year. This legislation is to try to make sure we put the emphasis on the child; that we have a means, as the President said, to assess a child on an annual basis so that we can determine what are the additional resources that that child needs; what kind of help should be focused on that child.

In these annual assessments, it is more than just a test, it is about seeing whether or not the child needs a Saturday class, do they need a tutor, do they need a mentor, both of which are allowed under this legislation. Do they need to go to summer school? Do they need some additional testing? Do they need eyeglasses? Those are the kinds of things we want to be able to focus on the child so that every child has that real opportunity. We have the opportunity if, in fact, we provide those resources. We focus on the child and we can start to close that gap between rich and poor children, between majority and minority children in the school.

The other tools that are available is the resources we put into teacher quality, to professional development, to training, to lower class sizes in those areas that have not done it and still need to do that. Those are decisions that the local school district can make. It is very important. We know now that a well-qualified teacher is one of the most important ingredients in that child's education in the school setting.

Obviously, we believe the most important ingredient is the family. If there is one thing this bill cannot do, that would greatly help us all, is if we could just get every parent to spend time with their child, or grandchild, reading to those children and telling them that it is important. This education would complement that, and we would be well on the way to the goal the President has had, that so many Members of this Congress have had, and that is to make sure that each and every child has that opportunity.

Mr. Chairman, I look forward to the amendment process.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, let me first thank all of the Members for all their kind comments and their support of the bill that we have before us. I think that, as the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) just pointed out, we have a very sound piece of legislation that will improve the educational prospects for millions of American children. All we need to do is to have the courage to stand up and to vote for it.

There are Members with different views and different visions of what the Federal Government's role in education should be. I have conservative friends who are a little hesitant about this. We have some liberal friends who are just as hesitant. And as the gentleman from California pointed out, this is the most major change in the Federal Government's role in education in the 35 years that the Federal Government has been involved. This is a big step. This will take courage on the part of Members and take courage on the part of this institution to forge our way down a new path. But I think today is the day to do it, and I think this is the bill that will put us on the right path.

This bill did not get here by itself, though. All the Members worked hard but there are a select group of people who deserve to get our thanks: Sally Lovejoy, who heads up the education group on our staff; members of her staff, Kent Talbert, Christy Wolfe, Rich Stombres, Ben Peltier, Cindy Herrle, Pam Davidson, George Conant, JoMarie St. Martin, Bob Sweet, Doug Mesecar, Dave Schnittger and his team, and Paula Nowakowski, staff director.

Let me also thank the Democrat staff who worked very closely with us: Charlie Barone, Alex Nock, Denise Forte, John Lawrence, Brendan O'Neil with the office of the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MINK); Maggie McDow with the office of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROEMER); Kara Haas, a staffer in the office of the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE); Karen Weiss with the office of the gentleman from California (Mr. MCKEON); and Glee Smith of the office of the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON).

They spent as many hours or more than the Members in terms of helping to craft this bill, to put it together, and to put us on the track where we are today, and I want to thank them for their work.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Chairman, I rise to express my concern about the legislative language of H.R. 1—The No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, that contains a ''grandfather'' clause permitting school districts that currently segregate homeless children to continue to do so. The McKinney Act has prohibited this form of segregation. Since 1990, the McKinney Act has required States and school districts to integrate homeless students into the mainstream school environment, and to remove barriers to their enrollment, attendance, and success in school.

As a practical matter, segregation of homeless children who are disproportionately Black and Latino means racial re-segregation. In Chicago, for example, 92% of homeless families that use shelter facilities are African American. To the poor students throughout this nation, this is a crucial issue. Separate is not now, and has never been ''equal.'' National educational policy must not now in the 21st Century embrace this insidious notion: that children should be sent to schools based on their housing or economic status. There is no sound teaching rationale for educating homeless children separately. Homeless children are like all other children and represent an array of educational strengths and needs. Some emerge as valedictorians or above-average achievers, others as special education students, and some simply average achievers.

Putting children in schools with a label of ''homelessness'' is stigmatizing and demeaning. In many years of work in my district, I have never met a single family that asked for a segregated school. In fact, the parents along with the Chicago Coalition for the Homeless in Chicago fought and closed a segregated facility.

I have a letter from a homeless child name Junior Brewer who is ten years of age, he wrote ''I think no matter what, if you are homeless or rich this does not mean that you have to be separated from your friends because we are all created equal inside.'' What do I tell Junior about the hypocrisy and lies that is being portrayed in H.R. 1. After all Junior, if you are poor and Black or Latino or some other ethnic group being created equal in the inside among men, women, and children is just a dream. Our Republicans say we will leave no child behind but their actions say otherwise. We must show through deeds not words that no child is left behind.

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Chairman, thirty-six years ago Congress blatantly disregarded all constitutional limitations on its power over K–12 education by passing the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA). This act of massive federal involvement in education was sold to the American people with promises that federal bureaucrats had it within their power to usher in a golden age of education. Yet, instead of the promised nirvana, federal control over education contributed to a decline in education quality. Congress has periodically responded to the American people's concerns over education by embracing education ''reforms,'' which it promises are the silver bullet to fixing American schools. ''Trust us,'' proponents of new federal edcation programs say, we have learned from the mistakes of the past and all we need are a few billion more dollars and some new federal programs and we will produce the educational utopia in which ''all children are above average.'' Of course, those reforms only result in increasing the education bureaucracy, reducing parental control, increasing federal expenditures, continuing decline in education and an inevitable round of new ''reforms.''

Congress is now considering whether to continue this cycle by passing the national five-year plan contained in H.R. 1, the so-called ''No Child Left Behind Act.'' A better title for this bill is ''No Bureaucrat Left Behind'' because, even though it's proponents claim H.R. 1 restores power over education to states and local communities, this bill represents a massive increase in federal control over education. H.R. 1 contains the word ''ensure'' 150 times, ''require'' 477 times, ''shall'' 1,537 and ''shall not'' 123 times. These words are usually used to signify federal orders to states and localities. Only in a town where a decrease in the rate of spending increases is considered a cut could a bill laden with federal mandates be considered an increase in local control!

H.R. 1 increases federal control over education through increases in education spending. Because ''he who pays the piper calls the tune,'' it is inevitable that increased federal expenditures on education will increase federal control. However, Mr. Chairman, as much as I object to the new federal expenditures in H.R. 1, my biggest concern is with the new mandate that states test children and compare the test with a national normed test such as the National Assessment of Education Progress (NAEP). While proponents of this approach claim that the bill respects state autonomy as states' can draw up their own tests, these claims fail under close observation. First of all, the very act of imposing a testing mandate on states is a violation of states' and local communities' authority, protected by the 10th Amendment to the United States Constitution, to control education free from federal interference.

Some will claim that this does not violate states' control because states are free to not accept federal funds. However, every member here knows that it is the rare state administrator who will decline federal funds to avoid compliance with federal mandates. It is time Congress stopped trying to circumvent the constitutional limitations on its authority by using the people's own money to bribe them into complying with unconstitutional federal dictates.

Mr. Chairman, H.R. 1 will lead to de facto, if not de jure, national testing. States will inevitably fashion their test to match the ''nationally-normed'' test so as to relieve their students and teachers of having to prepare for two different tests. Furthermore, states will feel pressure from employers, colleges, and perhaps even future Congresses to conform their standards with other national tests ''for the children's sake.'' After all, what state superintendent wants his state's top students denied admission to the top colleges, or the best jobs, or even student loans, because their state's test is considered inferior to the ''assessments'' used by the other 49 states?

National testing will inevitably lead to a national curriculum as teachers will teach what their students need to know in order to pass their mandated ''assessment.'' After all, federal funding depends on how students perform on these tests! Proponents of this approach dismiss these concerns by saying ''there is only one way to read and do math.'' Well then what are the battles about phonics versus whole language or new math versus old math about? There are continuing disputes about teaching all subjects as well as how to measure mastery of a subject matter. Once federal mandatory testing is in place however, those arguments will be settled by the beliefs of whatever regime currently holds sway in DC. Mr. Chairman, I would like my colleagues to consider how comfortable they would feel supporting this bill if they knew that in five years proponents of fuzzy math and whole language could be writing the NAEP?

Proponents of H.R. 1 justify the mandatory testing by claiming it holds schools ''accountable.'' Of course, everyone is in favor of holding schools accountable but accountable to whom? Under this bill, schools remain accountable to federal bureaucrats and those who develop the state tests upon which participating schools performance is judged. Even under the much touted Straight ''A''s proposal, schools which fail to live up to their bureaucratically-determined ''performance goals'' will lose the flexibility granted to them under this act. Federal and state bureaucrats will determine if the schools are to be allowed to participate in the Straight ''A''s programs and bureaucrats will judge whether the states are living up to the standards set in the state's education plan—yet this is the only part of the bill which even attempts to debureaucratize and decentralize education!

Under the United States Constitution, the federal government has no authority to hold states ''accountable'' for their education performance. In the free society envisioned by the founders, schools are held accountable to parents, not federal bureaucrats. However, the current system of imposing oppressive taxes on America's families and using those taxes to fund federal education programs denies parental control of education by denying them control over their education dollars.

As a constitutional means to provide parents with the means to hold schools accountable, I have introduced the Family Education Freedom Act (H.R. 368). The Family Education Freedom Act restores parental control over the classroom by providing American parents a tax credit of up to $3,000 for the expenses incurred in sending their child to private, public, parochial, other religious school, or for home schooling their children.

The Family Education Freedom Act returns the fundamental principle of a truly free economy to America's education system: what the great economist Ludwig von Mises called ''consumer sovereignty.'' Consumer sovereignty simply means consumers decide who succeeds or fails in the market. Businesses that best satisfy consumer demand will be the most successful. Consumer sovereignty is the means by which the free society maximizes human happiness.

When parents control the education dollar, schools must be responsive to parental demands that their children receive first-class educations, otherwise, parents will find alternative means to educate their children. Furthermore, parents whose children are in public schools may use their credit to improve their schools by purchasing of educational tools such as computers or extracurricular activities such as music programs. Parents of public school students may also wish to use the credit to pay for special services for their children.

According to a recent Manhattan Institute study of the effects of state policies promoting parental control over education, a minimal increase in parental control boosts the average SAT verbal score by 21 points and the student's SAT math score by 22 points! The Manhattan Institute study also found that increasing parental control of education is the best way to improve student performance on the NAEP tests.

I have also introduced the Education Quality Tax Cut Act (H.R. 369), which provides a $3,000 tax deduction for contributions to K–12 education scholarships as well as for cash or in-kind donations to private or public schools. The Education Quality Tax Cut Act will allow concerned citizens to become actively involved in improving their local public schools as well as help underprivileged children receive the type of education necessary to help them reach their full potential. I ask my colleagues: ''Who is better suited to lead the education reform effort: parents and other community leaders or DC-based bureaucrats and politicians?''

If, after the experience of the past thirty years, you believe that federal bureaucrats are better able to meet children's unique educational needs than parents and communities then vote for H.R. 1. However, if you believe that the failures of the past shows expanding federal control over the classroom is a recipe for leaving every child behind then do not settle for some limited state flexibility in the context of a massive expansion of federal power: Reject H.R. 1 and instead help put education resources back into the hands of parents by supporting my Family Education Freedom Act and Education Improvement Tax Cut Act.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of this bill as it was reported out of committee. I believe that the underlying bill is a good piece of legislation that will go a long ways in making our schools better places of learning and our students more successful. I commend the chairman, Mr. BOEHNER, the ranking member, Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California, and my fellow New Democrat, Mr. ROEMER, for the bipartisan way in which this bill has been crafted.

I am pleased to see H.R. 1 include language supporting both music and arts education as well as character education. I am a strong supporter of both. We must ensure that our children receive a well rounded education which includes music and the arts. Society is growing increasingly concerned about the steady decline of our nation's core ethical values, especially in our children. Although parents should be the primary developers of character, the role of schools in character-building has become increasingly important.

I am pleased to see the increased emphasis H.R. 1 has placed on low-performing Title I schools. If we are to demand that our schools meet high standards of achievement, we must also ensure that schools serving low-income students receive sufficient funds to meet these students' needs. These much needed Title I funds will make a real difference in the academic lives of many of my young constituents.

I also support several other provisions of the bill including accountability measures, student mentoring and the retention of the Safe Schools and 21st Century Learning Centers programs as separate initiatives.

I am extremely pleased to see that neither vouchers nor the ''Straight A's'' provision are included in the reported bill and am hopeful that they will not be attached as amendments. We have a remarkable consensus on this bill, but it is a fragile one. I urge my colleagues to protect this delicate balance by rejecting voucher or ''Straight A's'' proposals that would jeopardize passage of the bill.

While H.R. 1 substantially increases local flexibility, a ''Straight A's'' proposal only increases control at the state level. It will result in less funding to many local school districts, particularly those with low-income children.

Every child deserves the opportunity to succeed in our public school system. This bill takes a positive step forward toward helping students achieve academically and strengthening public schools.

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Chairman, this bill makes some pretty big promises. It has the potential to dramatically change the public education system in this country. It authorizes significant levels of funding. It says to parents that Congress thinks education is a priority, and that we will make good on our goal—that every child in America should get a quality education.

But, Mr. Chairman, I sit on the Appropriations Subcommittee that funds education, and my experience tells me that we are a long way from being able to keep these promises. The budget we passed two weeks ago does not provide the funds to do everything we promise in this bill. At the end of the year, when push comes to shove, we will do what we've done for the past few years—we will short education.

Tonight and tomorrow we will talk about how we are going to provide more funding than ever for our most disadvantaged students through Title I, about how we will give states flexibility to determine their fiscal needs in the areas of teacher recruitment, teacher development and school renovation, and about how we will demand results for our efforts. These are all worthy goals, and I support them.

But without funding, this new flexibility becomes a gilded prison. States will have to decide whether to spend their money on facilities, teachers or testing. The bill does not provide any additional funds for school construction, and does not provide enough to help states develop the new mandated tests or recruit more teachers to reduce class sizes. In fact, the rule will not even allow these issues to be discussed on the floor.

Unless we work to ensure that sufficient money is included for education in the appropriations process, then all we are doing today is making empty promises.

When the annual appropriations melee begins toward the end of the year, I hope the American people will remind every member who votes for this bill that they have a promise to keep. Every member who holds a press conference to tout their commitment to education after their vote for this bill should be prepared to follow through.

Mr. Chairman, we have an opportunity to do great things for education. But this legislation is only a down payment. I hope we remember to pay the rest of the bill.

Ms. SOLIS. Mr. Speaker, as a freshman Member of Congress it has been exciting to be a part of the House Education and Workforce Committee, working to draft a bipartisan education bill which truly will help students in California and throughout the country. I have been touring the schools in my district to find out from teachers, administrators, parents, and students what they need from the Federal Government when it comes to education policy.

I think the bill that was reported from the Education Committee makes an excellent start toward helping our students achieve success. I am pleased with the increased funding levels for title I, the education program fro disadvantaged students, and the increased targeting of funds to low-income areas and at-risk students.

I am also extremely happy with what is not in the bill—private school vouchers. The Education Committee voted to eliminate the voucher provisions and I hope the House will vote to keep vouchers out of the bill as well. We should be focusing on improving our public schools, rather than using public funds to send students to private schools. Vouchers don't make sense for Los Angeles area students. The $1,500 voucher proposed by President Bush wouldn't be enough money to send a child to a private school in Los Angeles. And we simply don't have enough private schools willing to accept students with vouchers.

Although I am happy with the bill, I do have some concerns. I had hoped that the Republican leadership would have allowed Democrats the opportunity to improve this bill through amendments. Unfortunately, we were not offered that opportunity. I wanted to offer an amendment to allow community learning centers to use their funds to implement programs which would help immigrant students with language and life skills. A similar amendment passed the other body by a 96–0 vote, and I had hoped the House would have the opportunity to vote on the amendment. Unfortunately, we were denied that opportunity.

Also, I had hoped that a school construction amendment offered by my colleague from New York, Mr. OWENS, would have been made in order for consideration today. California's efforts to reduce class size and our dramatic population increases have combined to make school construction essential. I am very disappointed that the House won't have the opportunity to vote on school construction today.

I also have concerns with portions of the bill dealing with bilingual and immigrant education, and hope they can be improved as the bill moves through the legislative process. As our recent census numbers show us, bilingual and immigrant students are no longer solely the responsibility of States like California, Texas, Florida, and New York. We must be prepared to dramatically increase the funding for this program in order to meet the needs of states like Arkansas and Georgia, which are experiencing a large influx of immigrant and bilingual children.

This bill also recommends that students be moved out of bilingual classrooms into English-only programs within three years. This provision is overly restrictive and has no basis in academic research. There is no evidence that students can learn a new language within 3 years. Mandating a time limit on bilingual education impedes the ability of school districts to tailor their instruction to children's individual needs.

I am also unhappy with the provision in H.R. 1 which require schools districts to try and receive a parent's permission before putting a child into a bilingual education program. Requiring parents to ''opt-in'' in order to place their children in bilingual education is unfair. It places the burden of educating an English-learning student on the parent, rather than the school. In addition, there could also be a significant delay in a child's access to appropriate educational services as the parent and school deal with the administrative paperwork required to place a child in a bilingual education program.

I think we have a very good education bill before us today. I know that some of my Republican colleagues will offer amendments to add private school vouchers or to block grant important education programs. I urge my colleagues to oppose these efforts and keep the important reforms made in the base bill.

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Chairman, there are some good things in this bill, but it has some very serious flaws, particularly the failure to fund school modernization and the tremendously damaging changes proposed in the permissible uses of funds under the title I program.

The distinctive characteristic of Federal participation in elementary and secondary education has always been that Federal funding is targeted to reach the needs of students who come from low-income families. I firmly believe that we must continue this targeting. Unfortunately, by diluting the targeting of title I funds, H.R. 1 fails our students from low-income families and continues the movement toward abandoning our commitment to them.

The title I program and the law were designed to reach those American children who come from low-income families. The formula for title I is driven by individual poverty; the number of children who qualify for free lunches determines the amount of money that goes to a school district.

Currently, under title I, local education agencies target funds to schools with the highest percentage of children from low-income families. Unless a participating school is operating a ''schoolwide'' program, the school must target Title I services to children who are failing, or most at risk of failing, to meet State academic standards.

When the program was created in 1965, the eligibility threshold for using title I funds to operate ''schoolwide'' programs was 75 percent. Let me repeat that again. Originally, 75 percent of students in a given school had to be poor in order for a school to be able to use title I funds in schoolwide programs.

H.R. 1, as reported, lowers the poverty eligibility threshold for schoolwide programs from 50 percent to 40 percent. This change means that 60 percent of the students in that school do not have to qualify as poor; yet they will reap the benefits of title I funds.

I am for helping all students in our public schools, but not by lowering the poverty threshold to 40 percent, and diluting the program's focus on poor children. Simply put, we are taking from the poor to give to those who are more fortunate. This is not the way to bridge the so-called achievement gap.

The proposed change in the poverty eligibility threshhold is just the latest installment in the Congress' abandonment of students from low-income families, the very students who historically have been the focus, and the intended beneficiaries of the title I program. If H.R. 1 passes in this form, we will have gone from targeting the Federal Government's primary program in education to help the poor from schools with poverty levels of 75 percent to schools with poverty levels of 40 percent. This seems to me very radical and very unwise.

Education is the number one issue for all Americans, in large part because a good education is critical to achieving the American dream. We should focus our Federal investment on those that need it the most. The proposed change to title I is misguided and wrong. We should take a fresh look at this critical issue.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of H.R. 1 I am pleased that we are working on this education legislation so early in the 107th Congress and that this legislation will provide more funding for all of our Nation's schools.

The basics of this bill include developing and implementing high academic standards, helping students achieve these standards with local, State, and Federal funding and requiring some level of accountability for student achievement.

With a strong focus on improving reading skills and literacy, this legislation will help strengthen the foundation that all children need in order to succeed in school. Coupled with increased funding for title I programs which focus on helping disadvantaged students achieve high standards, this reading initiative will make a significant impact in children's lives.

As cochair of the Congressional Child Care Caucus, I am particularly pleased with the Reading First Initiative with its funds targeting children ages three through five. These competitive grants will aid in the development of verbal skills, phonetic awareness, prereading development and assistance training for the professional development of teachers in child care centers or Head Start centers. If we are to expect our children to achieve great academic success in elementary and secondary school, it is vitally important that their teachers are ready and able to meet the challenges of everyday instruction in the classroom.

Moreover, our Nation's teachers are called upon to act as surrogate parents, counselors, confidants, and security officers, in addition to their basic responsibilities of educating students on a daily basis. With many teachers choosing to leave the profession, we need to help retain them and by providing the necessary funding for training and professional development, as well as a teacher mentoring program, hopefully we can retain the best and brightest in their profession and prevent a massive shortage which is anticipated in New York State.

Accordingly, I urge my colleagues to support this bill, as well as the Dunn amendment for school security program funding, the Meek amendment for student mentoring programs and the Mink amendment for new teacher mentoring. This legislation is a right first step towards strengthening and improving our Nation's public education system.

Mrs. CHRISTENSEN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of H.R. 1—the Leave No Child Behind Act of 2001, in large measure because the members of the Education and Workforce Committee were able to come together on a bipartisan basis to forge an agreement on a major education reform bill which would hold public schools accountable for improving the education of our children while offering substantial increases in Federal funds to help accomplish that goal.

I applaud my colleagues the ranking Democrat on the Education and Workforce Committee, Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California, for his work with Chairman BOEHNER and officials of the White House to reach a consensus on a bipartisan school improvement bill.

As passed by the committee H.R. 1 authorizes $24 billion in funding on ESEA programs, representing a 29-percent increase over the current fiscal year and well above the funding levels provided for in President Bush's own budget.

While these badly needed increase makes this is a good bill there still remain a number of political obstacles—such as the misguided budget reconciliation bill which this body passed last week—which must be overcome before we can have a sound bill. It is important to point out, that in their budget, the Republican leadership cut funding for education below even the President's request in order to pay for tax breaks for the wealthy.

I would like to urge my colleagues on both sides of the isle not to forget to need for funding for school construction and modernization. Across the country, thousands of school buildings no longer function as effective places of learning, or even as decent places of shelter. Too many of our children are being left behind in schools with moldy walls, peeling paint, inadequate heat, poor ventilation, broken plumbing, leaky roofs, substandard electrical service, and rodent and insert infestations. School repairs are a massive and expensive problem that school districts cannot face along. They need Federal help.

For this reason, Mr. Chairman, I would oppose any amendment to restore the President's choice proposal and I am disappointed at the adopted rule to block any amendment on school construction and modernization. My dear colleague Congressman MAJOR OWENS introduced one of those amendments. Congressman's OWEN's amendment proposed $20 billion for school construction, renovation and repair, provide schools located in underserved communities with funding to repair leaking roofs and faulty plumbing; ensure that schools built before WWII do not continue to contribute to childhood illnesses; and modernize more than 150,000 schools nationwide.

I would like to acknowledge and express my gratitude to Congressman UNDERWOOD for offering an amendment to title IV of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 to include general assistance for certain outlying areas. The General Assistance Grant was established by section 4501 of the Elementary Act 1965, as amended, and provided for general assistance to improve education in, my district, the U.S. Virgin Islands. No appropriations have been provided fro this program since FY 1994, thus slowing almost to a halt, the incipient progress we were beginning to make in our education system. Mr. Chairman, while we fully recognize that it takes more than just money to make an educational system work well, this grant would give the Virgin Islands Department of Education, a tremendous and needed boost, in its ongoing efforts to improve the education it provides to our children. I am disappointed that the Rules Committee did not make Mr. UNDERWOOD's amendment in order.amendment

This notwithstanding, the bill before us today is a big improvement over what the committee began considering. It provides substantial new resources, including $4 billion more for elementary and secondary education for next year compared to this year, in exchange for higher standards and tough accountability rules, which all of us want and support.

I applaud the committee's Democrats as well as the Republicans who voted in committee to eliminate private school vouchers from this bill. Mr. Chairman, our public schools are plagued with enough problems already. We don't need to add to those problems by taking funding away from our schools in the form of vouchers.

The bill we are considering today, Mr. Chairman, represents a compromise, which is what being a member of this body is all about. No side, neither Republican nor Democrat gets what they want all the time. That is what the Framers of our country intended when they created the principle of separation of powers. My constituents and the children of the Virgin Islands will benefit from the increased funding represented in this bipartisan bill. I urge my colleagues to support its passage.

Mr. CRENSHAW. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to address this important measure to reform and improve our public education system.

As an original cosponsor of H.R. 1, I, like many of my colleagues, was disappointed at some of the changes that the bill underwent during committee consideration. For instance, I believe that the school choice provisions that the President outlined in his education reform package represented a reasonable compromise. He provided a graduated series of steps that bolstered a failing school's efforts to improve without jeopardizing the students who attend that school awaiting improvement. His three-year program recognized that every year a child is in school is a precious opportunity to instill knowledge in her mind and a love of learning in her soul.

I intend to support amendments that will be offered on the floor to restore these school choice provisions to the bill, and I am hopeful that these efforts will succeed. But, in the event that a majority of my colleagues do not share my belief in empowering parents through school choice, I am likely to still support this legislation.

Mr. Chairman, we cannot allow the perfect to be the enemy of the good. There are many innovative and important proposals included in H.R. 1. It consolidates federal programs, cutting their number by half. It gives local school districts flexibility to transfer up to 50% of federal funding between programs—that is 10 times more flexibility than they are now afforded. It helps all parents—rich and poor alike—to get their children the after-school, tutoring, or remedial assistance they need if they are in low-performing schools.

While it may not include everything I would like, it represents a positive step forward. I commend Chairman BOEHNER and the Republicans and Democrats of the House Education and Workforce Committee for their hard work in crafting a compromise that keeps the dialogue open and keeps education reform moving forward.

Mr. REYES. Mr. Chairman, today the House is taking up extremely important legislation, H.R. 1, a bill to reauthorize the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA). Although the bipartisan support for this bill is encouraging, just two weeks ago the republicans passed a budget resolution that committed no new resources for education. In fact, the budget resolution provided less than the amount the President requested by $900 million for fiscal year 2002 and by $21.4 billion over ten years. Instead of providing new resources for education, the conference report set funding levels equal to the amount needed, according the Congressional Budget Office (CBO), just to keep up with inflation. by contrast, H.R. 1 as reported authorizes approximately $5.5 billion more for elementary and secondary education programs for fiscal year 2002 than the $18.5 billion appropriated in fiscal year 2001.

This difference between the funding levels authorized in H.R. 1 and the funds committed to education in the budget conference report confirms my concern about the Republican budget. Although Republicans claim to support investments in priorities such as education, their budget did not commit the necessary resources. Furthermore, last week we voted on an unfair rule for H.R. 1 which prevented Democrats from offering key education priorities as amendments. There is nothing in the bill addressing class-size reduction, school modernization or the need to provide adequate funding authorizations for bilingual and migrant education.

The absence of a specific class size reduction program in the bill is unfortunate. H.R. 1 combines professional development and class size. In my opinion, schools should not be forced to chose between reducing class size and providing high quality professional development. Research clearly shows that reducing class size, particularly in the early grades, improves student achievement.

This bill also falls short of providing enough resources for migrant students. In just the past two years, the average number of dollars spent per migrant student has declined by 11 percent. This bill's proposed increase in migrant education funding does not go nearly far enough to reverse that decline.

The bill further fails migrant students by omitting strong provisions to create a migrant student records transfer system. Such a system would eliminate two serious problems faced by migrant students: the health risks caused by multiple unnecessary vaccinations and the denial of high school graduation because of missing records of earned credits. H.R. 1 instead contains weak language that has already been in place for years and produced no results. We should not forgo the opportunity to ensure that migrant children are not left behind.

In addition, this country faces a dramatic challenge in bringing schools up to minimally acceptable conditions as well as meeting school construction and modernization needs for the 21st century. In my district there are schools that finally have access to computers and technology, but don't have enough electrical outlets to run the technology. I am sure that this is the case in school districts across the country where the average school building is 42 years old. States and localities cannot reasonably be expected to carry the incredible financial burden of building and repairing our schools. Well-maintained schools are critically important for the health and safety of our students. Federal help is not only appropriate, it is essential.

Mr. Chairman, the nation's priorities in education will not be met within the confines of the budget resolution that was passed on May 9th. We need to address issues such as class size reduction, school modernization, bilingual education and migrant student needs before we give massive tax cuts to the wealthiest Americans.

I also want to share my grave concern about the ''parental notification and consent'' requirements contained in H.R.1. If enacted, these requirements will serve as a barrier to implementing bilingual education programs. According to this bill, schools will be required to ''make reasonable and substantial efforts'' to gain informed parental consent prior to placing children in an instructional program that is not taught primarily in English. This provision places an undue bureaucratic burden on local schools that will deter them from offering bilingual education classes.

These parental notification and consent measures have also been inserted into Title I—the section of the bill dedicated to assistance for low-income students. Schools that want to use some of their Title I funds for specialized services aimed at assisting limited English proficient children will be burdened with these requirements. No other group of students with special needs is singled out in this way. These provisions are a step back to the days when limited English proficient students were barred from Title I-funded education. These parental notification provisions are therefore inherently unfair and should be removed when this bill reaches the conference committee.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. All time for general debate has expired.

TITLE I—IMPROVING THE ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE OF THE DISADVANTAGED

PART A—BASIC PROGRAM

SEC. 101. DISADVANTAGED CHILDREN MEET HIGH ACADEMIC STANDARDS.

Section 1001 is amended to read as follows:

''SEC. 1001. FINDINGS; STATEMENT OF PURPOSE; AND RECOGNITION OF NEED.

''(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

''(1) The Constitution of the United States reserves to the States and to the people the responsibility for the general supervision of public education in kindergarten through the twelfth grade.

''(2) States, local educational agencies and schools should be given maximum flexibility in exchange for greater academic accountability, and be given greater freedom to build upon existing innovative approaches for education reform.

''(3) The best education decisions are made by those who know the students and who are responsible for implementing the decisions.

''(4) Educators and parents should retain the right and responsibility to educate their pupils and children free of excessive regulation by the Federal Government.

''(5) The Supreme Court has regarded the right of parents to direct the upbringing of their children as a fundamental right implicit in the concept of ordered liberty within the 14th Amendment to the Constitution, as specified in Meyer v. Nebraska, 262 U.S. 390 (1923), and Pierce v. Society of Sisters, 268 U.S. 510 (1925).

''(6) Schools that enroll high concentrations of children living in poverty face the greatest challenges, but effective educational strategies based on scientifically based research can succeed in educating children to high academic standards.

''(7) High-poverty schools are much more likely to be identified as failing to meet State academic standards for satisfactory progress. As a result, these schools are generally the most in need of additional resources and technical assistance to build the capacity of these schools to address the many needs of their students.

''(8) The educational progress of children participating in programs under this title is closely associated with their being taught by a highly qualified staff, particularly in schools with the highest concentrations of poverty, where paraprofessionals, uncertified teachers, and teachers teaching out of field frequently provide instructional services.

''(9) Congress and the public would benefit from additional data evaluating the efficacy of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

''(10) Schools operating programs assisted under this part must be held accountable for the educational achievement of their students, when those students fail to demonstrate progress in achieving high academic standards, local educational agencies and States must take significant actions to improve the educational opportunities available to them.

''(b) PURPOSE AND INTENT.—The purpose and intent of this title are to ensure that all children have a fair and equal opportunity to obtain a high-quality education.

''(c) RECOGNITION OF NEED.—The Congress recognizes the following:

''(1) Educational needs are particularly great for low-achieving children in our Nation's highest-poverty schools, children with limited English proficiency, children of migrant workers, children with disabilities, Indian children, children who are neglected or delinquent, and young children who are in need of reading assistance and family literacy assistance.

''(2) Despite more than 3 decades of Federal assistance, a sizable achievement gap remains between minority and nonminority students, and between disadvantaged students and their more advantaged peers.

''(3) Too many students attend local schools that fail to provide them with a quality education, and are given no alternatives to enable them to receive a quality education.

''(4) States, local educational agencies, and schools need to be held accountable for improving the academic achievement of all students, and for identifying and turning around low-performing schools.

''(5) States and local educational agencies need to ensure that high quality academic assessments, accountability systems, teacher preparation and training, curriculum, and instructional materials are aligned with challenging State academic standards so that students, teachers, parents, and administrators can measure progress against common expectations for student academic achievement.

''(6) Federal education assistance is intended not only to increase pupil achievement overall, but also more specifically and importantly, to help ensure that all students, especially the disadvantaged, meet challenging academic achievement standards. It can only be determined if schools, local educational agencies, and States are reaching this goal if student achievement results are reported specifically by disadvantaged and minority status.''.

''PART A—IMPROVING BASIC PROGRAMS OPERATED BY LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES

''Subpart 1—Basic Program Requirements

''SEC. 1111. STATE PLANS.

''(a) PLANS REQUIRED.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Any State desiring to receive a grant under this part shall submit to the Secretary, by March 1, 2002, a plan, developed in consultation with local educational agencies, teachers, principals, pupil services personnel, administrators (including administrators of programs described in other parts of this title), other staff, and parents, that satisfies the requirements of this section and that is coordinated with other programs under this Act, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1400 et seq.), the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Technical Education Act of 1998 (20 U.S.C. 2301 et seq.), the Head Start Act (42 U.S.C. 9831 et seq.), and the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11431 et seq.).

''(2) CONSOLIDATED PLAN.—A State plan submitted under paragraph (1) may be submitted as part of a consolidated plan under section 8302.

''(b) ACADEMIC STANDARDS, ACADEMIC ASSESSMENTS, AND ACCOUNTABILITY.—

''(1) CHALLENGING ACADEMIC STANDARDS.—

''(A) Each State plan shall demonstrate that the State has adopted challenging academic content standards and challenging student academic achievement standards that will be used by the State, its local educational agencies, and its schools to carry out this part, except that a State shall not be required to submit such standards to the Secretary.

''(B) The academic standards required by subparagraph (A) shall be the same academic standards that the State applies to all schools and children in the State.

''(C) The State shall have such academic standards for all public elementary and secondary school children, including children served under this part, in subjects determined by the State, but including at least mathematics, reading or language arts, and science (beginning in the 2005–2006 school year), which shall include the same knowledge, skills, and levels of achievement expected of all children.

''(D) Academic standards under this paragraph shall include—

''(i) challenging academic content standards in academic subjects that—

''(I) specify what children are expected to know and be able to do;

''(II) contain coherent and rigorous content; and

''(III) encourage the teaching of advanced skills; and

''(ii) challenging student academic achievement standards that—

''(I) are aligned with the State's academic content standards;

''(II) describe 2 levels of high performance (proficient and advanced) that determine how well children are mastering the material in the State academic content standards; and

''(III) describe a third level of performance (basic) to provide complete information about the progress of the lower performing children toward achieving to the proficient and advanced levels of performance.

''(E) For the subjects in which students will be served under this part, but for which a State is not required by subparagraphs (A), (B), and (C) to develop, and has not otherwise developed such academic standards, the State plan shall describe a strategy for ensuring that students are taught the same knowledge and skills in such subjects and held to the same expectations as are all children.

''(F) Nothing in this part shall prohibit a State from revising any standard adopted under this part before or after the date of enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001.

''(2) ACCOUNTABILITY.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—Each State plan shall demonstrate that the State has developed and is implementing a statewide State accountability system that has been or will be effective in ensuring that all local educational agencies, public elementary schools, and public secondary schools make adequate yearly progress as defined under subparagraph (B). Each State accountability system shall—

''(i) be based on the academic standards and academic assessments adopted under paragraphs (1) and (4) and take into account the performance of all public school students;

''(ii) be the same as the accountability system the State uses for all public schools or all local educational agencies in the State, except that public schools and local educational agencies not participating under this part are not subject to the requirements of section 1116; and

''(iii) include rewards and sanctions the State will use to hold local educational agencies and public schools accountable for student achievement and for ensuring that they make adequate yearly progress in accordance with the State's definition under subparagraph (B).

''(B) ADEQUATE YEARLY PROGRESS.—Each State plan shall demonstrate, based on academic assessments described under paragraph (4), what constitutes adequate yearly progress of the State, and of public schools and local educational agencies in the State, toward enabling all public school students to meet the State's student academic achievement standards, while working toward the goal of narrowing the achievement gaps in the State, local educational agency, and school.

''(C) DEFINITION.—'Adequate yearly progress' shall be defined by the State in a manner that—

''(i) applies the same high academic standards of academic performance to all public school students in the State;

''(ii) measures the progress of public schools and local educational agencies based primarily on the academic assessments described in paragraph (4);

''(iii) measures the student dropout rate, as defined for the Common Core of Data maintained by the National Center for Education Statistics established under section 403 of the National Education Statistics Act of 1994 (20 U.S.C. 9002);

''(iv) includes separate annual numerical objectives for continuing and significant improvement in each of the following (except that disaggregation of data under subclauses (II) and (III) shall not be required in a case in which the number of students in a category is insufficient to yield statistically reliable information or the results would reveal individually identifiable information about an individual student):

''(I) The achievement of all public school students.

''(II) The achievement of—

''(aa) economically disadvantaged students;

''(bb) students from major racial and ethnic groups;

''(cc) students with disabilities; and

''(dd) students with limited English proficiency;

''(III) solely for the purpose of determining adequate yearly progress of the State, the acquisition of English language proficiency by children with limited English proficiency;

''(v) at the State's discretion, may also include other academic measures such as promotion, completion of college preparatory courses, and high school completion (and for individual local educational agencies and schools, the acquisition of English language proficiency by children with limited English proficiency), except that inclusion of such other measures may not change which schools or local educational agencies would otherwise be subject to improvement or corrective action under section 1116 if the discretionary indicators were not included; and

''(vi) includes a timeline that—

''(I) uses as a baseline year the year following the date of enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001;

''(II) establishes a target year by which all members of each group of students described in subclauses (I) and (II) of clause (iii) shall meet or exceed the State's proficient level of academic performance on the State academic assessment used for the purposes of this section and section 1116, except that the target year shall not be more than 12 years from the baseline year; and

''(III) for each year until and including the target year, establishes annual goals for the academic performance of each group of students described in subclauses (I) and (II) of clause (iii) on the State academic assessment that—

''(aa) indicates a minimum percentage of students who must meet the proficient level on the academic assessment, such that the minimum percentage is the same for each group of students described in subclauses (I) and (II) of clause (iii); or

''(bb) indicates an annual minimum amount by which the percentage of students who meet the proficient level among each group of students described in subclauses (I) and (II) of clause (iii) shall increase, such that the minimum increase for each group is equal to or greater than 100 percent minus the percentage of the group meeting the proficient level in the baseline year divided by the number of years from the baseline year to the target year established under clause (I).

''(D) ANNUAL IMPROVEMENT FOR SCHOOLS.—For a school to make adequate yearly progress under subparagraph (A), not less than 95 percent of each group of students described in subparagraph (C)(iii)(II) who are enrolled in the school are required to take the academic assessments, consistent with section 612(a)(17)(A) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1412(a)(17)(A)) and paragraph (4)(G)(ii), on which adequate yearly progress is based.

''(E) PUBLIC NOTICE AND COMMENT.—Each State shall ensure that in developing its plan, it diligently seeks public comment from a range of institutions and individuals in the State with an interest in improved student achievement and that the State makes and will continue to make a substantial effort to ensure that information under this part is widely known and understood by the public, parents, teachers, and school administrators throughout the State. Such efforts shall include, at a minimum, publication of such information and explanatory text, broadly to the public through such means as the Internet, the media, and public agencies.

''(3) STATE AUTHORITY.—If a State educational agency provides evidence, which is satisfactory to the Secretary, that neither the State educational agency nor any other State government official, agency, or entity has sufficient authority, under State law, to adopt curriculum content and student academic achievement standards, and academic assessments aligned with such academic standards, which will be applicable to all students enrolled in the State's public schools, then the State educational agency may meet the requirements of this subsection by—

''(A) adopting academic standards and academic assessments that meet the requirements of this subsection, on a statewide basis, limiting their applicability to students served under this part; or

''(B) adopting and implementing policies that ensure that each local educational agency in the State which receives grants under this part will adopt curriculum content and student academic achievement standards, and academic assessments aligned with such standards, which meet all of the criteria in this subsection and any regulations regarding such standards and assessments which the Secretary may publish, and which are applicable to all students served by each such local educational agency.

''(4) ACADEMIC ASSESSMENTS.—Each State plan shall demonstrate that the State has implemented a set of high-quality, yearly student academic assessments that include, at a minimum, academic assessments in mathematics, and reading or language arts, that will be used as the primary means of determining the yearly performance of the State and of each local educational agency and school in enabling all children to meet the State's challenging student academic achievement standards. Such assessments shall—

''(A) be the same academic assessments used to measure the performance of all children;

''(B) be aligned with the State's challenging content and student academic achievement standards and provide coherent information about student attainment of such standards;

''(C) be used for purposes for which such assessments are valid and reliable, and be consistent with relevant, recognized professional and technical standards for such assessments;

''(D) for the purposes of this part, be scored to ensure the performance of each student is evaluated solely against the State's challenging academic content standards and not relative to the score of other students;

''(E) except as otherwise provided for grades 3 through 8 under subparagraph (G), measure the proficiency of students in, at a minimum, mathematics and reading or language arts, and be administered not less than once during—

''(i) grades 3 through 5;

''(ii) grades 6 through 9; and

''(iii) grades 10 through 12;

''(F) involve multiple up-to-date measures of student achievement, including measures that assess critical thinking skills and understanding;

''(G) beginning not later than school year 2004-2005, measure the performance of students against the challenging State content and student academic achievement standards in each of grades 3 through 8 in, at a minimum, mathematics, and reading or language arts, except that the Secretary may provide the State 1 additional year if the State demonstrates that exceptional or uncontrollable circumstances, such as a natural disaster or a precipitous and unforeseen decline in the financial resources of the State, prevented full implementation of the academic assessments by that deadline and that it will complete implementation within the additional 1-year period;

''(H) provide for—

''(i) the participation in such assessments of all students;

''(ii) the reasonable adaptations and accommodations for students with disabilities defined under 602(3) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1401(3)) necessary to measure the achievement of such students relative to State content and State student academic achievement standards;

''(iii) the inclusion of limited English proficient students who shall be assessed, to the extent practicable, in the language and form most likely to yield accurate and reliable information on what such students know and can do in content areas;

''(iv) notwithstanding clause (iii), the academic assessment (using tests written in English) of reading or language arts of any student who has attended school in the United States (not including Puerto Rico) for 3 or more consecutive school years, except if the local educational agency determines, on a case-by-case individual basis, that academic assessments in another language and form would likely yield more accurate and reliable information on what such students know and can do, the local educational agency may assess such students in the appropriate language other than English for 1 additional year;

''(I) include students who have attended schools in a local educational agency for a full academic year but have not attended a single school for a full academic year, except that the performance of students who have attended more than 1 school in the local educational agency in any academic year shall be used only in determining the progress of the local educational agency;

''(J) produce individual student reports to be provided to parents, which include academic assessment scores, or other information on the attainment of student academic achievement standards; and

''(K) enable results to be disaggregated within each State, local educational agency, and school by gender, by each major racial and ethnic group, by English proficiency status, by migrant status, by students with disabilities as compared to nondisabled students, and by economically disadvantaged students as compared to students who are not economically disadvantaged.

''(5) SPECIAL RULE.—Academic assessment measures in addition to those in paragraph (4) that do not meet the requirements of such paragraph may be included as additional measures, but may not be used in lieu of the academic assessments required in paragraph (4). Results on any additional measures under this paragraph shall not change which schools or local educational agencies would otherwise be subject to improvement or corrective action under section 1116 if the additional measures were not included.

''(6) LANGUAGE ASSESSMENTS.—Each State plan shall identify the languages other than English that are present in the participating student population and indicate the languages for which yearly student academic assessments are not available and are needed. The State shall make every effort to develop such assessments and may request assistance from the Secretary if linguistically accessible academic assessment measures are needed. Upon request, the Secretary shall assist with the identification of appropriate academic assessment measures in the needed languages, but shall not mandate a specific academic assessment or mode of instruction.

''(7) ACADEMIC ASSESSMENTS OF ENGLISH LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY.—Each State plan shall demonstrate that local educational agencies in the State will, beginning no later than school year 2002–2003, annually assess the English proficiency of all students with limited English proficiency in their schools.

''(8) REQUIREMENT.—Each State plan shall describe—

''(A) how the State educational agency will assist each local educational agency and school affected by the State plan to develop the capacity to comply with each of the requirements of sections 1112(c)(1)(D), 1114(c), and 1115(c) that is applicable to such agency or school;

''(B) how the State educational agency will assist each local educational agency and school affected by the State plan to provide additional educational assistance to individual students assessed as needing help to achieve the State's challenging academic standards.

''(C) such other factors as the State considers appropriate to provide students an opportunity to achieve the knowledge and skills described in the challenging academic content standards adopted by the State.

''(9) USE OF ACADEMIC ASSESSMENT RESULTS TO IMPROVE STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT.—Each State plan shall describe how the State will ensure that the results of the State assessments described in paragraph (4)—

''(A) will be provided promptly, but not later than the end of the school year (consistent with 1116, to local educational agencies, schools, and teachers in a manner that is clear and easy to understand; and

''(B) be used by those local educational agencies, schools, and teachers to improve the educational achievement of individual students.

''(4)(A) where educational service agencies exist, the State educational agency shall consider providing professional development and technical assistance through such agencies; and

''(5) the State educational agency shall notify local educational agencies and the public of the content and student academic achievement standards and academic assessments developed under this section, and of the authority to operate schoolwide programs, and will fulfill the State educational agency's responsibilities regarding local educational agency improvement and school improvement under section 1116, including such corrective actions as are necessary;

''(6) the State educational agency shall provide the least restrictive and burdensome regulations for local educational agencies and individual schools participating in a program assisted under this part;

''(8) the State educational agency will encourage schools to consolidate funds from other Federal, State, and local sources for schoolwide reform in schoolwide programs under section 1114;

''(f) LIMITATION ON CONDITIONS.—Officers and employees of the Federal Government are prohibited from mandating, directing, or controlling a State, local educational agency, or school's specific instructional content or student academic achievement standards and academic assessments, curriculum, or program of instruction, as a condition of eligibility to receive funds under this part.

The proof of documentation shall be mailed or delivered in writing to a parent or parents of the child in a timely manner and shall include information on how to have their child immediately removed from the program upon their request. ''(B) the term 'eligible school attendance area' means a school attendance area in which the percentage of children from low-income families is at least as high as the percentage of children from low-income families in the local educational agency as a whole.

''(3) LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCY DISCRETION.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding paragraph (2), a local educational agency may—

''(i) designate as eligible any school attendance area or school in which at least 35 percent of the children are from low-income families;

''(ii) use funds received under this part in a school that is not in an eligible school attendance area, if the percentage of children from low-income families enrolled in the school is equal to or greater than the percentage of such children in a participating school attendance area of such agency;

''(iii) designate and serve a school attendance area or school that is not eligible under subsection (b), but that was eligible and that was served in the preceding fiscal year, but only for 1 additional fiscal year; and

''(B) SPECIAL RULE.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (A)(iv), the number of children attending private elementary and secondary schools who are to receive services, and the assistance such children are to receive under this part, shall be determined without regard to whether the public school attendance area in which such children reside is assisted under subparagraph (A).

''(b) RANKING ORDER.—If funds allocated in accordance with subsection (f) are insufficient to serve all eligible school attendance areas, a local educational agency—

''(1) shall annually rank from highest to lowest according to the percentage of children from low-income families in each agency's eligible school attendance areas in the following order—

''(A) eligible school attendance areas in which the concentration of children from low-income families exceeds 75 percent; and

''(B) all remaining eligible school attendance areas in which the concentration of children from low-income families is 75 percent or lower either by grade span or for the entire local educational agency;

''(2) shall, within each category listed in paragraph (1), serve schools in rank order from highest to lowest according to the ranking assigned under paragraph (1);

''(3) notwithstanding paragraph (2), may give priority, within each such category and in rank order from highest to lowest subject to paragraph (4), to eligible school attendance areas that serve children in elementary schools; and

''(4) not serve a school described in paragraph (1)(B) before serving a school described in paragraph (1)(A).

''(c) LOW-INCOME MEASURES.—In determining the number of children ages 5 through 17 who are from low-income families, the local educational agency shall apply the measures described in paragraphs (1) and (2) of this subsection:

''(1) ALLOCATION TO PUBLIC SCHOOL ATTENDANCE AREAS.—The local educational agency shall use the same measure of poverty, which measure shall be the number of children ages 5 through 17 in poverty counted in the most recent census data approved by the Secretary, the number of children eligible for free and reduced priced lunches under the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1751 et seq.), the number of children in families receiving assistance under the State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act, or the number of children eligible to receive medical assistance under the Medicaid program, or a composite of such indicators, with respect to all school attendance areas in the local educational agency—

''(A) to identify eligible school attendance areas;

''(B) to determine the ranking of each area; and

''(C) to determine allocations under subsection (f).

''(2) ALLOCATION FOR EQUITABLE SERVICE TO PRIVATE SCHOOL STUDENTS.—

''(A) CALCULATION.—A local educational agency shall have the final authority, consistent with section 1120 to calculate the number of private school children, ages 5 through 17, who are low-income by—

''(i) using the same measure of low-income used to count public school children;

''(ii) using the results of a survey that, to the extent possible, protects the identity of families of private school students and allowing such survey results to be extrapolated if complete actual data are not available; or

''(iii) applying the low-income percentage of each participating public school attendance area, determined pursuant to this section, to the number of private school children who reside in that attendance area.

''(B) COMPLAINT PROCESS.—Any dispute regarding low-income data on private school students shall be subject to the complaint process authorized in section 8505.

''(d) EXCEPTION.—This section (other than subsections (a)(3) and (f)) shall not apply to a local educational agency with a total enrollment of less than 1,500 children.

''(e) WAIVER FOR DESEGREGATION PLANS.—The Secretary may approve a local educational agency's written request for a waiver of the requirements of subsections (a) and (f), and permit such agency to treat as eligible, and serve, any school that children attend under a desegregation plan ordered by a State or court or approved by the Secretary, or such a plan that the agency continues to implement after it has expired, if—

''(1) the number of economically disadvantaged children enrolled in the school is not less than 25 percent of the school's total enrollment; and

''(2) the Secretary determines on the basis of a written request from such agency and in accordance with such criteria as the Secretary establishes, that approval of that request would further the purposes of this part.

''(f) ALLOCATIONS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency shall allocate funds received under this part to eligible school attendance areas or eligible schools, identified under subsection (b) in rank order on the basis of the total number of children from low-income families in each area or school.

''(2) SPECIAL RULE.—(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the per-pupil amount of funds allocated to each school attendance area or school under paragraph (1) shall be at least 125 percent of the per-pupil amount of funds a local educational agency received for that year under the poverty criteria described by the local educational agency in the plan submitted under section 1112, except that this paragraph shall not apply to a local educational agency that only serves schools in which the percentage of such children is 35 percent or greater.

''(B) A local educational agency may reduce the amount of funds allocated under subparagraph (A) for a school attendance area or school by the amount of any supplemental State and local funds expended in that school attendance area or school for programs that meet the requirements of section 1114 or 1115.

''(3) RESERVATION.—A local educational agency shall reserve such funds as are necessary under this part to provide services comparable to those provided to children in schools funded under this part to serve—

''(A) homeless children who do not attend participating schools, including providing educationally related support services to children in shelters and other locations where children may live;

''(B) children in local institutions for neglected children; and

''(C) if appropriate, children in local institutions for delinquent children and neglected or delinquent children in community day school programs.

''(b) USE OF FUNDS FOR SCHOOLWIDE PROGRAMS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency may consolidate funds under this part, together with other Federal, State, and local funds, in order to upgrade the entire educational program of a school that serves an eligible school attendance area in which not less than 40 percent of the children are from low-income families, or not less than 40 percent of the children enrolled in the school are from such families.

''(3) EXEMPTION FROM STATUTORY AND REGULATORY REQUIREMENTS.—

''(A) EXEMPTION.—Except as provided in subsection (c), the Secretary may, through publication of a notice in the Federal Register, exempt schoolwide programs under this section from statutory or regulatory provisions of any other noncompetitive formula grant program administered by the Secretary (other than formula or discretionary grant programs under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, except as provided in section 613(a)(2)(D) of such Act), or any discretionary grant program administered by the Secretary, to support schoolwide programs if the intent and purposes of such other programs are met.

''(B) REQUIREMENTS.—A school that chooses to use funds from such other programs shall not be relieved of the requirements relating to health, safety, civil rights, student and parental participation and involvement, services to private school children, maintenance of effort, uses of Federal funds to supplement, not supplant non-Federal funds, or the distribution of funds to State or local educational agencies that apply to the receipt of funds from such programs.

''(C) RECORDS.—A school that consolidates funds from different Federal programs under this section shall not be required to maintain separate fiscal accounting records, by program, that identify the specific activities supported by those particular funds as long as it maintains records that demonstrate that the schoolwide program, considered as a whole addresses the intent and purposes of each of the Federal programs that were consolidated to support the schoolwide program.

''(4) PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT.—Each school receiving funds under this part for any fiscal year shall devote sufficient resources to effectively carry out the activities described in subsection (c)(1)(D) in accordance with section 1119A for such fiscal year, except that a school may enter into a consortium with another school to carry out such activities.

''(3) an amount equal to 100 percent of the amount, if any, by which the amount appropriated under section 1002(a) for the current fiscal year exceeds the amount appropriated under such section for fiscal year 2001 shall be allocated in accordance with section 1125.

''(b) ADJUSTMENTS WHERE NECESSITATED BY APPROPRIATIONS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—If the sums available under this part for any fiscal year are insufficient to pay the full amounts that all local educational agencies in States are eligible to receive under sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125 for such year, the Secretary shall ratably reduce the allocations to such local educational agencies, subject to subsections (c) and (d) of this section.

''(2) ADDITIONAL FUNDS.—If additional funds become available for making payments under sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125 for such fiscal year, allocations that were reduced under paragraph (1) shall be increased on the same basis as they were reduced.

''(c) HOLD-HARMLESS AMOUNTS.—

''(1) AMOUNTS FOR SECTIONS 1124 AND 1125.—For each fiscal year, the amount made available to each local educational agency under each of sections 1124 and 1125 shall be—

''(A) not less than 95 percent of the amount made available in the preceding fiscal year if the number of children counted for grants under section 1124 is not less than 30 percent of the total number of children aged 5 to 17 years, inclusive, in the local educational agency;

''(B) not less than 90 percent of the amount made available in the preceding fiscal year if the percentage described in subparagraph (A) is between 15 percent and 30 percent; and

''(C) not less than 85 percent of the amount made available in the preceding fiscal year if the percentage described in subparagraph (A) is below 15 percent.

''(2) AMOUNT FOR SECTION 1124A.—The amount made available to each local educational agency under section 1124A shall be not less than 85 percent of the amount made available in the preceding fiscal year.

''(3) PAYMENTS.—If sufficient funds are appropriated, the amounts described in paragraph (2) shall be paid to all local educational agencies that received grants under section 1124A for the preceding fiscal year, regardless of whether the local educational agency meets the minimum eligibility criteria for that fiscal year provided in section 1124A(a)(1)(A) except that a local educational agency that does not meet such minimum eligibility criteria for 4 consecutive years shall no longer be eligible to receive a hold harmless amount referred to in paragraph (2).

''(4) POPULATION DATA.—In any fiscal year for which the Secretary calculates grants on the basis of population data for counties, the Secretary shall apply the hold harmless percentages in paragraphs (1) and (2) to counties, and if the Secretary's allocation for a county is not sufficient to meet the hold-harmless requirements of this subsection for every local educational agency within that county, the State educational agency shall reallocate funds proportionately from all other local educational agencies in the State that are receiving funds in excess of the hold harmless amounts specified in this subsection.

''(d) RATABLE REDUCTIONS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—If the sums made available under this part for any fiscal year are insufficient to pay the full amounts that all States are eligible to receive under subsection (c) for such year, the Secretary shall ratably reduce such amounts for such year.

''(2) ADDITIONAL FUNDS.—If additional funds become available for making payments under subsection (c) for such fiscal year, amounts that were reduced under paragraph (1) shall be increased on the same basis as such amounts were reduced.

''(e) DEFINITION.—For the purpose of this section and sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125, the term 'State' means each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

''SEC. 1124. BASIC GRANTS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.

''(a) AMOUNT OF GRANTS.—

''(1) GRANTS FOR LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES AND PUERTO RICO.—Except as provided in paragraph (4) and in section 1126, the grant that a local educational agency is eligible to receive under this section for a fiscal year is the amount determined by multiplying—

''(A) the number of children counted under subsection (c); and

''(B) 40 percent of the average per-pupil expenditure in the State, except that the amount determined under this subparagraph shall not be less than 32 percent or more than 48 percent, of the average per-pupil expenditure in the United States.

''(2) CALCULATION OF GRANTS.—

''(A) ALLOCATIONS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—The Secretary shall calculate grants under this section on the basis of the number of children counted under subsection (c) for local educational agencies, unless the Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce determine that some or all of those data are unreliable or that their use would be otherwise inappropriate, in which case—

''(i) the 2 Secretaries shall publicly disclose the reasons for their determination in detail; and

''(ii) paragraph (3) shall apply.

''(B) ALLOCATIONS TO LARGE AND SMALL LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—(i) For any fiscal year in which this paragraph applies, the Secretary shall calculate grants under this section for each local educational agency.

''(ii) The amount of a grant under this section for each large local educational agency shall be the amount determined under clause (i).

''(iii) For small local educational agencies, the State educational agency may either—

''(I) distribute grants under this section in amounts determined by the Secretary under clause (i); or

''(II) use an alternative method approved by the Secretary to distribute the portion of the State's total grants under this section that is based on those small agencies.

''(iv) An alternative method under clause (iii)(II) shall be based on population data that the State educational agency determines best reflect the current distribution of children in poor families among the State's small local educational agencies that meet the eligibility criteria of subsection (b).

''(v) If a small local educational agency is dissatisfied with the determination of its grant by the State educational agency under clause (iii)(II), it may appeal that determination to the Secretary, who shall respond not later than 45 days after receipt of such appeal.

''(vi) As used in this subparagraph—

''(I) the term 'large local educational agency' means a local educational agency serving an area with a total population of 20,000 or more; and

''(II) the term 'small local educational agency' means a local educational agency serving an area with a total population of less than 20,000.

''(3) ALLOCATIONS TO COUNTIES.—

''(A) CALCULATION.—For any fiscal year to which this paragraph applies, the Secretary shall calculate grants under this section on the basis of the number of children counted under section 1124(c) for counties, and State educational agencies shall suballocate county amounts to local educational agencies, in accordance with regulations issued by the Secretary.

''(B) DIRECT ALLOCATIONS.—In any State in which a large number of local educational agencies overlap county boundaries, or for which the State believes it has data that would better target funds than allocating them by county, the State educational agency may apply to the Secretary for authority to make the allocations under this part for a particular fiscal year directly to local educational agencies without regard to counties.

''(C) ASSURANCES.—If the Secretary approves the State educational agency's application under subparagraph (B), the State educational agency shall provide the Secretary an assurance that such allocations shall be made—

''(i) using precisely the same factors for determining a grant as are used under this part; or

''(ii) using data that the State educational agency submits to the Secretary for approval that more accurately target poverty.

''(D) APPEAL.—The State educational agency shall provide the Secretary an assurance that it shall establish a procedure through which a local educational agency that is dissatisfied with its determinations under subparagraph (B) may appeal directly to the Secretary for a final determination.

''(4) PUERTO RICO.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year, the grant which the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be eligible to receive under this section shall be the amount determined by multiplying the number of children counted under subsection (c) for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico by the product of—

''(i) the percentage which the average per-pupil expenditure in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is of the lowest average per-pupil expenditure of any of the 50 States; and

''(ii) 32 percent of the average per-pupil expenditure in the United States.

''(B) MINIMUM PERCENTAGE.—The percentage in subparagraph (A)(i) shall not be less than—

''(i) for fiscal year 2002, 77.5 percent;

''(ii) for fiscal year 2003, 80.0 percent;

''(iii) for fiscal year 2004, 82.5 percent; and

''(iv) for fiscal year 2005 and succeeding fiscal years, 85.0 percent.

''(C) LIMITATION.—If the application of subparagraph (B) would result in any of the 50 States or the District of Columbia receiving less under this part than it received under this part for the preceding fiscal year, the percentage in subparagraph (A) shall be the greater of the percentage in subparagraph (A)(i) or the percentage used for the preceding fiscal year.

''(5) DEFINITION.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'State' does not include Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, and the Northern Mariana Islands.

''(b) MINIMUM NUMBER OF CHILDREN TO QUALIFY.—A local educational agency is eligible for a basic grant under this section for any fiscal year only if the number of children counted under subsection (c) for that agency is both—

''(1) 10 or more; and

''(2) more than 2 percent of the total school-age population in the agency's jurisdiction.

''(c) CHILDREN TO BE COUNTED.—

''(1) CATEGORIES OF CHILDREN.—The number of children to be counted for purposes of this section is the aggregate of—

''(A) the number of children aged 5 to 17, inclusive, in the school district of the local educational agency from families below the poverty level as determined under paragraph (2);

''(B) the number of children (determined under paragraph (4) for either the preceding year as described in that paragraph, or for the second preceding year, as the Secretary finds appropriate) aged 5 to 17, inclusive, in the school district of such agency in institutions for neglected and delinquent children (other than such institutions operated by the United States), but not counted pursuant to subpart 1 of part D for the purposes of a grant to a State agency, or being supported in foster homes with public funds; and

''(C) the number of children aged 5 to 17, inclusive, in the school district of such agency from families above the poverty level as determined under paragraph (4).

''(2) DETERMINATION OF NUMBER OF CHILDREN.—For the purposes of this section, the Secretary shall determine the number of children aged 5 to 17, inclusive, from families below the poverty level on the basis of the most recent satisfactory data, described in paragraph (3), available from the Department of Commerce. The District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be treated as individual local educational agencies. If a local educational agency contains 2 or more counties in their entirety, then each county will be treated as if such county were a separate local educational agency for purposes of calculating grants under this part. The total of grants for such counties shall be allocated to such a local educational agency, which local educational agency shall distribute to schools in each county within such agency a share of the local educational agency's total grant that is no less than the county's share of the population counts used to calculate the local educational agency's grant.

''(3) POPULATION UPDATES.—In fiscal year 2001 and every 2 years thereafter, the Secretary shall use updated data on the number of children, aged 5 to 17, inclusive, from families below the poverty level for local educational agencies or counties, published by the Department of Commerce, unless the Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce determine that use of the updated population data would be inappropriate or unreliable. If the Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce determine that some or all of the data referred to in this paragraph are inappropriate or unreliable, they shall publicly disclose their reasons. In determining the families which are below the poverty level, the Secretary shall utilize the criteria of poverty used by the Bureau of the Census in compiling the most recent decennial census, in such form as those criteria have been updated by increases in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

''(4) OTHER CHILDREN TO BE COUNTED.—For the purposes of this section, the Secretary shall determine the number of children aged 5 to 17, inclusive, from families above the poverty level on the basis of the number of such children from families receiving an annual income, in excess of the current criteria of poverty, from payments under a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act; and in making such determinations the Secretary shall utilize the criteria of poverty used by the Bureau of the Census in compiling the most recent decennial census for a family of 4 in such form as those criteria have been updated by increases in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The Secretary shall determine the number of such children and the number of children aged 5 through 17 living in institutions for neglected or delinquent children, or being supported in foster homes with public funds, on the basis of the caseload data for the month of October of the preceding fiscal year (using, in the case of children described in the preceding sentence, the criteria of poverty and the form of such criteria required by such sentence which were determined for the calendar year preceding such month of October) or, to the extent that such data are not available to the Secretary before January of the calendar year in which the Secretary's determination is made, then on the basis of the most recent reliable data available to the Secretary at the time of such determination. The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall collect and transmit the information required by this subparagraph to the Secretary not later than January 1 of each year. For the purpose of this section, the Secretary shall consider all children who are in correctional institutions to be living in institutions for delinquent children.

''(5) ESTIMATE.—When requested by the Secretary, the Secretary of Commerce shall make a special updated estimate of the number of children of such ages who are from families below the poverty level (as determined under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph) in each school district, and the Secretary is authorized to pay (either in advance or by way of reimbursement) the Secretary of Commerce the cost of making this special estimate. The Secretary of Commerce shall give consideration to any request of the chief executive of a State for the collection of additional census information.

''(d) STATE MINIMUM.—Notwithstanding section 1122, the aggregate amount allotted for all local educational agencies within a State may not be less than the lesser of—

''(1) 0.25 percent of total grants under this section; or

''(2) the average of—

''(A) one-quarter of 1 percent of the total amount available for such fiscal year under this section; and

''(B) the number of children in such State counted under subsection (c) in the fiscal year multiplied by 150 percent of the national average per-pupil payment made with funds available under this section for that year.

''SEC. 1124A. CONCENTRATION GRANTS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.

''(a) ELIGIBILITY FOR AND AMOUNT OF GRANTS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—(A) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, each local educational agency, in a State other than Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, which is eligible for a grant under section 1124 for any fiscal year is eligible for an additional grant under this section for that fiscal year if the number of children counted under section 1124(c) in the agency exceeds either—

''(i) 6,500; or

''(ii) 15 percent of the total number of children aged 5 through 17 in the agency.

''(B) Notwithstanding section 1122, no State described in subparagraph (A) shall receive less than the lesser of—

''(i) 0.25 percent of total grants; or

''(ii) the average of—

''(I) one-quarter of 1 percent of the sums available to carry out this section for such fiscal year; and

''(II) the greater of—

''(aa) $340,000; or

''(bb) the number of children in such State counted for purposes of this section in that fiscal year multiplied by 150 percent of the national average per-pupil payment made with funds available under this section for that year.

''(2) SPECIAL RULE.—For each county or local educational agency eligible to receive an additional grant under this section for any fiscal year the Secretary shall determine the product of—

''(A) the number of children counted under section 1124(c) for that fiscal year; and

''(B) the quotient resulting from the division of the amount determined for those agencies under section 1124(a)(1) for the fiscal year for which the determination is being made divided by the total number of children counted under section 1124(c) for that agency for that fiscal year.

''(3) AMOUNT.—The amount of the additional grant for which an eligible local educational agency or county is eligible under this section for any fiscal year shall be an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount available to carry out this section for that fiscal year as the product determined under paragraph (2) for such local educational agency for that fiscal year bears to the sum of such products for all local educational agencies in the United States for that fiscal year.

''(4) LOCAL ALLOCATIONS.—(A) Grant amounts under this section shall be determined in accordance with section 1124(a)(2) and (3).

''(B) For any fiscal year for which the Secretary allocates funds under this section on the basis of counties, a State may reserve not more than 2 percent of its allocation under this section to make grants to local educational agencies that meet the criteria of paragraph (1)(A)(i) or (ii) and are in ineligible counties that do not meet these criteria.

''(b) STATES RECEIVING MINIMUM GRANTS.—In States that receive the minimum grant under subsection (a)(1)(B), the State educational agency shall allocate such funds among the local educational agencies in each State either—

''(1) in accordance with paragraphs (2) and (4) of subsection (a); or

''(2) based on their respective concentrations and numbers of children counted under section 1124(c), except that only those local educational agencies with concentrations or numbers of children counted under section 1124(c) that exceed the statewide average percentage of such children or the statewide average number of such children shall receive any funds on the basis of this paragraph.

''SEC. 1125. TARGETED GRANTS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.

''(a) ELIGIBILITY OF LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—A local educational agency in a State is eligible to receive a targeted grant under this section for any fiscal year if the number of children in the local educational agency counted under subsection 1124(c), before application of the weighting factor described in subsection (c), is at least 10, and if the number of children counted for grants under section 1124 is at least 5 percent of the total population aged 5 to 17 years, inclusive, in the local educational agency. For each fiscal year for which the Secretary uses county population data to calculate grants, funds made available as a result of applying this subsection shall be reallocated by the State educational agency to other eligible local educational agencies in the State in proportion to the distribution of other funds under this section.

''(b) GRANTS FOR LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES, THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, AND PUERTO RICO.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The amount of the grant that a local educational agency in a State or that the District of Columbia is eligible to receive under this section for any fiscal year shall be the product of—

''(A) the weighted child count determined under subsection (c); and

''(B) the amount in paragraph 1124(a)(1)(B).

''(2) PUERTO RICO.—For each fiscal year, the amount of the grant for which the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is eligible under this section shall be equal to the number of children counted under subsection (c) for Puerto Rico, multiplied by the amount determined in subparagraph 1124(a)(4).

''(c) WEIGHTED CHILD COUNT.—

''(1) WEIGHTS FOR ALLOCATIONS TO COUNTIES.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year for which the Secretary uses county population data to calculate grants, the weighted child count used to determine a county's allocation under this section is the larger of the 2 amounts determined under clause (i) or (ii), as follows:

''(i) BY PERCENTAGE OF CHILDREN.—This amount is determined by adding—

''(I) the number of children determined under section 1124(c) for that county constituting up to 15 percent, inclusive, of the county's total population aged 5 to 17, inclusive, multiplied by 1.0;

''(II) the number of such children constituting more than 15 percent, but not more than 19 percent, of such population, multiplied by 1.75;

''(III) the number of such children constituting more than 19 percent, but not more than 24.20 percent, of such population, multiplied by 2.5;

''(IV) the number of such children constituting more than 24.20 percent, but not more than 29.20 percent, of such population, multiplied by 3.25; and

''(V) the number of such children constituting more than 29.20 percent of such population, multiplied by 4.0.

''(ii) BY NUMBER OF CHILDREN.—This amount is determined by adding—

''(I) the number of children determined under section 1124(c) constituting up to 2,311, inclusive, of the county's total population aged 5 to 17, inclusive, multiplied by 1.0;

''(II) the number of such children between 2,312 and 7,913, inclusive, in such population, multiplied by 1.5;

''(III) the number of such children between 7,914 and 23,917, inclusive, in such population, multiplied by 2.0;

''(IV) the number of such children between 23,918 and 93,810, inclusive, in such population, multiplied by 2.5; and

''(V) the number of such children in excess of 93,811 in such population, multiplied by 3.0.

''(B) PUERTO RICO.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), the weighted child count for Puerto Rico under this paragraph shall not be greater than the total number of children counted under subsection 1124(c) multiplied by 1.72.

''(2) WEIGHTS FOR ALLOCATIONS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year for which the Secretary uses local educational agency data, the weighted child count used to determine a local educational agency's grant under this section is the larger of the 2 amounts determined under clauses (i) and (ii), as follows:

''(i) BY PERCENTAGE OF CHILDREN.—This amount is determined by adding—

''(I) the number of children determined under section 1124(c) for that local educational agency constituting up to 15.233 percent, inclusive, of the agency's total population aged 5 to 17, inclusive, multiplied by 1.0;

''(II) the number of such children constituting more than 15.233 percent, but not more than 22.706 percent, of such population, multiplied by 1.75;

''(III) the number of such children constituting more than 22.706 percent, but not more than 32.213 percent, of such population, multiplied by 2.5;

''(IV) the number of such children constituting more than 32.213 percent, but not more than 41.452 percent, of such population, multiplied by 3.25; and

''(V) the number of such children constituting more than 41.452 percent of such population, multiplied by 4.0.

''(ii) BY NUMBER OF CHILDREN.—This amount is determined by adding—

''(I) the number of children determined under section 1124(c) constituting up to 710, inclusive, of the agency's total population aged 5 to 17, inclusive, multiplied by 1.0;

''(II) the number of such children between 711 and 2,384, inclusive, in such population, multiplied by 1.5;

''(III) the number of such children between 2,385 and 9,645, inclusive, in such population, multiplied by 2.0;

''(IV) the number of such children between 9,646 and 54,600, inclusive, in such population, multiplied by 2.5; and

''(V) the number of such children in excess of 54,601 in such population, multiplied by 3.0.

''(B) PUERTO RICO.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), the weighted child count for Puerto Rico under this paragraph shall not be greater than the total number of children counted under section 1124(c) multiplied by 1.72.

''(d) CALCULATION OF GRANT AMOUNTS.—Grants under this section shall be calculated in accordance with section 1124(a)(2) and (3).

''(e) STATE MINIMUM.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section or section 1122, from the total amount available for any fiscal year to carry out this section, each State shall be allotted at least the lesser of—

''(1) 0.25 percent of total appropriations; or

''(2) the average of—

''(A) one-quarter of 1 percent of the total amount available to carry out this section; and

''(B) 150 percent of the national average grant under this section per child described in section 1124(c), without application of a weighting factor, multiplied by the State's total number of children described in section 1124(c), without application of a weighting factor.

''SEC. 1126. SPECIAL ALLOCATION PROCEDURES.

''(a) ALLOCATIONS FOR NEGLECTED CHILDREN.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—If a State educational agency determines that a local educational agency in the State is unable or unwilling to provide for the special educational needs of children who are living in institutions for neglected children as described in subparagraph (B) of section 1124(c)(1), the State educational agency shall, if such agency assumes responsibility for the special educational needs of such children, receive the portion of such local educational agency's allocation under sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125 that is attributable to such children.

''(2) SPECIAL RULE.—If the State educational agency does not assume such responsibility, any other State or local public agency that does assume such responsibility shall receive that portion of the local educational agency's allocation.

''(b) ALLOCATIONS AMONG LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—The State educational agency may allocate the amounts of grants under sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125 among the affected local educational agencies—

''(1) if 2 or more local educational agencies serve, in whole or in part, the same geographical area;

''(2) if a local educational agency provides free public education for children who reside in the school district of another local educational agency; or

''(3) to reflect the merger, creation, or change of boundaries of 1 or more local educational agencies.

''(c) REALLOCATION.—If a State educational agency determines that the amount of a grant a local educational agency would receive under sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125 is more than such local agency will use, the State educational agency shall make the excess amount available to other local educational agencies in the State that need additional funds in accordance with criteria established by the State educational agency.

''SEC. 1127. CARRYOVER AND WAIVER.

''(a) LIMITATION ON CARRYOVER.—Notwithstanding section 421 of the General Education

Provisions Act or any other provision of law, not more than 15 percent of the funds allocated to a local educational agency for any fiscal year under this subpart (but not including funds received through any reallocation under this subpart) may remain available for obligation by such agency for 1 additional fiscal year.

''(b) WAIVER.—A State educational agency may, once every 3 years, waive the percentage limitation in subsection (a) if—

''(1) the agency determines that the request of a local educational agency is reasonable and necessary; or

''(2) supplemental appropriations for this subpart become available.

''(c) EXCLUSION.—The percentage limitation under subsection (a) shall not apply to any local educational agency that receives less than $50,000 under this subpart for any fiscal year.

''SEC. 1128. SECULAR, NEUTRAL, AND NONIDEOLOGICAL.

''Any school that receives funds under this part shall ensure that educational services or other benefits provided under this part, including materials and equipment, shall be secular, neutral, and nonideological.''.

PART B—STUDENT READING SKILLS IMPROVEMENT GRANTS

SEC. 111. READING FIRST; EARLY READING FIRST.

Part B of title I (20 U.S.C. 6361 et seq.) is amended—

(1) by striking the part heading and inserting the following:

''PART B—STUDENT READING SKILLS IMPROVEMENT GRANTS'';

(2) by redesignating sections 1201 through 1212 as sections 1231 through 1242, respectively; and

(3) by inserting after the part heading the following:

''Subpart 1—Reading First

''SEC. 1201. FINDINGS.

''The Congress finds as follows:

''(1) The 2000 National Assessment of Educational Progress found that 68 percent of fourth grade students in the United States are reading below the proficient level.

''(2) According to the 2000 National Assessment of Educational Progress report on reading, 63 percent of African Americans, 58 percent of Hispanic Americans, 60 percent of children living in poverty, and 47 percent of children in urban schools scored 'below basic' in reading.

''(3) More than ½ of the students placed in special education classes are identified as learning disabled and, for as many as 80 percent of the students so identified, reading is the primary difficulty.

''(4) It is estimated that, at a minimum, 10,000,000 children have difficulty learning to read. 10 to 15 percent of those children eventually drop out of high school, and only 2 percent complete a 4-year program at an institution of higher education.

''(5) It is estimated that the number of children who are typically identified as poor readers can be significantly reduced through the implementation of early identification and prevention programs that are based on scientifically based reading research.

''(6) The report issued by the National Reading Panel in 2000 found that the course of reading instruction that obtains maximum benefits for students includes explicit and systematic instruction in phonemic awareness, phonics, vocabulary development, reading fluency, and reading comprehension strategies.

''SEC. 1202. PURPOSES.

''The purposes of this subpart are as follows:

''(1) To provide assistance to States and local educational agencies in establishing reading programs for students in grades kindergarten through 3 that are based on scientifically based reading research, in order to ensure that every student can read at grade level or above not later than the end of the third grade.

''(2) To provide assistance to States and local educational agencies in preparing teachers, including special education teachers, through professional development and other support, so the teachers can identify specific reading barriers facing their students and so the teachers have the tools to effectively help their students learn to read.

''(3) To provide assistance to States and local educational agencies in selecting and administering rigorous diagnostic reading and screening assessment tools that are valid and reliable, document the effectiveness of this subpart in improving the reading skills of students, and improve classroom instruction.

''(4) To provide assistance to States and local educational agencies in selecting or developing effective classroom instructional materials, programs, and strategies to implement scientific research-based methods that have been proven to prevent or remediate reading failure.

''(5) To strengthen coordination among schools and early literacy programs in order to improve reading achievement for all children.

''SEC. 1203. FORMULA GRANTS TO STATES.

''(a) IN GENERAL.—

''(1) AUTHORIZATION TO MAKE GRANTS.—In the case of each State that in accordance with section 1204 submits to the Secretary an application for a 5-year period, the Secretary, subject to the application's approval, shall make a grant to the State for the uses specified in subsections (c) and (d). For each fiscal year, the funds provided under the grant shall equal the allotment determined for the State under subsection (b).

''(2) DURATION OF GRANTS.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), a grant under this section shall be awarded for a period of not more than 5 years.

''(B) INTERIM REVIEW.—

''(i) PROGRESS REPORT.—

''(I) SUBMISSION.—Not later than 60 days after the termination of the third year of the grant period, each State receiving a grant under this section shall submit a progress report to the Secretary.

''(II) INFORMATION INCLUDED.—The progress report shall include information on the progress the State, and local educational agencies within the State, are making in reducing the number of students served under this subpart in the first and second grades who are reading below grade level, as demonstrated by such information as teacher reports and school evaluations of mastery of the essential components of reading instruction. The report shall also include evidence from the State and its local educational agencies that they have significantly increased the number of students reading at grade level or above, significantly increased the percentages of students in ethnic, racial, and low-income populations who are reading at grade level or above, and successfully implemented this subpart.

''(ii) PEER REVIEW.—The progress report described in clause (i) shall be reviewed by the peer review panel convened under section 1204(c)(2).

PART G—RURAL EDUCATION FLEXIBILITY AND ASSISTANCE

SEC. 171. RURAL EDUCATION.

Title I is amended by adding at the end the following new part:

''PART G—RURAL EDUCATION FLEXIBILITY AND ASSISTANCE

''SEC. 1701. SHORT TITLE.

''This part may be cited as the 'Rural Education Initiative Act'.

''SEC. 1702. FINDINGS.

''Congress finds the following:

''(1) While there are rural education initiatives identified at the State and local level, no Federal education policy focuses on the specific and unique needs of rural school districts and schools.

''(2) Small school districts often cannot use Federal grant funds distributed by formula because the formula allocation does not provide enough revenue to carry out the program the grant is intended to fund.

''(3) Rural schools often cannot compete for Federal funding distributed by competitive grants because the schools lack the personnel needed to prepare grant applications and the resources to hire specialists in the writing of Federal grant proposals.

''(4) A critical problem for rural school districts involves the hiring and retention of qualified administrators and certified teachers (especially in reading, science, and mathematics). As a result, teachers in rural schools are almost twice as likely to provide instruction in three or more subject areas than teachers in urban schools. Rural schools also face other tough challenges, such as shrinking local tax bases, high transportation costs, aging buildings, limited course offerings, and limited resources.

''Subpart 1—Rural Education Flexibility

''SEC. 1711. FORMULA GRANT PROGRAM AUTHORIZED.

''(a) ALTERNATIVE USES.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, an eligible local educational agency may use the applicable funding, that the agency is eligible to receive from the State educational agency for a fiscal year, to carry out local activities authorized in part A of title I, part A of title II, part A of title III, part A of title IV, or part A or B of title V.

''(2) NOTIFICATION.—An eligible local educational agency shall notify the State educational agency of the local educational agency's intention to use the applicable funding in accordance with paragraph (1) not later than a date that is established by the State educational agency for the notification.

''(ii) all of the schools served by the local educational agency are designated with a school locale code of 7 or 8 as determined by the Secretary of Education; or

''(B) the agency meets the criteria established in subparagraph (A)(i) and the Secretary, in accordance with paragraph (2), grants the local educational agency's request to waive the criteria described in subparagraph (A)(ii).

''(2) CERTIFICATION.—The Secretary shall determine whether or not to waive the criteria described in paragraph (1)(A)(ii) based on a demonstration by a local educational agency and concurrence by the State educational agency that the local educational agency is located in an area defined as rural by a governmental agency of the State.

''(b) ALLOCATION.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (3), the Secretary shall award a grant to an eligible local educational agency under section 1711(b) for a fiscal year in an amount equal to the initial amount determined under paragraph (2) for the fiscal year minus the total amount received under the provisions of law described under section 1711(c) for the preceding fiscal year.

''(2) DETERMINATION OF THE INITIAL AMOUNT.—The initial amount referred to in paragraph (1) is equal to $100 multiplied by the total number of students, over 50 students, in average daily attendance in such eligible agency plus $20,000, except that the initial amount may not exceed $60,000.

''(3) RATABLE ADJUSTMENT.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—If the amount made available for this subpart for any fiscal year is not sufficient to pay in full the amounts that local educational agencies are eligible to receive under paragraph (1) for such year, the Secretary shall ratably reduce such amounts for such year.

''Subpart 1—English Language and Academic Instructional Programs

''SEC. 3101. SHORT TITLE.

''This subpart may be cited as the 'English Language Proficiency and Academic Achievement Act'.

''SEC. 3102. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

''(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds as follows:

''(1) English is the common language of the United States and every citizen and other person residing in the United States should have a command of the English language in order to develop to their full potential.

''(2) Limited English proficient children, including recent immigrant children, must overcome a number of challenges in receiving an education in order to participate fully in American society, including—

''(A) segregated educational programs;

''(B) disproportionate and improper placement in special education and other special programs due to the use of inappropriate evaluation procedures;

''(C) the limited English proficiency of their parents, which hinders the parents' ability to fully participate in the education of their children; and

''(D) a need for additional teachers and other staff who are professionally trained and qualified to serve such children.

''(3) States and local educational agencies need assistance in developing the capacity to provide programs of instruction that offer and provide an equal educational opportunity to children who need special assistance because English is not their dominant language.

''(4) Since 1979, the number of limited English proficient children attending school in the United States has more than doubled to greater than 4,000,000, and demographic trends indicate the population of limited English proficient children will continue to increase.

''(5) Native Americans, including native residents of the outlying areas, and Native American languages (as such terms are defined in section 103 of the Native American Languages Act) have a unique status under Federal law that requires special policies within the broad purposes of this part to serve the educational needs of language minority students in the United States.

''(6) Research, evaluation, and data collection capabilities in the field of instruction for limited English proficient children need to be strengthened so that educators and other staff teaching limited English proficient children in the classroom can better identify and promote programs, program implementation strategies, and instructional practices that result in the effective education of limited English proficient children.

''(7) The Federal Government has a special and continuing obligation to ensure that States and local educational agencies provide children of limited English proficiency the same educational opportunities afforded other children.

''(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this part are—

''(1) to help ensure that children who are limited English proficient, including recent immigrant children, attain English proficiency, develop high levels of academic attainment in English, and meet the same challenging State academic content standards and challenging State student academic achievement standards expected of all children;

''(2) to develop high-quality programs designed to assist local educational agencies in teaching limited English proficient children;

''(3) to assist local educational agencies to develop and enhance their capacity to provide high-quality instructional programs designed to prepare limited English proficient students, including recent immigrant students, to enter all-English instructional settings within 3 years; and

''(4) to provide State educational agencies and local educational agencies with the flexibility to implement instructional programs, tied to scientifically based reading research and sound research and theory on teaching limited English proficient children, that the agencies believe to be the most effective for teaching English.

''SEC. 3103. PARENTAL NOTIFICATION AND CONSENT FOR ENGLISH LANGUAGE INSTRUCTION.

''(a) NOTIFICATION.—If a local educational agency uses funds under this subpart to provide English language instruction to limited English proficient children, the agency shall inform a parent or the parents of a child participating in an English language instruction program for limited English proficient children assisted under this subpart of—

''(1) the reasons for the identification of the child as being in need of English language instruction;

''(2) the child's level of English proficiency, how such level was assessed, and the status of the child's academic achievement;

''(3) how the English language instruction program will specifically help the child acquire English and meet age-appropriate standards for grade promotion and graduation;

''(4) what the specific exit requirements are for the program;

''(5) the expected rate of transition from the program into a classroom that is not tailored for limited English proficient children; and

''(6) the expected rate of graduation from high school for the program if funds under this subpart are used for children in secondary schools.

''(b) CONSENT.—

''(1) AGENCY REQUIREMENTS.—

''(A) INFORMED CONSENT.—For a child who has been identified as limited English proficient prior to the beginning of the school year, each local educational agency that receives funds under this subpart shall make a reasonable and substantial effort to obtain informed parental consent prior to the placement of a child in an English language instruction program for limited English proficient children funded under this subpart, if the program does not include classes which exclusively or almost exclusively use the English language in instruction.

''(B) WRITTEN CONSENT NOT OBTAINED.—

''(i) IN GENERAL.—If written consent is not obtained, the local educational agency shall maintain a written record that includes the date and the manner in which such informed consent was sought, including the specific efforts made to obtain such consent.

''(ii) PROOF OF EFFORT.—Notice, in an understandable form, of specific efforts made to obtain written consent and a copy of the written record described in clause (i) shall be mailed or delivered in writing to a parent or the parents of a child prior to placing the child in a program described in subparagraph (A), and shall include a final request for parental consent for such services. After such notice has been mailed or delivered in writing, the local educational agency shall provide appropriate educational services.

''(iii) SPECIAL RULE APPLICABLE DURING SCHOOL YEAR.—For those children who have not been identified as limited English proficient prior to the beginning of the school year, the local educational agency shall make a reasonable and substantial effort to obtain parental consent under this clause. For such children, the agency shall document, in writing, its specific efforts to obtain such consent prior to placing the child in a program described in subparagraph (A). After such documentation has been made, the local educational agency shall provide appropriate educational services to such child. The proof of documentation shall be mailed or delivered in writing to a parent or the parents of the child in a timely manner and shall include information on how to have their child immediately removed from the program upon their request. Nothing in this clause shall be construed as exempting a local educational agency from complying with the notification requirements of subsection (a) and the consent requirements of this paragraph.

''(2) PARENTAL RIGHTS.—A parent or the parents of a child participating in an English language instruction program for limited English proficient children assisted under this subpart—

''(A) shall select among methods of instruction, if more than one method is offered in the program; and

''(B) shall have the right to have their child immediately removed from the program upon their request.

''(c) RECEIPT OF INFORMATION.—A parent or the parents of a child identified for participation in an English language instruction program for limited English proficient children assisted under this subpart shall receive, in a manner and form understandable to the parent or parents, the information required by this subsection. At a minimum, the parent or parents shall receive—

''(1) timely information about English language instruction programs for limited English proficient children assisted under this part;

''(2) if a parent or the parents of a participating child so desire, notice of opportunities for regular meetings for the purpose of formulating and responding to recommendations from the parent or parents; and

''(3) procedural information for removing a child from a program for limited English proficient children.

''(d) BASIS FOR ADMISSION OR EXCLUSION.—Students shall not be admitted to, or excluded from, any federally assisted education program on the basis of a surname or language-minority status.

''SEC. 3104. TESTING OF LIMITED ENGLISH PROFICIENT CHILDREN.

''(a) IN GENERAL.—Assessments of limited English proficient children participating in programs funded under this subpart, to the extent practicable, shall be in the language and form most likely to yield accurate and reliable information on what such students know and can do in content areas.

''(b) SPECIAL RULE.—Notwithstanding subsection (a), in the case of an assessment of reading or language arts of any student who has attended school in the United States (excluding Puerto Rico) for 3 or more consecutive school years, the assessment shall be in the form of a test written in English, except that, if the entity administering the assessment determines, on a case-by-case individual basis, that assessments in another language or form would likely yield more accurate and reliable information on what such student knows and can do, the entity may assess such student in such language or form for 1 additional year.

"SEC. 3105. FORMULA GRANTS TO STATES.

''(a) IN GENERAL.—In the case of each State that in accordance with section 3107 submits to the Secretary an application for a fiscal year, the Secretary shall make a grant for the year to the State for the purposes specified in subsection (b). ''(3) WAIVER.—(A) The Secretary may waive the requirement of paragraph (1), for not more than 1 year at a time, if the Secretary determines that the failure to comply with such requirement is due to exceptional or uncontrollable circumstances, such as a natural disaster or a precipitous and unforeseen decline in the agency's financial resources.

''(B) The Secretary shall not use the reduced amount of such agency's expenditures for the fiscal year preceding the fiscal year for which a waiver is granted to determine compliance with paragraph (1) for any succeeding fiscal year, but shall use the amount of expenditures that would have been required to comply with paragraph (1) in the absence of the waiver.

SEC. 312. ALASKA NATIVE EDUCATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Part B of title III (as added by section 311 of this Act) is further amended by adding at the end the following new subpart:

"Subpart 2—Alaska Native Education

"SEC. 3301. SHORT TITLE.

''This subpart may be cited as the 'Alaska Native Educational Equity, Support, and Assistance Act'.

"SEC. 3302. FINDINGS.

''The Congress finds and declares:

''(1) The attainment of educational success is critical to the betterment of the conditions, long-term well-being and preservation of the culture of Alaska Natives.

''(2) It is the policy of the Federal Government to encourage the maximum participation by Alaska Natives in the planning and the management of Alaska Native education programs.

''(3) Alaska Native children enter and exit school with serious educational handicaps.

''(4) The educational achievement of Alaska Native children is far below national norms. In addition to low Native performance on standardized tests, Native student dropout rates are high, and Natives are significantly underrepresented among holders of baccalaureate degrees in the State of Alaska. As a result, Native students are being denied their opportunity to become full participants in society by grade school and high school educations that are condemning an entire generation to an underclass status and a life of limited choices.

''(5) The programs authorized herein, combined with expanded Head Start, infant learning and early childhood education programs, and parent education programs are essential if educational handicaps are to be overcome.

''(6) The sheer magnitude of the geographic barriers to be overcome in delivering educational services in rural and village Alaska should be addressed through the development and implementation of innovative, model programs in a variety of areas.

''(7) Congress finds that Native children should be afforded the opportunity to begin their formal education on a par with their non-Native peers. The Federal Government should lend support to efforts developed by and undertaken within the Alaska Native community to improve educational opportunity for all students.

"SEC. 3303. PURPOSE.

''It is the purpose of this subpart to—

''(1) recognize the unique educational needs of Alaska Natives;

''(2) authorize the development of supplemental educational programs to benefit Alaska Natives;

''(3) supplement existing programs and authorities in the area of education to further the purposes of this subpart; and

''(4) provide direction and guidance to appropriate Federal, State and local agencies to focus resources, including resources made available under this subpart, on meeting the educational needs of Alaska Natives.

"SEC. 3304. PROGRAM AUTHORIZED.

''(a) GENERAL AUTHORITY.—

''(1) PROGRAM AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary is authorized to make grants to, or enter into contracts with, Alaska Native organizations, educational entities with experience in developing or operating Alaska Native programs or programs of instruction conducted in Alaska Native languages, and consortia of such organizations and entities to carry out programs that meet the purpose of this subpart.

''(2) PERMISSIBLE ACTIVITIES.—Programs under this subpart may include—

''(A) the development and implementation of plans, methods, and strategies to improve the education of Alaska Natives;

''(B) the development of curricula and educational programs that address the educational needs of Alaska Native students, including—

''(i) curriculum materials that reflect the cultural diversity or the contributions of Alaska Natives;

''(ii) instructional programs that make use of Native Alaskan languages; and

''(iii) networks that introduce successful programs, materials, and techniques to urban and rural schools;

''(C) professional development activities for educators, including—

''(i) programs to prepare teachers to address the cultural diversity and unique needs of Alaska Native students;

''(ii) in-service programs to improve the ability of teachers to meet the unique needs of Alaska Native students; and

''(iii) recruiting and preparing teachers who are Alaska Natives, reside in communities with high concentrations of Alaska Native students, or are likely to succeed as teachers in isolated, rural communities and engage in cross-cultural instruction;

''(D) the development and operation of home instruction programs for Alaska Native preschool children, the purpose of which is to ensure the active involvement of parents in their children's education from the earliest ages;

''(E) family literacy services;

''(F) the development and operation of student enrichment programs in science and mathematics that—

''(i) are designed to prepare Alaska Native students from rural areas, who are preparing to enter high school, to excel in science and math; and

''(ii) provide appropriate support services to the families of such students that are needed to enable such students to benefit from the program;

''(G) research and data collection activities to determine the educational status and needs of Alaska Native children and adults;

''(H) other research and evaluation activities related to programs under this subpart; and

''(I) other activities, consistent with the purposes of this subpart, to meet the educational needs of Alaska Native children and adults.

''(3) HOME INSTRUCTION PROGRAMS.—Home instruction programs for Alaska Native preschool children under paragraph (2)(D) may include—

''(A) programs for parents and their infants, from prenatal through age three;

''(B) preschool programs; and

''(C) training, education, and support for parents in such areas as reading readiness, observation, story-telling, and critical thinking.

''(b) LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS.—Not more than 5 percent of funds provided to a grantee under this section for any fiscal year may be used for administrative purposes.

''(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated $15,000,000 for fiscal year 2002, and such sums as may be necessary for each of the fiscal years 2003 through 2006 to carry out this subpart.

"SEC. 3305. ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS.

''(a) APPLICATION REQUIRED.—No grant may be made under this subpart, nor any contract be entered into under this subpart, unless an application is submitted to the Secretary in such form, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary may determine necessary to carry out the provisions of this subpart.

''(b) APPLICATIONS.—State and local educational agencies may apply for an award under this subpart only as subpart of a consortium involving an Alaska Native organization. This consortium may include other eligible applicants.

''(c) CONSULTATION REQUIRED.—Each applicant for funding shall provide for ongoing advice from and consultation with representatives of the Alaska Native community.

''(d) LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCY COORDINATION.—Each applicant for an award under this subpart shall inform each local educational agency serving students who would participate in the project about its application.

"SEC. 3306. DEFINITIONS.

''(2) the term 'Alaska Native organization' means a federally recognized tribe, consortium of tribes, regional nonprofit Native association, and other Alaska Native organizations that—

''(c) REVISION OF MINIMUM ACADEMIC STANDARDS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, the Secretary shall—

''(A) propose revisions to the minimum academic standards published in the Federal Register on September 9, 1995 (50 Fed. Reg. 174) for the basic education of Indian children attending Bureau funded schools in accordance with the purpose described in subsection (a) and the findings of the studies and surveys conducted under subsection (b);

''(e) WAIVER OF STANDARDS; ALTERNATIVE STANDARDS.—A tribal governing body, or the local school board so designated by the tribal governing body, shall have the local authority to waive, in part or in whole, the standards established under subsections (c) and (d) if such standards are deemed by such body to be inappropriate. The tribal governing body or designated school board shall, not later than 60 days after a waiver under this subsection, submit to the Secretary a proposal for alternative standards that take into account the specific needs of the tribe's children. ''(C) by State accreditation standards for the State in which it is located.

''(2) DETERMINATION OF STANDARDS TO BE APPLIED.—The accreditation type or standards applied for each school shall be determined by the school board of the school, in consultation with the Administrator of the school, provided that in the case where the School Board and the Administrator fail to agree on the type of accreditation and standards to apply, the decision of the school board with the approval of the tribal governing body shall be final.

''(3) ASSISTANCE TO SCHOOL BOARDS.—The Secretary, through contracts and grants, shall assist school boards of contract or grant schools in implementation of the standards established under subsections (c) and (d), if the school boards request that such standards, in part or in whole, be implemented.

''(4) FISCAL CONTROL AND FUND ACCOUNTING STANDARDS.—The Bureau shall, either directly or through contract with an Indian organization, establish a consistent system of reporting standards for fiscal control and fund accounting for all contract and grant schools. Such plan shall include detailed information on the status of each school's educational program in relation to the applicable standards established under this section, specific cost estimates for meeting such standards at each school and specific timelines for bringing each school up to the level required by such standards.

''(aa) a school which is not a Bureau funded school; or

''(bb) the expansion of a Bureau funded school which would increase the amount of funds received by the Indian tribe or school board under section 1127.

''(ii) With respect to applications described in this subparagraph, the Secretary shall give consideration to all the factors described in subparagraph (B), but no such application shall be denied based primarily upon the geographic proximity of comparable public education.

''(k) STUDY ON ADEQUACY OF FUNDS AND FORMULAS.—The Comptroller General shall conduct a study, in consultation with Indian tribes and local school boards, to determine the adequacy of funding, and formulas used by the Bureau to determine funding, for programs operated by Bureau funded schools, taking into account unique circumstances applicable to Bureau funded schools, as well as expenditures for comparable purposes in public schools nationally. Upon completion of the study, the Secretary of the Interior shall take such action as necessary to ensure distribution of the findings of the study to all affected Indian tribes, local school boards, and associations of local school boards.

''SEC. 1122. NATIONAL CRITERIA FOR HOME-LIVING SITUATIONS.

''(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Education, Indian organizations and tribes, and Bureau funded schools, shall revise the national standards for home-living (dormitory) situations to include such factors as heating, lighting, cooling, adult-child ratios, needs for counselors (including special needs related to off-reservation home-living (dormitory) situations), therapeutic programs, space, and privacy. Such standards shall be implemented in Bureau operated schools, and shall serve as minimum standards for contract or grant schools. Once established, any revisions of such standards shall be developed according to the requirements established under section 1138A.

''(b) IMPLEMENTATION.—The Secretary shall implement the revised standards established under this section immediately upon their completion.

''(c) PLAN.—At the time of each annual budget submission for Bureau educational services is presented, the Secretary shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress, the tribes, and the affected schools, and publish in the Federal Register, a detailed plan to bring all Bureau funded schools that provide home-living (dormitory) situations up to the standards established under this section. ''(d) WAIVER.—The criteria established under this section may be waived in the same manner as the standards provided under section 1121(c) may be waived.

''(e) CLOSURE FOR FAILURE TO MEET STANDARDS PROHIBITED.—No school in operation on or before January 1, 1987 (regardless of compliance or noncompliance with the criteria established under this section), may be closed, transferred to another authority, consolidated, or have its program substantially curtailed for failure to meet the criteria.

Such provisions may be altered only by means of an Act of Congress. To the extent that such provisions of part 32 do not conform with this Act or any statutory provision of law enacted before November 1, 1978, the provisions of this Act and the provisions of such other statutory law shall govern.

''(b) REGULATION DEFINED.—For purposes of this part, the term 'regulation' means any rules, regulations, guidelines, interpretations, orders, or requirements of general applicability prescribed by any officer or employee of the executive branch.

''(b) ESTABLISHMENT BY TRIBAL BODY.—In any case where there is more than one Bureau funded school located on an Indian reservation, at the direction of the tribal governing body, the relevant school boards of the Bureau funded schools on the reservation may, by mutual consent, establish the relevant attendance areas for such schools, subject to the approval of the tribal governing body. Any such boundaries so established shall be accepted by the Secretary.

''(c) BOUNDARY REVISIONS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—On or after July 1, 2001, no geographical attendance area shall be revised or established with respect to any Bureau funded school unless the tribal governing body or the local school board concerned (if so designated by the tribal governing body) has been afforded—

''(A) at least 6 months notice of the intention of the Bureau to revise or establish such attendance area; and

''(B) the opportunity to propose alternative boundaries.

Any tribe may petition the Secretary for revision of existing attendance area boundaries. The Secretary shall accept such proposed alternative or revised boundaries unless the Secretary finds, after consultation with the affected tribe or tribes, that such revised boundaries do not reflect the needs of the Indian students to be served or do not provide adequate stability to all of the affected programs. The Secretary shall cause such revisions to be published in the Federal Register.

''(2) TRIBAL RESOLUTION DETERMINATION.—Nothing in this section shall be interpreted as denying a tribal governing body the authority, on a continuing basis, to adopt a tribal resolution allowing parents the choice of the Bureau funded school their children may attend, regardless of the attendance boundaries established under this section.

''(d) FUNDING RESTRICTIONS.—The Secretary shall not deny funding to a Bureau funded school for any eligible Indian student attending the school solely because that student's home or domicile is outside of the geographical attendance area established for that school under this section. No funding shall be made available without tribal authorization to enable a school to provide transportation for any student to or from the school and a location outside the approved attendance area of the school.

''(e) RESERVATION AS BOUNDARY.—In any case where there is only one Bureau funded program located on an Indian reservation, the attendance area for the program shall be the boundaries (established by treaty, agreement, legislation, court decisions, or executive decisions and as accepted by the tribe) of the reservation served, and those students residing near the reservation shall also receive services from such program.

''(f) OFF-RESERVATION HOME-LIVING (DORMITORY) SCHOOLS.—Notwithstanding any geographical attendance areas, attendance at off-reservation home-living (dormitory) schools shall include students requiring special emphasis programs to be implemented at each off-reservation home-living (dormitory) school. Such attendance shall be coordinated between education line officers, the family, and the referring and receiving programs.

''SEC. 1125. FACILITIES CONSTRUCTION.

''(a) COMPLIANCE WITH HEALTH AND SAFETY STANDARDS.—The Secretary shall immediately begin to bring all schools, dormitories, and other Indian education-related facilities operated by the Bureau or under contract or grant with the Bureau into compliance with all applicable tribal, Federal, or State health and safety standards, whichever provides greater protection (except that the tribal standards to be applied shall be no greater than any otherwise applicable Federal or State standards), with section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. Nothing in this section shall require termination of the operations of any facility which does not comply with such provisions and which is in use on the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001.

''(b) COMPLIANCE PLAN.—At the time that the annual budget request for Bureau educational services is presented, the Secretary shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a detailed plan to bring all facilities covered under subsection (a) of this section into compliance with the standards referred to in subsection (a). Such plan shall include detailed information on the status of each facility's compliance with such standards, specific cost estimates for meeting such standards at each school, and specific timelines for bringing each school into compliance with such standards.

''(c) CONSTRUCTION PRIORITIES.—

''(1) SYSTEM TO ESTABLISH PRIORITIES.—On an annual basis the Secretary shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress and cause to be published in the Federal Register, the system used to establish priorities for replacement and construction projects for Bureau funded schools and home-living schools, including boarding schools and dormitories. At the time any budget request for education is presented, the Secretary shall publish in the Federal Register and submit with the budget request the current list of all Bureau funded school construction priorities.

''(2) LONG-TERM CONSTRUCTION AND REPLACEMENT LIST.—In addition to the plan submitted under subsection (b), the Secretary shall—

''(A) not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, establish a long-term construction and replacement list for all Bureau funded schools;

''(B) using the list prepared under subparagraph (A), propose a list for the orderly replacement of all Bureau funded education-related facilities over a period of 40 years to enable planning and scheduling of budget requests;

''(C) cause the list prepared under subsection (B) to be published in the Federal Register and allow a period of not less than 120 days for public comment;

''(D) make such revisions to the list prepared under subparagraph (B) as are appropriate based on the comments received; and

''(E) cause the final list to be published in the Federal Register.

''(3) EFFECT ON OTHER LIST.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as interfering with or changing in any way the construction priority list as it exists on the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001.

''(d) HAZARDOUS CONDITION AT BUREAU SCHOOL.—

''(1) CLOSURE OR CONSOLIDATION.—A Bureau funded school may be closed or consolidated, and the programs of a Bureau funded school may be substantially curtailed by reason of plant conditions that constitute an immediate hazard to health and safety only if a health and safety officer of the Bureau determines that such conditions exist at the Bureau funded school.

''(2) INSPECTION.—(A) After making a determination described in paragraph (1), the Bureau health and safety officer shall conduct an inspection of the condition of such plant accompanied by an appropriate tribal, county, municipal, or State health and safety officer in order to determine whether conditions at such plant constitute an immediate hazard to health and safety. Such inspection shall be completed by not later than the date that is 30 days after the date on which the action described in paragraph (1) is taken. No further negative action may be taken unless the findings are concurred in by the second, non-Bureau of Indian Affairs inspector.

''(B) If the health and safety officer conducting the inspection of a plant required under subparagraph (A) determines that conditions at the plant do not constitute an immediate hazard to health and safety, any consolidation or curtailment that was made under paragraph (1) shall immediately cease and any school closed by reason of conditions at the plant shall be reopened immediately.

''(C) If a Bureau funded school is temporarily closed or consolidated or the programs of a Bureau funded school are substantially curtailed under this subsection and the Secretary determines that the closure, consolidation, or curtailment will exceed 1 year, the Secretary shall submit to the Congress, by not later than 6 months after the date on which the closure, consolidation, or curtailment was initiated, a report which sets forth the reasons for such temporary actions, the actions the Secretary is taking to eliminate the conditions that constitute the hazard, and an estimated date by which such actions will be concluded.

''(e) FUNDING REQUIREMENT.—

''(1) DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.—Beginning with the fiscal year following the year of the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, all funds appropriated for the operations and maintenance of Bureau funded schools shall be distributed by formula to the schools. No funds from this account may be retained or segregated by the Bureau to pay for administrative or other costs of any facilities branch or office, at any level of the Bureau.

''(2) REQUIREMENTS FOR CERTAIN USES.—No funds shall be withheld from the distribution to the budget of any school operated under contract or grant by the Bureau for maintenance or any other facilities or road related purpose, unless such school has consented, as a modification to the contract or in writing for grants schools, to the withholding of such funds, including the amount thereof, the purpose for which the funds will be used, and the timeline for the services to be provided. The school may, at the end of any fiscal year, cancel an agreement under this paragraph upon giving the Bureau 30 days notice of its intent to do so.

''(f) NO REDUCTION IN FEDERAL FUNDING.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to diminish any Federal funding due to the receipt by the school of funding for facilities improvement or construction from a State or any other source.

In making such determination, the Assistant Secretary shall cause to be conducted a series of meetings at the agency and area level with representatives of the Bureau funded schools in those areas and agencies to receive comment on the lists and prioritization of such projects; and

''(v) a system for the conduct of routine preventive maintenance.

''(B) LOCAL SUPERVISORS.—The appropriate education line officers shall make arrangements for the maintenance of education facilities with the local supervisors of the Bureau maintenance personnel. The local supervisors of Bureau maintenance personnel shall take appropriate action to implement the decisions made by the appropriate education line officers, except that no funds under this chapter may be authorized for expenditure unless such appropriate education line officer is assured that the necessary maintenance has been, or will be, provided in a reasonable manner.

''(3) IMPLEMENTATION.—The requirements of this subsection shall be implemented as soon as practicable after the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001.

''(e) ACCEPTANCE OF GIFTS AND BEQUESTS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Director shall promulgate guidelines for the establishment of mechanisms for the acceptance of gifts and bequests for the use and benefit of particular schools or designated Bureau operated education programs, including, where appropriate, the establishment and administration of trust funds. ''(f) FUNCTIONS CLARIFIED.—For the purpose of this section, the term 'functions' includes powers and duties.

''SEC. 1127. ALLOTMENT FORMULA.

''(a) FACTORS CONSIDERED; REVISION TO REFLECT STANDARDS.—

''(1) FORMULA.—The Secretary shall establish, by regulation adopted in accordance with section 1138A, a formula for determining the minimum annual amount of funds necessary to sustain each Bureau funded school. In establishing such formula, the Secretary shall consider—

''(A) the number of eligible Indian students served and total student population of the school;

''(B) special cost factors, such as—

''(i) the isolation of the school;

''(ii) the need for special staffing, transportation, or educational programs;

''(iii) food and housing costs;

''(iv) maintenance and repair costs associated with the physical condition of the educational facilities;

''(v) special transportation and other costs of isolated and small schools;

''(vi) the costs of home-living (dormitory) arrangements, where determined necessary by a tribal governing body or designated school board;

''(vii) costs associated with greater lengths of service by education personnel;

''(viii) the costs of therapeutic programs for students requiring such programs; and

''(ix) special costs for gifted and talented students;

''(C) the cost of providing academic services which are at least equivalent to those provided by public schools in the State in which the school is located; and

''(D) such other relevant factors as the Secretary determines are appropriate.

''(2) REVISION OF FORMULA.—Upon the establishment of the standards required in sections 1121 and 1122, the Secretary shall revise the formula established under this subsection to reflect the cost of funding such standards. Not later than January 1, 2003, the Secretary shall review the formula established under this section and shall take such steps as are necessary to increase the availability of counseling and therapeutic programs for students in off-reservation home-living (dormitory) schools and other Bureau operated residential facilities. Concurrent with such action, the Secretary shall review the standards established under section 1122 to be certain that adequate provision is made for parental notification regarding, and consent for, such counseling and therapeutic programs.

''(b) PRO RATA ALLOTMENT.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, Federal funds appropriated for the general local operation of Bureau funded schools shall be allotted pro rata in accordance with the formula established under subsection (a).

''(c) ANNUAL ADJUSTMENT; RESERVATION OF AMOUNT FOR SCHOOL BOARD ACTIVITIES.—

''(1) ANNUAL ADJUSTMENT.—For fiscal year 2003, and for each subsequent fiscal year, the Secretary shall adjust the formula established under subsection (a) to ensure that the formula does the following:

''(A) Uses a weighted unit of 1.2 for each eligible Indian student enrolled in the seventh and eighth grades of the school in considering the number of eligible Indian students served by the school.

''(B) Considers a school with an enrollment of less than 50 eligible Indian students as having an average daily attendance of 50 eligible Indian students for purposes of implementing the adjustment factor for small schools.

''(C) Takes into account the provision of residential services on less than a 9-month basis at a school when the school board and supervisor of the school determine that a less than 9-month basis will be implemented for the school year involved.

''(D) Uses a weighted unit of 2.0 for each eligible Indian student that—

''(i) is gifted and talented; and

''(ii) is enrolled in the school on a full-time basis, in considering the number of eligible Indian students served by the school.

''(E) Uses a weighted unit of 0.25 for each eligible Indian student who is enrolled in a year-long credit course in an Indian or Native language as part of the regular curriculum of a school, in considering the number of eligible Indian students served by such school. The adjustment required under this subparagraph shall be used for such school after—

''(i) the certification of the Indian or Native language curriculum by the school board of such school to the Secretary, together with an estimate of the number of full-time students expected to be enrolled in the curriculum in the second school year for which the certification is made; and

(ii) the funds appropriated for allotment under this section are designated by the appropriations Act appropriating such funds as the amount necessary to implement such adjustment at such school without reducing allotments made under this section to any school by virtue of such adjustment.

''(2) RESERVATION OF AMOUNT.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—From the funds allotted in accordance with the formula established under subsection (a) for each Bureau school, the local school board of such school may reserve an amount which does not exceed the greater of—

''(i) $8,000; or

''(ii) the lesser of—

''(I) $15,000; or

''(II) 1 percent of such allotted funds, for school board activities for such school, including (notwithstanding any other provision of law) meeting expenses and the cost of membership in, and support of, organizations engaged in activities on behalf of Indian education.

''(B) TRAINING.—Each school board shall see that each new member of the school board receives, within 12 months of the individual's assuming a position on the school board, 40 hours of training relevant to that individual's service on the board. Such training may include legal issues pertaining to schools funded by the Bureau, legal issues pertaining to school boards, ethics, and other topics deemed appropriate by the school board.

''(d) RESERVATION OF AMOUNT FOR EMERGENCIES.—The Secretary shall reserve from the funds available for distribution for each fiscal year under this section an amount which, in the aggregate, shall equal 1 percent of the funds available for such purpose for that fiscal year. Such funds shall be used, at the discretion of the Director of the Office of Indian Education Programs, to meet emergencies and unforeseen contingencies affecting the education programs funded under this section. Funds reserved under this subsection may only be expended for education services or programs, including emergency repairs of educational facilities, at a schoolsite (as defined by section 5204(c)(2) of the Tribally Controlled Schools Act of 1988). Funds reserved under this subsection shall remain available without fiscal year limitation until expended. However, the aggregate amount available from all fiscal years may not exceed 1 percent of the current year funds. Whenever, the Secretary makes funds available under this subsection, the Secretary shall report such action to the appropriate committees of Congress within the annual budget submission.

''(e) SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS.—Supplemental appropriations enacted to meet increased pay costs attributable to school level personnel shall be distributed under this section.

''(f) ELIGIBLE INDIAN STUDENT DEFINED.—For the purpose of this section, the term 'eligible Indian student' means a student who—

''(2) resides on or near an Indian reservation or meets the criteria for attendance at a Bureau off-reservation home-living (dormitory) school.

''(g) TUITION.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—An eligible Indian student may not be charged tuition for attendance at a Bureau school or contract or grant school. A student attending a Bureau school under paragraph (2)(C) may not be charged tuition for attendance at such a school.

''(2) ATTENDANCE OF NON-INDIAN STUDENTS AT BUREAU SCHOOLS.—The Secretary may permit the attendance at a Bureau school of a student who is not an eligible Indian student if—

''(A) the Secretary determines that the student's attendance will not adversely affect the school's program for eligible Indian students because of cost, overcrowding, or violation of standards or accreditation;

''(B) the school board consents;

''(C) the student is a dependent of a Bureau, Indian Health Service, or tribal government employee who lives on or near the schoolsite; or

''(D) a tuition is paid for the student that is not more than that charged by the nearest public school district for out-of-district students, and shall be in addition to the school's allocation under this section.

''(3) ATTENDANCE OF NON-INDIAN STUDENTS AT CONTRACT AND GRANT SCHOOLS.—The school board of a contract or grant school may permit students who are not eligible Indian students under this subsection to attend its contract school or grant school and any tuition collected for those students shall be in addition to funding received under this section.

''(h) FUNDS AVAILABLE WITHOUT FISCAL YEAR LIMITATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, at the election of the school board of a Bureau school made at any time during the fiscal year, a portion equal to not more than 15 percent of the funds allocated with respect to a school under this section for any fiscal year shall remain available to the school for expenditure without fiscal year limitation. The Assistant Secretary shall take steps as may be necessary to implement this provision.

''(i) STUDENTS AT RICHFIELD DORMITORY, RICHFIELD, UTAH.—Tuition for out-of-State Indian students in home-living (dormitory) arrangements at the Richfield dormitory in Richfield, Utah, who attend Sevier County high schools in Richfield, Utah, shall be paid from the Indian school equalization program funds authorized in this section and section 1130 at a rate not to exceed the amounts per weighted student unit for that year for the instruction of such students. No additional administrative cost funds shall be added to the grant.

''SEC. 1128. ADMINISTRATIVE COST GRANTS.

''(a) GRANTS; EFFECT UPON APPROPRIATED AMOUNTS.—

''(1) GRANTS.—Subject to the availability of appropriated funds, the Secretary shall provide grants to each tribe or tribal organization operating a contract school or grant school in the amount determined under this section with respect to the tribe or tribal organization for the purpose of paying the administrative and indirect costs incurred in operating contract or grant schools, provided that no school operated as a stand-alone institution shall receive less than $200,000 per year for these purposes, in order to—

''(A) enable tribes and tribal organizations operating such schools, without reducing direct program services to the beneficiaries of the program, to provide all related administrative overhead services and operations necessary to meet the requirements of law and prudent management practice; and

''(B) carry out other necessary support functions which would otherwise be provided by the Secretary or other Federal officers or employees, from resources other than direct program funds, in support of comparable Bureau operated programs.

''(2) EFFECT UPON APPROPRIATED AMOUNTS.—Amounts appropriated to fund the grants provided under this section shall be in addition to, and shall not reduce, the amounts appropriated for the program being administered by the contract or grant school.

''(b) DETERMINATION OF GRANT AMOUNT.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The amount of the grant provided to each tribe or tribal organization under this section for each fiscal year shall be determined by applying the administrative cost percentage rate of the tribe or tribal organization to the aggregate of the Bureau elementary and secondary functions operated by the tribe or tribal organization for which funds are received from or through the Bureau. The administrative cost percentage rate determined under subsection (c) does not apply to other programs operated by the tribe or tribal organization.

''(2) DIRECT COST BASE FUNDS.—The Secretary shall—

''(A) reduce the amount of the grant determined under paragraph (1) to the extent that payments for administrative costs are actually received by an Indian tribe or tribal organization under any Federal education program included in the direct cost base of the tribe or tribal organization; and

''(B) take such actions as may be necessary to be reimbursed by any other department or agency of the Federal Government for the portion of grants made under this section for the costs of administering any program for Indians that is funded by appropriations made to such other department or agency.

''(c) ADMINISTRATIVE COST PERCENTAGE RATE.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section, the administrative cost percentage rate for a contract or grant school for a fiscal year is equal to the percentage determined by dividing—

''(A) the sum of—

''(i) the amount equal to—

''(I) the direct cost base of the tribe or tribal organization for the fiscal year, multiplied by

''(II) the minimum base rate; plus

''(ii) the amount equal to—

''(I) the standard direct cost base; multiplied by

''(II) the maximum base rate; by

''(B) the sum of—

''(i) the direct cost base of the tribe or tribal organization for the fiscal year; plus

''(ii) the standard direct cost base.

''(2) ROUNDING.—The administrative cost percentage rate shall be determined to the 1/100 of a decimal point.

''(d) COMBINING FUNDS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Funds received by a tribe or contract or grant school as grants under this section for tribal elementary or secondary educational programs may be combined by the tribe or contract or grant school into a single administrative cost account without the necessity of maintaining separate funding source accounting.

''(2) INDIRECT COST FUNDS.—Indirect cost funds for programs at the school which share common administrative services with tribal elementary or secondary educational programs may be included in the administrative cost account described in paragraph (1).

''(e) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—Funds received as grants under this section with respect to tribal elementary or secondary education programs shall remain available to the contract or grant school without fiscal year limitation and without diminishing the amount of any grants otherwise payable to the school under this section for any fiscal year beginning after the fiscal year for which the grant is provided.

''(f) TREATMENT OF FUNDS.—Funds received as grants under this section for Bureau funded programs operated by a tribe or tribal organization under a contract or agreement shall not be taken into consideration for purposes of indirect cost underrecovery and overrecovery determinations by any Federal agency for any other funds, from whatever source derived.

''(g) TREATMENT OF ENTITY OPERATING OTHER PROGRAMS.—In applying this section and section 105 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act with respect to an Indian tribe or tribal organization that—

''(1) receives funds under this section for administrative costs incurred in operating a contract or grant school or a school operated under the Tribally Controlled Schools Act of 1988; and

''(2) operates one or more other programs under a contract or grant provided under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, the Secretary shall ensure that the Indian tribe or tribal organization is provided with the full amount of the administrative costs that are associated with operating the contract or grant school, and of the indirect costs, that are associated with all of such other programs, provided that funds appropriated for implementation of this section shall be used only to supply the amount of the grant required to be provided by this section.

''(h) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section:

''(1) ADMINISTRATIVE COST.—(A) The term 'administrative cost' means the costs of necessary administrative functions which—

''(i) the tribe or tribal organization incurs as a result of operating a tribal elementary or secondary educational program;

''(ii) are not customarily paid by comparable Bureau operated programs out of direct program funds; and

''(iii) are either—

''(I) normally provided for comparable Bureau programs by Federal officials using resources other than Bureau direct program funds; or

''(II) are otherwise required of tribal self-determination program operators by law or prudent management practice.

''(B) The term 'administrative cost' may include—

''(3) DIRECT COST BASE.—(A) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (B), the direct cost base of a tribe or tribal organization for the fiscal year is the aggregate direct cost program funding for all tribal elementary or secondary educational programs operated by the tribe or tribal organization during—

''(i) the second fiscal year preceding such fiscal year; or

''(ii) if such programs have not been operated by the tribe or tribal organization during the two preceding fiscal years, the first fiscal year preceding such fiscal year.

''(B) In the case of Bureau elementary or secondary education functions which have not previously been operated by a tribe or tribal organization under contract, grant, or agreement with the Bureau, the direct cost base for the initial year shall be the projected aggregate direct cost program funding for all Bureau elementary and secondary functions to be operated by the tribe or tribal organization during that fiscal year.

''(4) MAXIMUM BASE RATE.—The term 'maximum base rate' means 50 percent.

''(5) MINIMUM BASE RATE.—The term 'minimum base rate' means 11 percent.

''(6) STANDARD DIRECT COST BASE.—The term 'standard direct cost base' means $600,000.

''(7) TRIBAL ELEMENTARY OR SECONDARY EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS.—The term 'tribal elementary or secondary educational programs' means all Bureau elementary and secondary functions, together with any other Bureau programs or portions of programs (excluding funds for social services that are appropriated to agencies other than the Bureau and are expended through the Bureau, funds for major subcontracts, construction, and other major capital expenditures, and unexpended funds carried over from prior years) which share common administrative cost functions, that are operated directly by a tribe or tribal organization under a contract, grant, or agreement with the Bureau.

''(i) STUDIES FOR DETERMINATION OF FACTORS AFFECTING COSTS; BASE RATES LIMITS; STANDARD DIRECT COST BASE; REPORT TO CONGRESS.—

''(1) STUDIES.—Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, the Director of the Office of Indian Education Programs shall—

''(A) conduct such studies as may be needed to establish an empirical basis for determining relevant factors substantially affecting required administrative costs of tribal elementary and secondary education programs, using the formula set forth in subsection (c); and

''(B) conduct a study to determine—

''(i) a maximum base rate which ensures that the amount of the grants provided under this section will provide adequate (but not excessive) funding of the administrative costs of the smallest tribal elementary or secondary educational programs;

''(ii) a minimum base rate which ensures that the amount of the grants provided under this section will provide adequate (but not excessive) funding of the administrative costs of the largest tribal elementary or secondary educational programs; and

''(iii) a standard direct cost base which is the aggregate direct cost funding level for which the percentage determined under subsection (c) will—

''(I) be equal to the median between the maximum base rate and the minimum base rate; and

''(II) ensure that the amount of the grants provided under this section will provide adequate (but not excessive) funding of the administrative costs of tribal elementary or secondary educational programs closest to the size of the program.

''(2) GUIDELINES.—The studies required under paragraph (1) shall—

''(A) be conducted in full consultation (in accordance with section 1131) with—

''(i) the tribes and tribal organizations that are affected by the application of the formula set forth in subsection (c); and

''(ii) all national and regional Indian organizations of which such tribes and tribal organizations are typically members;

''(B) be conducted onsite with a representative statistical sample of the tribal elementary or secondary educational programs under a contract entered into with a nationally reputable public accounting and business consulting firm;

''(C) take into account the availability of skilled labor; commodities, business and automatic data processing services, related Indian preference and Indian control of education requirements, and any other market factors found substantially to affect the administrative costs and efficiency of each such tribal elementary or secondary educational program studied in order to assure that all required administrative activities can reasonably be delivered in a cost effective manner for each such program, given an administrative cost allowance generated by the values, percentages, or other factors found in the studies to be relevant in such formula;

''(D) identify, and quantify in terms of percentages of direct program costs, any general factors arising from geographic isolation, or numbers of programs administered, independent of program size factors used to compute a base administrative cost percentage in such formula; and administrative cost functions at any of the tribal elementary or secondary educational programs studied and determine whether the factors are of general applicability to other such programs, and (if so) how the factors may effectively be incorporated into such formula.

''(E) identify any other incremental cost factors substantially affecting the costs of required

''(3) CONSULTATION WITH INSPECTOR GENERAL.—In carrying out the studies required under this subsection, the Director shall obtain the input of, and afford an opportunity to participate to, the Inspector General of the Department of the Interior.

''(4) CONSIDERATION OF DELIVERY OF ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES.—Determinations described in paragraph (2)(C) shall be based on what is practicable at each location studied, given prudent management practice, irrespective of whether required administrative services were actually or fully delivered at these sites, or whether other services were delivered instead, during the period of the study.

''(5) REPORT.—Upon completion of the studies conducted under paragraph (1), the Director shall submit to Congress a report on the findings of the studies, together with determinations based upon such studies that would affect the definitions set forth under subsection (e) that are used in the formula set forth in subsection (c).

''(6) PROJECTION OF COSTS.—The Secretary shall include in the Bureau's justification for each appropriations request beginning in the first fiscal year after the completion of the studies conducted under paragraph (1), a projection of the overall costs associated with the formula set forth in subsection (c) for all tribal elementary or secondary education programs which the Secretary expects to be funded in the fiscal year for which the appropriations are sought.

''(7) DETERMINATION OF PROGRAM SIZE.—For purposes of this subsection, the size of tribal elementary or secondary educational programs is determined by the aggregate direct cost program funding level for all Bureau funded programs which share common administrative cost functions.

''(j) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as necessary to carry out this section.

''(2) REDUCTIONS.—If the total amount of funds necessary to provide grants to tribes and tribal organizations in the amounts determined under subsection (b) for a fiscal year exceeds the amount of funds appropriated to carry out this section for such fiscal year, the Secretary shall reduce the amount of each grant determined under subsection (b) for such fiscal year by an amount that bears the same relationship to such excess as the amount of such grants determined under subsection (b) bears to the total of all grants determined under subsection (b) section for all tribes and tribal organizations for such fiscal year.

''(k) APPLICABILITY TO SCHOOLS OPERATING UNDER TRIBALLY CONTROLLED SCHOOLS ACT OF 1988.—The provisions of this section shall also apply to those schools operating under the Tribally Controlled Schools Act of 1988.

Such Division shall be under the direct supervision and control of the Director of the Office.

''(b) FUNCTIONS.—In consultation with the tribal governing bodies and tribal school boards, the Director of the Office, through the Division, shall conduct studies, surveys, or other activities to gather demographic information on Bureau funded schools and project the amount necessary to provide Indian students in such schools the educational program set forth in this part.

''(c) ANNUAL REPORTS.—Not later than the date that the Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs makes the annual budget submission, for each fiscal year after the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, the Director of the Office shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress (including the Appropriations committees), all Bureau funded schools, and the tribal governing bodies of such schools, a report which shall contain—

''(1) projections, based upon the information gathered pursuant to subparagraph (b) and any other relevant information, of amounts necessary to provide Indian students in Bureau funded schools the educational program set forth in this part;

''(2) a description of the methods and formulas used to calculate the amounts projected pursuant to paragraph (1); and

''(3) such other information as the Director of the Office considers appropriate.

''(d) USE OF REPORTS.—The Director of the Office and the Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs shall use the annual report required by subsection (c) when preparing their annual budget submissions.

''(b) LOCAL FINANCIAL PLANS FOR EXPENDITURE OF FUNDS.—

''(1) PLAN REQUIRED.—In the case of all Bureau operated schools, allotted funds shall be expended on the basis of local financial plans which ensure meeting the accreditation requirements or standards for the school established pursuant to section 1121 and which shall be prepared by the local school supervisor in active consultation with the local school board for each school. The local school board for each school shall have the authority to ratify, reject, or amend such financial plan, and expenditures thereunder, and, on its own determination or in response to the supervisor of the school, to revise such financial plan to meet needs not foreseen at the time of preparation of the financial plan.

''(2) EXCEPTION FOR CERTAIN TEMPORARY EMPLOYMENT.—The Secretary may authorize the temporary employment in an education position of an individual who has not met the certification standards established pursuant to regulations, if the Secretary determines that failure to do so would result in that position remaining vacant.

''(d) HIRING OF EDUCATORS.—

''(1) REQUIREMENTS.—In prescribing regulations to govern the appointment of educators, the Secretary shall require—

''(A)(i) that educators employed in a Bureau operated school (other than the supervisor of the school) shall be hired by the supervisor of the school. ''(e) DISCHARGE AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT OF EDUCATORS.—

''(1) REGULATIONS.—In prescribing regulations to govern the discharge and conditions of employment of educators, the Secretary shall require—

Upon giving notice of proposed discharge to an educator, the supervisor involved shall immediately notify the local school board for the school of such action. A determination by the local school board that such educator shall not be discharged shall be followed by the supervisor. The supervisor shall have the right to appeal such action to the education line officer of the appropriate agency office of the Bureau. Upon such an appeal, the agency education line officer may, for good cause and in writing to the local school board, overturn the determination of the local school board with respect to the employment of such individual.

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any provision of the Indian preference laws, such laws shall not apply in the case of any personnel action under this section respecting an applicant or employee not entitled to Indian preference if each tribal organization concerned grants a written waiver of the application of such laws with respect to such personnel action and states that such waiver is necessary. This paragraph shall not relieve the Bureau's responsibility to issue timely and adequate announcements and advertisements concerning any such personnel action if such action is intended to fill a vacancy (no matter how such vacancy is created).

Such term shall not include section 7(b) of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act.

''(g) COMPENSATION OR ANNUAL SALARY.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—(A) Except as otherwise provided in this section, the Secretary shall fix the basic compensation for educators and education positions at rates in effect under the General Schedule for individuals with comparable qualifications, and holding comparable positions, to whom chapter 51 of title 5, United States Code, is applicable or on the basis of the Federal Wage System schedule in effect for the locality, and for the comparable positions, the rates of compensation in effect for the senior executive service.

''(B) The Secretary shall establish the rate of basic compensation, or annual salary rates, for the positions of teachers and counselors (including dormitory counselors and home-living counselors) at the rates of basic compensation applicable (on the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 and thereafter) to comparable positions in the overseas schools under the Defense Department Overseas Teachers Pay Act. The Secretary shall allow the local school boards authority to implement only the aspects of the Defense Department Overseas Teacher pay provisions that are considered essential for recruitment and retention. Implementation of such provisions shall not be construed to require the implementation of the Act in its entirety.

''(C)(i) Beginning with the fiscal year following the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, each school board may set the rate of compensation or annual salary rate for teachers and counselors (including academic counselors) who are new hires at the school and who have not worked at the school on the date of implementation of this provision, at rates consistent with the rates paid for individuals in the same positions, with the same tenure and training, in any other school within whose boundaries the Bureau school lies. In instances where the adoption of such rates cause a reduction in the payment of compensation from that which was in effect for the fiscal year following the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, the new rate may be applied to the compensation of employees of the school who worked at the school on of the date of the enactment of that Act by applying those rates to each contract renewal such that the reduction takes effect in three equal installments. Where adoption of such rates lead to an increase in the payment of compensation from that which was in effect for the fiscal year following the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, the school board may make such rates applicable at the next contract renewal such that either—

''(I) the increase occurs in its entirety; or

''(II) the increase is applied in three equal installments.

''(ii) The establishment of rates of basic compensation and annual salary rates under subparagraphs (B) and (C) shall not preclude the use of regulations and procedures used by the Bureau prior to April 28, 1988, in making determinations regarding promotions and advancements through levels of pay that are based on the merit, education, experience, or tenure of the educator.

''(D) The establishment of rates of basic compensation and annual salary rates under subparagraphs (B) and (C) shall not affect the continued employment or compensation of an educator who was employed in an education position on October 31, 1979, and who did not make an election under subsection (p) is in effect on January 1, 1990.

''(2) POST-DIFFERENTIAL RATES.—(A) The Secretary may pay a post-differential rate not to exceed 25 percent of the rate of basic compensation, on the basis of conditions of environment or work which warrant additional pay as a recruitment and retention incentive.

''(B)(i) Upon the request of the supervisor and the local school board of a Bureau school, the Secretary shall grant the supervisor of the school authorization to provide one or more post-differentials under subparagraph (A) unless the Secretary determines for clear and convincing reasons (and advises the board in writing of those reasons) that certain of the requested post-differentials should be disapproved or decreased because there is no disparity of compensation for the involved employees or positions in the Bureau school, as compared with the nearest public school, that is either—

''(I) at least 5 percent; or

''(II) less than 5 percent and affects the recruitment or retention of employees at the school.

''(ii) A request under clause (i) shall be deemed granted at the end of the 60th day after the request is received in the Central Office of the Bureau unless before that time the request is approved, approved with modification, or disapproved by the Secretary.

''(iii) The Secretary or the supervisor of a Bureau school may discontinue or decrease a post-differential authorized under this subparagraph at the beginning of a school year if—

''(I) the local school board requests that such differential be discontinued or decreased; or

''(II) the Secretary or the supervisor determines for clear and convincing reasons (and advises the board in writing of those reasons) that there is no disparity of compensation that would affect the recruitment or retention of employees at the school after the differential is discontinued or decreased.

''(iv) On or before February 1 of each year, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a report describing the requests and grants of authority under this subparagraph during the previous year and listing the positions contracted under those grants of authority.

''(h) LIQUIDATION OF REMAINING LEAVE UPON TERMINATION.—Upon termination of employment with the Bureau, any annual leave remaining to the credit of an individual within the purview of this section shall be liquidated in accordance with sections 5551(a) and 6306 of title 5, United States Code, except that leave earned or accrued under regulations prescribed pursuant to subsection (b)(10) of this section shall not be so liquidated.

''(i) TRANSFER OF REMAINING SICK LEAVE UPON TRANSFER, PROMOTION, OR REEMPLOYMENT.—In the case of any educator who is transferred, promoted, or reappointed, without break in service, to a position in the Federal Government under a different leave system, any remaining leave to the credit of such person earned or credited under the regulations prescribed pursuant to subsection (b)(10) shall be transferred to such person's credit in the employing agency on an adjusted basis in accordance with regulations which shall be prescribed by the Office of Personnel Management.

''(j) INELIGIBILITY FOR EMPLOYMENT OF VOLUNTARILY TERMINATED EDUCATORS.—An educator who voluntarily terminates employment with the Bureau before the expiration of the existing employment contract between such educator and the Bureau shall not be eligible to be employed in another education position in the Bureau during the remainder of the term of such contract.

''(k) DUAL COMPENSATION.—In the case of any educator employed in an education position described in subsection (l)(1)(A) who—

''(1) is employed at the close of a school year;

''(2) agrees in writing to serve in such position for the next school year; and

''(3) is employed in another position during the recess period immediately preceding such next school year, or during such recess period receives additional compensation referred to in section 5533 of title 5, United States Code, relating to dual compensation,

''(l) VOLUNTARY SERVICES.—Notwithstanding section 1342 of title 31, United States Code, the Secretary may, subject to the approval of the local school board concerned, accept voluntary services on behalf of Bureau schools. Nothing in this part shall be construed to require Federal employees to work without compensation or to allow the use of volunteer services to displace or replace Federal employees. An individual providing volunteer services under this section is a Federal employee only for purposes of chapter 81 of title 5, United States Code, and chapter 171 of title 28, United States Code.

''(m) PRORATION OF PAY.—

''(1) ELECTION OF EMPLOYEE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, including laws relating to dual compensation, the Secretary, at the election of the employee, shall prorate the salary of an employee employed in an education position for the academic school year over the entire 12-month period. Each educator employed for the academic school year shall annually elect to be paid on a 12-month basis or for those months while school is in session. No educator shall suffer a loss of pay or benefits, including benefits under unemployment or other Federal or federally assisted programs, because of such election.

''(2) CHANGE OF ELECTION.—During the course of such year the employee may change election once.

''(3) LUMP SUM PAYMENT.—That portion of the employee's pay which would be paid between academic school years may be paid in a lump sum at the election of the employee.

Any employee of the Bureau who performs additional activities to provide services to students or otherwise support the school's academic and social programs may elect to be compensated for all such work on the basis of the stipend. Such stipend shall be paid as a supplement to the employee's base pay.

''(2) ELECTION NOT TO RECEIVE STIPEND.—If an employee elects not to be compensated through the stipend established by this subsection, the appropriate provisions of title 5, United States Code, shall apply.

''(3) APPLICABILITY OF SUBSECTION.—This subsection applies to all Bureau employees, whether employed under section 1132 of this title or title 5, United States Code.

All published proposed regulations shall conform to agreements resulting from such negotiated rulemaking unless the Secretary reopens the negotiated rulemaking process or provides a written explanation to the participants in that process why the Secretary has decided to depart from such agreements. SEC. 314. TRIBALLY CONTROLLED SCHOOLS ACT OF 1988.

Sections 5202 through 5212 of the Tribally Controlled Schools Act of 1988 (25 U.S.C. 2501 et seq.) are amended to read as follows:

''SEC. 5202. FINDINGS.

''Congress, after careful review of the Federal Government's historical and special legal relationship with, and resulting responsibilities to, Indians, finds that—

''(1) the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, which was a product of the legitimate aspirations and a recognition of the inherent authority of Indian nations, was and is a crucial positive step towards tribal and community control;

''(2) the Bureau of Indian Affairs' administration and domination of the contracting process under such Act has not provided the full opportunity to develop leadership skills crucial to the realization of self-government and has denied Indians an effective voice in the planning and implementation of programs for the benefit of Indians which are responsive to the true needs of Indian communities;

''(3) Indians will never surrender their desire to control their relationships both among themselves and with non-Indian governments, organizations, and persons;

''(4) true self-determination in any society of people is dependent upon an educational process which will ensure the development of qualified people to fulfill meaningful leadership roles;

''(5) the Federal administration of education for Indian children has not effected the desired level of educational achievement or created the diverse opportunities and personal satisfaction that education can and should provide;

''(6) true local control requires the least possible Federal interference; and

''(7) the time has come to enhance the concepts made manifest in the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act.

''SEC. 5203. DECLARATION OF POLICY.

''(a) RECOGNITION.—Congress recognizes the obligation of the United States to respond to the strong expression of the Indian people for self-determination by assuring maximum Indian participation in the direction of educational services so as to render such services more responsive to the needs and desires of those communities.

''(b) COMMITMENT.—Congress declares its commitment to the maintenance of the Federal Government's unique and continuing trust relationship with and responsibility to the Indian people through the establishment of a meaningful Indian self-determination policy for education which will deter further perpetuation of Federal bureaucratic domination of programs.

''(c) NATIONAL GOAL.—Congress declares that a major national goal of the United States is to provide the resources, processes, and structure which will enable tribes and local communities to effect the quantity and quality of educational services and opportunities which will permit Indian children to compete and excel in the life areas of their choice and to achieve the measure of self-determination essential to their social and economic well-being.

''(d) EDUCATIONAL NEEDS.—Congress affirms the reality of the special and unique educational needs of Indian peoples, including the need for programs to meet the linguistic and cultural aspirations of Indian tribes and communities. These may best be met through a grant process.

''(e) FEDERAL RELATIONS.—Congress declares its commitment to these policies and its support, to the full extent of its responsibility, for Federal relations with the Indian Nations.

''(f) TERMINATION.—Congress hereby repudiates and rejects House Resolution 108 of the 83d Congress and any policy of unilateral termination of Federal relations with any Indian Nation.

''(d) NO REQUIREMENT TO ACCEPT GRANTS.—Nothing in this part may be construed—

''(1) to require a tribe or tribal organization to apply for or accept; or

''(2) to allow any person to coerce any tribe or tribal organization to apply for, or accept, a grant under this part to plan, conduct, and administer all of, or any portion of, any Bureau program. Such applications and the timing of such applications shall be strictly voluntary. Nothing in this part may be construed as allowing or requiring any grant with any entity other than the entity to which the grant is provided.

A later date as may be specified if mutually agreed upon by the Secretary and the tribal governing body. ''(3) TRANSFER OF EQUIPMENT AND MATERIALS.—Except as otherwise determined by the Secretary, the tribe or tribal organization operating the program to be retroceded must transfer to the Secretary (or to the tribe or tribal organization which will operate the program as a contract school) the existing equipment and materials which were acquired—

''(A) with assistance under this part; or

''(B) upon assumption of operation of the program under this part if the school was a Bureau funded school under title XI of the Education Amendments of 1978 before receiving assistance under this part.

''(g) PROHIBITION OF TERMINATION FOR ADMINISTRATIVE CONVENIENCE.—Grants provided under this part may not be terminated, modified, suspended, or reduced solely for the convenience of the administering agency.

''(C) Where the appropriations measure or the application submission does not stipulate a period for the work covered by the funds so designated, the Secretary and the grantee shall consult and determine such a period prior to the transfer of the funds. A period so determined may be extended upon mutual agreement of the Secretary and the grantee.

''(5) ENFORCEMENT OF REQUEST TO INCLUDE FUNDS.—If the Secretary fails to carry out a request made under subsection (a)(2) within 180 days of a request filed by an Indian tribe or tribal organization to include in such tribe or organization's grant the funds described in subsection (a)(2), the Secretary shall be deemed to have approved such request and the Secretary shall immediately amend the grant accordingly. ''(b) TIME PERIOD TO WHICH APPLICATION RELATES.—An application submitted by a local educational agency under subsection (a) may seek allocations under this part for a period of time not to exceed 3 fiscal years and may be amended annually as may be necessary to reflect changes without the filing of a new application.

''(c) LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCY DISCRETION.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the limitations and requirements of this subpart, a local educational agency shall have complete discretion in determining how funds made available under this chapter will be divided among programs and activities described in section 4131.

"CHAPTER 4—GENERAL PROVISIONS

"SEC. 4141. MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT; FEDERAL FUNDS SUPPLEMENTARY.

''(a) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), a State is entitled to receive its full allocation of funds under this subpart for any fiscal year only if the Secretary determines that either the combined fiscal effort per student or the aggregate expenditures within the State with respect to the provision of free public education for the fiscal year preceding the fiscal year for which the determination is made was not less than 90 percent of such combined fiscal effort or aggregate expenditures for the fiscal year that is 2 fiscal years before the fiscal year for which the determination is made.

''(2) REDUCTION OF FUNDS.—The Secretary shall reduce the amount of the allocation of funds under this subpart in any fiscal year in the exact proportion to which the State fails to meet the requirements of paragraph (1) by falling below 90 percent of both the fiscal effort per student and aggregate expenditures (using the measure most favorable to the State), and no such lesser amount shall be used for computing the effort required under paragraph (1) for subsequent years.

''(3) WAIVER.—The Secretary may waive, for 1 fiscal year only, the requirements of this section if the Secretary determines that such a waiver would be equitable due to exceptional or uncontrollable circumstances such as a natural disaster or a precipitous and unforeseen decline in the financial resources of the State.

''(b) FEDERAL FUNDS SUPPLEMENTARY.—A State or local educational agency may use and allocate funds received under this subpart only to supplement and, to the extent practical, to increase the level of funds that would, in the absence of Federal funds made available under this subpart, be made available from non-Federal sources, and in no case may such funds be used so as to supplant funds from non-Federal sources.

''SEC. 4142. PARTICIPATION OF CHILDREN ENROLLED IN PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

''(a) PARTICIPATION ON EQUITABLE BASIS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—To the extent consistent with the number of children in the school district of a local educational agency which is eligible to receive funds under this subpart or which serves the area in which a program or project assisted under this subpart is located, who are enrolled in private nonprofit elementary and secondary schools, or with respect to instructional or personnel training programs funded by the State from funds made available for State use, such agency, after consultation with appropriate private school officials—

''(A) shall provide for the benefit of such children in such schools secular, neutral, and nonideological services, materials, and equipment, including the participation of the teachers of such children (and other educational personnel serving such children) in training programs, and the repair or minor remodeling of public facilities as may be necessary for their provision (consistent with subsection (c) of this section); or

''(B) if such services, materials, and equipment are not feasible or necessary in 1 or more such private schools as determined by the local educational agency after consultation with the appropriate private school officials, shall provide such other arrangements as will assure equitable participation of such children in the purposes and benefits of this subpart.

''(2) OTHER PROVISIONS FOR SERVICES.—If no program or project is carried out under paragraph (1) in the school district of a local educational agency, the State shall make arrangements, such as through contracts with nonprofit agencies or organizations, under which children in private schools in such district are provided with services and materials to the extent that would have occurred if the local educational agency had received funds under this subpart.

''(3) APPLICATION OF REQUIREMENTS.—The requirements of this section relating to the participation of children, teachers, and other personnel serving such children shall apply to programs and projects carried out under this subpart by a State or local educational agency, whether directly or through grants to or contracts with other public or private agencies, institutions, or organizations.

''(b) EQUAL EXPENDITURES.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Expenditures for programs pursuant to subsection (a) shall be equal (consistent with the number of children to be served) to expenditures for programs under this subpart for children enrolled in the public schools of the local educational agency.

''(2) CONCENTRATED PROGRAMS.—Taking into account the needs of the individual children and other factors which relate to the expenditures referred to in paragraph (1), and when funds available to a local educational agency under this subpart are used to concentrate programs or projects on a particular group, attendance area, or grade or age level, children enrolled in private schools who are included within the group, attendance area, or grade or age level selected for such concentration shall, after consultation with the appropriate private school officials, be assured equitable participation in the purposes and benefits of such programs or projects.

''(c) ADMINISTRATIVE RULES.—

''(1) FUNDS AND PROPERTY.—The control of funds provided under this subpart, and title to materials, equipment, and property repaired, remodeled, or constructed with such funds, shall be in a public agency for the uses and purposes provided in this subpart, and a public agency shall administer such funds and property.

''(2) PROVISION OF SERVICES.—The provision of services pursuant to this subpart shall be provided by employees of a public agency or through contract by such public agency with a person, an association, agency, or corporation who or which, in the provision of such services, is independent of such private school and of any religious organizations, and such employment or contract shall be under the control and supervision of such public agency, and the funds provided under this subpart shall not be commingled with State or local funds.

''(1) STATE PROHIBITION WAIVER.—If by reason of any provision of law a State or local educational agency is prohibited from providing for the participation in programs of children enrolled in private elementary and secondary schools, as required by this section, the Secretary shall waive such requirements and shall arrange for the provision of services to such children through arrangements which shall be subject to the requirements of this section.

''(2) FAILURE TO COMPLY.—If the Secretary determines that a State or a local educational agency has substantially failed or is unwilling to provide for the participation on an equitable basis of children enrolled in private elementary and secondary schools as required by this section, the Secretary may waive such requirements and shall arrange for the provision of services to such children through arrangements which shall be subject to the requirements of this section.

''(e) WITHHOLDING OF ALLOCATION.—Pending final resolution of any investigation or complaint that could result in a waiver under subsection (d)(1) or (d)(2), the Secretary may withhold from the allocation of the affected State or local educational agency the amount estimated by the Secretary to be necessary to pay the cost of services to be provided by the Secretary under such subsection.

''(f) TERM OF DETERMINATIONS.—Any determination by the Secretary under this section shall continue in effect until the Secretary determines that there will no longer be any failure or inability on the part of the State or local educational agency to meet the requirements of subsections (a) and (b).

''(g) PAYMENT FROM STATE ALLOTMENT.—When the Secretary arranges for services pursuant to this section, the Secretary shall, after consultation with the appropriate public and private school officials, pay the cost of such services, including the administrative costs of arranging for those services, from the appropriate allotment of the State under this subpart.

''(h) REVIEW.—

''(1) WRITTEN OBJECTIONS.—The Secretary shall not take any final action under this section until the State and the local educational agency affected by such action have had an opportunity, for not less than 45 days after receiving written notice thereof, to submit written objections and to appear before the Secretary or the Secretary's designee to show cause why that action should not be taken.

''(2) COURT ACTION.—If a State or local educational agency is dissatisfied with the Secretary's final action after a proceeding under paragraph (1), such agency may, not later than 60 days after notice of such action, file with the United States court of appeals for the circuit in which such State is located a petition for review of that action. A copy of the petition shall be transmitted by the clerk of the court to the Secretary. The Secretary thereupon shall file in the court the record of the proceedings on which the Secretary based this action, as provided in section 2112 of title 28, United States Code.

''(3) REMAND TO SECRETARY.—The findings of fact by the Secretary, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive; but the court, for good cause shown, may remand the case to the Secretary to take further evidence and the Secretary may make new or modified findings of fact and may modify the Secretary's previous action, and shall file in the court the record of the further proceedings. Such new or modified findings of fact shall likewise be conclusive if supported by substantial evidence.

''(4) COURT REVIEW.—Upon the filing of such petition, the court shall have jurisdiction to affirm the action of the Secretary or to set such action aside, in whole or in part. The judgment of the court shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari or certification as provided in section 1254 of title 28, United States Code.

''(i) PRIOR DETERMINATION.—Any bypass determination by the Secretary under chapter 2 of title I of this Act (as such chapter was in effect on the day preceding the date of enactment of the Improving America's Schools Act of 1994) shall, to the extent consistent with the purposes of this title, apply to programs under this title.

''SEC. 4143. FEDERAL ADMINISTRATION.

''(a) TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary, upon request, shall provide technical assistance to States and local educational agencies under this subpart.

''(b) RULEMAKING.—The Secretary shall issue regulations under this subpart only to the extent that such regulations are necessary to ensure that there is compliance with the specific requirements and assurances required by this subpart.

''(c) AVAILABILITY OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, unless expressly in limitation of this subsection, funds appropriated in any fiscal year to carry out activities under this subpart shall become available for obligation on July 1 of such fiscal year and shall remain available for obligation until the end of the subsequent fiscal year.

"Subpart 2—Arts Education

"SEC. 4151. ASSISTANCE FOR ARTS EDUCATION.

''(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

''(1) every student can benefit from an education in the arts;

''(2) a growing body of research indicates that education in the arts may provide cognitive benefits and bolster academic achievement, beginning at an early age and continuing through secondary school;

''(3) qualified arts teachers and a sequential curriculum are the basis and core for substantive arts education for students;

''(4) the arts should be taught according to rigorous academic standards under arts education programs that provide mechanisms under which educators are accountable to parents, school officials, and the community;

''(5) opportunities to participate in the arts have enabled individuals with disabilities of all ages to participate more fully in school and community activities; and

''(6) arts education is a valuable part of the elementary and secondary school curriculum.

''(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this subpart are to—

''(1) support systemic education reform by strengthening arts education as an integral part of the elementary and secondary school curriculum; and

''(2) help ensure that all students meet challenging State academic content standards and challenging State student academic achievement standards in the arts.

''(d) ELIGIBLE ENTITIES.—The Secretary may make assistance available under subsection (c) to each of the following entities:

Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and VSA arts;

''(8) supporting model projects or programs to integrate arts education into the regular elementary and secondary school curriculum; or

''(9) other activities that further the purposes of this subpart.

''(1) to coordinate, to the extent practicable, each project or program carried out with such assistance with appropriate activities of public or private cultural agencies, institutions, and organizations, including museums, arts education associations, libraries, and theaters; and

''(2) to use such assistance only to supplement and not to supplant any other assistance or funds made available from non-Federal sources for the activities assisted under this subpart.

"Subpart 3—Gifted and Talented Children

"SEC. 4161. SHORT TITLE.

''This subpart may be cited as the 'Jacob K. Javits Gifted and Talented Students Education Act of 2001'.

"SEC. 4162. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

''(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

''(1) While the families and communities of some gifted and talented students can provide private educational programs with appropriately trained staff to supplement public educational offerings, most gifted and talented students, especially those from inner cities, rural communities, or low-income families, must rely on the services and personnel available in public schools. In order to ensure that there are equal educational opportunities for all gifted and talented students in the United States, the public schools should provide gifted and talented education programs carried out by qualified professionals.

''(2) Due to the wide dispersal of students who are gifted and talented and the national interest in a well-educated populace, it is the Federal Government that can most effectively and appropriately conduct scientifically based research and development to ensure that there is a national capacity to educate students who are gifted and talented in the 21st century.

''(3) Many State and local educational agencies lack the specialized resources and trained personnel necessary to consistently plan and implement effective programs for the identification of gifted and talented students and for the provision of educational services and programs appropriate for the needs of such students.

''(4) Because gifted and talented students are generally more advanced academically, are generally able to learn more quickly, and generally study in more depth and complexity than others their age, they require educational opportunities and experiences that are different from those usually available to other students.

''(5) A typical elementary school student who is academically gifted and talented has already mastered 35 to 50 percent of the content to be learned in several subjects in any school year before that year begins. Without an advanced and challenging curriculum, such a student may lose motivation and develop poor study habits that are difficult to break.

''(6) Classes in elementary and secondary schools in the United States consist of students with a wide variety of traits, characteristics, and needs. Although most teachers receive some training to meet the needs of students with limited English proficiency, students with disabilities, and students from diverse cultural and racial backgrounds, few receive training to meet the needs of students who are gifted and talented.

''(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this subpart is to initiate a coordinated program of scientifically based research, demonstration projects, innovative strategies, and similar activities designed to build and enhance the ability of elementary and secondary schools nationwide to meet the special educational needs of gifted and talented students.

"SEC. 4163. RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.

Nothing in this subpart shall be construed to prohibit a recipient of funds under this subpart from serving gifted and talented students simultaneously with students with similar educational needs, in the same educational settings where appropriate.

"SEC. 4164. AUTHORIZED PROGRAMS.

''(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—From the sums available to carry out this subpart in any fiscal year, the Secretary (after consultation with experts in the field of the education of gifted and talented students) shall make grants to, or enter into contracts with, State educational agencies, local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, other public agencies, and other private agencies and organizations (including Indian tribes and Indian organizations (as such terms are defined in section 4 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450b)) and Native Hawaiian organizations) to assist such agencies, institutions, and organizations in carrying out programs or projects authorized by this subpart that are designed to meet the educational needs of gifted and talented students, including the training of personnel in the education of gifted and talented students and in the use, where appropriate, of gifted and talented services, materials, and methods for all students.

''(2) Professional development (including fellowships) for personnel (including leadership personnel) involved in the education of gifted and talented students.

''(3) Establishment and operation of model projects and exemplary programs for serving gifted and talented students, including innovative methods for identifying and educating students who may not be served by traditional gifted and talented programs, including summer programs, mentoring programs, service learning programs, and cooperative programs involving business, industry, and education.

''(4) Implementing innovative strategies, such as cooperative learning, peer tutoring, and service learning.

''(5) Programs of technical assistance and information dissemination, including assistance and information with respect to how gifted and talented programs and methods, where appropriate, may be adapted for use by all students.

''(c) ESTABLISHMENT OF NATIONAL CENTER.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary (after consultation with experts in the field of the education of gifted and talented students) shall establish a National Center for Research and Development in the Education of Gifted and Talented Children and Youth through grants to or contracts with one or more institutions of higher education or State educational agencies, or a combination or consortium of such institutions and agencies and other public or private agencies and organizations, for the purpose of carrying out activities described in paragraph (1) of subsection (b).

''(2) DIRECTOR.—The National Center established under paragraph (1) shall be headed by a Director. The Secretary may authorize the Director to carry out such functions of the National Center as may be agreed upon through arrangements with institutions of higher education, State or local educational agencies, or other public or private agencies and organizations.

''(d) LIMITATION.—Not more than 30 percent of the funds available in any fiscal year to carry out the programs and projects authorized by this section may be used to conduct activities pursuant to subsection (b)(1) or subsection (c).

''SEC. 4165. PROGRAM PRIORITIES.

''(a) GENERAL PRIORITY.—In carrying out this subpart, the Secretary shall give highest priority to programs and projects designed to develop new information that—

''(1) improves the capability of schools to plan, conduct, and improve programs to identify and serve gifted and talented students; and

''(2) assists schools in the identification of, and provision of services to, gifted and talented students who may not be identified and served through traditional assessment methods (including economically disadvantaged individuals, individuals of limited English proficiency, and individuals with disabilities).

''(b) SERVICE PRIORITY.—In approving applications for assistance under section 4164(a)(2), the Secretary shall ensure that in each fiscal year not less than 50 percent of the applications approved under such section address the priority described in subsection (a)(2) of this section.

''SEC. 4166. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

''(a) PARTICIPATION OF PRIVATE SCHOOL CHILDREN AND TEACHERS.—In making grants and entering into contracts under this subpart, the Secretary shall ensure, where appropriate, that provision is made for the equitable participation of students and teachers in private nonprofit elementary and secondary schools, including the participation of teachers and other personnel in professional development programs serving such children.

''(b) REVIEW, DISSEMINATION, AND EVALUATION.—The Secretary shall—

''(1) use a peer review process in reviewing applications under this subpart;

''(2) ensure that information on the activities and results of programs and projects funded under this subpart is disseminated to appropriate State and local educational agencies and other appropriate organizations, including nonprofit private organizations; and

''(3) evaluate the effectiveness of programs under this subpart in accordance with section 8651, both in terms of the impact on students traditionally served in separate gifted and talented programs and on other students, and submit the results of such evaluation to the Congress not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001.

''(c) PROGRAM OPERATIONS.—The Secretary shall ensure that the programs under this subpart are administered within the Department by a person who has recognized professional qualifications and experience in the field of the education of gifted and talented students and who shall—

''(1) administer and coordinate the programs authorized under this subpart;

''(2) serve as a focal point of national leadership and information on the educational needs of gifted and talented students and the availability of educational services and programs designed to meet such needs; and

''(3) assist the Assistant Secretary of the Office of Educational Research and Improvement in identifying research priorities which reflect the needs of gifted and talented students.

''SEC. 4167. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

''There are authorized to be appropriated to carry out this subpart such sums as may be necessary for each of fiscal years 2002 through 2006.''.

SEC. 402. CONTINUATION OF AWARDS.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any person or agency that was awarded a grant under part B or D of title X (20 U.S.C. 8031 et seq., 8091 et seq.) prior to the date of the enactment of this Act shall continue to receive funds in accordance with the terms of such award until the date on which the award period terminates under such terms.

PART B—PUBLIC CHARTER SCHOOLS

SEC. 411. PUBLIC CHARTER SCHOOLS.

Title IV, as amended by section 401, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

''PART B—PUBLIC CHARTER SCHOOLS

''SEC. 4201. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

''(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

''(1) enhancement of parent and student choices among public schools can assist in promoting comprehensive educational reform and give more students the opportunity to meet challenging State academic content standards and State student academic achievement standards, if sufficiently diverse and high-quality choices, and genuine opportunities to take advantage of such choices, are available to all students;

''(2) useful examples of such choices can come from States and communities that experiment with methods of offering teachers and other educators, parents, and other members of the public the opportunity to design and implement new public schools and to transform existing public schools;

''(3) charter schools are a mechanism for testing a variety of educational approaches and should, therefore, be exempted from restrictive rules and regulations if the leadership of such schools commits to attaining specific and ambitious educational results for educationally disadvantaged students consistent with challenging State academic content standards and State student academic achievement standards for all students;

''(4) charter schools can embody the necessary mixture of enhanced choice, exemption from restrictive regulations, and a focus on learning gains;

''(5) charter schools, including charter schools that are schools-within-schools, can help reduce school size, and this reduction can have a significant effect on student achievement;

''(6) the Federal Government should test, evaluate, and disseminate information on a variety of charter school models in order to help demonstrate the benefits of this promising educational reform; and

''(7) there is a strong documented need for cash-flow assistance to charter schools that are starting up, because State and local operating revenue streams are not immediately available.

''(b) PURPOSE.—It is the purpose of this part to increase national understanding of the charter schools model by—

''(1) providing financial assistance for the planning, program design and initial implementation of charter schools;

''(2) evaluating the effects of such schools, including the effects on students, student achievement, staff, and parents; and

''(3) expanding the number of high-quality charter schools available to students across the Nation.

''SEC. 4202. PROGRAM AUTHORIZED.

''(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may award grants to State educational agencies having applications approved pursuant to section 4203 to enable such agencies to conduct a charter school grant program in accordance with this part.

''(b) SPECIAL RULE.—If a State educational agency elects not to participate in the program authorized by this part or does not have an application approved under section 4203, the Secretary may award a grant to an eligible applicant that serves such State and has an application approved pursuant to section 4203(c).

''(c) PROGRAM PERIODS.—

''(1) GRANTS TO STATES.—Grants awarded to State educational agencies under this part shall be awarded for a period of not more than 3 years.

''(2) GRANTS TO ELIGIBLE APPLICANTS.—Grants awarded by the Secretary to eligible applicants or subgrants awarded by State educational agencies to eligible applicants under this part shall be awarded for a period of not more than 3 years, of which the eligible applicant may use—

''(A) not more than 18 months for planning and program design;

''(B) not more than 2 years for the initial implementation of a charter school; and

''(C) not more than 2 years to carry out dissemination activities described in section 4204(f)(6)(B).

''(d) LIMITATION.—A charter school may not receive—

''(1) more than one grant for activities described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of subsection (c)(2); or

''(2) more than one grant for activities under subparagraph (C) of subsection (c)(2).

''(e) PRIORITY TREATMENT..—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—In awarding grants under this part from any funds appropriated under section 4211, the Secretary shall give priority to States to the extent that the States meet the criteria described in paragraph (2) and one or more of the criteria described in subparagraph (A), (B), or (C) of paragraph (3).

''(2) REVIEW AND EVALUATION PRIORITY CRITERIA.—The criteria referred to in paragraph (1) is that the State provides for periodic review and evaluation by the authorized public chartering agency of each charter school, at least once every 5 years unless required more frequently by State law, to determine whether the charter school is meeting the terms of the school's charter, and is meeting or exceeding the academic performance requirements and goals for charter schools as set forth under State law or the school's charter.

''(3) PRIORITY CRITERIA.—The criteria referred to in paragraph (1) are the following:

''(A) The State has demonstrated progress, in increasing the number of high quality charter schools that are held accountable in the terms of the schools' charters for meeting clear and measurable objectives for the educational progress of the students attending the schools, in the period prior to the period for which a State educational agency or eligible applicant applies for a grant under this part.

''(B) The State—

''(i) provides for one authorized public chartering agency that is not a local educational agency, such as a State chartering board, for each individual or entity seeking to operate a charter school pursuant to such State law; or

''(ii) in the case of a State in which local educational agencies are the only authorized public chartering agencies, allows for an appeals process for the denial of an application for a charter school.

''(C) The State ensures that each charter school has a high degree of autonomy over the charter school's budgets and expenditures.

''(f) AMOUNT CRITERIA.—In determining the amount of a grant to be awarded under this part to a State educational agency, the Secretary shall take into consideration the number of charter schools that are operating, or are approved to open, in the State.

"SEC. 4203. APPLICATIONS.

''(a) APPLICATIONS FROM STATE AGENCIES.—Each State educational agency desiring a grant from the Secretary under this part shall submit to the Secretary an application at such time, in such manner, and containing or accompanied by such information as the Secretary may require.

''(2) The use of magnet schools has increased dramatically since the inception of the magnet schools assistance program under this Act, with approximately 2,000,000 students nationwide attending such schools, of whom more than 65 percent are non-white.

''(3) Magnet schools offer a wide range of distinctive programs that have served as models for school improvement efforts.

''(4) It is in the best interests of the United States—

''(A) to continue the Federal Government's support of local educational agencies that are implementing court-ordered desegregation plans and local educational agencies that are voluntarily seeking to foster meaningful interaction among students of different racial and ethnic backgrounds, beginning at the earliest stage of such students' education;

''(B) to ensure that all students have equitable access to a quality education that will prepare them to function well in a highly competitive economy;

''(C) to maximize the ability of local educational agencies to plan, develop, implement, and continue effective and innovative magnet schools that contribute to State and local systemic reform; and

''(D) to ensure that grant recipients provide adequate data that demonstrate an ability to improve student academic achievement.

''SEC. 4302. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE.

''The purpose of this part is to assist in the desegregation of schools served by local educational agencies by providing financial assistance to eligible local educational agencies for—

''(1) the elimination, reduction, or prevention of minority group isolation in elementary and secondary schools with substantial proportions of minority students;

''(2) the development and implementation of magnet school projects that will assist local educational agencies in achieving systemic reforms and providing all students the opportunity to meet challenging State academic content standards and student academic achievement standards;

''(3) the development and design of innovative educational methods and practices that promote diversity and increase choices in public elementary and secondary schools and educational programs; and

''(4) courses of instruction within magnet schools that will substantially strengthen the knowledge of academic subjects and the grasp of tangible and marketable vocational and technical skills of students attending such schools.

''SEC. 4303. PROGRAM AUTHORIZED.

''The Secretary, in accordance with this part, is authorized to make grants to eligible local educational agencies, and consortia of such agencies where appropriate, to carry out the purpose of this part for magnet schools that are—

''(2) without having been required to do so, has adopted and is implementing, or will, if assistance is made available to such local educational agency or consortium of such agencies under this part, adopt and implement a plan that has been approved by the Secretary as adequate under title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 for the desegregation of minority-group-segregated children or faculty in such schools.

''PART D—ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY SCHOOL COUNSELING PROGRAMS

''SEC. 5401. ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY SCHOOL COUNSELING PROGRAMS.

''(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds as follows:

''(1) The Surgeon General reported in January 2001 that 1 in 10 children suffer from mental illnesses severe enough to impair development and fewer than 1 in 5 children get treatment for mental illnesses.

''(2) The Surgeon General reported that the burden of suffering by children with mental health needs and their families has created a health crisis in this country. Growing numbers of children are suffering needlessly because their emotional, behavioral, and developmental needs are not being met by the very institutions and systems that were created to take care of them.

''(3) As a result of the concern about the failure of the healthcare system to reach children and adolescents with mental illnesses, there is currently great interest in developing new models for the delivery of mental health and counseling services that can reach underserved groups efficiently.

''(4) Schools are a sensible point of intervention because of their central position in many children's lives and development, especially when families are unable to assume a leading role.

''(5) School-based mental health and counseling services allow for the identification of children in need of treatment much earlier in their development.

''(6) Establishing mental health and counseling services in schools provides access to underserved youth with or at risk of emotional or behavioral problems.

''(7) The Surgeon General's 2000 report on youth violence concludes that effective treatment can divert a significant proportion of delinquent and violent youths from future violence and crime.

''(8) Mental health and counseling services can play an important role in violence prevention on all levels, including preventing problem behaviors from developing; identifying and serving specific, at-risk populations; and reducing the deleterious effects of violence on victims and witnesses.

''(9) An evaluation of the model program for the elementary school counseling demonstration program established pursuant to this section prior to the date of enactment of the Elementary and Secondary Counseling Improvement Act of 2001 found that the number of referrals to the principal's office decreased by nearly half, the use of force, weapons, and threatening of others also decreased, school suspensions were reduced, and students felt safer.

''(10) The report produced by the Institute of Medicine, 'Schools and Health: Our Nation's Investment', recommended a student-to-school counselor ratio of 250:1, student-to-school psychologist ratio of 1000:1, and a student-to-school social worker ratio of 800:1. The United States average student-to-counselor ratio is 551:1. Ratios for school psychologists and school social workers also exceed the recommended levels.

''(b) GRANTS AUTHORIZED.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may use funds provided under this section to award grants to local educational agencies to enable such agencies to establish or expand elementary and secondary school counseling programs which meet the requirements of subsection (c).

''(2) PRIORITY.—In awarding grants under this section, the Secretary shall give special consideration to applications describing programs which—

''(A) demonstrate the greatest need for new or additional counseling services among children in the schools served by the applicant, in part, by providing information on current ratios of students to school counselors, students to school social workers, and students to school psychologists;

''(B) propose the most promising and innovative approaches for initiating or expanding school counseling; and

''(C) show the greatest potential for replication and dissemination.

''(3) EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION.—In awarding grants under this section, the Secretary shall ensure an equitable geographic distribution among the regions of the United States and among urban, suburban, and rural local educational agencies.

''(5) MAXIMUM GRANT.—A grant awarded under this program shall not exceed $400,000 for any fiscal year.

''(1) be comprehensive in addressing the counseling and educational needs of all students;

''(2) use a developmental, preventive approach to counseling;

''(3) increase the range, availability, quantity, and quality of counseling services in the elementary and secondary schools of the local educational agency;

''(4) expand counseling services through qualified school counselors, school psychologists, school social workers, and child and adolescent psychiatrists;

''(5) use innovative approaches to increase children's understanding of peer and family relationships, work and self, decisionmaking, or academic and career planning, or to improve peer interaction;

''(6) provide counseling services in settings that meet the range of needs of students;

''(7) include inservice training, including training for teachers in appropriate identification and intervention techniques for disciplining and teaching students at risk of violent behavior, by school counselors, school psychologists, school social workers, and child and adolescent psychiatrists;

''(8) involve parents of participating students in the design, implementation, and evaluation of a counseling program;

''(9) involve community groups, social service agencies, or other public or private entities in collaborative efforts to enhance the program;

''(10) evaluate annually the effectiveness and outcomes of the counseling services and activities assisted under this section;

''(11) ensure a team approach to school counseling in the elementary and secondary schools of the local educational agency by working toward ratios recommended by the American School Health Association of one school counselor to 250 students, one school social worker to 800 students, and one school psychologist to 1,000 students; and

''(12) ensure that school counselors, school psychologists, school social workers, or child and adolescent psychiatrists paid from funds made available under this section spend a majority of their time at the school in activities directly related to the counseling process.

''(d) LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS.—Not more than 3 percent of the amounts made available under this section in any fiscal year may be used for administrative costs to carry out this section.

''(ii) improved the academic performance of students.

''(f) TERMINATION OF WAIVERS.—The Secretary shall terminate a waiver under this section if the Secretary determines, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, that the performance of the State or other recipient affected by the waiver has been inadequate to justify a continuation of the waiver or if the waiver is no longer necessary to achieve its original purposes.

''(g) PUBLICATION.—A notice of the Secretary's decision to grant each waiver under subsection (a) shall be published in the Federal Register and the Secretary shall provide for the dissemination of such notice to State educational agencies, interested parties, including educators, parents, students, advocacy and civil rights organizations, and the public.

''PART E—UNIFORM PROVISIONS

''SEC. 8501. MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.

''(a) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency may receive funds under a covered program for any fiscal year only if the State educational agency finds that either the combined fiscal effort per student or the aggregate expenditures of such agency and the State with respect to the provision of free public education by such agency for the preceding fiscal year was not less than 90 percent of such combined fiscal effort or aggregate expenditures for the second preceding fiscal year.

''(b) REDUCTION IN CASE OF FAILURE TO MEET.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The State educational agency shall reduce the amount of the allocation of funds under a covered program in any fiscal year in the exact proportion to which a local educational agency fails to meet the requirement of subsection (a) of this section by falling below 90 percent of both the combined fiscal effort per student and aggregate expenditures (using the measure most favorable to such local agency).

''(2) SPECIAL RULE.—No such lesser amount shall be used for computing the effort required under subsection (a) of this section for subsequent years.

''(c) WAIVER.—The Secretary may waive the requirements of this section if the Secretary determines that such a waiver would be equitable due to—

''(1) exceptional or uncontrollable circumstances such as a natural disaster; or

''(2) a precipitous decline in the financial resources of the local educational agency.

''SEC. 8502. PROHIBITION REGARDING STATE AID.

''A State shall not take into consideration payments under this Act (other than under title VI) in determining the eligibility of any local educational agency in such State for State aid, or the amount of State aid, with respect to free public education of children.

''SEC. 8503. PARTICIPATION BY PRIVATE SCHOOL CHILDREN AND TEACHERS.

''(a) PRIVATE SCHOOL PARTICIPATION.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in this Act, to the extent consistent with the number of eligible children in areas served by a State educational agency, local educational agency, educational service agency, consortium of such agencies, or another entity receiving financial assistance under a program specified in subsection (b), who are enrolled in private elementary and secondary schools in areas served by such agency, consortium or entity, such agency, consortium or entity shall, after timely and meaningful consultation with appropriate private school officials, provide such children and their teachers or other educational personnel, on an equitable basis, special educational services or other benefits that address their needs under such program.

''(2) SECULAR, NEUTRAL, AND NONIDEOLOGICAL SERVICES OR BENEFITS.—Educational services or other benefits, including materials and equipment, provided under this section, shall be secular, neutral, and nonideological.

''(3) SPECIAL RULE.—Educational services and other benefits provided under this section for such private school children, teachers, and other educational personnel shall be equitable in comparison to services and other benefits for public school children, teachers, and other educational personnel participating in such program and shall be provided in a timely manner.

''(4) EXPENDITURES.—Expenditures for educational services and other benefits provided under this section to eligible private school children, their teachers, and other educational personnel serving such children shall be equal, taking into account the number and educational needs of the children to be served, to the expenditures for participating public school children.

''(A) how the children's needs will be identified;

''(B) what services will be offered;

''(C) how, where, and by whom the services will be provided;

''(D) how the services will be assessed and how the results of the assessment will be used to improve such services;

''(E) the size and scope of the equitable services to be provided to the eligible private school children, teachers, and other educational personnel and the amount of funds available for such services; and

''(F) how and when the agency, consortium, or entity will make decisions about the delivery of services, including a thorough consideration and analysis of the views of the private school officials on the provision of contract services through potential third party providers.

''(2) DISAGREEMENT.—If the agency, consortium or entity disagrees with the views of the private school officials on the provision of services through a contract, the agency, consortium, or entity shall provide in writing to such private school officials an analysis of the reasons why the local educational agency has chosen not to use a contractor.

''(3) TIMING.—Such consultation shall occur before the agency, consortium, or entity makes any decision that affects the opportunities of eligible private school children, teachers, and other educational personnel to participate in programs under this Act, and shall continue throughout the implementation and assessment of activities under this section.

''(4) DISCUSSION REQUIRED.—Such consultation shall include a discussion of service delivery mechanisms that the agency, consortium, or entity could use to provide equitable services to eligible private school children, teachers, administrators, and other staff.

''(d) PUBLIC CONTROL OF FUNDS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The control of funds used to provide services under this section, and title to materials, equipment, and property purchased with such funds, shall be in a public agency for the uses and purposes provided in this Act, and a public agency shall administer such funds and property.

''(2) PROVISION OF SERVICES.—

''(A) The provision of services under this section shall be provided—

''(i) by employees of a public agency; or

''(ii) through contract by such public agency with an individual, association, agency, organization, or other entity.

''(B) In the provision of such services, such employee, person, association, agency, organization or other entity shall be independent of such private school and of any religious organization, and such employment or contract shall be under the control and supervision of such public agency.

''(C) Funds used to provide services under this section shall not be commingled with non-Federal funds.

''SEC. 8504. STANDARDS FOR BY-PASS.

''If, by reason of any provision of law, a State educational agency, local educational agency, educational service agency, consortium, or other entity of such agencies, is prohibited from providing for the participation in programs of children enrolled in, or teachers or other educational personnel from, private elementary and secondary schools, on an equitable basis, or if the Secretary determines that such agency consortium or entity has substantially failed or is unwilling to provide for such participation, as required by section 8503, the Secretary shall—

''(1) waive the requirements of that section for such agency, consortium, or entity;

''(2) arrange for the provision of equitable services to such children, teachers, or other educational personnel through arrangements that shall be subject to the requirements of this section and of sections 8503, 8505, and 8506; and

''(3) in making the determination, consider one or more factors, including the quality, size, scope, location of the program and the opportunity of private school children, teachers, and other educational personnel to participate.

''SEC. 8505. COMPLAINT PROCESS FOR PARTICIPATION OF PRIVATE SCHOOL CHILDREN.

''(a) PROCEDURES FOR COMPLAINTS.—The Secretary shall develop and implement written procedures for receiving, investigating, and resolving complaints from parents, teachers, or other individuals and organizations concerning violations of section 8503 by a State educational agency, local educational agency, educational service agency, consortium of such agencies or entity. Such individual or organization shall submit such complaint to the State educational agency for a written resolution by the State educational agency within a reasonable period of time.

''(b) APPEALS TO SECRETARY.—Such resolution may be appealed by an interested party to the Secretary not later than 30 days after the State educational agency resolves the complaint or fails to resolve the complaint within a reasonable period of time. Such appeal shall be accompanied by a copy of the State educational agency's resolution, and a complete statement of the reasons supporting the appeal. The Secretary shall investigate and resolve each such appeal not later than 120 days after receipt of the appeal.

''SEC. 8506. BY-PASS DETERMINATION PROCESS.

''(a) REVIEW.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—

''(A) The Secretary shall not take any final action under section 8504 until the State educational agency, local educational agency, educational service agency, consortium of such agencies or entity affected by such action has had an opportunity, for not less than 45 days after receiving written notice thereof, to submit written objections and to appear before the Secretary to show cause why that action should not be taken.

''(B) Pending final resolution of any investigation or complaint that could result in a determination under this section, the Secretary may withhold from the allocation of the affected State or local educational agency the amount estimated by the Secretary to be necessary to pay the cost of those services.

''(2) PETITION FOR REVIEW.—

''(A) If such affected agency consortium or entity is dissatisfied with the Secretary's final action after a proceeding under paragraph (1), such agency consortium or entity may, within 60 days after notice of such action, file with the United States court of appeals for the circuit in which such State is located a petition for review of that action.

''(B) A copy of the petition shall be forthwith transmitted by the clerk of the court to the Secretary.

''(C) The Secretary upon receipt of the copy of the petition shall file in the court the record of the proceedings on which the Secretary based this action, as provided in section 2112 of title 28, United States Code.

''(3) FINDINGS OF FACT.—

''(A) The findings of fact by the Secretary, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive, but the court, for good cause shown, may remand the case to the Secretary to take further evidence and the Secretary may then make new or modified findings of fact and may modify the Secretary's previous action, and shall file in the court the record of the further proceedings.

''(B) Such new or modified findings of fact shall likewise be conclusive if supported by substantial evidence.

''(4) JURISDICTION.—

''(A) Upon the filing of such petition, the court shall have jurisdiction to affirm the action of the Secretary or to set such action aside, in whole or in part.

''(B) The judgment of the court shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari or certification as provided in section 1254 of title 28, United States Code.

''(b) DETERMINATION.—Any determination by the Secretary under this section shall continue in effect until the Secretary determines, in consultation with such agency, consortium or entity and representatives of the affected private school children, teachers, or other educational personnel that there will no longer be any failure or inability on the part of such agency or consortium to meet the applicable requirements of section 8503 or any other provision of this Act.

''(c) PAYMENT FROM STATE ALLOTMENT.—When the Secretary arranges for services pursuant to this section, the Secretary shall, after consultation with the appropriate public and private school officials, pay the cost of such services, including the administrative costs of arranging for those services, from the appropriate allocation or allocations under this Act.

''(d) PRIOR DETERMINATION.—Any by-pass determination by the Secretary under this Act as in effect on the day preceding the date of enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 shall remain in effect to the extent the Secretary determines that such determination is consistent with the purpose of this section.

"PART F—SENSE OF CONGRESS

"SEC. 8601. PAPERWORK REDUCTION.

"(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

"(1) instruction and other classroom activities provide the greatest opportunity for students, especially at-risk and disadvantaged students, to attain high standards and achieve academic success;

"(2) one of the greatest obstacles to establishing an effective, classroom-centered education system is the cost of paperwork compliance;

"(3) paperwork places a burden on teachers and administrators who must complete Federal and State forms to apply for Federal funds and absorbs time and money which otherwise would be spent on students;

"(4) the Education at a Crossroads Report released in 1998 by the Education Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations states that requirements by the Department of Education result in more than 48,600,000 hours of paperwork per year; and

"(5) paperwork distracts from the mission of schools, encumbers teachers, and administrators with nonacademic responsibilities, and competes with teaching and classroom activities which promote learning and achievement.

"(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that Federal and State educational agencies should reduce the paperwork requirements placed on schools, teachers, principles, and other administrators.

"SEC. 8602. PROHIBITION ON MANDATORY NATIONAL CERTIFICATION OF TEACHERS AND PARAPROFESSIONALS.

"(a) PROHIBITION ON MANDATORY TESTING OR CERTIFICATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary is prohibited from using Federal funds to plan, develop, implement, or administer any mandatory national teacher or paraprofessional test or certification.

"(b) PROHIBITION ON WITHHOLDING FUNDS.—The Secretary is prohibited from withholding funds from any State or local educational agency if such State or local educational agency fails to adopt a specific method of teacher or paraprofessional certification.

"SEC. 8603. PROHIBITION ON FEDERALLY SPONSORED TESTING.

"Notwithstanding any other provision of Federal law, no funds provided under this Act to the Secretary or to the recipient of any award may be used to develop, pilot test, field test, implement, administer, or distribute any federally sponsored national test in reading, mathematics, or any other subject, unless specifically and explicitly authorized by law.

"SEC. 8604. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING MEMORIALS.

"It is the sense of Congress that—

"(1) the saying of a prayer, the reading of a scripture, or the performance of religious music, as part of a memorial service that is held on the campus of a public elementary or secondary school in order to honor the memory of any person slain on that campus is not objectionable under this Act; and

"(2) the design and construction of any memorial which includes religious symbols, motifs, or sayings that is placed on the campus of a public elementary or secondary school in order to honor the memory of any person slain on that campus is not objectionable under this Act.

"PART G—EVALUATIONS

"SEC. 8651. EVALUATIONS.

"(a) RESERVATION OF FUNDS.—Except as provided in subsections (b) and (c), the Secretary may reserve not more than 0.5 percent of the amount appropriated to carry out each categorical program and demonstration project authorized under this Act—

"(1) to conduct—

"(A) comprehensive evaluations of the program or project; and

"(B) studies of the effectiveness of the programs or project and its administrative impact on schools and local educational agencies;

"(2) to evaluate the aggregate short- and long-term effects and cost efficiencies across Federal programs assisted or authorized under this Act and related Federal preschool, elementary and secondary programs under any other Federal law; and

"(3) to increase the usefulness of evaluations of grant recipients in order to ensure the continuous progress of the program or project by improving the quality, timeliness, efficiency, and utilization of information relating to performance under the program or project.

"(b) TITLE I EXCLUDED.—The Secretary may not reserve under subsection (a) funds appropriated to carry out any program authorized under title I.

"(c) EVALUATION ACTIVITIES AUTHORIZED ELSEWHERE.—If, under any other provision of this Act (other than title I), funds are authorized to be reserved or used for evaluation activities with respect to a program or project, the Secretary may not reserve additional funds under this section for the evaluation of such program or project.".

TITLE IX—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

PART A—AMENDMENTS TO OTHER ACTS

Subpart 1—National Education Statistics Act

SEC. 901. AMENDMENT TO NESA.

Section 411 of the National Education Statistics Act of 1994 (20 U.S.C. 9010) is amended—

(1) by amending subsection (b)(2) to read as follows:

"(2) STATE ASSESSMENTS.—(A) The Commissioner, in carrying out the National Assessment—

"(i) may conduct State assessments of student achievement in grades 4, 8, and 12; and

"(ii) shall conduct annual State assessments of student achievement in reading and mathematics in grades 4 and 8 in order for States to carry out section 1111(c)(2) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

"(B)(i) Except as provided in clause (ii), a participating State shall review and give permission for the release of results from any test of its students administered as a part of a State assessment prior to the release of the data. Refusal by a State to release its data shall not restrict the release of data from other States that have approved the release of that data.

"(ii) A State participating in the annual State assessments of its students in reading and mathematics in grades 4 and 8 shall be deemed to have given its permission to release its data if it has an approved plan under section 1111 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965."; and

(2) by amending subsection (d) to read as follows:

"(d) PARTICIPATION.—

"(1) NATIONAL AND REGIONAL PARTICIPATION.—Participation in the national and regional assessments by State and local educational agencies shall be voluntary.

"(2) STATE PARTICIPATION.—Participation in assessments made on a State basis shall be voluntary.".

Subpart 2—Homeless Education

SEC. 911. SHORT TITLE.

This subpart may be cited as the ''McKinney-Vento Homeless Education Assistance Improvements Act of 2001''.

SEC. 912. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) An estimated 1,000,000 children in the United States will experience homelessness in 2001.

(2) Homelessness has a devastating impact on the educational opportunities of children and youth. Homeless children go hungry at more than twice the rate of other children, have four times the rate of delayed development, and are twice as likely to repeat a grade.

(3) Despite steady progress in school enrollment and attendance resulting from the passage in 1987 of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11301 et seq.), homeless students still face numerous barriers to education, including residency, guardianship and registration requirements, delays in the transfer of school records, and inadequate transportation service.

(4) School is one of the few secure factors in the lives of homeless children and youth, providing stability, structure, and accomplishment during a time of great upheaval.

(5) Homeless children and youth require educational stability and the opportunity to maintain regular and consistent attendance in school, so that they acquire the skills necessary to escape poverty and lead productive, healthy lives as adults.

(6) In the 14 years since the passage of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11301 et seq.), educators and service providers have learned much about policies and practices which help remove the barriers described.

SEC. 913. PURPOSE.

The purpose of this subpart is to strengthen subtitle B of title VII of Public Law 100–77 (42 U.S.C. 11431 et seq.) by amending it—

(1) to include innovative practices, proven to be effective in helping homeless children and youth enroll, attend, and succeed in school; and

(2) to help ensure that all children and youth impacted by the loss of fixed, regular, and adequate housing receive a quality education and secure their chance for a brighter future.

SEC. 914. EDUCATION FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

Subtitle B of title VII of Public Law 100–77 (42 U.S.C. 11431 et seq.) is amended to read as follows:

''Subtitle B—Education for Homeless Children and Youth

''SEC. 721. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

''It is the policy of the Congress that—

''(1) each State educational agency ensure that each child of a homeless individual and each homeless youth has equal access to the same free, public education, including a public preschool education, as provided to other children and youth;

''(2) in any State that has a compulsory residency requirement as a component of the State's compulsory school attendance laws or other laws, regulations, practices, or policies that may act as a barrier to the enrollment, attendance, or success in school of homeless children and youth, the State review and undertake steps to revise such laws, regulations, practices, or policies to ensure that homeless children and youth are afforded the same free, public education as provided to other children and youth;

''(3) homelessness alone is not sufficient reason to separate students from the mainstream school environment; and

''(4) homeless children and youth must have access to the education and other services that such children and youth need to ensure that such children and youth have an opportunity to meet the same challenging State student academic achievement standards to which all students are held.

''SEC. 722. GRANTS FOR STATE AND LOCAL ACTIVITIES FOR THE EDUCATION OF HOMELESS CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

''(a) GENERAL AUTHORITY.—The Secretary is authorized to make grants to States in accordance with the provisions of this section to enable such States to carry out the activities described in subsections (d), (e), (f), and (g).

''(b) APPLICATION.—No State may receive a grant under this section unless the State educational agency submits an application to the Secretary at such time, in such manner, and containing or accompanied by such information as the Secretary may reasonably require.

''(c) ALLOCATION AND RESERVATIONS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2) and section 724(d), from the amounts appropriated for each fiscal year under section 726, the Secretary is authorized to allot to each State an amount that bears the same ratio to the amount appropriated for such year under section 726 as the amount allocated under section 1122 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 to the State for that year bears to the total amount allocated under section 1122 of such Act to all States for that year, except that no State shall receive less than $125,000 or ½ of 1 percent of the amount appropriated under section 726, whichever is greater.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and a Member opposed will each control 5 minutes.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time otherwise reserved for the opposition.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER)

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, from the time the committee marked up H.R. 1 until today, I have been working with the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) and many other Members from both sides of the aisle to resolve a number of issues. Those issues that we have resolved have been included in this manager's amendment, and I wish to thank all of the Members for their cooperation.

In addition, there are several technical and conforming changes that have been included in this amendment as well. In title I, we have made several changes. First, we have made it clear that transportation is to be provided for public school choice when a school is designated as low performing.

Second, we have clarified the role of parents in developing a school's restructuring plan.

Third, we have made clarifications on the assessments used by Bureau of Indian Affairs schools and made clear that tribal organizations operating Bureau of Indian Affairs schools are to be treated as local educational agencies for purposes of implementing school improvement and corrective action programs.

In title II, we have made technical changes regarding State activities and local uses of funds with respect to teacher advancement initiatives and pay differentiation.

In title III, part B, we have made changes concerning the accountability of the Secretary of the Interior for the improvement of schools funded or operated by the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Under the innovative education block grant in title IV, we have added two items to the local uses of funds at the school district level. First, we have included activities to enhance or establish prekindergarten programs for 3-, 4-, and 5-year-old children. Second, we have included academic intervention programs for students most at risk of not meeting State academic achievement standards as a use of funds, as well as programs for students not completing secondary school.

In title V, part B, we have clarified that one of the purposes of the technology grants is to provide training in the use of technology as a part of ongoing professional development.

With respect to title VI and Impact Aid, we have added a provision that clarifies that school districts which have no tax base and whose boundaries are held in trust by the Federal Government are considered heavily impacted and therefore eligible for payments under the program.

In the 21st Century Schools program, we have made a technical correction regarding the transferability of funds at the local level.

In title VIII, we have made technical changes regarding local consolidation plans. Finally, in title VIII, we have added a study on the effects of testing on children.

Mr. Chairman, I wish to thank my ranking member, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) and other Members from both sides of the aisle for their cooperation in working out the matters.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman, has quite properly explained his amendment, and we have no opposition to it.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. BAIRD).

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Chairman, I would invite the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, to engage in a brief colloquy.

Mr. Chairman, as the gentleman from Ohio knows, part D, section 5401 of this legislation deals with elementary and secondary school counseling programs and authorizes grants for local school boards to establish or expand counseling programs in the school.

Before coming to Congress, I spent 23 years as a practicing clinical psychologist; and I want to thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and members of the Committee on Education and the Workforce for including this element of the bill. Our kids deserve to get high quality counseling, and this bill provides the means for more schools to reach these children more easily.

However, I am concerned that this important and well-meaning provision could be misunderstood by States and local school boards with respect to clinical psychologists. While the distinction between a school psychologist and a clinical psychologist is subtle, it is an important difference.

Clearly there are cases that would be better handled by a school psychologist, and there are others in which a clinical psychologist may be better suited to counsel a particular child. But as I read the bill now, it may not be apparent that a school could utilize the services of a clinical psychologist. I would hate to see a child who needed a certain level of care was unable to receive that level of care.

Would the gentleman agree to seek to include the words ''clinical psychologist,'' to insert those words in this section once the bill goes to conference?

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BAIRD. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I think the gentleman raises an important point, and I agree with him that all of our children deserve the most appropriate level of care that can be offered. Therefore, I will commit to work with the gentleman from Washington (Mr. BAIRD) when we get to conference on trying to ensure that his concern is addressed in the final version of the bill.

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BAIRD. I yield to the gentlewoman from New Jersey.

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Chairman, as the gentleman knows, I have worked hard to include school-based mental health services in this bill. I presented it, and I am happy to know of the gentleman's professional concerns here. I certainly agree with the gentleman's desire to ensure that our students receive the mental health services appropriate and from qualified providers. I do not know if the gentleman realizes it, but a member of my family, namely my husband, is a psychiatrist, so we know what we are talking about here.

Mr. Chairman, I look forward to working with the gentleman from Washington. There is nothing in this bill, or certainly in my amendment that I put in the bill, that would prohibit his proposal here. In fact, I think it would underscore the importance of what the gentleman has stated. And so I look forward to working together to address these concerns in the conference. I am happy to hear from the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman's support for that as well.

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentlewoman from New Jersey and the gentleman from Ohio, and I commend them for their leadership on this issue and thank them for their consideration for children in need.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER).

The amendment was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MRS. CAPPS

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 2 offered by Mrs. CAPPS:

In subsection (b) of section 4131 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as proposed to be amended by section 401 of the bill—

(1) strike ''and'' at the end of paragraph (14);

(2) strike the period at the end of paragraph (15) and insert ''; and''; and

(3) add at the end the following:

''(16) programs for cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training in schools.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS) and the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUDER) each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS).

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am pleased to offer this amendment to provide funding for CPR training in schools on behalf of myself, the gentlewoman from Maryland (Mrs. MORELLA), and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. FOLEY). This is a simple amendment. It would allow funds in title IV, the block grant provision of the bill, to be used to teach our kids CPR in schools. This amendment is based on legislation which I introduced earlier this year with the gentleman from Florida (Mr. FOLEY) and the gentlewoman from Maryland (Mrs. MORELLA) and others to encourage CPR instruction in public schools. It has been endorsed by the American Heart Association, the National Education Association, and the American Red Cross, among others.

Mr. Chairman, heart disease is the leading cause of death in the United States with 220,000 Americans dying each year of sudden cardiac arrest. But according to the Heart Association, 50,000 cardiac victims could be saved each year by initiating a chain of survival. This includes an immediate call to 911, early CPR and defibrillation, and early advanced life support. The Congress has recently taken action to enhance our 911 system and encourage automated external defibrillators to be placed in public buildings. Encouraging more of our citizens to know CPR is clearly the next step as we continue strengthening this chain of survival. Teaching our kids this skill gives them the ability to assist cardiac victims, and will impress upon them how important it is to be prepared to help their fellow citizens in time of need. It also encourages the development of heart-healthy habits, diet, exercise, avoiding smoking. These are good things to learn at an early age.

Mr. Chairman, this bill grew out of my experience as a school nurse in California where I began a CPR curriculum. I saw a need to teach students these life-saving skills. The strength of this amendment is that it encourages collaboration between public schools and community organizations such as the Red Cross and the Heart Association.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, let me first point out that I am not against CPR. My father died at age 55, as did his two brothers, of a heart attack. So did my grandfather on both sides die of heart attacks. I agree CPR is needed. I agree that education on what you can eat, and exercise exercise is needed.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this amendment because quite frankly, any reform bill that is a thousand pages long has a fundamental problem with it in the beginning. In trying to find out where this amendment is, title IV has between 90 and 100 pages in it. It has allowable uses, so to speak, coming out of one's ears. It is not clear that they cannot already use these funds for CPR. It is kind of a pattern that we have in Washington that we think if we do not put in the bill that they can use dollars for CPR to work among the schools and school districts, that somehow the local educators might not realize that CPR is important, or that State educators might not realize CPR is important.

Mr. Chairman, throughout the whole bill we have this assumption that unless we specifically write it in and tell these poor, kind of backwards people in Indiana and California and other parts of the country what they can and cannot do, that we have failed as congressmen.

I know very few schools that do not do CPR training, but I do not believe that it is essential to put that in this bill. In Title IV, Federal funds are used rather than local health departments, or local fire departments and ambulance departments which frequently do CPR training, these funds would come directly out of teacher training and the programs that we are doing to help the schools at risk. Federal programs should be tightly targeted to those in need, not necessarily towards a broad, sweeping program where there are plenty of avenues to fund them at the local level.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman of the committee.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentlewoman from California for yielding me this time.

I think that title IV is a block grant that allows school districts to do all types of activities. Certainly I think CPR training is an appropriate activity for the use of Federal funds. And I absolutely see no reason why we should not include this to the laundry list, as the gentleman from Indiana who is opposing the amendment pointed out.

There is a laundry list, because without some definition of what you can and cannot use Federal funds for, school districts will come up with all kinds of ideas how to use that money. That is why I think allowing this to be included, along with the three items that the gentleman from Indiana requested to be part of allowable uses of funds under title IV, I see no reason why this should not join those and be part of the bill.

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

I want to clarify because I, like many others, have a number of things in this bill and I have been pleased to work with both the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) as we have worked through this bill.

Mr. Chairman, at some point we passed the point of no return. This bill grows and grows. In fact, I wonder why we do not have a national test for CPR. I took CPR in high school; and quite frankly, I do not know if anyone would want me to perform CPR on them. Perhaps because we do not trust the local and State governments to come up with their tests in other areas, we should have a fall back test on CPR to make sure that they are actually teaching CPR in the way that CPR should be taught.

On the other hand, I want to commend the gentlewoman for her concern, and her career concern, with combating heart disease. I know that I am likely to be a lone vote on this but I wanted to make a couple of points. To me this is a symptom of what is wrong with this bill.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote, and pending that, I make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS) will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

The CHAIRMAN. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 4 printed in House Report 107–69.

AMENDMENT NO. 4 OFFERED BY MR. GRAVES

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 4 offered by Mr. GRAVES:

In part F of title VIII of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as proposed to be amended by section 801 of the bill, add at the end the following:

''SEC. 8605. EFFECTIVE USE OF FEDERAL ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION FUNDS.

''It is the sense of the Congress that the Secretary, State educational agencies, and local educational agencies should work together to ensure that not less than 95 percent of all funds appropriated to carry out elementary and secondary education programs under this Act is spent directly to improve the academic achievement of the Nation's children in their classrooms.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES) and a Member opposed will each control 5 minutes.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time otherwise reserved for the opposition.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES).

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, we are at a crossroads in Federal education policy. There are those that still believe that all wisdom lies in Washington, and solutions to our education woes will be found in the bowels of Washington bureaucracy. Yet H.R. 1 is a road down a new path. This legislation recognizes the power, the possibility, and the promise of our public schools.

Today, I urge my colleagues to support our local teachers, administrators, and school board members who in the majority of our schools are finding common-sense solutions to this generation's problems.

By directing 95 cents of every education dollar directly to the classroom, we will empower teachers, not bureaucrats, and we will support education, not regulation. I offer for my colleagues' approval today, a very simple amendment. It directs the Department of Education to join our States and local school districts in an all-out effort to direct 95 percent of all our Federal education dollars to the place in which it belongs the most, the classroom.

Mr. Chairman, too many education dollars are spent on bureaucracies at all levels of government. Federal education dollars should not benefit a bloated bureaucracy. Rather, those precious dollars should provide maximum educational opportunities for all of our students.

As we reauthorize the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, we must do our part to ensure that increased spending is coupled with increased flexibility.

By sending more education dollars directly to the classroom, we will shift the focus of our education system back to the students, the families, the classrooms, the schools, and the communities of our Nation.

Mr. Chairman, while there may be some disagreement on how we do it, we all agree that today's youth deserve an education system that is second to none.

As I travel the Sixth Congressional District of Missouri and listen to the hopes and dreams of youth today from Maryville to Blue Springs and Park Hill to Brookfield, I am reminded that what we do here in Congress really does matter. Our decisions will have a significant impact on our children's future and the future of our country.

Mr. Chairman, the people of this country and the President of this Nation have made education the top priority. Let us join them today in embracing a new vision for American education that strengthens schools, streamlines bureaucracy, and supports our classrooms.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, we have no problem with sense of the Congress amendment on this matter offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES). This has obviously been a matter that has been of growing concern in the Congress to make sure that we, in fact, have the ability to drive every dollar possible to the classroom, to the local level, where the decision-making that is on a day-to-day basis for the well being of our children is made and that they have the opportunity to use those resources that we have dedicated for that purpose.

I would say, however, that I find this somewhat in conflict with those who will support the Straight A's proposal because, in fact, the Straight A's proposal allows 8 percent of the title I money to be held at the State level and 10 percent of the money on everything else to be held at the State level. This is money that a State would hold onto itself, and in many instances we know that that is really about the bureaucracy funding itself, a State bureaucracy funding itself, with Federal dollars. Whether that in some cases is legal or not, the fact of the matter is that is what happens.

So we support this resolution because we strongly believe that we should be driving these dollars to the classroom. We also strongly believe that we should increase the flexibility at the local level, and we have done that in this legislation. That is why later on we will be opposing the proposal on the Straight A's.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, I, too, support the resolution offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES). If we look at the bill that we have before us, we will see that local districts have far more flexibility over how they use Federal funds than at any time in any Federal education program.

We also believe that to the extent possible, we ought to continue to work at reducing the paperwork requirements on States and local districts, so, in fact, more of these funds actually get to the classroom and can get to the children who most need it.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I thank the chairman for his comments. I think clearly this amendment is consistent with what we said we want to do in this legislation, and we have no opposition.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PITTS), who has been a tireless advocate on behalf of sending Federal education dollars back to the classroom.

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Graves amendment. Since I came to Congress, I have been working to promote this idea of getting 95 cents out of every Federal education tax dollar to the classrooms of America. I applaud my friend from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES) for offering this amendment today, an amendment that puts children first in education.

Several States have reported that, although they receive less than 10 percent of their education funding from the Federal Government, more than 50 percent of their paperwork is associated with those Federal dollars.

In 1998, the Department of Education paperwork and data reporting requirements totaled 40 million ''burden hours,'' the equivalent of 19,300 people working 40 hours a week for 1 year just to comply with Federal programs.

Instead of spending money on bureaucracy, I believe that Federal dollars are better spent directly in our Nation's classrooms, on things like textbooks, computers, maps, teacher aids, microscopes, other classroom aids, things that help teachers teach and children learn.

Local schools are best suited to make decisions about allocating resources. They understand their students' background, the needs. They can respond to them most directly with proven methods of instruction. This amendment sets a standard to reduce bureaucracy and ineffective spending, gets more money into the hands of a person who knows a child's name.

We must prioritize the way we spend our education tax dollars and put children first. I urge support for this amendment.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. PITTS. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PITTS) for yielding, and I also thank him for his tireless efforts on this project.

Over the last 4 years, 5 years, he has worked at trying to ensure that more of these Federal education dollars get back to the classroom. I can say we would not be talking about this issue today still if it had not been for the tenacity of the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PITTS). Congratulations.

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, this is a simple amendment, and it does empower local schools.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote, and pending that, I make a point of order that a quorum is not present.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES) will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

SEQUENTIAL VOTES POSTPONED IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, proceedings will now resume on those amendments on which further proceedings were postponed in the following order: amendment No. 2 offered by the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS), and amendment No. 4 offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES).

The Chair will reduce to 5 minutes the time for the second electronic vote.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MRS. CAPPS

The CHAIRMAN. The pending business is the demand for a recorded vote on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS) on which further proceedings were postponed and on which the ayes prevailed by voice vote.

The Clerk will redesignate the amendment.

The Clerk redesignated the amendment.

So the amendment was agreed to.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated for:

Mr. PICKERING. Mr. Chairman, I was inadvertently detained and unable to vote on rollcall No. 129, expressing the sense of Congress that the Education Department, states, and school districts should work together to ensure that at least 95% of all federal education funds be spent directly to improve the academic achievement of children in the classroom.

Had I been present, I would have voted ''yea'' on rollcall No. 129.

The CHAIRMAN. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 5 printed in House Report 107–69.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 OFFERED BY MR. HILL

Mr. HILL. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment made in order under the rule.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 5 offered by Mr. HILL:

In section 401 of the bill, at the end of section 4131(b) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (as proposed to be amended by such section 401) add the following:

''(16) programs to establish smaller learning communities.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) and a Member opposed will each control 5 minutes.

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to be given the time normally reserved for those in opposition.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Tennessee?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL).

Mr. HILL. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 1½ minutes.

Mr. Chairman, when I was growing up in Jackson County, Indiana, there were more high schools than there are today. In towns like Tampico and Clear Spring and Cortland, there were high schools that local kids attended and local families supported. These schools brought people together and helped keep their towns strong and vital places to lives. They were the heartbeats of their communities.

When school consolidation forced high schools to close, it tore the hearts right out of these communities. These high schools, along with thousands of other small schools around America, were closed because for many years educators followed a rule that bigger schools are better. For a long time, we all assumed that bigger schools were better because they could offer students more courses, more extracurricular activities, and could save schools money.

We need to rethink our assumptions about larger schools. New research shows that achievement levels in smaller schools are higher, especially among children from disadvantaged backgrounds who need extra help to succeed.

Mr. Chairman, my amendment would not authorize a separate program. Title IV of the bill includes a list of innovative options that local schools can explore. My amendment would simply add smaller learning communities to that list. My amendment would simply allow local education agencies to judge for themselves whether a smaller learning community program is the best strategy for helping students and teachers.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. DUNCAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Chairman, I first would like to thank the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) for his leadership in the movement to reverse the size of the growth in our schools.

He and I and our staffs have worked together for the last 2 years to obtain funding within the Department of Education for the smaller schools initiative program, a very, very important program within our Department of Education.

At a smaller school, a young person has a better chance to make a sports team, serve on the student council, lead a club, be a cheerleader, or excel or stand out in some other way. Also, a student at a smaller school can get more individual attention and not feel just like a number in some education factory.

Actually, very large schools, large high schools, sometimes breed very dangerous types of situations because, while most students can handle very big schools, a few always feel alienated and feel like they have to resort to strange or dangerous behavior to get noticed.

I was very shocked, for instance, when I read that the principal at the Columbine High School had never even heard of the Trench Coat Mafia, even though the group's picture had been published in the school yearbook.

Agusta Kappner, a former U.S. assistant secretary of education, wrote recently in USA Today that ''good things happen'' when large schools are remade into smaller ones. She said, ''Incidents of violence are reduced; students' performance, attendance, and graduation rates improve; disadvantaged students significantly outperform those in large schools on standardized tests; students of all social classes and races are treated more equitably; teachers, students, and the local community prefer them.

Students are better off going to smaller schools, Mr. Chairman, even in older buildings, as long as they are clean and safe and well-lit, than they are going to large, very centralized high schools, even in brand new buildings.

We have done a good job of reducing class sizes in most places, but too often we are making a very bad mistake in making students go to very large high schools. Just yesterday I had one of my constituents tell me that at her small community high school she knew everyone there, even in the lower grades, but at the large, centralized high school which her daughter attended, she did not even know two-thirds of the people in her own class.

I remember several years ago reading that the largest high school in New York City had 3,500 students, and when they broke it up into five separate high schools, their drug and discipline problems went way down.

I feel very strongly about this issue, and I could go on at length. But I want to emphasize briefly four main points why we need to pass the Hill amendment.

□ 1400

One, educational experts are increasingly rejecting the ''bigger is better'' approach to schools. In the smaller schools, obviously students can get more individualized attention.

Secondly, research is finding that smaller schools especially help minority and disadvantaged students.

The third point, more and more high school principals have criticized ''bigness.'' The National Association of Secondary School Principals recommended in 1999 that high schools change their structure to limit enrollments to schools of no more than 600 students in size.

Fourth, smaller schools reduce violence and criminality.

In summary, the Hill amendment is very simple. It lets local school districts use the local innovative programs to reduce the size of their schools as they feel that that action would improve school quality. This is a very good amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I am proud to join the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) in supporting this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN), my colleague, for yielding the time to me.

Mr. Chairman, I want to congratulate both the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN) and the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) for their amendment that we have before us.

I know firsthand what happens in large high schools. The community in which I live had a high school with over 3,000 students, and the community eventually voted to build two new high schools, and it provided many more opportunities for many of the students that formerly had attended just one high school.

I think under the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL), this is an allowable use of funds under title IV, which is the Innovative Block Grant Program, and this is the type of program that I think is good for some school districts that would make this an allowable use of funds.

It is appropriate, and I support the Hill amendment.

Mr. HILL. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) for their words and their strong support on this.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from the State of Washington (Mr. BAIRD), my good friend.

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) for yielding the time to me.

Mr. Chairman, I want to also thank the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, for their support of this initiative, and I rise in strong support of the amendment.

This amendment allows local school districts to use innovative funds authorized to create smaller learning communities in their schools.

When I was growing up, as with other Members of this body, our schools were a manageable size where you knew the teachers, the teachers knew who the kids were, and we all knew each other.

Communities were proud of their schools. The schools brought people together and helped keep their towns strong and vital places to live.

But the Nationwide trends towards consolidation in larger schools has brought ever-increasing problems. Since 1930, the number of high schools in the U.S. has declined 70 percent from 262,000 schools to 88,000 in 1996. In 1930, the average school had 100 students. In 1996, the average school had 510 students.

It is unbelievable that America's grown by 100 million people, yet the number of schools has declined by almost two-thirds.

I will say it again, too many schools are simply too big today. Yet, research tells us from many studies that smaller schools are more personalized, less bureaucratic, show fewer inequities in student achievement, have higher attendance rates, higher participation in school activities, and violence and criminality are significantly reduced.

In addition, students in smaller schools perform better in the core subjects of reading, math, history, and science.

Think about it for just a second. No matter how big or small your school is, there are only nine folks who play on the baseball team. Kids in smaller schools have more opportunities to participate and more opportunities to be involved, and that makes better schools and better education.

Shortly after the Columbine tragedy, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) and I talked about that and what could be done. We discussed bullying and we discussed this problem of school size.

We talked about what could be done, and I commend with all of my heart the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) for his initiative and the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) and the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN) in proposing this amendment.

It is the right thing to do to move from these massive schools to smaller schools where faculty know the kids and families know the faculty.

This amendment will improve our schools.

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I will simply say this, the school superintendent in my home county of Knox County, Tennessee, told me that the school system he moved from in South Carolina a couple of years ago was the largest high school, it had 3500 students but it was going to 3800 students. That is a trend that we see all over this Nation.

It is a bad trend for the youth of America. We need to do whatever we can to reverse that trend, and that is why I strongly support the Smaller Schools Initiative that the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) and I have worked on within the Department of Education and why this amendment, I think, should be supported by all Members.

Mr. Chairman, I appreciate very much the good words spoken by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, and for his support of this amendment.

Once again, I commend the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) for his leadership on this issue.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HILL. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. SANCHEZ).

Ms. SANCHEZ. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to speak in support of this amendment, because it is a school safety measure. School safety is not just about metal detectors or locker checks.

Safe schools mean that the faculty and administrators can know their students and they can watch for the warning signs of any impending violence.

This is a very difficult time when most of our high schools, especially in the area I represent, have enrollments of 2,000 to 3,000 students. This is also a matter of common sense.

Students feel less alienated and more connected to caring adults when they are in a smaller school. Smaller schools mean that there is improved morale. There is higher participation by the students, higher attendance, lower dropout rates, less crime, violence, alcohol, tobacco problems, fewer behavior and discipline problems.

There is higher achievement in smaller schools and closer teacher-student relations. Overall, smaller schools mean safer schools.

Including real support for smaller schools in the ESEA will show a commitment to providing safer and better learning communities for all of our students.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to support smaller learning communities and prove this commitment.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL) for yielding me the time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HILL).

The amendment was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of today, it is now in order to consider amendment No. 3 printed in the House Report 107–69.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 OFFERED BY MS. DUNN

Ms. DUNN. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 3 offered by Ms. DUNN:

In section 5115(b)(2) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as proposed to be amended by section 501 of the bill, strike subparagraph (D) and insert the following:

''(D) to the extent that expenditures do not exceed 20 percent of the amount made available to a local educational agency under this subpart (except that this subparagraph shall not apply to the hiring and training of school resource officers pursuant to clause (ii)), law enforcement and security activities, including—

''(i) acquisition and installation of metal detectors;

''(ii) hiring and training of security personnel (including school resource officers), that are related to youth drug and violence prevention;

''(iii) reporting of criminal offenses on school property; and

''(iv) development of comprehensive school security assessments;

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentlewoman from Washington (Ms. DUNN) and a Member opposed will each control 5 minutes.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Chairman, although I do not oppose the amendment, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time in opposition.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST)?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Washington (Ms. DUNN).

Ms. DUNN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, first, I would like to commend the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), the ranking member, for guiding us along this road towards reforming America's education system and truly making sure that no child is left behind.

I rise today, along with the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST), to offer an amendment designed to give communities greater flexibility to use their Federal education dollars to hire school resource officers. School resource officers are specially trained, uniformed policemen and women who are sent into the public schools to identify at-risk youth and serve as positive role models and mentors to students.

During the 106th Congress, the gentleman from Texas and I served as cochairs of the Speaker's Bipartisan Working Group on Youth Violence.

Included in the Working Group's final report was a recommendation that Congress provide adequate funds for school resource officers and other programs that bring law enforcement into the schools as mentors and instructors.

Earlier this year, we witnessed the importance of having these safety officers in schools. During a recent school shooting at Granite Hills High School in Southern California, the campus school resource officer was able to stop the youth offender, and he was instrumental in preventing further violence.

The school principal called the officer his personal hero and credited him for saving the lives of other students.

H.R. 1 places a 20 percent cap on the amount of Federal funds local education agencies can use for authorized law enforcement and security activities, including the hiring of school resource officers.

Our amendment lifts this cap and it gives local educational agencies the option to spend any portion of their Federal funds on hiring school resource officers.

Mr. Chairman, our Nation's schools should be safe places. We must provide an atmosphere where teachers feel safe to teach and students feel safe enough to learn.

School resource officers are an important part of any school safety plan, and every effort should be made at the Federal level to give schools greater flexibility to hire these officers as a violence prevention measure.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to support this important amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to offer this important school safety amendment with the gentlewoman from Washington (Ms. DUNN), my friend and fellow cochair of the Bipartisan Task Force on Youth Violence.

After the Columbine school shootings, our Youth Violence Task Force heard from parents, teachers, police, counselors, and other experts about what Congress could do to combat growing youth violence.

We all agreed that school safety officers are a crucial piece of any real approach to youth violence. So the Dunn-Frost amendment empowers schools by lifting the 20 percent cap on Federal funds under title V that local educational agencies may use for security activities, including the hiring of school safety officers.

I have heard directly from school officials throughout my district about the sense of comfort and security these officers have given students traumatized by reports of school shootings.

By placing school resource officers in schools, we enable officers to teach crime and violence prevention, to facilitate substance abuse education, to monitor troubled students, and to build respect for law enforcement.

This amendment directly reflects requests that have been brought to our attention by school administrators, teachers, parents, and students.

It is our obligation to listen to our communities. It is time to stop only discussing the problem of our troubled youth and to start to be a part of the solution to this national crisis.

Passing the Dunn-Frost amendment will give schools the freedom to hire the officers they need to make the students safe, an important step towards helping troubled youth and stemming the tragic tide of youth violence.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. DUNN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentlewoman from the State of Washington (Ms. DUNN) for her amendment, along with the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST).

Under the Safe and Drug Free Schools Program, part of the intent is to make sure there are resources there for safety in school and to allow school districts to have the funds available to do drug prevention programs of many sorts.

I think that the amendment that is being offered, making it clear that school resources officers can, in fact, be paid out of this fund, is a good amendment. It helps the bill. It should be supported.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. DUNN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, let me just make one remark before we close debate on this amendment. It is very important to remember that schools are among the safest place for children to be. We discovered that as I served as cochair of the working group here in Congress on Youth Violence.

The perception that schools are unsafe, however, creates a huge uneasiness and anxiety among our children that they need not feel, but it is up to us and a responsibility of ours and an opportunity of ours here in the Congress to do those things that are positive steps towards reducing youth violence in schools around the country and towards reassuring youngsters that schools are safe places to be.

Schools provide a tremendous opportunity to interact with our youth and positively contribute to their personal development. It is an opportunity that we must not miss. I urge my colleagues to support this important youth violence prevention amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, this amendment demonstrates that Democrats and Republicans can work together. We had an excellent youth violence task force, made a number of recommendations.

I can tell my colleagues that I consulted students, teachers, administrators throughout my congressional district in Texas. We have a program that has been in place in a number of our school districts, in Grand Prairie, Arlington, and other parts of the areas that I represent. This program works. This is a program that must be adequately funded.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Washington (Ms. DUNN).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Ms. DUNN. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote, and pending that, I make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Washington (Ms. DUNN) will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 6 printed in House Report 107–89.

AMENDMENT NO. 6 OFFERED BY MR. HOEKSTRA

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 6 offered by Mr. HOEKSTRA:

In section 1111(b)(4) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 as amended by section 104 of the bill—

(1) strike subparagraph (E) and insert the following:

''(E) measure the proficiency of students in the academic subjects in which a State has adopted challenging academic content and student performance standards and be administered at some time during—

''(i) grades 3 through 5;

''(ii) grades 6 through 9; and

''(iii) grades 10 through 12;''; and

(2) strike subparagraph (G).

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA) and a Member opposed will each control 15 minutes.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment, and I ask unanimous consent that my time be split between the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) and myself, that we will each control 7½ minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA).

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 1½ minutes.

Mr. Chairman, accountability is one of the keys to improving our Nation's education system. There is no doubt about that. Accountability is so important that the President has made it one of the three cornerstones of his education reform package along with flexibility and parental empowerment.

This is not a new issue. In 1994, Congress passed the Improving America's School Act. In that bill, testing was required to be implemented by the year 2001. Our students would be tested once in grades 3 through 5, once in grades 6 through 9, and once again in grades 10 through 12. The deadline was 2001. But so far, only 25 of the 50 States have met that mandate.

Here we are before we have any results from that mandate, we are going back to our local schools, and we are going back to the States and saying, oh, by the way, we were not serious about the mandate that is going into effect for this school year. We are going to give a new mandate that significantly changes the Federal accountability standards that one must meet. Forget about the work that one has completed over the last 7 years. Forget about the money that one has invested. Here is a new process and a new system and a new set of requirements that one needs to meet.

What my amendment does is let us give the mandate for 2001, let us give it a little bit of an opportunity to see exactly what the results and what the impact is.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

(Mr. ANDREWS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment. It is very important to understand what the bill does not provide in the area of testing. First of all, it does not provide for a national test. It provides for States to have the standards and the flexibility to determine in their judgment the best way to evaluate their students.

Second of all, the bill does not provide for punitive results of poor performance on the test. Instead, the test is diagnostic in nature as designed by the States. It is designed to identify those schools and those children that have significant learning needs and difficulties and to empower educators with the tools and strategies necessary to address those deficiencies.

I think the greatest risk of passing this amendment is it means it will never get to the day that so many people rhetorically agree that we need to get to. Federal investment in education must produce results. People agree with that. One cannot measure results unless one tests and evaluates, and most people agree with that. But they say not this test, not this time, and not this way.

I fear that we will never get to the test, we will never get to the time, we will never get to the standard that people can agree is necessary to meet the rhetorical principle that we have set forth.

This bill provides for state-guided testing. It provides for remediation, not punishment, for those who do not measure up. The bill deserves the support of both parties here in the House. I urge my colleagues to reject and defeat this amendment.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK) in recognition of the bipartisan nature of this amendment.

Mr. FRANK. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS), the preceding speaker, kept stressing the virtue of letting the States make a decision. He stressed that this leaves it up to the States. Well, why not follow the logic of this? I agree, the States are the ones who should be making these decisions. Why then mandate as a part of a Federal bill as a condition of getting the Federal money that the States have to test the students in five grades every year?

I want to be clear this is not an argument about testing. This is an argument about the Federal Government deciding today that every school has to test students. Now, yes, the States get some flexibility, but within a very rigid mandate.

There was a problem about whether or not we are ready to do this testing. I read in the New York Times that some of the testing entities pay $9 an hour for people to grade essay tests. I want to say to my colleagues, pass a law now whereby the Federal Government mandates that every State get into the testing business, ready or not, and the results will be so unpleasant that pretty soon my colleagues will be answering a lot of letters on it. They better pay the people on their staff who answer those angry letters more than $9 an hour, because they are going to be difficult letters to answer.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from San Diego, California (Mr. CUNNINGHAM).

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment. The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA) has done some marvelous things, I think, in education. He has identified multiple programs, and he has got my utmost respect. But I think the gentleman is wrong on this particular issue.

I have talked to the superintendents in San Diego. They are opposed to the amendment. They want the flexibility to test. I spoke to a group in New York that were against it; and basically, they were from an affluent school, and they wanted their students to be able to go on to Harvard and Yale and those things; and they thought that a higher level of testing would limit them from doing that.

We want to be able to judge. We put billions of dollars, which my colleague has fought against, in education without accountability. This is one way that we feel that, if we put the money in, we hold the schools and raise the bar, because if one lowers the bar, that is going to lower the standards. The only real way to assess that is with this quality standards.

I laud the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA) for his effort in education, but I do oppose the amendment.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, just in response, my superintendents back home like controlling their own schools. They are not looking for another Federal mandate.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. SCHAFFER).

Mr. SCHAFFER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Michigan for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I, too, am one who finds myself in rare disagreement with the previous speaker; and his argument speaks actually in favor of the amendment, I would think.

Flexibility is the desire here. The amendment certainly achieves more of it rather than less of it in relation to the rest of the bill. Flexibility, Mr. Chairman, should be something upon which we all insist here in this Chamber. Flexibility was the cornerstone of the President's plan when he first introduced it, the Leave No Child Behind proposal that we have all seen, that we have all worked off of. The document looks just like this. It is a brilliant agenda for America's schools. But this plan has been left behind by the Committee on Education and the Workforce and in the bill that is before us.

What I mean by that is the flexibility component, what is called Straight A's, or as the President referred to it, Charter States, was taken out of this bill. The flexibility provisions are essentially gone. There was another provision dealing with choice, the portability of title I funds, that the President mentions in his plan and that Secretary Paige forcefully advocated before the committee. But that provision was taken out in the first amendment that the committee considered.

So at this point, the question becomes, how can we as a legislative body here on the floor reinstitute as much flexibility for States as we possibly can? This amendment is one answer in that regard.

If one holds up all 1,000 pages of the bill that we are considering today, one will find that the word ''must'' appears 11 times; the word ''ensure'' appears 150 times; the word ''require'' appears 477 times; the word ''shall'' appears a whopping 1,537 times; and ''shall not'' is in this bill 123 times.

Now, I would submit that, by the time the day is over, we should be able to come together on a flexibility amendment of some sort. The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA) has proposed one when it comes to the testing provisions.

I would ask my colleagues to consider this new testing requirement that is in the bill within the following context. For the first time, this Congress, through this legislation, will attach Federal cash to test results.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2¼ minutes to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROEMER), a member of the committee.

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from California for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that so many Members here arguing to rip out the testing proposal in this bill are for the status quo. They are happy with the fact that 60 percent of kids in the inner city cannot read at a fourth grade level, six out of 10. So we are going to continue the same policies that we have had up to this date. That is unacceptable. We have got to change the status quo.

I was in some schools up in New York visiting. Eighty percent of some of those children are having trouble passing tests. Is that acceptable? We must change the status quo with new ideas and with resources to remediate and help these children.

Now, all of us have problems and reservations with tests. A test done right is not a high-stake test. It is a diagnostic tool combined with a host of other things to determine whether or not that child goes to the next grade or graduates. It is not the sole indicator.

The other point I want to clear up, in this legislation, Indiana will continue to say and pick and determine what kind of tests they develop. Whether we have the ISTEP+, or the Iowa, or the Stanford, or the TerraNova, or a combination, that is our decision under this bill. We decide that.

But the deal in this bill is there is accountability and there is resources. We are going to help those children. We are going to help those children that cannot read at fourth grade reading level before they fail. We are going to get tutoring for them, and we are going to get after-school programs for them and summer school programs.

This committee is going to work directly with the appropriators to see that these authorization levels are put into law.

I would end on this note: we have many Republicans standing up saying that this bill is not the President's bill. If this amendment passes, this amendment guts the heart and the soul from the President's bill, and I understand he will veto this bill if this amendment passes. So defeat this amendment. Keep this bipartisan proposal going forward to conference.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from New Jersey (Mrs. ROUKEMA).

(Mrs. ROUKEMA asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Chairman, I want to associate my remarks with the remarks from the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROEMER), my colleague on the committee, and rise in strong opposition to this amendment.

Testing is the centerpiece of the President's education plan! Why in the world would we want to eliminate testing?

Let me say this again—testing is the essential component of holding schools accountable. In its current form this bill provides unprecedented flexibility to our school districts. But as we provide that flexibility, it is important that federal education programs produce real, accountable results. And the best way to hold schools accountable is through testing. Testing helps us gauge whether children are truly learning and whether our federal education programs are effective.

For far too long, many federal education programs have failed to produce increases in student achievement. It is imperative that the programs we reauthorize in this bill contain mechanisms that make it possible for the American people to evaluate whether they work.

The testing provisions in this bill provides accountability and demands results through high standards and assessments. And it provides appropriate responses to address failure. States will be required to test students in grades 3–8.

The states will develop their own standards and assessments under this bill. We are not dictating a national test. But we are saying that if you are going to accept federal education funding, then you are going to be held accountable for results.

State test results are confirmed through the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) or similar test, which would be required annually for grades 4 and 8 in reading and math. If a state improves on NAEP and their state assessments each year they will be eligible for rewards, and if it does not, there will be sanctions.

We reward states and schools that improve. Those that do not improve will undergo corrective actions. Striking a balance between state and federal responsibility is the right approach to accountability.

This bill takes a meaningful step towards leaving no child behind. And this amendment guts the major accountability provision in the bill. As such, I urge all of my colleagues to oppose the amendment.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE), the subcommittee chairman that is responsible for this bill.

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. I thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), I thank the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), and I thank the President of the United States because they have come up with a plan which might finally change education and improve education opportunities for kids in our country.

One of the sponsors of this bill, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA), has said earlier the rule will allow us to vote on amendments which will restore the President's plan.

This will gut the President's plan. This amendment would absolutely gut, go to the very heart of what the President is trying to do.

For 35 years, we in the Federal Government have tried, with a lot of money, to help kids, particularly lower-income kids, because that is the obligation which we have assumed, to be able to be educated better. It is fairly flat-lined, as far as that improvement is concerned, and we have to do something different in order to do this. To do that, we do need to have the standards and the assessments, and part of the assessments is the testing. And that is something we absolutely need to go forward with.

Annual testing will produce more accurate and timely disaggregated data to determine not just overall progress, but progress in narrowing the stubbornly persistent achievement gap between all students. Tests do put pressure on children to perform. We all understand that. We went through it. But I also believe it is important to identify academic weaknesses early. This allows teachers and parents to intervene in a timely manner. That has not happened before. After all, we are not focusing on input, such as books or paperwork, but the result, real student learning, and that is what education is all about.

Without annual tests, student achievement data will not be comparable from year to year, the value added by a school or teacher will be hard to calculate, and the State-wide reporting of results, including results by race and income, will be unworkable. The entire system of accountability will be undermined. If we are serious about education reform, we need to know the unvarnished facts about where our children stand against standards, and we need to help diagnose problems and design remedies to improve student achievement.

While nothing will give us an ironclad guarantee for success, one thing is certain, more of the same will guarantee more of the same failure. And that is exactly what the Hoekstra-Frank amendment gives us. We all should oppose this amendment.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to my colleague, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT).

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the amendment. When we discuss the issue of testing, I think we have to remember the farmer's adage, ''You do not fatten the pig by weighing the pig,'' meaning you do not improve education merely by giving tests. So I support this amendment for the following reasons:

First, there is already, in current law, provision for adequate testing. Only 11 States are in compliance with this requirement, and States spent over $400 million last year alone trying to come into compliance with the current law involving testing.

Second, the new test requirements in H.R. 1 will cost substantially more than what we are providing for in the bill. A recent USA Today article reported, and I quote, ''fulfilling President Bush's proposal to test every student in grades 3 through 8 could cost States as much as $7 billion over the next 7 years, the National Association of School Boards of Education says.''

Mr. Chairman, finally, we need to address the potential inappropriate use of the tests: By using them to make high-stake decisions to punish students. Two recent New York Times articles documented that States and localities are increasingly using tests for purposes for which they are not designed and making high-stake decisions to punish students based on one single test. Tests will be given, but there is nothing in H.R. 1 to prohibit inappropriate use of those tests.

For those reasons, Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. SHADEGG).

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Hoekstra-Frank amendment. I rise in support of it for at least three major reasons:

Number one, we already test too much. Federal law mandates three tests already, and this bill doubles that requirement. I hope my colleagues understand that. The Hoekstra-Frank amendment simply says we will continue with the tests that are currently mandated but do not double the number of tests that are required.

Now, how do I come to that conclusion? Well, my wife is a teacher, both of my sisters are teachers, and my niece is a teacher, and I have talked to them about this bill extensively, over and over again, and not a single one of them says that either they or their peers believe that teaching will be benefitted by more testing.

As the gentleman from Virginia just pointed out, you do not fatten the pig by weighing it; you do not improve education by mandating more tests. Federal law mandates three tests already, and yet only 11 out of 50 States comply with this current demand.

The reality is more mandated Federal tests will take up more time. The courts have already reported on this. There is too much testing at this point. The President is right, we should have accountability; he was wrong, we should mandate a doubling of the number of tests.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. MCKEON), a subcommittee chairman on the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. MCKEON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I rise in strong opposition to this amendment offered by the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA) and the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK) to remove the annual testing provisions in H.R. 1.

The gentleman who spoke just before me is right, we do test. We test in the third grade and we test in the eighth grade. But what happens in those years in between is why the President's proposal for annual testing is truly the centerpiece of his education reform plan. His reasoning is very simple. If you do not test, you cannot measure.

I was an animal husbandry student in college, and I learned that they did weigh hogs before they took them to market. You have to test to find out how things are doing, and you had to weigh the hogs to find out if what you were feeding them was appropriate.

With annual testing and appropriate reports to parents and teachers, problems can be found before it is too late to fix them. In other words, without assessments, schools cannot be held accountable for improving student performance. And without assessment information, parents are powerless to choose a better performing school. With assessments, there will be improvements in instruction and in learning by focusing on outputs; year-to-year progress, and student achievement, instead of inputs, such as dollars, teachers or textbooks.

In closing, I urge all of my colleagues to oppose this amendment, and instead support our President, and more importantly, the children of this country.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Minnesota (Ms. MCCOLLUM).

Ms. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

As a mother, I held my children's schools accountable; as a former teacher, I was held accountable; as a Member of Congress, Minnesotans hold me accountable. I do support fair, accurate, and reasonable testing, but I oppose the testing in H.R. 1.

This provision is an unfunded mandate. The funding authorized will not even begin to cover the cost of current testing. Last year, we had problems with testing in Minnesota. 336 high school seniors were denied diplomas on graduation day because of a vendor error. Minnesota expects a testing program that is accountable and is funded, with control at the local level.

I oppose any new unfunded mandated testing, and I urge my colleagues to support this amendment. We can do better for our schools and for our children.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, how much time is left?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA) has 7 minutes remaining, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER) has 2½ minutes remaining, and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) has 3¼ minutes remaining.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST).

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I urge my colleagues to vote for the Hoekstra-Frank amendment.

The portion of the bill that we are debating now represents, in my judgment, the quintessential example of the principle of unintended consequences. Teaching to the test has become the norm in many States. It definitely has become the norm in the State of Maryland.

In a system where high stakes and dollars are involved, this is almost always the inevitable consequence. We do not want to build on the current system because the current system of testing our children is failing. H.R. 1 would buttress a system that is failing, further erode creativity and diversity in the classroom, it would literally tenure incompetence, especially in school administrators, eliminate a professional ethic in the educational field, and enhance vindictive behavior with people who are working to make their schools look good at any cost.

We all know tests and assessments are necessary to find out what the progress is. But for the Federal Government to get into creating a testing criteria for tests, and then obliquely refer to it as accountability, is wrong. Teachers receive degrees. They are licensed to teach in a State. They are professionals. They represent the broad diversity of the country. Now we summarily assume that the aristocracy of Washington and the State capitals are smarter and wiser.

The Federal Government endorsing more tests will not make schools better. They will make them less knowledge-based and turn teachers into technicians. By encroaching on the ability of individual teachers to be unique, we show aversion for the independent thinker, and self-reliance drifts away. Nothing is at last sacred but the integrity of our own mind.

I encourage my colleagues to vote for the amendment that simply takes us back to current law.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON), a member of the committee.

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Ohio for yielding me this time, and I rise for three reasons:

As a former board chairman for the State of Georgia, who implemented mandatory testing for diagnosis purposes, and saw the ability to raise expectations of all children, I oppose this amendment and support the President's plan.

As one who believes that if we do the same thing over and over and over again, it is unrealistic to expect any other result, I show my colleagues this graph. This is $120 billion in 35 years doing the same thing in title I over and over again. And average reading scores of title I students remain today where they were years ago, at the lowest 35th percentile.

Do not be fooled by those who oppose this amendment. The heart of the President's proposal is to hold us accountable for the investment of our taxpayers' dollars and the achievement of our children. If this amendment fails, the President's proposal will have failed and we will continue to do what we have always done and have less than satisfactory results. I encourage my colleagues to oppose the amendment.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Florida. Mr. Chairman, for the last several months I have gotten an earful from parents, students, and teachers in Florida who are concerned that standardized educational testing has run amuck there. Today, on behalf of hundreds of thousands of school children in Florida, I rise in support of this amendment.

I am not opposed to testing students every year, but I believe the principal purpose of testing should be diagnostic. Testing should determine where my third grader is at the beginning of the year and what he needs to do to get to where he needs to be at the end of the school year. Testing should tell my child, my wife and I, and the teacher, what my child's needs are and how to help meet those needs.

I also support accountability. I want to know how my child's schools are doing in relation to other schools. In the Florida legislature, I chaired a subcommittee that wrote our accountability law. But unfortunately, through the FCAT standardized test in Florida, the governor and the legislature have turned that law on its head and are using testing as a public relations tool.

Florida already tests reading and math in the third through the tenth grades. However, teachers, principals, and students receive no information that helps them identify the needs of children and what they need to help those children learn. Teachers and students in Florida are not stupid. They have figured out this testing system does nothing to help teachers teach and children learn. They have figured out this is testing designed by the politicians for the politicians. Teachers set aside their lesson plans and teach the test to help their schools earn the financial reward and to avoid the stigma of being graded as a failing school.

Last week, Florida reached a new inevitable low in testing run amuck. Two Hernando County middle schools bribed their students by offering up to $150 each for a high standardized test score. As one of the principals pointed out, the State is using this same form of bribery with the schools that the schools are now using with the children. One of the student recipients of this financial reward said, it may be a small bribe, but at least it is something for going through the test.

I disagree completely with Florida's Commissioner of Education who says that he does not have a problem with this form of bribery. I think it is wrong, and needs to be stopped now. The standardized testing situation in Florida is a growing disgrace.

Mr. Chairman, let me close by saying I have repeated these concerns to the Secretary of Education. This bill should be written to clearly state the principal purpose of testing should be diagnostic. Until it does, I urge adoption of the amendment.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentlewoman from Florida (Mrs. THURMAN).

Mrs. THURMAN. Mr. Chairman, I stand in support of this amendment. I am a former middle-school math teacher. I started teaching back in the early 1970s. In 1978, the State of Florida put in an assessment, a diagnostic test that said we are going to test children at 3rd, 5th, 8th and 10th grade. We are not doing it to test how we are doing nationally, we are not doing it to test how we are doing from school to school. We are trying to find out what the individual student knows or does not know. We started it in October. We did it so that we could look at the student and find out where his or her weaknesses were, and to allow those to be taken care of through remediation. Nothing in this bill does that.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. TIERNEY).

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I stand in favor of this particular amendment. In Massachusetts we have plenty of testing going on already. This idea by the President simply raises the quantity of testing, while doing nothing about the quality. Beyond that, we have the issue of bringing the testing procedure up to scale. The New York Times articles on Sunday and Monday indicate that this industry is not ready to produce the kind of quality tests and have them designed and administered and corrected in an appropriate way. We need to go back to the drawing board and make sure that this is done not as a mandate that will not be funded, but as a way to be actually used as a diagnostic tool for our children.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUDER).

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Chairman, for six years this Congress has insisted and held firm that there should be no national test. We have heard it said that the heart of the President's proposal was to find a national test. I do not believe this is true. The heart of the President's proposal is this: Find out what schools were performing, then provide assistance for two to three years to help them improve. Then if they did not improve, give the parents and the children the flexibility to find a school that does improve.

Mr. Chairman, we have taken out the final thing, which was the heart of the proposal, to give the parents flexibility. Now we say if your school is failing, you are trapped. Furthermore, there is nothing to say that the State tests and the local tests are not sufficient to know whether the schools are accountable.

This amendment says we trust the local teachers, principals, and school boards. We trust our governors. We do not need a national test coming out of Washington, which is one national standard that potentially will reach into every school, into private schools and home schools.

Mr. Chairman, we heard it is only reading and math. But the truth is it can go anywhere. It can be anything because once Washington gets control of this test, we do not know where it is going to go. We will no longer have the local control that we currently have.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, what this legislation says is that we shall annually measure the proficiency of students in the academic subjects in which States have adopted challenging academic content and student performance and standards.

We shall try and make a determination of how the students are doing in meeting that academic standard and content. We are kind of down to the point where we can make a choice. We can do business as usual, hold onto the status quo and we can just continue to see a system that has passed children from grade to grade, not knowing whether or not those children can read, not knowing whether they can compute, not knowing whether those children can reason or whether they have mastered the language arts. Social promotion.

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. OSBORNE), a former coach, talked about it in his remarks. He found as he looked at his new recruits, even though they had a diploma and grades, they could not master the work in college.

We know it from our own school districts. We know it from parents that have talked to us. I teach in a continuation high school, and I see children which have been passed through from grade to grade. We want to stop that. We owe it to those children and parents to stop that. We owe it to the taxpayers of this Nation to stop that.

As the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON) said, $120 billion later, we have not gotten the results that we believe that these children and their families are entitled to, and we have not gotten the results that the taxpayers are entitled to, so we have asked for a system of accountability. We have asked for a system of accountability to determine how our children are doing so then local districts will have the ability to target the resources, target the resources of summer school, target the resources of after-school tutoring and mentoring, to target the resources of Saturday school so that these children will be able to get the help that they need.

Mr. Chairman, one of my colleagues said we do not fatten a pig by weighing them. Yes, one does. One wants to make a determination whether the pig is being fed the right thing, because pigs are sold by the pound. If the pig is sick, one wants to know that. That is why that assessment is made.

People say we test in 8th and 10th grade. In our poor school districts, if a student falls behind in second or third grade, in all likelihood they will drown before they can be helped because the resources are not there.

Mr. Chairman, we want to make an assessment of how these children are doing. Are they performing at age-appropriate levels and grade-appropriate levels, are they mastering the subject matter; and we want to provide the resources to those schools to improve those schools, to keep them from failing, to turn them around. But we need to have that assessment.

This is the heart of accountability. One cannot just say they are for accountability. Someday my colleagues have to step up to the plate and make that determination.

Let me say in closing, Motorola requires a high school education before an individual can make application to their corporation. And I think they turn away about 50 percent of their applicants because they cannot read or perform at 12th grade levels. We owe better to our students; and we certainly owe better to the poorest of our students.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, I want to clarify some of the perceptions of what has been said today. But before I do that, I want to thank my colleagues on the other side of the aisle, in particular the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK), for joining me in bringing this amendment forward.

Mr. Chairman, the Federal Government put in place a mandate to local schools and States to implement testing, to be implemented for 2001. That is this year. We have that mandate in place, and now as local school districts are implementing that mandate, we are saying we are not really serious, the $400 million that has been spent, we have moved the bar and changed the playing field.

The role of the Federal Government should be to audit the results. We should not mandate on a yearly basis what will be going on in our local school districts.

Our local school districts have had enough of unfunded Federal mandates: IDEA, unfunded. Testing, underfunded. Testing is not yet ready for prime time.

Mr. Chairman, I encourage my colleagues to support this amendment and stick with the agreement in the mandate that we put in place for 2001. Let us not pull the rug out from under that mandate and create a new mandate.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, Members know we have worked hand in glove across the aisle since January to produce the bill that we have on the floor before us today. This is a very good bill. But we have all known at the essence of it, the core of this bill is to require real accountability from every school in America that gets Federal dollars.

We have spent $120 billion over the last 35 years, and we have not gotten results. We have spent $80 billion over the last 10 years in the heart of the school reform movement and have gotten no results. How many more hundreds of billions of dollars are we going to spend here in Washington without asking our schools to give us real results.

What do we say to the lost generation of Americans that we have over the last 25 years because we passed them through grade after grade, year after year, and never asked whether they could read or write? Is that fair? No.

And to my African American colleagues in this Chamber and to my Hispanic colleagues in this Chamber, and to my colleagues in this Chamber who represent low-income communities, they should be demanding more than any of us that we have testing year by year because it is the students in those schools who get short-changed year after year because no one knows what is really happening.

Mr. Chairman, I would say to all of my colleagues, it is time to have accountability. It is time to stand up and show the courage that it takes to bring real results to our schools and to take our heads out of the sand and quit ignoring incompetence and quit ignoring the fact that some of our kids, and too many of them, are not learning.

Mr. DAVIS of Florida. Mr. Chairman, for the last several months, I have been getting an earful from parents, teachers and students who are concerned that standardized educational testing in Florida has run amuck. Today, on behalf of hundreds of thousands of Florida public school students subjected to these tests, I rise in support of the Hoekstra/Frank amendment.

I am not opposed to testing our students every year, but I believe the principle purpose of testing should be diagnostic. Testing should determine where my child is at the beginning of the school year and what he needs to work on to get where he should be at the end of that school year. Testing should tell my child, his teacher, my wife and me what we need to know to help him improve as a student.

I also support accountability. I want to know how my child's school is doing in comparison to other schools. In fact, while I served in the Florida House of Representatives, I chaired the Subcommittee that wrote Florida's Accountability law. Unfortunately, the Governor has turned that initial law on its head and is now using testing as a public relations tool rather than a true measure of students' academic abilities.

As many of you know, Florida is already testing students in grades three through eight in reading and math. The Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test, FCAT, also tests writing in grades four, eight and ten. Unfortunately, as I stated above, the purpose of the FCAT is to grade our schools and implement high stakes penalties or rewards based on their scores, NOT to see where our students need help to boost their performance.

That's right. Under the FCAT, teachers, principals, parents and students get no information from the test identifying the needs of individual students and how to help them improve.

Teachers and students in Florida aren't stupid. They have figured out this testing system does not help teachers teach or students learn. It is, instead, testing by the politicians, for the politicians with an end result of pitting school against school.

In response, teachers set aside their lesson plans and teach to the test to help their school earn a high test score in hopes of earning financial rewards and avoiding the stigma of being labeled a failing school.

As a result, last week in Florida, we reached the inevitable new low in testing run amuck. In Hernando County, Florida, two middle schools are paying kids for good scores on the FCAT. That's right. These schools are bribing their students with up to $150 for high scores on the reading, math or writing portions of the FCAT. Again, the FCAT is not designed to help students. Because the test does not motivate students to learn, these schools feel they have no alternative but to use financial rewards to encourage students to do well on the FCATs. The Principal of one of these middle schools pointed out that the State is using this same type of bribe to help the schools perform better on the tests, and the school has merely passed that bribe on to its students. As this Principal asked the Governor, ''What's the difference?''

One of the student recipients of a monetary reward said the following, ''I thought it was pretty good. It's a little bribe. That way, it's not just a pain-in-the-butt test, you actually have something.''

The reaction of Florida's Commissioner of Education to the bribe was, ''. . . I don't have a problem with it. . . . It's legal, it's not unethical. . . .''

Well, I disagree completely with the Commissioner. The last time I checked, bribery was illegal. This is wrong, and it should be halted now.

The standardized testing situation in Florida is a growing disgrace. If we allow it to continue and spread to other states, it will be a national disgrace for which this Congress will be responsible. Worse yet, by allowing standardized testing to run amuck, we will only aggravate the increasing teacher shortage that is currently plaguing our schools. Over the next decade our nation's schools will lose more than 65 percent of their teaching faculty. This percentage can only increase if we do not address these testing problems.

I have repeatedly expressed my concerns that the principal purpose of testing should be diagnostic to the Secretary of Education and the President's Chief Advisor on his education proposal. Both of them told me that they agreed with me.

This bill must be rewritten to clearly state that the principal purpose of standardized testing should be diagnostic—to help teachers teach and children learn. Because this bill is silent on this point, I urge my colleagues to support the Hoekstra/Frank Amendment.

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to express a number of serious reservations about the testing provisions of HR 1.

I commend the committee chair, the ranking member, and all those who have worked in a truly bipartisan basis to bring this legislation to the floor today, but I am afraid that some provisions of the bill as written have the potential to harm, rather than improve, our educational system.

The problem to which I am referring is the mandate for annual testing. I know that many of those who support annual testing do so because they believe we must set high standards in order to motivate our students, faculty, and administrators to achieve. I strongly agree with that goal, but I also disagree with how this legislation seeks to accomplish it.

As a licensed clinical psychologist before coming to Congress, I may bring a unique perspective to this debate. In addition to administering, scoring and interpreting hundreds of tests in my own professional career, I also taught graduate level courses dealing with the design, uses, and potential abuses of tests and test results. So I know something about the matter of testing.

Based on that experience, and a careful reading of this legislation, let me raise the following concerns:

First, this legislation represents an enormous unfunded mandate with absolutely no information provided regarding the cost of implementation or the benefits as compared to other options. I find it surprising that those who so often complain about unfunded federal mandates and bureaucracy elsewhere in our government so enthusiastically support legislation that even by a conservative estimate will require hundreds of millions of dollars of expenditures every year. It is true that this legislation authorizes money to help states design their testing, but the legislation before us includes nothing to fund the actual annual testing that it requires.

Since there is no money in this bill or in the budget to fund the testing process itself, we must ask ourselves how those costs will be borne by our states and local school districts. How many teachers or teachers aides could be paid for with the money to be spent on testing? What level of school repair or numbers of textbooks will go unrenewed because of the money spent on testing? How might those alternative expenditures benefit students more than the money to be spent on testing? And, finally, what is the opportunity cost to our system as teachers and students spend time and resources preparing for the tests rather than engaging in other valuable educational activities?

Secondly, while the legislation purports to require standards, it is clear that there really is no consistent or common standard required. In fact, by leaving the proposed achievement standards up to the states, albeit with some level of federal review, it is quite possible that schools in some states will meet their internal standards while others will fail, but the standards that are met may be entirely different from state to state. This leaves open the possibility that federal dollars will be restricted from some schools where there is actually higher achievement but given to others where achievement is lower but the state standards are also lower. As I read this legislation, there will be every incentive for schools to set low standards on their tests in order to meet the federal requirements and not lose funding. Isn't this precisely what the authors of the legislation hoped to avoid? And isn't the alternative—the micro-management of state testing by the federal government—equally undesirable?

Third, an additional problem with the standards referred to in the bill is that it seems to be legislating the so-called Lake Wobegon effect, in which all the students are above average. The legislation requires all students to meet or exceed the ''State's proficient level of academic performance.'' But the legislation apparently fails to recognize that proficiency standards can be set in several ways. For example, a standard could be a bare minimum level of competency, or it could be a level set by the average student of a given grade. If the average level of proficiency is taken as the standard, by definition of average, not all students can meet that level. Conversely, if proficiency is to be set at a relatively high level, which it should be if the term ''proficient'' is to mean anything important, then we can expect that the natural variations in student skills and development will leave many students coming close to, but not reaching full proficiency.

Like it or not, Congress cannot legislate the repeal of the laws of statistics, and the normal distribution of abilities will be with us regardless of how appealing a law may sound on the surface. This fundamental ambiguity alone should be reason enough to withhold the testing requirement until we have clear answers to the question of what exactly is meant by the requirement of the legislation.

Fourth, even if the questions addressed above could be answered, the logic of using annual testing to evaluate school performance and compare districts is severely flawed. In my Congressional district some districts have turnover rates higher than 40% per year. In many districts there are literally dozens of different non-English languages spoken in the homes. Still other districts have not passed funding levys in years. How can any comparison between these schools and schools with more homogenous or stable populations of students or with greater funding resources be meaningful? And how can the yearly progress or lack of progress of a school be meaningful if 40% of the students turnover every year?

One of the most important lessons I used to teach my graduate students was this—tests, per se, cannot be said to be valid or invalid in and of themselves. Rather, validity is a relative term whose meaning depends on the usage to be made of the test. The point made here is that there will be inherent limitations on the meaning of the scores across schools or across years. In other words, tests of individual student achievement may be designed to fairly and accurately assess the achievements of those individual students and to monitor individual student progress, but use of aggregate data to determine overall educational efficacy of a school, in the face of the other variables that influence aggregate scores, is not a valid use. It would not be unlike mixing together the blood samples from many different patients to measure average health. The mixing of samples defeats the purpose and vitiates the meaning of the findings.

As many of the students I have taught will attest, I believe with all my heart in setting high standards for students and faculty and then providing the resources and opportunities to help them succeed. I also believe that when standards are not met, there should be consequences.

But the testing provision in the legislation before us today, however positive its intent, proposes the wrong solution to the right problem. It will be tremendously costly to local schools to implement, it provides no funding for the annual testing itself, it offers a false premise as a basis for comparing schools and allocating funding, it includes inherent ambiguities in meaning that will produce unintended and paradoxical consequences, and it may well impede rather than enhance the ability of teachers and schools to help students achieve our overall educational goals.

Mrs. THURMAN. Mr. Chairman, as a math teacher in Dunnellon, Florida when the State of Florida mandated the state assessment tests, I started the first remediation classes for math at the High School. The diagnostic testing that was performed allowed educators to address the weaknesses of students before they progress to a higher grade. Recently, I was at a wedding where one of the students who was in my program came up to me and said that he would not have passed math without the remedial work I did with him.

Mr. Chairman I share this story with the House because it is critical that testing be used as a diagnostic process to help students in areas where they are underperforming and not just to collect statistics.

Mr. Chairman, we hear constantly about the federal government getting too heavily involved in state matters. I believe this is a priority we should leave to the states. I also wonder why we are using federal money to duplicate programs already being performed by the states when we should be using the Federal dollars to reduce the class size for our children.

Mr. MORAN of Kansas. Mr. Chairman, I support Representative HOEKSTRA's amendment. The federal government's role in education should be to support proven state and local reform efforts rather than create additional requirements for our local schools. By mandating new testing requirements on every child, every year from grades 3 through 8, this plan will take teachers and students out of class; take dollars out of state and local education budgets; and undermine successful reform efforts already under way in states like my own.

In Kansas, state assessments already take students away from the classroom 6 to 7 days per year. If the assessment provisions pass as proposed, Kansas would have to add 10 new assessments. As a result, Kansas would be administering 21 assessments on an annual basis. H.R. 1 means even more time testing and less time learning.

These new federal mandates are too expensive at a time when education budgets are already stretched paper-thin. In Kansas, the cost of administering state tests would rise from approximately $1.7 million to $9 million. Before the federal government starts tacking on expensive new requirements, it should work to fully fund existing mandates such as special education.

Requiring more tests, will interfere with a 10-year educational improvement effort already under way in Kansas. Kansans have established a system that accurately measures yearly progress of our state, our schools, and our students. Our system holds schools accountable and provides reports to parents. Under H.R. 1's testing requirements, not only will states be required to develop new assessments, but local school districts will have to redesign their curriculums to meet the new assessments. The bottom line: Kansas is making progress, and we should not be forced to abandon a program that is working.

Reform initiatives should come from the parents, teachers and local boards of education, and not be imposed by the federal government in a one-size-fits-all manner. I remain committed in my belief that the educational needs of a community are best known by that community. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the noes appeared to have it.

AMENDMENT NO. 7 OFFERED BY MR. DOOLEY OF CALIFORNIA

Mr. DOOLEY of California. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 7 offered by Mr. DOOLEY of California:

In section 1111(h)(1)(D) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as amended by section 104 of the bill, after clause (i), insert the following (and redesignate subsequent provisions accordingly):

''(ii) information that provides a comparison between the actual achievement levels of each group of students described in subclauses (I) and (II) of subsection (b)(2)(C) to the State's annual numerical objectives for each such group of students on each of the assessments required under this part;

In section 1111(h)(1)(D) of the Elementary and Secondary Act of 1965, as amended by section 104 of the bill—

(1) after clause (v), strike ''and'';

(2) at the end of clause (vi), strike the period and insert ''; and''; and

(3) add at the end the following:

''(viii) a clear and concise description of the State's accountability system, including: a description of the criteria by which the State evaluates school performance, and the criteria that the State has established, consistent with (b)(2)(B), to determine the status of schools regarding school improvement, corrective action, and reconstitution.''.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentleman from California (Mr. DOOLEY) and a Member opposed will each control 5 minutes.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent, although I do not oppose the amendment, to claim the time in opposition.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. DOOLEY).

Mr. DOOLEY of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

First off, I want to compliment the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER), the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE), and the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROEMER) for the terrific work they have done in putting together what is truly a bipartisan education reform bill.

I represent a region of California, the Central Valley, which is one of the most low-income areas of the Nation, an area populated by a lot of farmworker families. It is these children that this bill has the greatest promise of helping, because it is important for us to have our schools ensuring that they are providing the academic programs that are ensuring that these students are going to have the skills that allow them to compete and win in our economy and our society today.

Mr. Chairman, this legislation holds a promise, by providing for greater accountability, to really empower communities, families, students, as well as schools, to really be able to understand what they need to be doing in order to improve the programs they are providing to enrich the academic performance of their schools.

What is also important for us, and that is the crux of this amendment, is that we ensure that that information that we are gathering, through this accountability process, will be easily understood by parents, teachers, as well as the community.

The thrust of this legislation is really truth in accountability. We need to be able to assure that we can provide this data and this information in a manner which really can be utilized and understood by the families so that they can understand what they have to do to see how they can improve the schools, how they can ensure that they are working together as partners with our teachers and schools.

In many ways, this amendment can also be viewed as a sunshine amendment by ensuring once again that when we ask schools to adopt these accountability standards, that they are providing this information in a manner which is easily understood.

This amendment I think will go a long way to ensure that the thrust and the focus of this legislation, which is to provide greater academic performance in our schools through this greater accountability, that will make sure we can translate this information in a way that will empower parents to have a better understanding of what needs to be done and how their school is actually performing.

Mr. Chairman, I ask all my colleagues to support this.

Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROEMER).

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

First of all, I want to thank my dear friend, the gentleman from California (Mr. DOOLEY), for all his hard work on the education bill, but also in helping the New Democrats up to 2 years ago formulate policy and position and substance on accountability and flexibility and resources to help these children.

I know the gentleman, with his district and State, is greatly concerned about this for all his students and for his Hispanic population. I just want to thank the gentleman for all his hard work on the education issue. The New Democrats, as he knows, came out with a bill with Senator LIEBERMAN and Senator BAYH a couple of years ago. I think the President saw that bill, saw a good bill, and decided to campaign on it. That is basically the heart and soul of much of the bipartisanship that we form today.

I want to thank the gentleman for his work from the New Democratic position, and as we work through this bill on the floor and into conference, that we continue to work on many of the things that the New Democrats have seen as vital to reforming education with new ideas since almost 2½ years ago.

I thank the gentleman for his hard work and for his amendment here today. I encourage support for the amendment.

Mr. DOOLEY of California. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, let me congratulate my good friend, the gentleman from California (Mr. DOOLEY). He and I have sat on the Committee on Agriculture for the last 10 years and worked very closely on agricultural policy and trade policy, as well.

The amendment that he brings forward I think is helpful to the bill, because I think the amendment empowers parents. It gives them information that explains in concise terms the academic accountability system used by the State and the progress in reaching the numeric goals for each of our students.

In order to be effective and credible, accountability systems must be easily understood by parents and educators, and I think this amendment will help ensure that that happens.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BOEHNER. I yield to the gentleman from North Dakota.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding, and for working with us on this matter.

The matter I would like to address in this colloquy involves section 117 of the Carl D. Perkins Act. This section authorizes funding for tribally controlled postsecondary, vocational, and technical institutions.

Under prior law and regulation, the funds under this program were awarded to institutions not authorized to receive assistance under the Tribally Controlled College or University Assistance Act, or the Navajo Community College Act.

As such, these funds are critical to the support of two institutions that have for many years provided training consistent with the act and are urgently needed by the students of these schools.

However, the Department of Education has indicated changes in the 1998 Perkins Act amendments modified the eligibility criteria for these funds. This poses a direct threat to the ongoing viability of these two schools.

It was not the intent of Congress to alter the eligibility for section 117 funding. It was not the intent of Congress to cause an end to these schools. Therefore, a legislative clarification is necessary.

Mr. Chairman, if, as we expect, this issue arises in conference, I ask for Members' support to restore the intended eligibility requirement for this program.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank my colleague for bringing this crucial issue to my attention. I recognize the importance of this program for those institutions that have received funds under section 117.

During conference negotiations with the Senate, I will work with my colleagues to restore eligibility for funding under section 117 of the Perkins Act to its original purpose.

Mr. MCKEON. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BOEHNER. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. MCKEON. Mr. Chairman, as the chairman of the Subcommittee on 21st Century Competitiveness, which has authority over the Perkins Act, I, too, want to express my support for restoring section 117 of the act to its original purpose. I understand the importance of these funds to these schools and appreciate the gentleman bringing it to our attention.

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BOEHNER. I am happy to yield to the gentleman from New Mexico.

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) and the subcommittee chairman, the gentleman from California (Mr. MCKEON), for their comments and commitment to work to address this issue.

Additionally, I would like to point out that the American Indian Higher Education Consortium, which represents 32 tribal colleges and universities, worked closely with Congress to create the program under section 117 to ensure a source of core operational funding for vocational educational opportunities.

Dr. Jim Shanley, President of the American Indian Higher Education Consortium, has sent a letter in support of this effort. I appreciate the Chairman's cooperation during negotiations with the Senate.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BOEHNER. I yield to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me.

I would like to echo the comments of the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) regarding this program. Congress did not intend to make eligibility changes in section 117 of the Carl Perkins Act. I will work with my colleagues to address this issue in conference.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of my time to my colleague, the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE).

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Chairman, I think this is an excellent amendment. I think it is important that we understand that this whole legislation and what we do at the Federal Government is basically aimed at helping children who are having problems, who are disadvantaged in some way or another.

By disaggregating this information, as this amendment does, we really do that. By making it simpler, as this amendment does, we make sure the parents, schools, and students themselves understand exactly what is expected, what they have achieved, and where we are going in the direction of education. That is what it is all about.

Having a rising tide will help all children. I think this amendment does it. I compliment the sponsor of it.

Mr. DOOLEY of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Rhode Island (Mr. KENNEDY).

Mr. KENNEDY of Rhode Island. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from California for his amendment and applaud him for his efforts. It is an important addition to this bill.

I would also like to commend the chairman and ranking member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce on this landmark legislation.

I had intended to offer an amendment that would have helped ensure that children arrive at school with all the tools that they need for success. I will instead engage the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) and the ranking member, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE), in a colloquy.

On the basis of a growing body of scientific study, there is an increasing recognition that the foundations for learning are laid in a child's earliest years. Both the President's proposal and the bipartisan bill crafted by the committee took notice of this knowledge in providing for the Early Reading First Initiative to help the development of literacy skills in pre-school age children.

My amendment would compliment the Early Reading First Initiative by promoting young children's emotional and social development, as well as their literacy skills, so they will be prepared for success when they begin school.

This approach was recommended by the National Academy of Sciences, and also urged by kindergarten teachers. It is a proven method to reduce special education placements, grade retention, juvenile arrests, and school dropouts.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from California (Mr. DOOLEY) has expired.

Mr. KENNEDY of Rhode Island. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent for 1 additional minute.

The CHAIRMAN. That request must be for equal time on both sides.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that we have 10 additional minutes on this amendment, equally split between both sides.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

Mr. KENNEDY of Rhode Island. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DOOLEY of California. I yield to the gentleman from Rhode Island.

Mr. KENNEDY of Rhode Island. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me.

Mr. Chairman, this is part of a strategy to improve test scores and academic achievement. It has been proven to work. I know the chairman and ranking member of the Committee share my commitment to ensuring that children enter school with all the tools they need. Their dedication to the educational needs of our youth is evidenced by their hard work on this bill.

I would ask if the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) would be willing to work with me in conference to address the goals of this amendment in the final legislation.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DOOLEY of California. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Rhode Island for his kind words.

Congress has a history of supporting programs that promote school readiness for young children. In the 105th Congress, we reformed the Head Start program to ensure better school readiness programs for pre-schoolers.

We have the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act part C program that provides early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities. Just last year we created a new program for children ages 0 through 6, or I guess one day through 6, called Early Learning that addresses these same issues.

I support the goal of this amendment, helping children to be fully ready to enter elementary school and ready to learn. I believe we can best achieve this goal by working within existing programs and systems. We should encourage providers in the existing programs to address all aspects of school readiness.

I want to thank the gentleman from Rhode Island (Mr. KENNEDY) for his thoughtful addition to this debate. I would be happy to work with him to help achieve this goal.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DOOLEY of California. I yield to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I have spoken with the gentleman from Rhode Island about this amendment. I think we should work to address this issue in conference, Mr. Chairman. It is sound policy to help put at-risk children on a healthy trajectory earlier in their lives. Helping families and communities build children's emotional skills in the early years will lead to increased academic achievement.

This amendment is a strong proposal to do just that, and I will support the efforts of the gentleman from Rhode Island (Mr. KENNEDY) to address this issue in conference.

Mr. KENNEDY of Rhode Island. Mr. Chairman, If the gentleman from California will continue to yield, I thank the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. DOOLEY of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In closing, I urge all my colleagues to support this amendment. Once again, I want to compliment the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman BOEHNER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for their terrific work on this legislation.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BOEHNER. I urge my colleagues to support the amendment, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. DOOLEY).

The amendment was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 8 printed in House Report 107–69.

□ 1545

AMENDMENT NO. 8 OFFERED BY MR. VITTER

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 8 offered by Mr. VITTER:

In part E of title VIII of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as proposed to be amended by section 801 of the bill, after section 8519, insert the following (and redesignate succeeding paragraphs, and any cross-references thereto, accordingly):

"SEC. 8520. ARMED SERVICES RECRUITING.

''Any secondary school that receives Federal funds under this Act shall permit regular United States Armed Services recruitment activities on school grounds, in a manner reasonably accessible to all students of such school.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time in opposition.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER)?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER).

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today to speak in favor of the Vitter-Sessions amendment to H.R. 1. This amendment will prevent discrimination against armed services recruiters and will simply offer them fair access to secondary schools that accept Federal funding.

Mr. Chairman, top Department of Defense manpower officials, as well as the actual military recruiters on the ground, in the trenches, if you will, face daunting challenges in beefing up our military with good, new, young recruits. That is particularly true in a flourishing economy.

What I find truly dismaying and alarming, however, is that the Pentagon estimates there are some 2,000 schools nationally that actually have policies banning recruiters from their campuses.

Should we discriminate against our national interests of a strong armed services by restricting which youth have access to choose a career in the U.S. military?

Recruiters have stated that in many cases they have been denied access simply and solely because of school administrators' own personal antimilitary bias or lack of familiarity with the positive aspects of military service.

What is going on clearly, Mr. Chairman, is pure, old-fashioned bad political correctness and antimilitary ideology being shoved down the throats of our young people.

This amendment simply states that secondary educational institutions that receive Federal funding must allow the same Armed Forces that are sworn to protect and defend the lives of students and teachers access to students in those educational institutions, just like college recruiters, university recruiters, and employment recruiters are given access on those campuses.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I know of no real opposition to this amendment. There are some who obviously think that this is a decision school boards ought to be making. They are elected by the people in the community; if that is the view of the people in the communities, then maybe they ought to reflect that. But I know of no real opposition here.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS).

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER) for yielding me the time.

This Vitter-Sessions amendment is very important for the Armed Forces of this country. We have heard today how school boards all across this country and up to 2,000 schools nationally have banned military recruiters from coming on their campus.

It is of the utmost importance that the American military have the opportunity to not only come and tell their story about the military, but also to attract some of the brightest and best of our young people.

Mr. Chairman, see, many times there are people who have no other opportunities, whether it be college or other directions, and the military stands as a fabulous, not only career, but an opportunity for public service that young men and young women all across our country, and they might not have that opportunity simply because a school board or a school superintendent or principal might have a bias against the military.

I was on the U.S.S. John C. Stennis, which is one of our largest aircraft carriers, just a few weeks ago and spoke with person after person, young persons from all across this country, and many of them expressed to me that the vision and idea that they had not only about serving our Nation came from a member of the military who visited their campus, but also from a loved one who perhaps served in the military.

Mr. Chairman, I will tell my colleagues this amendment to H.R. 1 of allowing the military the opportunity to recruit on school campuses all across America is not only in the best interests of America, but it is in the best interests of every one of our students.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER) for his leadership.

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. SHIMKUS).

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for his kind words.

Earlier today we debated the World War II memorial and remembered those who served. For schools to accurately depict history, they have to talk about those who served.

Serving in the military is honorable. Military service increases self-esteem, discipline, devotion to duty, selfless service, and love of country. That is not too bad. No recruiters; no money.

Let us open the door to those who serve our young men and women and allow them to serve this great Nation. We, as a Nation, will not be disappointed.

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. HAYES).

Mr. HAYES. Mr. Chairman, I enthusiastically support the Vitter-Sessions amendment. It is hard to believe that recruiters do not have access to our young men and women, but this is an opportunity for character education.

It is an opportunity for national security. This brings to our schools, through ROTC, character, honesty, integrity, core values of the military. I appreciate the gentleman bringing this to our attention, and I strongly support the Vitter-Sessions amendment and recommend my colleagues do the same.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Chairman, I intend to vote against the Vitter amendment not because I personally believe military recruiters should be excluded from school grounds but because I strongly support the ability of local communities to determine what is best for their schools and their children.

The CHAIRMAN. All time for debate has expired.

The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote, and pending that, I make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER) will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

The CHAIRMAN. It is now in order to consider Amendment Number 9 printed in House Report 107–69.

AMENDMENT NO. 9 OFFERED BY MR. TIBERI

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 143, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) will each control 15 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI).

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I first would like to thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, and the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Education Reform, for their fine work on this piece of legislation and for their support for the amendment that I am offering at this time.

Mr. Chairman, this amendment expands upon what is already in this bill, which is a good bill; and it will make this bill a better bill.

Under this amendment sponsored by myself and the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE), local school districts could sign performance agreements with the Secretary of Education to allow them to consolidate non-title I formula grant programs together.

Only two districts per State in all 50 States, for a total of 100 school districts, may do this. If approved by the Secretary, districts could be relieved of the requirements of those Federal programs that they consolidate.

If a school district is a failing school district, they may not apply. School districts that fail to make progress during the performance agreement contract may not continue to participate, thus the Secretary may cancel the agreement.

This piece of legislation is supported by the National School Boards Association, the Association of School Administrators, and the Council of Great City Schools. It offers local flexibility, local accountability, which will equal results.

Let us pass this amendment. Let us give additional tools to our locally elected school board members, to our local superintendents, so they can help the young men and women in our classroom.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this amendment. I think basically the core problem with this amendment is that, in fact, the block grant, the manner in which it is constructed and the school districts that would, in fact, qualify for it really stands accountability on its head.

In fact, you have the ability of a school district to be failing, if you will, essentially almost 4 years out of 5 years, and at the same time receive the ability to do this.

Mr. Chairman, I realize that the amendment suggests if you make inadequate yearly progress, you can then have the block grant approach. But the fact of the matter is, you can fail to meet adequately yearly progress for 2 years, you could meet it a 3rd year or you could be back again in 2 years and you continue to get the block grant approach.

I think that that takes away much of the accountability that we have sought to have in this legislation. I think allowing the school districts to use these grants eliminates the very purpose of which we establish these priorities.

Why would we want to have a district eliminating spending on teacher quality when we continue to have large numbers of uncertified and unqualified teachers? Clearly in the legislation before us, we allow for greater flexibility. We also recognize that there is a purpose and a reason for these priorities. That is why we do not go to a block grant.

We try to provide that flexibility, but we also try to make sure that the purposes for which that money was sent is maintained by allowing school districts to move some of that money back and forth across those lines, but not too to engage in the block grant approach.

So for those reasons, Mr. Chairman, I oppose this amendment and would ask my colleagues to oppose this amendment.

I think that the arrangement that we have arrived at within the current legislation that is before us, that the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Roemer) and others worked on to provide a substantially greater level of flexibility for districts, is a better answer than to provide these block grants.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Education Reform.

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI), the sponsor of the amendment, for yielding the time to me.

Mr. Chairman, I join in support of it.

Before I speak to that, I would like to point out something which is very important. We are actually talking about an amendment to something else that was really created by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MINK), who is here on the floor right now, and various others, which is something called local Straight A's, which we have never had before.

I think it is very important that all of us understand what we are dealing with here, because I think local Straight A's was actually an ingenious concept to really introduce flexibility in the use of Federal dollars with respect to State and local governments which so many of us have talked about for so long.

First of all, it is open to all districts and States, local flexibility. Secondly, it is automatic flexibility. You can do it, you do not have to get approval. You just go about doing it.

You can transfer up to 50 percent of the funds in any of the various Federal programs with the exception of title I. Money can only be transferred into title I, and you still must meet the program requirements.

You can transfer up to 50 percent of the money and it coexists with other proposals, such as education flexibility. It is something that virtually all of us in the committee, once it was shaped, agreed upon as something which is a vast improvement to what we have now. I would hope that all of us in this Congress would understand that and would support it.

Mr. Chairman, turning to the program at hand, which is, for lack of a better term, superlocal flexibility, this is an extension beyond that. The gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI) has very carefully thought this out and deserves a lot of credit for it. And my colleagues heard the description of it here.

But there are certain things we need to understand. First of all, this is a pilot program which can only apply to 100 districts in 50 States, no more than two per State across our country. So we are not dealing with all the States.

Second, this program, unlike the local flexibility, would be subject to the approval of the Secretary. So you would have to enter into an agreement with the Secretary in order to make sure that you are carrying out your educational purposes correctly.

Next, the school district would have to make adequate, clear progress or they cannot apply for this. So they would have to be able to demonstrate that. It does include a variety of programs, the Teachers Program in title II; the title IV(A), block grant; the title V (A), safe and drug free schools; the technology programs and certain of the bilingual programs.

But the title I accountability remains and is still part of the underlying concepts of what every school district has to do. The schools must meet the general purposes of the program.

I believe, because of the limitation on it, it is a pilot program, because of the Secretarial approval, because title I is still protected, that giving this extension to those schools who feel they can go this far, and I am not sure there are that many who feel they can, but up to these 100 districts is worthwhile.

I happen to believe in pilot programs when I think it can extend the good purpose of what we are trying to do in education. I believe that is a concept that is embodied in the super-local flexibility program which we have here before us. Remember, no school has to participate.

So I would encourage everyone to look at it to consider supporting it, hopefully supporting it, and joining in giving us more flexibility as we give more money back to the State and local education areas.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND).

Mr. KIND. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from California for yielding me this time. I, as a member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, reluctantly rise in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. Speaker, I have been a strong proponent for greater flexibility at the local school level and in the course of drafting H.R. 1, working in a bipartisan fashion, for the need for greater consolidation of the Federal programs. H.R. 1 contains that consolidation and flexibility.

But with that consolidation comes incredible flexibility already built into the core bill. In fact, between the various titles, excluding title I, the targeted title for disadvantaged students, the rest of the titles on H.R. 1 have 50 percent flexibility in the transfer of funds from title to title. Therefore, I really do not see the need for this amendment.

As the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE) pointed out, I doubt there are going to be many school districts that are in a position to take advantage of it or willing to take advantage, because I believe there are merits to having some specific titles with specific goals and purposes underneath those titles.

In an era in which we are facing a 2.2 million teacher shortage over the next 10 years, it does not really make sense to allow flexibility of taking money out of the recruitment and retention and investing it in quality teaching programs when we have such a shortfall.

At a time when most of us, especially parents with kids in the school district already who are very concerned about school safety issues and the bullying that is taking place on the school grounds, whether or not schools should be taking money out of school safety programs or after-school programs, for instance, I just do not think this is a judicious use of the amendment process in asking for complete flexibility, even though it is in a limited fashion, even though it is targeted at the local school districts, because we have already built in in the underlying bill an incredible amount of flexibility that we are giving local school districts.

I do not think many of us really want to be able to answer back to the constituents who we represent and the taxpayers when it comes to accountability issues.

I think the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) did point out a glaring weakness in the amendment, and that is in overriding accountability provisions that are contained in H.R. 1. We are going to deviate from that aspect with this amendment. So I encourage my colleagues to oppose this and vote for the underlying bill.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON).

Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI) for bringing this amendment to the floor. I rise in support of it because I recognize there are unique circumstances where this type of flexibility ought to be available to our systems.

Rather than making a general speech, I would like to use two specific examples, the city of Dalton public schools in Georgia and the city of Gainesville public schools in Georgia.

Ten years ago, both these systems had a Hispanic population that was less than a fraction of a percent. Today, in the city of Dalton, the percentage of Hispanic students is almost 60 percent, as it is in the city of Gainesville.

This amendment recognizes that there are certain circumstances where the uniqueness of challenges that confront a system are overriding.

To let my colleagues know how pressing that is, in the city of Dalton, a gentleman by the name of Erwin Mitchell, 7 years ago, started something called the Georgia Project, a project that exchanges teachers from Georgia with the University of Monterey in Mexico to teach Hispanic-speaking teachers English and English-speaking teachers Spanish so when they exchange those students, and they come to Georgia, that we have the ability to train children from their primary language of Spanish to the language of English in a rapid period of time.

This type of a circumstance directly addresses the gentleman's amendment. Those two systems could apply to the Secretary and say we have unique circumstances to which we aspire to perform. But we must and need to move resources earmarked for one program into our programs to speakers of other languages other than English.

It is a 5-year agreement. It is performance based. It allows a system that has very unique circumstances, but circumstances that are entirely troubling, to address them and confront them and use Federal funds to do so.

So I think the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI) and the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE) have recognized that there are places and there are times and there are circumstances where maximum flexibility should and ought to be granted. It should be based on the Department's willingness to approve the application of the local system and a contract between the two parties to address specifically the problem that they are confronted with.

I think the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI) and the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE) have recognized we have unique circumstances, that this local flexibility allows us to address those; and I commend the amendment to the body.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MINK).

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I had the privilege of serving on the working group. From the moment that the two sides, the majority and minority met, there were two things which we laid on the table and said from the viewpoint of the minority we could not possibly ever accept. One had to do with vouchers and the other had to do with the block grants that we refer to as Straight A's. There was absolutely no possibility that our position could have been misunderstood.

So as we worked our way through all of the other matters that we were confronted with in trying to develop a core bill, to the very end we were absolutely certain that we would not accept a block grant provision.

What has been written into the bill is not a block grant position at all. It has to do with the transferability of funds from one program, keeping the identified program restrictions. One could move from teacher development into technology or into school safety, but if one did transfer the funds from one project to another, one had to be sure that the program restrictions were completely adhered to. That is not a block grant. That is not Straight A's. That was the commitment that we made on both sides in order to dispose of the possibility that we could really engage in a debate on block grants.

Yet, here we are in developing this particular debate today, struck with a block grant provision which is exactly the antithesis of what we said we were going to come out and defend on the floor.

This is a pilot program. Certainly that is what it is. Two school districts in every State is a modest beginning. It is a pilot program. But without question, it is a block grant because it completely obliterates the program definitions. One could just take the money and spend it for whatever one wanted to. That certainly obliterates the function of accountability for this Chamber.

We are accountable to taxpayers. It is our job to define what the needs of our school districts are. We have defined it as teacher quality being very, very important, the necessity to upgrade our school systems so that they can meet the challenges of the future and technology, school safety, and so forth.

We allow transferability. We are not being stiff about it. But certainly we can see this before us without all the camouflage that this is nothing more than a Straight A's on a pilot program designed to go into the States and give to school districts the opportunity to spend this particular title money for anything that they please. That is certainly not accountability for us.

If we are demanding accountability on the schools and on the teachers, on the principal, we ought to be accountable for defining how monies are to be spent and not allow it to go for a block grant kind of distribution.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. KELLER).

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. I rise today in strong support of the Tiberi-Castle amendment.

For many years, the most dreaded words school board members would hear is we are from Washington D.C. and we are here to help you. Why? Because they only get 7 cents on every educational dollar from Washington, D.C., yet over half of the red tape that they have to fill out because of us. They wanted dramatic red-tape relief and flexibility.

Right now, the bill as is is pretty good. They can use up to 50 percent of their non-title I money any way they want, switching it around. But what we are saying in this particular amendment to 100 school districts is we are going to give you a chance to put your money where your mouth is. We are going to give complete flexibility to the first 100 districts who take us up on it, other than their title I money, to use it however they want, however they see fit in exchange for accountability.

That means, if a particular school does not have a problem with teacher development or have a problem with drug prevention, but they do not have computers wired to the Internet, then they can switch the money they had from teacher development and wire the computers to the Internet.

Similarly, if another school is completely wired to the Internet, but they do not have enough money to hire new teachers or teacher development, they can switch that money.

Complete flexibility, giving them the opportunity to do what is best. No longer will we have a situation, we are here from Washington and we are here to help. This gives them flexibility. It provides local control. It is a positive step to improving our children's education.

If a school district does not believe that this is in their best interest, then they certainly do not have to apply for it. I suspect that we will have 100 school districts promptly apply to this.

I urge all my colleagues to vote yes on the Tiberi-Castle amendment.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROEMER).

(Mr. ROEMER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI) and do so for three reasons.

One reason is because we are here in this body to legislate and to write substantive legislation in order to improve education for children, not to respond with bumper sticker slogans like Straight A's that make appeals to politics.

I am afraid that this proposal that we have offered is Straight A's, plain and simple. It may be camouflaged. It may be Straight A's ultra-lite, but it is block grants.

I encourage my colleagues, I implore my colleagues to read the bill that we have worked on for 5 months. The bill we have worked on for 5 months sends Federal dollars directly to the classroom. Under this amendment, one could divert up to 4 percent of the money for administrative costs. We want the kids and the teachers getting the money.

Secondly, the priorities are set by the communities, the local community, the LEA, not the State, not a State plan, not a Governor, our local communities.

Thirdly, it targets funds to the students that need it, the poor students, the title I.

Lastly, it provides flexibility and local control.

That is all in the bill. Why do we want to change that for a bumper sticker solution like Straight A's.

The second reason we should defeat this amendment is because it flies in the face of accountability. Everything we are trying to do in this bill is trying to attach accountability and better results with flexibility. But under this amendment, one can have a school fail to meet adequate yearly progress for 4 out of 5 years, that is a failing school; and one still gets rewarded for that failure.

One is still able to divert funds to administrative costs or do other things with the money instead of improving it for those children that are not performing adequately.

Lastly, the Achilles heel of this bill is teacher quality. That is something this Congress is going to have to continue to work on for a decade to come. I do not think this bill adequately solves and looks in innovative ways to solve that problem. This amendment exacerbates that problem even more by allowing one to transfer money out of teacher quality as well, too.

The base bill is strong. It allows transferability of up to 50 percent of funds as one meets adequate yearly progress. It is flexible. It targets money to the poorest kids. It emphasizes teacher quality.

Do not succumb to the bumper-sticker solution to complicated education problems in our communities. Vote down this amendment. Keep with the bipartisan bill.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. UPTON).

Mr. UPTON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Tiberi-Castle amendment.

I visit a school almost every week in my district; and I talk to a lot of teachers, parents, administrators, and, yes, school board officials, too. I have always believed in strong local control, that the folks at the local level know best what they need to do for their students and their teachers and their systems.

This is not a mandate. This amendment allows the school district to participate if they choose to participate. It is their decision, not some boilerplate language that comes down from on high.

Now, as I have been listening to the debate for the last few minutes, I hear a number of Members on the other side of the issue in fact saying these words. They talk about we need to look at and define what the needs of our school districts are; ''we'' being, I guess, the Federal Government. No, the locals need to decide what is best for the needs of their school districts, and that is exactly what this amendment does. The school districts themselves determine what their needs are. They alone decide whether they want to participate or not, and whether it be teacher training or the Safe and Drug Free School Act, technology training, or all those things.

No, they cannot steal money from title I, but they can put some of this money into title I to expand that program. The flexibility is there. If my colleagues are for local control, if they want those decisions made at the local level, they need to vote for the Tiberi-Castle amendment.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3½ minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

(Mr. ANDREWS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from California for yielding me this time, and I rise in support of the bipartisan agreement to this bill and in respectful opposition to this amendment.

I understand the rationale of those who support this amendment; that local school decision-makers more often than not make good decisions on behalf of their students, and I agree with that conclusion. But I believe that the flaw in this amendment is its misunderstanding of the historical reasons why we have separate Federal programs for educational needs. These programs are not borne out of a conclusion that Washington knows best. They are borne out of the historical reality that very often States and localities do not address, for a variety of reasons, particular local needs.

Two of the areas in this proposal that are of particular concern are teacher quality and technology. Many of us have read the recent research studies which show that there will be an acute and severe teacher shortage in our country in the years to come. Certainly we do not have all the answers as to how to address that demand for teacher quality, but we do know that very often, teacher quality ranks toward the bottom of concerns of local school districts because of other political considerations that are understandable. If they want to get rid of varsity football, there will be 500 parents at a school board meeting; but if they want to get rid of sabbaticals or summer programs for the teachers, probably no one will show up.

In the area of technology, a similar argument applies. If the school district decides it wants to get rid of the marching band or the drama club, dozens of parents will come out and understandably protest against such a decision; but if there is a decision to cut back on the software contract or a decision not to upgrade the computers in the learning resource center quite as quickly, we very often find no one cares.

So I believe that the importance of defeating this amendment is the recognition of the historical reality that Federal programs here are to serve a discrete and necessary purpose that still compels and demands our support. For that reason, I would ask my colleagues to join with the bipartisan consensus of this bill and defeat the amendment.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER), the chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Chairman, let me thank my colleague from Ohio and congratulate him on this amendment, along with his partner, the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE).

Now, our friends across the aisle, who we have worked closely with through this whole process, are right, they do not like this, and it is why we do not have Straight A's in the bill, that is why we do not have 50 States, and that is why we do not have seven States. Now we are down to 100 school districts in America as a demonstration project for one reason, to let innovation shine.

Now, I think all my colleagues understand that title I is protected under this demonstration project. Bilingual education programs are protected. All of the targeting of resources going to school districts is protected. All of the accountability standards that we have in our bill still exist. But what it does say is that for 100 districts in America, two in every State, we are going to give them an opportunity, if they would like, in exchange for a higher accountability standard, to have more increased flexibility.

Now, think about this for a moment. What happened in American industry over the last 15 years? They began to empower their workers, and as they began to empower their workers, guess what happened? We got all kinds of new productivity in the economy. Every good company in America today does everything they can to empower every one of their workers.

What we are saying with this amendment is let us empower 100 school districts in America to bring to Washington their best innovative ideas about how they can better educate the children in their school district in exchange for more flexibility and more accountability.

I think this is an opportunity to try. This is not the camel's nose under the tent. This is an opportunity to say let us see what is happening in America. Let us give them an opportunity to see how high they can set the bar and to see what they can accomplish. It is a good amendment and it deserves our support.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. WU).

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Oregon is recognized for 2½ minutes.

Mr. WU. Mr. Chairman, I want to say this as respectfully as I possibly can to all my friends in the Chamber. For the folks who just passed a huge, huge mandate on local schools, mandatory national testing, I find this flip-flop of positions absolutely breathtaking. It is one of the striking things we can do in this Chamber.

We debated block grants in the First Congressional District of Oregon, and the decision was pretty darn clear. Not only do Oregonians, and I think most Americans, want some accountability for public dollars spent for public purposes, that is the least that we can do for Federal funds that are spent for identifiable purposes in this bill.

Also, I think Oregonians and most Americans can recognize that block grants are step one of a cynical two-step process. First, you muddy up the waters so that you cannot identify where the money is going anymore; and then the second step is you cut. You cut the support. It is like stretching out a chicken's neck. That is step one. And then the chop comes down.

Step two. It is a cynical two-step process to cut Federal support for education. That was the debate we had in Oregon. The perspective I have on this prevailed in that debate, and I hope it does today.

I urge opposition respectfully to the gentleman's amendment.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Ohio is recognized for 2½ minutes.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Chairman, in Ohio, we have 611 school districts. Within my Congressional District, I have urban, suburban, and rural public school districts. I know of at least one school district, the one I happened to graduate from, that would not be eligible to even apply for this program.

The point of the matter is, out of those rural, suburban, and urban school districts, those superintendents and school board members of those public schools within my district have told me what their problems are, and their problems with respect to Federal funding are, in many cases, quite different. What we are doing today with this amendment, Mr. Chairman, is giving them the elected school boards in public schools throughout America, the ability to decide how to spend the dollars that they send to Washington, D.C.

I urge this House to support the amendment.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Tiberi-Castle amendment, which would place academic results instead of rules and regulations at the center of federal education programs.

Since enactment of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act 36 years ago, our approach to helping schools has been very inflexible and heavy-handed. We have set strict regulations as to what communities can and cannot do with federal education dollars, and what priorities they have to set.

It has become clear that this approach hasn't worked. After all the billions of dollars spent by the federal government since 1965, we haven't seen a narrowing of the rich-poor educational gap, schools are neither safe nor drug-free, and it seems that much of the ''professional development'' money is wasted. It's far past time to try another approach.

I have strongly supported previous proposals to give states and localities more flexibility in the use of federal funds, in return for real accountability, such as the ''Straight A's'' bill in the last Congress and the President's ''Charter States'' proposal in the original version of H.R. 1.

I think the Tiberi-Castle amendment is also a step forward in this regard.

Building on the ''Local A's'' provision in the Committee-reported bill, up to 100 school districts can enter into performance agreements with the Secretary of Education and consolidate programs, freeing themselves from requirements, regulations, and paperwork associated with many federal programs, and allocating resources to more closely fit local needs.

Participation is completely voluntary, and no school district will have their federal funding reduced by one penny for participating.

This amendment will apply the central premise of charter schools—freedom in return for academic results—to local educational agencies, and allow them to spend more time and resources on teaching and less on meeting requirements of various federal programs.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TIBERI).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair announces that, pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, proceedings will resume on amendment No. 8 offered by the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER) immediately after this vote, and that a vote on amendment No. 8, if ordered, will be reduced to 5 minutes.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 217, noes 209, not voting 6, as follows:

So (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. GARY MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, yesterday on rollcall vote 127 I was electronically recorded as voting ''yes'' on H.R. 1885. I intended to vote ''no.''

CONGRATULATING DETROIT AND ITS RESIDENTS ON THE TRICENTENNIAL OF THE CITY'S FOUNDING

Mr. LATOURETTE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Government Reform be discharged from further consideration of the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 80) congratulating the city of Detroit and its residents on the occasion of the tricentennial of the city's founding, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LATOURETTE) to explain the bill.

Mr. LATOURETTE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me.

Mr. Speaker, this resolution congratulates the city of Detroit and its residents on the city's tricentennial. It is fitting that the Congress chooses to honor Detroit's three centuries, rich in culture, ethnic diversity, natural resources, commerce, and industry.

Detroit, which began in 1701 as a French community known for its fur trade, is now the tenth most populous city in the United States. Throughout its history, Detroit has served as a strategic staging area during the French and Indian War, an important stop for the Underground Railroad, and as the city that made automobiles affordable for people of all walks of life.

Detroit also has a rich sports tradition and unique cultural attractions. Several centers of cultural excellence are located in Detroit, including the Lewis College of Business, the only institution in Michigan designated as an historically black college.

Throughout its history, Detroit has provided America with many great artists, including Berry Gordy, who created the musical genre known as the Motown Sound.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of Congress, I would like to congratulate the city of Detroit and its residents for their important contributions to the economic, social, and cultural developments of the United States. This year Detroit is 300 years old.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, continuing to reserve the right to object, I would say that the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK) introduced this resolution to congratulate Detroit and its residents on the 300th anniversary of the city's founding.

The city of Detroit, founded in 1701, incorporated as a city in 1815, has many great attributes, but none greater than the people who contribute to the cultural and economic diversity of the city.

During the 19th century, it took brave and courageous people to make Detroit a vocal center of antislavery advocacy, and for more than 40,000 individuals seeking freedom in Canada, it was an important stop on the Underground Railroad.

Detroit is known as the automotive capital of the Nation, and an international leader in automobile manufacturing and trade because of the workers and laborers who worked on the assembly line, and continue to do so.

It is fitting that the Detroit Historical Museum, in recognition of Detroit's 300th anniversary, honor 30 Detroiters who dared to make a difference. The exhibit features the biographies of Detroiters who have made a difference in various ways over three centuries. It is not meant to choose or display the most important people. Rather, the names selected illustrate the diversity of Detroit's history by telling lesser-known stories.

I certainly want to congratulate the city of Detroit.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I thank the chairman, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LATOURETTE), and the gentleman from California (Mr. WAXMAN) of the full committee for allowing us to have the full debate this afternoon, and to bring House Concurrent Resolution 80 forward.

The city of Detroit was established in 1701. We will be celebrating our 300th anniversary with ceremonies in July, at which time we will have people coming forth to our city, and over 1 million residents there, honoring our great heritage.

I am very thankful to the committee, its chairmanship, the ranking members, as well as my colleagues, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS) and our senior member, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LATOURETTE), for allowing us to have this debate today.

As has been mentioned, from Motown Sound to the motor cars, Detroit has been in the forefront of development for our country. We have been there for this country, and we appreciate all that the citizens of the city of Detroit have done in their own right and for the Nation as a whole.

I appreciate the cooperative record of the Michigan delegation. Each member of our Michigan delegation has signed onto this resolution. We appreciate them in a bipartisan way for acknowledging the city of Detroit.

Again, on July 24, we will make this special presentation to the city founders and the city followers, as well as the city residents. I appreciate this Congress allowing us to pass today House Concurrent Resolution 80.

Mr. Speaker, continuing to reserve the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Detroit, Michigan (Mr. CONYERS), our senior colleague.

(Mr. CONYERS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague, the gentlewoman from Detroit (Ms. KILPATRICK), for bringing this special resolution to the attention of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to just talk about the great events that occurred as I was watching the civil rights movement develop; that is, with the coming of Dr. Martin Luther King, Detroit became a base for civil rights activity, and frequently there were fundraisers and church events that were attended by Dr. King, Reverend Andrew Young, Reverend Ralph Abernathy, and many others.

Detroit became, along with New York and Los Angeles, a great center for support for Dr. King, which led to his civil rights march in Detroit down our main street, Woodward Avenue, in 1963, which had been the largest freedom march that had been held up until the March on Washington.

There, we were treated in Detroit to hearing Dr. Martin Luther King's ''I have a dream'' speech, which was in its formative stages there, but one cannot fail to pick that up. I was pleased to have been there.

My interest in the civil rights movement, as one who went South, was emphasized by the coming on later of a young lady from Montgomery, Alabama, named Rosa Parks, who came forward and chose, for reasons I cannot explain, Detroit as her home after she led the bus march, the bus protests, in Alabama which had called Dr. King to its leadership and thrust him into prominence in the civil rights movement.

Mr. Speaker, the civil rights activity was very, very important.

The other thing that seems to me to be important is not only the development of the automobile industry in Detroit, where all the then three largest manufacturers had their headquarters, but was the development of the collective bargaining movement in which the United Automobile Workers organized members.

It was after Flint General Motors was organized they immediately came to Detroit, where the Chrysler plant on Jefferson Avenue was organized. My father was then a strong supporter of the labor movement and worked in that plant, and there was great excitement and a great amount of tension, and there was a great struggle.

Finally, after GM was organized in Flint, Chrysler was organized in Detroit, and then they went out to the workers in the plants, continued to go to Ford, Ford Motor Company in Dearborn, Michigan, where they had the great battle of the overpass in which it was a very bloody confrontation.

There is still pictures of Walter Ruther and others, R.J. Thomas perhaps and Addis and Frankenstein to earlier people that worked with Walter Ruther, walking towards all these people. The company had a practice of hiring people who were known for their proclivities towards violence.

There was violence. There were injuries. Police were called in, but it was finally organized, and the UAW went on to become one of the largest unions in the AFL-CIO. So there was this tremendous excitement that has always characterized Detroit. We unfortunately had race riots in 1943 and 1967.

I remember then-President Lyndon Johnson called me at my home to tell me who he was sending in as a special emissary. We worked with them in terms of bringing order back into Detroit.

Mr. Speaker, at the same time that was coming up was the election of people of color, and one person in particular that has to be mentioned in this tricentennial observation who was the first African American mayor, Mayor Coleman Alexander Young, who was himself a labor organizer, he came back and became a constitutional convention member in Michigan in 1958.

Then he went on to become a State senator himself, and then helping me in my attempts to come to the Congress. Shortly thereafter, ran for mayor of the City of Detroit himself, where he was the Mayor for probably more than 15 years, many terms in which we saw the blooming of many people who went on to other prominent positions who worked for the city, including Conrad Mallett who became not only a justice of the supreme court of Michigan but the chief justice of the supreme court.

Then we had earlier, at an earlier period another attorney that worked with Mayor Young who was a lawyer working with him, he became a member of the supreme court; that was Dennis Archer, who then later became the mayor who ultimately replaced Mayor Young. He is currently the Mayor of the City of Detroit.

I close with a comment and observation in remembrance about our cultural contributions, because there were two cultural forces operating, one was the traditional rhythm and blues sound that was developed by Barry Gordy and his sister Esther Gordy. As a matter of fact, the whole Gordy family, some of whom are still members of the district of the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK), they created the unique Motown sound of Stevie Wonder, the Supremes, the Temptations, the Everythings.

The music became a national trend, Philadelphia picked it up, and developed it in another direction.

The other current that was going on was the contribution of progressive jazz called be-bop, which Charlie Parker, Dizzy Gillespie, and it just so happened that there was one drummer there named J. C. Heard, who with Norman Grand started jazz at the Philharmonic, and artists poured in, Dizzy Gillespie, all the great artists came through Detroit. It became a jazz mecca and then produced its own generation, the next generation of jazz artists, Milt Jackson, Donald Byrd, Yusef Lateef, Barry Harris. It goes on and on.

It became a great center and still is where now we have artists like Donald Walden, a great tenor saxophone player who is a resident professor in jazz at the University of Michigan. Jon Hendricks of the Lampert, Hendricks and Ross trio is a professor of jazz at the University of Toledo.

Wayne State University has an accredited jazz center. Of course, that piqued my interests, because it was jazz musicians that urged me to go to law school, because I tried to play.

So we have all had wonderful continuing relationships with the musical artists of both genres from one end of the country to the other.

It is out of this struggle in civil rights, the struggle in collective bargaining, the development of our culture that we have enjoyed such wonderful experiences from a great and diverse population that makes this remembrance and recollection that other Members will contribute to one of great personal privileges for me to participate.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK) for bringing this to our congressional and national attention.

Mr. Speaker, Detroit was founded in 1701 by French settlers, and named their new home Fort Panchutrain de De Troit, meaning ''at the straights.'' This frontier outpost in the wilderness was and remained ''the frontier'' for the next hundred years. The site was a natural selection, located along the banks of what is now the Detroit River, a narrow straight separating what is now the United States and Canada, and connecting Lakes Erie, St. Clair, and Lake Huron. The river provided a source of food and an easy means of transporting goods, an activity that remains a vital piece of the Mid-West's economic health.

As a frontier settlement, Detroit passed from the control of the French to the British and finally to American hands in 1760. Detroit was incorporated as a city in 1802, and named capital of Michigan Territory in 1805. In the summer of 1805 Detroit burned to the ground, but the site was not abandoned. The British recaptured Detroit in the War of 1812, but was recovered by Gen. William Henry Harrison in 1813.

As the United States expanded westward, Detroit began its change from frontier outpost to regional center. The completion of the Erie Canal transformed the Great Lakes into the largest inland waterway, one of the single greatest influences on Detroit and Michigan's development.

The Detroit River and the proximity to Canada made Detroit a major stop on the Underground Railroad to freedom for many escaped slaves. Many recently freed slaves migrated north to Detroit in search of better living conditions and job opportunity.

An early carriage industry created the economic opportunity that soon became synonymous with Detroit. In 1897, Ransom Old opened the first automobile factory, followed closely by Henry Ford. Ford's introduction of the Model T, and the production techniques of mass production, created the perfect blend of affordable transportation and economic opportunity, that has continued to supply Michigan's and the nations economy for much of the last century. In 1913 Henry Ford created the $5 dollar day. This policy doubled the average daily wage while cutting working hours down to an eight hour day.

Between 1910 and 1930 Detroit's population ballooned to 4th-largest in the United States. The rising population and stark economic reality of the Great Depression contributed to the atmosphere in the city that culminated in 1936 and 1937 ''Sit Down'' strikes and the growth of the labor movement. The United Auto Workers now represent over 700,000 auto workers and have improved the lives and working conditions of millions of Americans.

World War II brought renewed prosperity to Detroit, ''the arsenal of democracy'', as Detroit's factories produced tanks, jeeps, bombers, and liberty ships. The round-the-clock production also helped to speed women's transition into the work force. The increasing numbers of women in both offices and labor positions helped to spawn a new sense of equality throughout the United States.

Detroiter's have long called for greater equality, both among the sexes, but also among the races. In 1963, the largest civil right's event to that time took place on June 23, the Great March to Freedom, where 125,000 people marched down Woodward Avenue singing ''We Shall Overcome''. We marched to Cabo Hall where the Reverend Martin Luther King introduced his ''I Have a Dream'' speech.

Detroit elected Coleman Young its first African-American mayor in 1973. Coleman Young served for twenty years fully integrating the city police and fire departments, as well as other city departments and agencies, opening doors for both African-Americans and women.

Detroit is a frontier outpost turned industrial city, but the people of Detroit have created a cultural center equal of any in the world. Detroit's orchestra is world class. We have more theater seats than every other American city except for New York. We have the Detroit Institute for Arts, the Charles H. Wright Museum of African-American History, and the Detroit Science Center. We have major universities and research centers.

Detroit has also spawned its own music style, forever leaving its mark on pop culture and on Detroit. Berry, Gwen, and Esther Gordy founded Motown Records in 1957, creating the Motown sound and giving Detroit a new name. Artists such as Temptations, the Supremes, Stevie Wonder, Marvin Gaye, Smoky Robinson and the Miracles, Gladys Knight and the Pips, The Four Tops, The Commodores, Rick James, Martha Reeves and the Vandellas, and the Jackson Five emerged from Motown's music scene.

Detroit's influence was not limited to pop music however. Jazz musicians such as Milt Jackson, Donald Byrd, Tommy Flanagan, Hank, Alvin and Thad Jones, Yusef Lateef, Kenny Burrell, and Berry Harris began their illustrious careers in Detroit's jazz clubs such as the Flame Show Bar and the Greystone Ballroom.

And Detroit has most recently helped spawn the distinctive techno sound. Techno and electronica's popularity has spread worldwide, with electronic music festivals being held annually in Berlin, London, and Detroit.

Detroit has three hundred years of culture and history to look back on and be proud of. But Detroit's greatest asset, the one that will guarantee Detroit's success, is the people of Detroit. The people of Detroit have struggled with nature, with race and class, with economic hardship, and the people of Detroit will continue to struggle, to bring the best and brightest possible future to Detroit over the next three hundred years.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) for that very eloquent historical trail for the City of Detroit as we celebrate our 300th anniversary.

Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I yield to our final speaker, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. BONIOR), who is to the east of the City of Detroit, a leader and soon to be another leader in the State of Michigan.

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK) for yielding to me and for her comments this evening and for her leadership.

The gentlewoman from Detroit has talked, as well as the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) have talked about the great history of the city. I join with them today in congratulations for 300 wonderful productive enlightening years.

Mr. Speaker, 300 years ago a fellow by the name of Cadillac left from up in what we call the upper straits, which was at that time kind of the heart of not only the economic but the populated cultural part of the upper Midwest. It was around the Macanaw Island, Macanaw Straits area, and he came down by water craft to found Detroit.

He came through what is called the Straits, the Detroit River, de Troit, and set in motion something that we celebrate after 300 years.

As we have heard, it is the oldest major city in the Midwest. It is the tenth most populated city in our Nation. I have had the honor of being born and raised in and out of the city. I have watched its great ethnic diversity grow and prosper through these many years on the East side. We have the Belgium population and the Polish population and the Ukrainian population and, of course, the great African American population that the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) has illuminated and has given us such a rich cultural history in the area of music and science and education.

Then on the West side of the city, again, an African American community, the Latino community, the Jewish community. It is that kind of strength and that diversity of the city that makes it a special place in our history. It is that kind of diversity that makes our country a special place.

Mr. Speaker, the history of our great community, as the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK) has mentioned, was the center of the underground railroad where literally thousands and thousands of slaves would migrate north and would cross in Detroit over to Canada, or when the slave owners would come and try to block the crossing in Detroit, they had to migrate up to where my district is now, spend some time, and then cross north about 30 miles across the St. Clair River into Canada.

Detroit is the automotive vehicle capital of the world. The home, as we have heard, of the great automobile companies which has changed our planet and our way of life in a most dramatic way. But as we have also heard this evening, it is the home of one of the great and I, perhaps, think the greatest labor movement and labor unions to enter the movement, the United Automobile Workers of America.

They changed not only the conditions in which workers labored in this country, but they created for Detroit and for Michigan and for the country a pattern that enabled the middle class to thrive and to grow and to set in motion the standards by which all workers are now measured, at least in our State and in a great many other places around the globe.

It is a cultural center, as the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) and the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK) have talked to us tonight. Not only do we have the Detroit Institute of Art, one of the greatest institutes of art in the world today, but we also have the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American history.

We have great universities, like Wayne State University and the University of Detroit and, of course, the Lewis College of Business that was mentioned by my friend from, I believe it was Ohio.

Detroit has played a central role in the economic and social and cultural development of not only Michigan, but the entire Nation, and we have had great political leadership. And what we have not heard tonight, and I will say it is people like the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK) and the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) that have enriched our city, because of their leadership, not only in serving in this Congress, but the many years that they have contributed to public service.

We have great Members of Congress that have come out of our city, but the two that I have just mentioned at the top are people like George Crockett. For those of my colleagues who did not serve with George Crockett, he was an immensely impressive man of great integrity and great stature and great demeanor. One of the most just and fair people that you would ever want to serve with.

Of course, I believe the district of the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK) is the district that he had, and the gentlewoman not only fills those shoes of one of the great leaders that I have ever served with in my great public life, but she leads beyond that in her own special way and in the directions that make not only our State but our city a very special place.

Detroit is on its way back in many, many respects. It has had difficulties, the rebellion of 1943 and 1967, as the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) has indicated. But there is a new spirit there. There is a spirit of can-do, that we cannot only create the liveliness of the central city, but we can redo our neighborhoods in the special ways that will enable us to have decent transportation and education and all the infrastructure that makes our communities worth living in.

So I want to join with the gentlewoman from Detroit, Michigan (Ms. KILPATRICK), today in congratulating the city on 300 wonderful years and wish the celebration that will occur in July to be as successful as these 300 years.

To the mayor, Dennis Archer, and the city council and all the elected officials, we congratulate them, we thank them, and we look forward to making Detroit continue to be the great place that it is.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, further reserving my right to object, just briefly in closing, I want to thank the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. BONIOR), our leader, for his excellent remarks as well.

Since July 1701, when Cadillac founded the city, right through the Underground Railroad, the Civil Rights movement, the auto industry which has brought to this country another whole era, right through Rosa Parks, as was mentioned, who now lives in the city of Detroit, from the United Auto Workers to the brotherhood of the Teamsters, to the mayor, Mayor Archer, who has given his notice that he will not seek reelection, we wish him the best, to our city council, Wayne State University, one of the premier universities in our region, as well as the 30 miles of international waterway that separates Detroit from the country of Canada, we say thank you to the House of Representatives for acting quickly on H. Con. Res. 80.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. LATOURETTE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H. Con. Res. 80.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2001, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

RECOGNIZING FEDERAL GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. BONIOR) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, I come to the floor today to recognize and to commend the work of our public servants and those individuals who do the work of the Federal Government every single day. Our Federal employees are not thanked enough for their service to our country. They do the work that keeps this country moving. Yet they are not given the compensation and the benefits that they deserve for the work that they do. Instead of receiving wages comparable to the private sector, instead of receiving affordable health care benefits, Federal workers are attacked by my colleagues often on the other side of the aisle.

Recently a friend of mine handed me a letter that I found deeply disturbing. The letter is a fund-raising appeal sent out on behalf of a private organization and signed by a distinguished Member on the other side of the aisle.

Unfortunately, the letter does more than argue for Tax Code changes. It condemns the work of thousands of dedicated employees of the IRS. The letter says that, by establishing a flat tax, and I quote, ''We will effectively dismantle the Internal Revenue Service which in addition to being the most burdensome, intrusive and aggressive Federal agency, is also considered one of the most wasteful.'' It goes on to discuss how people believe the IRS is grinding this country to a halt and jeopardizing the future opportunities for the next generation.

Mr. Speaker, I believe these kinds of blanket attacks on a Federal agency and its workers are unjustified, they are unfair, and they are offensive. While no one would argue that our tax system is perfect, we certainly cannot blame Federal employees for its shortfalls. After all, the IRS employees are only doing their jobs, enforcing our Nation's laws.

In all my years of representing the people of Michigan, I have found Federal employees to be some of the most dedicated, hard-working and honest workers that I have ever met. They are our public servants. They come to work every day to make sure our seniors get their Social Security checks, our schools get funds to teach our children, and our communities get the resources to protect their environment.

They come to work every day knowing they are being paid on an average 30 percent less than the private sector counterparts and struggling to afford Federal health insurance premiums that have soared 36 percent over the past 4 years.

They come to work every day unsure of their jobs, whether they will be contracted out to private companies the next time the Bush administration gets a chance.

We depend on our Federal employees, and they deserve our recognition and respect for the hard work that they do. After all, no matter how much we may simplify our Tax Code or any other regulation, we still need public servants to enforce our laws and do the people's work.

While we consider policy changes that affect Federal agencies and their workers, it is my hope that we will stay focused on the policy. We have had enough scapegoating of the people who we have given the responsibility to enforce and implement these policies. Our Federal workers do a phenomenal job with the task we put before them. They deserve to be applauded, not attacked for their service to our country.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Mr. Lundregan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed a bill of the following title in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

S. 27. An act to amend the Federal election Campaign Act of 1971 to provide bipartisan campaign reform.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. LIPINSKI addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

READINESS FACTS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. JONES of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I decided to come to the floor tonight to talk about the military readiness of our men and women in uniform.

Last week, I happened to hear the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), who is a ranking member of the Committee on Armed Services, on the floor talking about this same issue that I am going to be talking about tonight.

Then last night, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON), who is chairman of the Subcommittee on Military Readiness, also came to the floor. I am a member of the Committee on Armed Services. I am also a member of the Subcommittee on Military Readiness.

I just wanted to come on the floor to remind my colleagues, as well as this administration, that our men and women in uniform who are willing to give their lives for this country have a lot of need that we need to start addressing.

I am very hopeful that the administration will soon be working with the Congress to submit an emergency supplemental. There is a dire need by our military.

I certainly want to commend the Secretary of Defense. I think he was right in requesting this top-to-bottom review. But in addition to what he is doing, we also need to make sure that our men and women in uniform are ready to defend the national security interest of this country.

What is beginning to happen is that the accounts are becoming very low of money, and they are beginning to have some serious problems. Let me give my colleagues a few examples on this.

The Navy Flying Hour Program is short over $450 million for fiscal year 2001. Since the end of the Cold War, the average age of Air Force aircraft has risen 58 percent. The Army is more than $3 billion short of basic ammunition. Although improving, separate spare parts problems caused the mission-capable rates of both the AV–8B Harrier and the CH–53 helicopter to drop below 40 percent last year.

Mr. Speaker, in addition, the Coast Guard has projected a fiscal year 2001 shortfall reaching almost $100 million. Let me also share with my colleagues, Mr. Speaker, the military health care plan is expected to be $1.4 billion short in the same year.

I wanted to be on the floor tonight because this is a very unsafe world that we live in. We certainly know about the unrest and the problems of the Middle East; but we also know that Iran, Iraq, and these countries are not friendly towards the American Government. In addition, I think of North Korea. In addition, China. All these countries that I mention are spending a great deal of their gross national product on building their military.

So I wanted to come to the floor tonight to join the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), as well as the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON), and there are many others on both sides of the political aisle on the Committee on Armed Services that feel like I, as well as the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), that we need to move forward now with this emergency supplemental.

So I will tomorrow be sending my second letter. My first letter went to the President of the United States, asking him to please start the movement forward on this emergency supplemental for our military.

I intend tomorrow to write a letter to Mitch Daniels, the OMB director, and say that we do not need to continue to wait, that we need to prepare this legislation, that we need to put this legislation in just as soon as we return after the Memorial Day recess.

So, Mr. Speaker, I want to say to all the men and women in uniform that I thank them for their service to this Nation. May God bless them and may God bless America.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Ms. NORTON addressed the House. Her remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

CONFUSING DAY FOR REPUBLICANS AND CONSERVATIVES

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GRUCCI). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUDER) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Speaker, first let me, too, congratulate, as a fellow Midwesterner, the city of Detroit. We had many escaping slaves go through the Underground Railroad through Detroit. We provide many auto parts. Unfortunately, our beloved Pistons used to be the Fort Wayne Pistons, and they, too, moved to Detroit; and I wish they would win as many games in Detroit as they used to win in Fort Wayne.

But today has been a confusing day for Republicans and conservatives. We had a handout during the amendment of the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA) to eliminate the national testing that came from the Republicans.

It said that, if one voted to eliminate national testing, one would wipe out the President's cornerstone of accountability. Without assessment, schools cannot be held accountable for improving student achievement. Without annual assessment information, parents are powerless to choose a better-performing school. For over 35 years, there has been little or no academic accountability in K–12 education programs. We need more accountability for Federal tax dollars, not less.

This is really confusing. It is a Republican handout.

Now, let us apply this to economics. Without the cornerstone of accountability, without assessments, business cannot be held accountable for improving business achievement. Without annual assessment information, workers are powerless to choose a better-performing business. For over 35 years, there has been little or no business accountability in ergonomics programs. We need more accountability for Federal tax dollars, not less.

Now, let us try health insurance. Without assessments, businesses cannot be held accountable for improving health insurance. Without annual assessment information, workers are powerless to choose a better-performing business. For over 35 years, there has been little or no business accountability in health insurance programs. We need more accountability for Federal tax dollars, not less.

This is a disturbing trend. Since when did the Republican Party stand for national accountability when we have always argued for local responsibility and accountability. It is not a question of accountability, it is accountability to whom. That is really what we have been arguing over today.

I am curious what is happening to our party. A few minutes ago, a group of conservative Republicans had been hauled down to the White House for a combination of persuasion and subtle threats. I hope that the people in this body can still vote their conscience, and we have not handed over our voting cards to the deals developed with Senator KENNEDY in the Senate, with veto power for the House Democrats.

My friend from South Carolina is under heavy pressure not to even offer his minimal State flexibility for a mere seven States because it might upset the Democrats. This scaled down Straight A's was accepted by Senator KENNEDY. Apparently, we must stay to his left, and then what is to guarantee that we can even hold that in conference. It used to be that the House was the conservative body. Now, apparently, it is Senator KENNEDY who is the conservative.

President Bush is a great President. I agree with him on almost everything, and I am so enthusiastic about his leadership. But on this issue, he has chosen to go with Democrats and a liberal bill. About every major conservative organization in America, including Dr. Dobson, Rush Limbaugh, the home schoolers, the Family Research Council, over 40, I think now, 50 conservative organizations oppose this bill.

Maybe there is only going to be 5 or 10 or even 20 Members with the courage to vote no in the end. The pressures are great on us. Forty-nine Republicans today stood up to the President on national testing. Last year, we probably had over 220. Interestingly, this year, the Democrats kind of switched sides, because previously the Democrats had been for national testing. That is partly why people are distrustful of politicians, because it appears that one does not take a ideological position and stick with it, it is more a party position. It is a very upsetting trend in America.

Part of my concern is that there will not always be a President Bush. We do not know who is going to be the next president. And when we pass things that mandate national testing, we are taking a risk that the next president will not be George W. Bush and, instead, we may have someone who is going to ram this stuff down our throat, and we may regret and rue the day that we passed a bill with less flexibility, more money, more bureaucracy, and now national testing.

BUSH ADMINISTRATION NATIONAL ENERGY POLICY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GRUCCI). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, this is a continuing discussion of the so-called national energy policy of the Bush administration. Buried way back in the back of this report, under appendix one, under summary of recommendations, on an unnumbered page, is a recommendation that the Federal Government and, of course, the States' rights party, my Republican friends, should mandate that every State in America adopt energy deregulation.

Now, if it was working somewhere, that might be a good idea, but we have all seen the extraordinary disaster in California. The disaster in California is spreading across the western United States. It is extracting billions, billions of dollars from residential ratepayers, small businesses and large businesses, and upstreaming that money to a few special companies. It happens that three or four of them are based in Houston, Texas, in particular, one really outstanding corporate citizen named Reliant Energy.

Now, Reliant saw its profits go from $27 million last year to over $500 million in 1 year. What great new thing did they invent or provide? Nothing. What they managed to do was buy cheap a couple of energy plants in California and begin the most sophisticated gaming of the energy market as reported in Sunday's San Francisco Chronicle, and all of us in the west are paying. In fact, in the Pacific Northwest, we are paying higher average wholesale prices than are the people of California.

This manipulation is spreading across the entire western United States, and now the Bush administration thinks this is such a great thing, we should spread it across the entire United States with a new mandate that every State adopt this. Now, my colleagues may say, ah, well, the California system is flawed. Well, I tell my colleagues, take out the flaws of the California system and go to Montana. You will find that all the large manufacturers in Montana are closing down because Pennsylvania Power & Light bought their generation, gaming them, and they cannot afford the power any more.

Or let us go to New England. In New England, PGE of California, that says they are broke in California, sent the money to the parent company. The parent company created a new company, which is PGE of New England. And PGE of New England is manipulating the market there and has raised the prices substantially.

This is the great new thing the Bush administration wants to bring to all of America: more profits, rolling blackouts, price gouging, and a mandate from the Republican administration that every State be subject to this sort of case.

Now, this is because of the undue influence of Enron, the largest energy conglomerate in the world. In fact, the CEO of Enron has personally, personally, over the years, given George Bush $2 million to run for office, and has personally chosen the two new appointees to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to make certain that his interests are protected. And he is the only person that Vice President DICK CHENEY could name when he said he had been meeting with lots of people, lots of people, outside of certain special interests. In fact, he mentioned Ken Lay, Enron. Of course, he does happen to be the head of the largest energy conglomerate in the world, and they are profiting well.

But let us get back to Reliant for a moment. Here is what came out in the paper. They are cycling their plants up and down, destroying the plants, in fact, causing additional maintenance and long-term outages and long-term deterioration to game the market in 10-minute increments. They have a direct phone line from Houston, Texas, to their plant operators in California. And the guys in Texas are not looking to see whether the lights are on or off or the people need the juice or the businesses need the electricity. They are looking to see what the price is. And when the price starts to go down, they call the plant and they say, shut it down. They shut down. They watch, they watch, and 10 minutes later, if the price starts to go up, crank it up, we can make more money. This is the future.

I thought that the key for electricity was reliability, affordability and service. We were promised that deregulation would be more reliable, more affordable with better service. And instead we find that deregulation is rife with market manipulation, profiteering, and unreliable service, with rolling blackouts and brownouts, bankrupting businesses and residential consumers alike. And now the Bush administration thinks that is so spiffy that everybody in America should be subject to that.

That is definitely one part of their plan that has to go when this Congress acts on the so-called national energy policy.

TRIBUTE TO JUDGE FIDENCIO M. GUERRA, SR.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HINOJOSA) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. HINOJOSA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in our Nation's capital to render a salute to State District Judge Fidencio M. Guerra, Sr., of McAllen, Texas, on behalf of the citizens of the Fifteenth Congressional District of Texas and in honor of his outstanding service and dedication to the Judiciary in the State of Texas.

Judge Guerra was born on a small ranch in Jim Hogg County, Texas, on August the 6th, 1909. Like my father, he grew up in a time where few, if any, Hispanics held leadership positions in the community or the government. He graduated from McAllen High School and went on to the University of Texas where he completed his law degree in 1940. The following year he married Estela Margo, a high school teacher.

During World War II, he was quick to volunteer to serve his country and was assigned to the State Department's legal office. In this capacity, he was sent by special assignment to the U.S. embassy in Bogota, Colombia, and the U.S. Embassy in Madrid, Spain, where he helped negotiate several international cases, including the disposition of Axis war assets in Colombia and assisting the Spanish government in dealing with war refugees.

After the war, he returned to McAllen, Texas, and continued his practice of law. In 1949, Judge Guerra was appointed Assistant Attorney General for the State of Texas where he was instrumental in presenting the State's case against the U.S. government over offshore mineral rights claims. The case ultimately reached the Supreme Court. As one of the first Hispanics to serve in the Texas State Judiciary, he was a role model to my generation and showed us that we too could succeed and hold public office.

During the 1950s, Judge Guerra and his wife Estela became leader in protecting and expanding educational opportunities for Hispanic students. Estela, who passed away in 1999, was a Spanish language teacher at Edinburg High School and also at McAllen High School for 20 years before her retirement in 1977. She received numerous awards for her dedicated service to the children of south Texas, including the American Association of Spanish and Portuguese Servantes Award.

In 1952, Judge Guerra was appointed as the presiding judge of the newly created 139th District Court at the new Hidalgo County Courthouse in Edinburg, Texas. He was successful in his bid to retain his post in the 1956 election, and until his retirement in 1980 ran unopposed in every single election. Even retirement did not slow down Judge Guerra. He continued to serve as a senior visiting judge until the early 1990s.

Judge Guerra has always been willing to answer the call to service both from his government and his community. He remains active in various community organizations, such as Our Lady of Sorrow Catholic Church, the Knights of Columbus, and the McAllen Rotary Club.

Judge Guerra and Estela raised seven children and taught them the value of staying in school and completing their education. Their children have followed their example and are professionals and community leaders. Diane Maria was a teacher; Robert is a retired teacher; Carlos is an attorney; Fidencio, Jr. is an attorney and former State district judge; Brenda is a teacher; Judy is a special education teacher; and Daniel is a doctor. They continue Judge Guerra's legacy by teaching today's children that anything is possible if you work hard, you have integrity and follow your dreams.

In conclusion, Judge Guerra's dedicated commitment to both the Hispanic community in the State of Texas is an inspiration and challenge for us all. At age 91, he remains active in the community of McAllen. He truly exemplifies the values to which we all should aspire. Texas is a better place because of his many contributions. And as his Congressman, I wish him continued good health and good fortune. Thank you, Judge Guerra, Sr.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Ms. KAPTUR addressed the House. Her remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

ENERGY CRISIS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, before I begin the speech I had planned, I would like to comment on some of the comments made by other speakers.

I want to add my voice to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. BONIOR) when he spoke about how Federal employees, particularly those at the IRS, are doing the work of this country and doing it in a professional manner. He quoted from a rather vicious attack that proposes that somehow if we have a flat tax, that all problems of tax administration will be solved and the IRS could be dismantled.

Mr. Speaker, I headed the organization that collects the largest flat tax in America, the California sales tax, and let me assure my colleagues that flat taxes involve some of the same contentiousness, some of the same enforcement concerns as does any other tax or a progressive tax. And the IRS employees were professional and responsible, just as were our auditors, just as were our tax collectors with the California State Board of Equalization.

Let me also comment about the speech of my friend, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO), where he said that one company, Reliant, that made $500 million, increased its profit by 2,000 percent. The gentleman from Oregon said, well, they did not do anything creative to raise that money. I have to disagree. Reliant, along with some of its sister corporations, invented a new definition for the term ''the plant is closed for maintenance.'' ''Closed for maintenance'' means closed to maintain an outrageous price for each kilowatt. A new definition and true creativity.

They invented new ways to gouge California consumers, and they invented new ways to seek power here in Washington so that they would have the impunity to turn off the power in California. It is this inventiveness that led to Reliant's 2,000 percent increase in its profit.

Mr. Speaker, last night, several Members from the other side of the aisle came down to this floor to attack me personally, and that needs no response, and to attack my State. They came down here to say that the problems California faces are our own fault; that we prevented the building of electric plants in California, which is totally false and which has not one scintilla of evidence behind it.

They talked about how our opposition to offshore oil drilling is somehow responsible for electrical shortages in California without even knowing that we do not use oil to generate electricity in California, nor are we about to, nor do any of the other States with similar air pollution problems. They came down here in total ignorance of what is happening in California.

Now, I do not blame them for their ignorance. After all, I am not terribly knowledgeable of what is happening in all the other States. But what bothers me is that someone with so little knowledge of what is happening in California would come down here and say that our misery represents justice and that our efforts to solve our own problems should be barred by Federal law.

But of course that is what is happening when Federal law prevents California from imposing even the most reasonable of regulations on the price of these independent energy producers.

Mr. Speaker, imagine that your home is burning down. The gentleman might have a neighbor who for one reason or another does not tell. That might be okay. But imagine the most malevolent of neighbors who seizes the hose while the house is burning, and then gives a lecture how it is the gentleman's fault because the house is on fire, while continuing to hold onto the hose.

Mr. Speaker, California is burning and the hose is the right to regulate the price of electric generation, and the hose is being held captive here in Washington, DC. We have an administration which is hosing us down with self-righteous declarations that our misery is our own fault.

Mr. Speaker, if you want to know where something is made, check the tag on the bottom. California consumers are going to look at their electric bill, they will look at the tag, and it will say ''Made in Texas under license from Washington, DC.''

NATIONAL ENERGY POLICY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GRUCCI). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2001, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, some of my colleagues who will be joining us this evening will continue our discussion that we had last week in regards to our national energy policy.

Mr. Speaker, most of the Nation and the world realizes that the Bush administration has come out with a detailed plan that they announced last week. The Members of the new Democratic Coalition in the House have an energy plan that we announced last week, announcing principles, values, and policy statements that we want to work on as we move forward in this session of Congress to try to find some long-term solutions to our 21st century energy challenges. We do face challenges as we start this new century; and hopefully we will find some solutions to these challenges.

That is why we in the Democratic Coalition believe that the best approach is one that calls for balance. We are not going to turn our short-term energy needs and dependence on fossil fuel and the burning of fossil fuels, turn that around overnight, but any sensible and reasonable long-term energy policy, and hopefully we will enact in legislation later this year, is going to be looking at the development and use of modern technology, the use and greater reliance on alternative and renewable energy sources, the importance of investing in the current energy infrastructure that we have in this country which has become very outdated, and trying to figure out how we can move energy more efficiently and cost effectively in areas of surplus to areas of deficits.

Mr. Speaker, these are some of the areas that we hope to elevate in the national debate and engage the American people on. I also want to take exception to a couple of proposals that the Bush administration announced last week. They said all of the right words, and there is a lot of good statements in the energy plan that they sent up to the Hill in book form, National Energy Policy.

A couple of concerns that I personally have is that they are relying a tremendous amount in their energy solution on the development of more exploration and more drilling in one of the last pristine places in the United States, the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, ANWR.

I am ranking member on the Subcommittee on Energy and Mineral Resources in the Committee on Resources here in Congress. We have had eight hearings already on energy resources on public lands. Many Members in this Chamber would be surprised to learn that roughly 95 percent of our public lands are already open and available for energy exploration. In fact, we had one of the largest expansions of public land access over the last 8 years in the Clinton administration.

Instead of trying to develop those resources that are already available and that the infrastructure needs to be developed in order to extract, the new administration wants more, more drilling and more drilling in one of the most protected and pristine places in the United States, the ANWR.

In the energy plan, the administration also says the right things in regard to the need to develop alternative renewable energy sources. When you look at the details of the energy proposal, that investment would only occur after oil is drilled and extracted from the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. In fact, it is from the oil royalties collected from the drilling of oil in ANWR that would then be used, at least partially, in order to fund the alternative and renewable energy research and development that needs to take place in this country. I find that a little disheartening.

Mr. Speaker, Republicans are trying to convince the American people that we are for this, too; but only after we have more reliance on the fossil fuel development, more reliance on the drilling of oil up in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, rather than treating it as a stand-alone part of the puzzle that it deserves to be.

In fact, if you were to match the administration's record on their energy proposal with the priority that they established in the budget that they submitted to the Congress earlier this year, the rhetoric, quite frankly, does not match the action. In fact, when one looks at the energy efficiency program at the Department of Energy, the new administration is proposing a $20 million cutback from the previous year's level.

On the R&D programs at the DOE, there is roughly $41 million or a 23 percent cutback on the R&D programs at the DOE. These R&D cuts include a $48 million cut in buildings, research and standards programs; a $12 million cut in the Federal energy management programs; a $61 million cut in the industry programs; a $16 million cut in transportation programs; over $3 million in policy and management of alternative and renewables.

When you look at the energy program that exists, the administration is calling for roughly a 36 to 50 percent cut across the board in most of these programs: 48 percent less with the wind-power program; 48 percent less with the geothermal power program; 48 percent less in the development of hydrogen energy sources; 86 percent less for concentrating solar power.

Obviously there is a mismatch between the rhetoric and the administration's energy plan and what they submitted in the course of their budget proposal this year in Congress. We are hoping to work with them.

Mr. Speaker, energy should not be a partisan issue. We need to find a bipartisan solution to an issue that affects all regions of the country, whether East Coast or West Coast or middle of America which I represent. This is having an impact on people with fixed incomes and on economic growth in this country.

California, if they were a stand-alone country, would be the fourth largest economy in the entire world; and yet that State is experiencing rolling blackouts. It is going to take a concentrated effort at the local, State, and Federal level to find some long-term solutions.

That is why we in the Democratic Coalition are advocating both balance in our energy approach but also greater reliance on the technology that is available and being developed today and the potential of increased energy efficiency, whether in our homes, businesses or cars that we use to get around this country.

That is the type of bipartisan, balanced approach that we are hoping to be able to work with our colleagues across the aisle in this session of Congress, with the new administration. The energy plan that they submitted last week, albeit a starting document, has a lot of good features in it, but also a lot of features which require more scrutiny and closer debate, not the least of which is giving the FERC eminent domain power to force States in where they are going to locate their transmission lines.

I personally am reluctant to give that eminent domain authority to a Federal agency, basically dictating the States and localities where their energy lines are going to have to run. That is going to require extensive debate at the local level to find the best route for many of these transmission lines that most of us agree are needed to meet the long-term energy needs. We are hoping during the course of the next hour to get varying viewpoints and different ideas.

Mr. Speaker, let me recognize the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. LARSON), one of the foremost thinkers when it comes to fuel cell potential in this country, someone who has been working in a bipartisan fashion with a very good piece of legislation.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I could not agree more with the gentleman's idea of balance.

I think it is also important that, as the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) indicated, it is important not only that we do this in balance, but we do this bipartisanly. Certainly energy is not a partisan concern. It is something that we all share.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that it starts with the concept of becoming independent: becoming independent from the foreign suppliers of our energy. And so in seeking to become energy independent, we have to move to alternative sources. We have to be willing to embrace conservation at the very core of what we are going to do, understanding that it is very hard in principle and that there are limited resources throughout the world and that we have an overriding responsibility, being large consumers of energy ourselves, to conserve here in this Nation.

We also have a responsibility to make sure that we are moving forward technologically in the most efficient manner. It seems to me with the over preoccupation and the emphasis on more drilling, that we are fighting yesterday's wars and yesterday's battles. What we need to do is move forward aggressively and embrace the technology that can truly make us energy independent.

President Kennedy was able to establish a goal for this Nation. He said back in 1960 that we ought to be able to put a man on the moon in 10 years. With American ability, intellect and know-how, we were able to achieve that goal. We need to establish the same goal here in this country by simply stating that we will be energy independent from foreign sources in the next 10 years, so that by 2011 we will no longer be dependent upon OPEC nations.

Coincidentally as we have seen in the past, when Americans embrace alternative and renewable energy, and we put the full weight of this Nation behind a concept and an idea, the price will automatically be driven down in terms of the current cost of oil.

We find ourselves in an awful situation, not only on the West Coast, but all across this Nation as we look at the price of oil. When my colleagues consider just in 1999 that the cost of oil was $60 billion annually to this country, it now costs this Nation $120 billion.

Mr. Speaker, I am proposing that we invest 1–120th of that, $1 billion, into fuel cell research. Why fuel cells? Fuel cells are just a small part of the larger picture, along with conservation, along with nuclear power, along with making sure, as the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) pointed out, that we take advantage of existing drilling opportunities that are in this country and not open up new, virgin territories and virgin land, but focus on a technology that can provide us independence from foreign competitors and inefficiencies that we see in the old economy, and also independence from the awful effects that happen from pollution.

Fuel cells, for example, can relieve the atmosphere of more than 2 million pounds annually of CO_2 that are currently spewing into the environment. They can also remove more than 40,000 pounds of noxious pollutants that are unnecessarily being spewed into this atmosphere. It is our moral responsibility to make sure that we are stepping forward to do this.

If we do not embrace the plan, if we do not make the investment, as the gentleman from Wisconsin pointed out, those moneys to fund this cannot come from expansive drilling in the ANWR, they have to be the commitment of the United States Congress.

We are the appropriators. We should be making sure that we are making this investment now to be energy independent, to be more efficient and to protect our environment by embracing technologies like this that will allow us to move forward in the future, so that we will find our senior citizens, as the gentleman pointed out, in Wisconsin and California and in Connecticut that do not have to make the decision between the food they are going to put on their table, the prescription drugs that their doctors have asked them to take, and the energy that they need to heat and cool their homes and propel their automobiles.

This technology, with fuel cells, we can get 80 miles to the gallon in an SUV. We can run silent. We can run clean, the by-product of which is vapor. So with the green energy, with this new technology, with the willingness for us to roll up our sleeves and invest in a new technology that is both clean, efficient, and will provide us with this independence that we need from foreign sources is the way for this Nation to go.

We have started down this path before with respect to renewables. Coincidentally, when the Nation moves forward aggressively and starts to embrace these alternatives, what we see is the market respond by the lowering of the cost of oil and its production.

I believe the best way to lower costs immediately is to aggressively pursue those kinds of policies; but this time the United States must be committed to achieving that goal by the year 2011 of being energy independent, and if we stick to that course not only will we drive down the costs in the short term but in the long term we will be independent of our reliance on foreign products. We will be independent of the old inefficiencies that have hurt our economy, and we will be independent of the disastrous effects that have enveloped our entire environment.

I thank the gentleman again for his leadership and look forward to working with him, and compliment my other colleagues.

Mr. KIND. May I ask a question before the gentleman leaves?

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Yes.

Mr. KIND. Am I correct in stating that the space shuttle is already being fueled by fuel cells?

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. The gentleman is absolutely correct. This is a technology that has been around for more than 40 years. We all know that the Apollo was powered by fuel cells; that we have the ability to go to the Moon and Mars and beyond. And certainly if we have the technology to go to the Moon and Mars and beyond, we have the technology available to get back and forth to work and to heat and cool the buildings that we live in and the buildings that we use.

This is not something that has to be created. This is something that we need to make sure we are producing more of. By utilizing the Federal Government and State and local municipalities through pilots and saying, look, we will provide the incentives to power the fleets of automobiles, to make sure that the school buses, the military buses, the mail trucks are powered by fuel cells, to have alternative sources and backups of fuel cell power buildings where we know that the energy shortage cannot afford to be derailed at all but there must be continuous operation, that the fuel cell is the most dependable way for us to achieve this goal.

There are other alternatives out there. The gentlewoman from California (Ms. LOFGREN), one of our colleagues, has introduced legislation on fusion. There are other great sources of renewables. Combined, together, I think we have a great opportunity to achieve that goal by 2011.

Mr. KIND. The gentleman mentioned the by-product of fuel cell use is hydrogen and oxygen. Basically, it is water vapor?

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Basically it is water vapor. The newest technology with respect to fuel cells is taking advantage of our most abundant element, making sure we are taking advantage of hydrogen. It is the most abundant element we have here in our universe, so let us capitalize on that, let us utilize it in a scientific manner and apply the great American know-how of turning this around.

Our foreign competitors in both Japan and Germany are already further along in terms of automobile production, especially in the use of fuel cells, but give America the research and development opportunities, provide our great research universities, provide our great corporate entities with the opportunity to get not only the backing of R&D dollars but the commitment of the Federal Government to produce so that we can streamline activities and drive the cost of production down in the long term, and then we will wean ourselves off of dependency on foreign governments.

Mr. KIND. Reclaiming the time, I want to thank my friend, the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. LARSON), for his insight and the leadership he has shown on this and many other areas of energy policy. Hopefully, we will get enough support with the legislation he has introduced so we will have serious policy enacted in this Congress in the further development of fuel cell, the potential that fuel cell holds for our long-term energy needs.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. I look forward to continuing to work with the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) in his outstanding efforts in the area of energy, conservation, and making sure that this environment is one that is livable and safe for all of us. These are the citizens that we were sworn to serve and protect. I think it is incumbent upon Congress, it is a moral responsibility as much as it is a legislative responsibility, for us to move forward along these lines. I commend the gentleman for the leadership he has provided.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. LARSON) for his comments.

Mr. Speaker, next I would like to recognize another colleague of mine who has been living and been experiencing some of the most difficult energy challenges we face in the country today. Of course I am referring to the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN), whose State and constituents have been experiencing from time to time the rolling blackouts. In fact, some of our economic development coordinators in the upper Midwest are kind of targeting the businesses in California with the slogan, ''We may experience an occasional whiteout in Wisconsin but never a rolling blackout.'' That is really what is at stake right now is the further economic growth and development in the State of California, and I recognize the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN) for his comments tonight.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) for yielding.

I agree about the importance of bipartisanship. I came to this floor last night with intensity, as any of us would have intensity if we were living through what California is and soon will be living through.

What was missed was I was here chiefly to support a bill submitted by the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER), from the San Diego area, one of the more conservative Members on the other side of the aisle. This is a bipartisan Hunter-Eshoo bill. We need it passed only for one reason, and that is the repeated pleas of our Governor and our entire State government to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission have been ignored.

We have asked the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, look, since we are prohibited by Federal law from imposing reasonable costs-plus-profit regulation on what is being charged at the wholesale level, they, as is required by law, should do it.

FERC has closed their eyes to what is happening, and we in California have been FERCed. Instead, we need a Federal Energy Regulatory Commission that does its job or a Congress that is willing to make sure that California gets the kind of regulation that so many other States already have; that we in California had for about 100 years successfully; that we have made the mistake of going away from and that we need to get back to for a couple of years. That is why the Hunter bill simply provides that for a temporary period California will get the same kind of rate regulation that so many of our States are enjoying now.

Instead, we are being told that California should be crucified on an altar of near-religious zeal, near-religious dedication to a deregulated market. We are told that if the wholesale price of electricity is regulated, we will get less of it. This is true if one has only taken Economics 101. Economics 101 would say if one pays more for something they will get more of it, more will be produced. But one has to take the upper division courses as well, and they have to learn the policies of those with monopoly power, and then they discover that sometimes what is supposed to happen does not happen.

In fact, the California Public Utilities Commission determined that because we have this enormously high price, this deregulated price, plants are being closed for maintenance. Why? Well, think about it. If one has regulated production and they can make a megawatt for $30 and sell it for $50, they would say, I want to do that all day every day as much as I can, make $20 on every transaction. But what if they have a deregulated market where it costs $30 to create a megawatt and instead of producing all that can be produced and making all the $20 profits that could be made, the production is suppressed? Then the price goes not to $50 a megawatt but $500 a megawatt.

Obviously, the incentive is to withhold production under this deregulated system with monopoly power; and that is why virtually all elements of California society, including not only a majority of the delegation from California but some prominent Republican conservatives, have urged that we have this temporary regulation.

Instead, we are told Washington knows best; they have to be told that it is their problem, solve it, but they will be tied up by Federal preemption law that does not allow them to solve it; and in that way they will have this enormous transfer of wealth.

We paid $7 billion for electric generation in our State in 1999. In 2000, we used the same amount of electricity. We paid $32.5 billion. This year, we are going to be charged $70 billion for the same amount of electricity that we paid $7 billion for in 1999. All that is going to a few very large corporations which happen to be based in Texas.

I do have a couple more comments. I will ask the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) whether it is appropriate to continue, and he is nodding, yes, because I want to talk about conservation a bit and how important it is.

We are told by the Vice President that conservation may be a personal virtue, but it is not a sufficient basis for a comprehensive energy policy. We have to respond. Environmental degradation and enormous energy company profits may be politically profitable, but they also are not a sufficient basis for a comprehensive energy policy.

The gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) went through the list of how this administration's budget cuts money for renewables, for conservation, for research.

I want to point out that those cuts that he enumerated so clearly, those very deep cuts, are a cut of the current year's fiscal budget. But what about the prior years? In each of the 6 years of Republican Congresses, President Clinton's budget request for conservation, for renewables, for research was cut by this Congress. So we start with 6 years of research lost, 6 years of opportunity behind. Then we get to the current year, and we get a budget that slashes from even the depressed levels of the current year. Then after that budget resolution is passed, we get a glossy pamphlet from the administration saying that they are now in favor of spending money, billions of dollars, on research, on conservation. Where is that money supposed to come from?

The budget resolution does not provide it. The appropriations bills will not provide it, and we are in a situation where perhaps we have an administration that has a reason to hope for blackouts because in the light of day it is obvious that one cannot claim they are in favor of something and put out a glossy pamphlet describing how they are going to do something if they will not budget for it and they will not appropriate for it.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time. That is one of the great ironies of the Bush administration's energy plan is they, first of all, came to power this year claiming this was not their responsibility; it was because of a deficient energy policy over the last 8 years; and yet many of the recommendations that are contained now in their energy proposal they released last year are carbon copies of what the Clinton administration was advocating during the 8 years but stymied by the Congress and action was not taken.

In fact, when we take a look at the detailed budget proposal that the Bush administration submitted, obviously when one has a 48 percent cut in the photovoltaic area, 48 percent in wind, 48 percent in geothermal, 48 percent in hydrogen, there was not a lot of energy or thought being given into these cuts. Otherwise, one just would not have straight-across-the-board 48 percent reductions in all of these alternative and renewable programs.

So it is a little bit troubling.

But what I would like to do right now, since I know the gentleman has been waiting and has to leave for another meeting, is recognize the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. ETHERIDGE), my good friend, who is one of the more thoughtful thinkers when it comes to energy policy and our long-term energy needs in this Congress. I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from Wisconsin. I thank the gentleman for having this Special Order tonight because I think this is one of the issues, along with the issue we were debating today on education, these are two of the most important issues that we will be dealing with in this Congress.

I, like the previous speakers, will try not to plow some of that ground again, as my folks in North Carolina say, but the truth is, the gentleman has articulated very eloquently the issues before us and the problems we face. Let me touch on it a little differently, because I was very disappointed as I went through that document last week, the energy plan the President put forward. It was light on efficiency and conservation and heavy on drilling. We all know we are going to need more capacity. There is no question about that. I think we acknowledge that jointly. But the issue is, how do we get balance in it?

As an example, in this country, certainly in my State, in the Southeast, natural gas prices have gone up 400 percent in the last 18 months. There is nothing in this plan to talk about how we are going to deal with that in the short run. What are we going to do for the people who are hurting?

I stopped to get gas last weekend at the service station. A guy pulled up behind me and he recognized me, and he said, Congressman, what are you going to do about these gas prices? I said, well, in the short run, it is really up to the executive branch. The President is the one who can go to the Strategic Oil Reserves.

I remember when Governor Bush was running for President, he called on the President to pick up the phone and call the people in OPEC to open the spigots for the short term. We went over there in the sands of the Middle East and recovered the oil wells from Saddam Hussein. I believe if he picked up the phone, he could make that call.

Now, I do remember reading this week that the Vice President said he did not want to make that call, he did not want to beg. Well, the people in my district do not care how he gets the gas, they want it. That is not begging. I think it is just folks reminding them that they have an obligation to help keep the prices down.

Let me tell my colleagues what this will do for the people not just in North Carolina and across the Southeast, but all across America, because gasoline prices have gone up more, more than what the average taxpayers are going to get back out of this tax bill that they have been pushing all year. The increase in gasoline prices will soak up a $300 to $400 increase per individual for an automobile if they have to drive to work on one tank a week, and the tank costs $25.

In my part of the country, a lot of people commute to work. They do not have the benefit of mass transit. They do not have the opportunity of alternative ways to travel. I just think it is important that we look at the short run as well as the long run. We need to look at the alternative energy sources.

Mr. Speaker, I serve on the Committee on Science, as does the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. LARSON), who talked earlier. I will only repeat one part of what he said, because I think it bears repeating here when he talked about the fuel sales, but it is bigger than that. It really is our commitment to really be serious about this issue. If we are not going to spend the money on R&D, on the things that we know we can make a difference within the long run, I do not know that we can ever have enough drilling in the future to provide the energy resources we need, unless we are willing to find the alternatives, to find the efficiencies and do the important things we need to do.

The farmers I have talked with back home are now out in the field, as I am sure they are in Wisconsin and California and other parts of this country. They are facing a tough summer because the energy costs have gone up for equipment, for irrigation. We know the problems in agriculture today. Commodity prices are down, and they are going to be squeezed all over again. But this year, it will be everyone who is going to be squeezed. Small business people, large businesses and others are being squeezed.

Last winter I know we had one fertilizer company who sold their natural gas, and guess what happened to the cost? So they were not making fertilizer, they waited until later to do it, and guess what happens to nitrogen prices this summer? The prices went up, so the farmer got caught twice.

One other point I want to make as we talk about this whole energy piece, and I am sticking mostly to gasoline and transportation, since my colleagues have talked about the other pieces, we tend to forget sometimes what this means to the public purse. Let me just use North Carolina as an example, because we have a State public transportation system for our children going to school. The State operates that system and buys the gasoline. Now, normally they buy it a year in advance on contract. However, it has gone up dramatically, and that is going to affect State treasurers all across this country; whether they are private or public, it will send the cost up.

What we are really doing is driving the cost up of everything we purchase, and eventually it is going to show up in the marketplace of all of the products we have that are petroleum-based, and that will have an impact on our overall economy and could have a negative impact.

So I call on the administration not only to look at the long term, but let us look at the short-term things, the efficiencies, the economies we can do, encourage people to conserve where they can, do the carpooling we need to do. It is going to take a concerted effort. But we need to spend the R&D money to find the new ideas to make the big difference down the road in the long run.

I thank the gentleman for his time, and I thank him for taking time to bring this to our attention tonight, and I appreciate having an opportunity to join my colleagues.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from North Carolina for his comments and insight today and for his participation in this discussion. He raises a lot of valid points. Those who are most adversely affected by the increased energy costs, whether it is in the western part of the State or the eastern, are small business owners, operating on the margin and people on fixed incomes. When they see an energy blip, it has a huge impact on their family budgets. It is the farmers who are getting hit with not only increased energy costs, but also increased fertilizer costs, which is a terrible problem for them.

That is why we need a comprehensive, long-term solution and not something short term that calls for more drilling, and that is going to take about a decade before we get the increased reserves to the marketplace to make a real difference.

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman would yield on that point, the point the gentleman just made, we will be back on this floor in the next month or so, and we will see substantial increases in LIHEAP funding for people on fixed incomes over the winter, and I predict that that number will go up and it will have to go up again if this continues, if we do not deal with the short-term issues. I thank the gentleman. He is absolutely right.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for participating tonight.

I think the overall theme in tonight's discussion is we are looking for 21 century solutions to the challenges we are facing in this century and not a throwback plan that would be better suited for the 19th century or the first part of the 20th century.

In fact, what was striking about the Bush administration's energy plan that came out last week was how similar it was to the plan that was actually proposed under the Reagan administration. In fact, former Interior Secretary James Watt was recently quoted in the Denver Post in regards to the similarity of the plans they were pursuing back in the early 1980s compared to what the new administration is talking about today in 2001. This is what former Secretary of the Interior James Watt had to say, and I quote: ''Everything Cheney is saying, everything the President is saying, they are saying exactly what we were saying 20 years ago, precisely. Twenty years later, it sounds like they have just dusted off the old work.''

Yet, there has been a lot of progress that has been made in the advancement of technology and energy efficiency over the last couple of decades, and it is an area, it is a policy area that we, within the new Democratic coalition, want to emphasize more, want to use and rely upon more as we are trying to increase energy efficiency and conservation as a part of the long-term solution.

Now I would like to yield to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. INSLEE), who has been sitting patiently for a while, a colleague of mine who serves on the Subcommittee on Energy of the Committee on Natural Resources.

Mr. INSLEE. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman's leadership on this. I just have something to report for a moment. In our Subcommittee on Natural Resources today, members of the energy industry came to us and testified and reported that they were happy, tickled pink, is the way I would characterize it, about the administration's alleged plan to deal with energy. I guess it is really not a great surprise that they would be very, very pleased.

I think one of the reasons, although it was unstated, is that this plan is one of total inaction in dealing with the crisis in the western United States of wholesale electrical prices. Because while the prices we have to pay in the west for wholesale electricity have gone up 500 percent, 1,000 percent in some circumstances, this administration willfully, and in what I think is a pretty amazing display of casual indifference to the plight on the West Coast, has said they are going to do nothing about those prices.

To the people I represent, people who, like a fellow who told me he has conserved half of his energy in his house to respond to the need for conservation, but his energy bill has gone up. The Bush administration's message to him is real simple: tough luck.

To the small business operator in Shoreline, Washington that has an ice rink who is going to have to curtail their hours of operation and reduce their small profits, to try to keep their mom-and-pop operation going, the Bush administration has one simple answer to them: tough luck.

To the Edmonds school district, which is having to have hundreds of thousands of dollars now going to large energy generators, instead of hiring teachers and textbooks, the Bush administration has a real simple message: tough luck. And the message of tough luck is one that, although it has been music to the ears of the energy companies when they come testify to us on the Committee on Natural Resources, the message of tough luck is not one that is being well received by my constituents, who are in very, very tough shape.

I go to food banks now and I talk to family after family and they say they have never been to a food bank before until they have been hit with these energy prices, and yet the administration is refusing to do anything about it. I just want to report to my colleagues that it is terribly upsetting to us that this administration will fail to do anything about price mitigation plans that have been proposed with at least several Republicans in this Chamber who are supporting an effort to bring these incredible prices under control.

This weekend, I read an article that I thought was salient, because the administration has argued that they do not want to do anything about these prices, because they are afraid it will act as a disincentive to the creation of a new generating capacity. We need the President to read the San Francisco Chronicle this weekend.

I want to read a couple paragraphs from an article from this Sunday's San Francisco Chronicle that leads with this paragraph: ''Large power companies have driven up electricity prices in California by throttling their generators up and down to create artificial shortages, according to dozens of interviews with regulators, lawyers and energy industry workers.''

It goes on to say that ''According to the accounts of three plant operators,'' a Corporation X, I am not going to expose them right now, my colleagues can buy the newspaper, ''Generator X operation schedulers on the energy trading floor ordered them to repeatedly decrease, then increase output at the 1,046 megawatt at plant X. This happened as many as 4 or 5 times an hour. Each time the units were ramped down and electricity production fell, plant employees watched on a control room computer screen as spot market energy prices rose. Then came the phone call to ramp the units back up. Quote: They would tell us what to do and we would do it, closed quote, said one of the men, who only agreed to speak on condition they would not be identified because they feared being fired. Quote: Afterward, we would just sit there and watch the market change.''

Well, they sure did watch the market change. They watched these prices go up 1,000 percent.

Now, if we want this diminution of power to continue, if we want the continued reduction of power as much as 30 percent in the California market, up to 30 percent of the generators right now have their plants turned off, for goodness sakes. At the time we have blackouts in California, at the time we are paying 1,000 percent more for energy, these people have turned off 30 percent of their plants.

□ 1900

Now, if we want that to continue, it would seem to me we would want the status quo, which is what the Bush administration has proposed. They are going to do nothing.

We already have a disincentive for power in California, Oregon, and Washington. That is the existing dysfunctional market, because these folks can turn off their plants and jack up prices 1,000 percent.

We want to create a market condition that is an incentive to bring these plants online. That is a cost-based system, where at least for the next 2 years we can have a short-term time-out of this dysfunctional market, have a cost-based system, give these generators the cost of producing their power plus a reasonable degree of profit, and bring some sanity back to this market.

We could give these generators the highest profit margin since Bonnie and Clyde were in operation and we would still cut these prices in half. That is what we ought to do. That is what we are calling on this administration to do.

So we are going to continue on this effort to ask this administration to get off the dime, do its job, tell FERC, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to do its job, and get some short-term cost-bid pricing.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Washington State for his comments this evening, and for the work the gentleman is doing on the Subcommittee on Energy and Mineral Resources with myself and others here in Congress.

This is an important issue. The gentleman mentioned the profits that are currently taking place in the oil and gas industry. It is astounding, seeing the triple-digit increase in profits in the first quarter of this year alone, 350 to 400 percent profit margins.

Seven of the ten Fortune 500 companies in the entire world are oil and gas companies. In fact, if we just go through the list of the profit statements over the last fiscal year, we have ExxonMobil, for instance, with a 124 percent profit increase from the previous year; we have Chevron, with a 151 percent increase of profit last year; CONOCO, with a 156 percent increase in profit from the previous year.

Yet, in the first quarter of this year alone, ExxonMobil is realizing a $5 billion profit in just the first quarter of this year. BP Amoco, BP now, is at $4 billion profit in the first quarter of this year; Chevron, a $1.6 billion profit in the first quarter of this year; CONOCO, with a $700 million profit already in just the first few months of 2001.

So obviously they are making a hefty profit. They are covering their costs. They are laughing to the bank, quite frankly. I think they have to answer to this, why there is such a huge increase over the last year alone in the profit statements of their individual companies, and yet we see the consumers paying a triple-digit increase in the energy costs, primarily on the West Coast right now.

Mr. INSLEE. If the gentleman would continue to yield for one comment, we believe profits are American. There is nothing wrong with profits. But when demand for electricity in the State of California has gone down since last year, and demand has actually gone down from last year, supplies have gone down as much as 30 percent on a given day, but then they have a way to game the system to jack their prices up 1,000 percent, something is rotten not just in the state of Denmark, it is rotten in the State of California, and Oregon, and Washington. We are losing 43,000 jobs in my State because of this rampant gaming that is going on. We are going to continue to try to fix that. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. KIND. I thank the gentleman for his participation this evening. I am not sure about my colleague from Washington State, but one of the most surprising facts I learned as ranking member on the Subcommittee on Energy and Mineral Resources this year was the incredible access and availability of these oil and gas companies on most of our public lands already throughout the country. Roughly 95 percent of the public lands they have access to. Granted, there may be things we can streamline in regards to the permitting process and some of the regs that surround those, but 95 percent.

In fact, there was a story that broke yesterday in the Anchorage Daily News where Phillips Alaska Company up in Alaska announced that they discovered three oil and gas fields on the North Slope of Alaska that was newly opened, the National Petroleum Reserve up in Alaska.

This was a reserve that the Clinton administration actually permitted out to the oil and gas industry. They now have discovered a tremendous oil and gas reserve to the tune of 429 million barrels of oil up in the North Slope, which is the largest energy find, energy resource find, in over the last decade.

So obviously there is access already with public lands in the country, some that the Clinton administration worked closely with the industry to gain them access. That is why we have to question the need right now to go into the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, one that was specifically set aside for the protection of the pristine place and the ecosystem and the animal and bird species that exist up there, when we have discoveries like this being made already on the public lands.

As I mentioned earlier, perhaps one of the most cynical aspects of the energy plan is they are saying us, too, when it comes to renewable and energy sources, ''. . . but only after we drill in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge and we are able to collect the oil royalties from these oil companies.''

But we also know in recent months that we have been having difficulty collecting a fair market price for the oil royalties. In fact, U.S. News on May 14 of this year just released a big article titled ''Making Them Pay: How Big Oil Companies Shortchange Taxpayers on Royalties.''

Apparently they have been cooking the books. They have been understating the actual market value of the oil that they are extracting from public lands, and some of the companies actually are storing the oil supplies in the summer, where the prices are lower. They are selling in the winter when the prices are higher. Yet, they are quoting the summer prices, the lower price, in regard to the royalties they are now responsible for.

Chevron, Texaco, BP have been forced recently to spend nearly $8 billion to settle underpayment lawsuits with the Federal government and with seven other States, according to a project on government oversight.

There is a recent jury verdict in Alabama holding ExxonMobil liable for $88 million of underreported oil royalties, and also assessing a $3.4 billion punitive claim on them because, in the words of one of the jurors, ''We were sending a message: If you cheat, you will be punished.''

Yet, here we have an administration that is going to be relying on financing of alternative and renewable programs through oil royalties, when we know we have a problem in collecting the fair share of oil royalties that these companies agreed to pay in order to have access to the public lands in order to alleviate some of the burden on taxpayers.

Mr. INSLEE. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will yield for another moment, the gentleman has alluded to this point. I want to make sure that Members who are aware of this proceeding tonight are aware of exactly what the administration has said.

They have held the environment hostage, because what they have said in their budget is unless we give up the protection of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge and allow drilling there, we are not going to spend one single dime on these conservation and new technology renewable efforts.

To me, if they are going to hold somebody hostage, the last person they should hold hostage is Mother Nature. That is who they have held hostage on this. To say that unless they get their way, unless these major oil companies get their way, the real party in interest here, to me it is an incredibly shortsighted approach to take, particularly since, as the gentleman knows, if we increase our mileage 3 miles a gallon, if the administration would yield to our efforts to increase our CAFE standards, our average miles, if we increase it 3 miles a gallon, we will save more oil just by that one step, without stepping a foot in that refuge, than we will ever get out of the wildlife refuge.

That is the route we ought to be going. We hope at some point the administration will see the light in that regard.

Mr. KIND. Reclaiming my time, Mr. Speaker, I think we need to be thoughtful and deliberative in regard to increasing access to the public lands. Obviously, we have a lot of access already. I think it would behoove us to spend a little bit of time trying to improve the safety and environmentally-friendly measures of being able to extract some of these resources that already exist, because we also have problems in that.

Again, I hate to keep plugging the Anchorage Daily News, but on April 17 this year they reported a huge pipeline leak up in the North Slope of Alaska, which is one of the largest spills to occur in the last 10 years. Some 92,000 gallons of salt water and crude oil leaked from a pipeline at Kuparuk Oil Field in April.

The pipeline burst, and this is a problem we have with current infrastructure when it comes to the extraction of gas and oil is we have a very old infrastructure with the eroding and corroding pipes that are leaking.

In fact, there have been four major oil spills in the North Slope of Alaska within the last 6 months alone. Yet, I think the administration is trying to sell the American public on the idea that we can go into these public lands and the refuges and the national parks, be able to extract these fossil fuels in an environmentally-friendly manner, when in fact the new stories belie that type of argument, because we know there are problems and oil leaks occurring, which has a devastating environmental impact.

Mr. SHERMAN. If the gentleman will yield, I will point out that we on the Democratic side of the aisle, while we are opposed en masse to drilling in the National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska, this does not mean that we are not looking for more production. In fact, our side of the aisle, and not the other side of the aisle, is pushing to bring the natural gas from Prudhoe Bay, the part of Alaska that has already been developed.

They are bringing the oil down, and if there is a leak in an oil pipeline, it causes the environmental problems that the gentleman talks about. The natural gas that is being produced from that already-developed field is being reinjected back into the Earth.

Instead, our plan, the Democratic plan, calls for building a pipeline, even providing an incentive to build that pipeline, so that we bring that natural gas to market.

Why is this so important? The price for oil is going to be set at the same price that OPEC is selling its oil. There is a world price for oil. We move oil from one continent to the other. A little bit of production by destroying the ANWR is not going to have any effect that helps consumers. A couple of oil companies might get rich on a big project, but it will not have any effect for consumers.

In contrast, natural gas does not move from continent to continent. The North American market is based upon North American supply and North American demand. If we can bring the natural gas that is already there at Prudhoe Bay, we can reduce prices that are paid by American consumers, by California consumers, by electric consumers whose electricity is generated by the burning of natural gas, as well as people who use natural gas in their homes.

So there is a project in Alaska that will reduce the price paid by consumers has no support in the President's plan, but there is this project that will despoil the environment and have no effect on world prices. Perhaps this administration, as has been asserted by us, has forgotten that they do not work for the energy industry anymore; at least, they are not supposed to.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, what is also not stated in this debate on the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is even if the authority is given and they start drilling, it is a 10-year period before they bring the product to market, so obviously that is not going to be any short-term answer to the crisis we now have on the West Coast or in other parts of this country in regard to rising prices.

Unquestionably, we need to modernize the infrastructure. We need to invest in more refineries. In fact, many of the industry experts in the economy say this is not really a supply problem we are facing. This is not the 1970s, when OPEC decided to turn off the spigots and hold us hostage by reducing oil production or selling oil in the country. We had the lines backing up at the service stations with escalating gas prices in the 1970s.

That is not the situation we face now. OPEC has, as a group, been able to keep their per barrel price of oil within the reasonable range of $25 to $30 a barrel, which they said was their target range. They have been staying true to that. It is really an infrastructure challenge we face right now, and refinery capacity. I believe Members on both sides of the aisle recognize that.

Mr. SHERMAN. If it is an infrastructure bottleneck, it is also a cause for antitrust investigation, because there has been an explosion in the profit margin that refiners are generating. It may be that, as we have seen problems in the generation of electricity, that we may also have supply being artificially constrained.

I would say that OPEC is probably charging 10 cents to 20 cents a gallon more than is fair, and that is a problem. But when we are paying $2 a gallon, as they do in my State, the 20 cents that is going to OPEC, which, after all, foreign countries are relatively hard to control, is not necessarily the focus of our attention.

Of course, when President Bush was running for office, he said that a United States President who was strong could get OPEC to cut their prices just by lifting up the phone. Obviously, he has changed his mind on the definition of strength, and, as other speakers have pointed out, has been unwilling to make that call.

I would like to comment on a few of the other points that have been made, if the gentleman will continue to yield.

We have talked about the importance of conservation. I should point out that America has produced four times more energy through efficiency, conservation, and renewables than we have from all other new sources of energy over the last 20 years. Over the last 20 years, we have saved $180 billion on our energy bills because of this conservation. That is more than $200 for every dollar of Federal money spent on developing renewables and developing conservation measures.

Mr. KIND. On that point, this is actually a perfect segue into a map that I brought with me this evening talking about the potential of the renewable and alternative energy sources that already exist within our own country.

In the upper left corner here we show the potential for biomass and biofuel resources throughout the country, albeit more predominant in the eastern part of this country and also the West Coast, but nevertheless, a tremendous potential.

It is one of the farm industry criticisms of the Bush energy plan is how little attention or interest they have in developing the biomass and biofuel resources that we have in the country. It could be a win for the consumer; it could also be a win for the farm producers that exist throughout the country. Lord knows, they are looking for a win at this point. But also there could be solar energy potential, too. In some regions the potential is much greater than other regions, but virtually every region of this country can certainly develop solar power potential to a much greater extent than we have today.

Geothermal resources, the Bureau of Land Management released this map showing the geothermal potential that exists in the country. There are a lot of uses of it already in Nevada, Utah, California, Hawaii, in particular, but there is also potential in the middle States of the country.

The small country of Kenya in Africa is moving aggressively with this geothermal power, and they are anticipating 35 percent of their energy needs over the next decade will be generated by geothermal power.

Then finally wind resources, which basically covers the map as well, and there is where we have seen some of the greatest efficiency in recent years. They have gone in the last 3 years from 30 cents per kilowatt hour in producing wind power to roughly 3 cents to 5 cents per kilowatt hour making it very market competitive.

These are some of the ideas that many of us are calling for in the development of alternative and renewable energy sources that should be a part of the overall energy solution, rather than increased reliance and dependence on the extraction of fossil fuels and the burning of fossil fuels in this country.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN).

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I know we have limited time, but just in closing, I want to say that California is building 14 electrical generation plants now. Under our prior Republican governor, we built not one, but the private sector was not trying to build plants in our State until last year.

We need help only in the form of being allowed to go back to the regulation system that we had before. We do not need billions of aid from the rest of the country, but we need the ropes untied from our hands.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN), my friend, for his comments tonight and for joining us in this important discussion. Obviously, this is the beginning of a long discussion and a much needed debate in this country trying to develop a 21st century energy policy to meet the challenges that exist today.

Again, if we can bring balance, if we can utilize the technology that is available, increase energy, efficiency and conservation, I think that is going to be the best long-term solution.

BOATING AND CARBON MONOXIDE: THE SILENT SERIAL KILLER

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ISSA). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2001, the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. MCINNIS) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would say to the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN), my colleague, I look forward not today but perhaps on the floor here where we can engage in a debate. In fact, I would savor the opportunity to engage in a debate with the gentleman.

Unfortunately, this evening I am not going to be able to rebut the comments that the gentleman has made. Obviously, there is strong disagreement and maybe next week or some week we can make an arrangement where the gentleman and I could show up here on special orders and both sides can yield a little and have a discussion. I would look forward to that.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN).

Mr. SHERMAN. If there is a particular time, I am available either now or at some other time that the gentleman suggests.

Mr. MCINNIS. I will suggest something to the gentleman tomorrow and maybe we can engage as early as tomorrow evening. Unfortunately, this evening, as the gentleman will soon see, I am going to leave the subject of energy completely and talk about a family in Colorado. But aside from that, perhaps we could contact each other tomorrow.

I think it would be healthy, Mr. Speaker, for us to have this kind of discussion, because certainly I think some of the statements made on that side are inaccurate. I am sure that the Democrats, especially the liberal Democrats, would find some of my comments inaccurate.

But that is not my point for being here this evening. My point here this evening is I want to tell a story. It is a story of great tragedy. It is a tragedy that did not have to happen. It is a tragedy that could have been avoided. It is a tragedy that was brought about in part because of inattentiveness of a governmental agency.

It is a tragedy that has ruined a family, maybe not ruined a family, but certainly marred this family's life.

Mr. Speaker, I hope that my colleagues will pay close attention to the story that I am about to tell this evening. It is about a serial killer. We have all heard about serial killers. We have had a lot of publicity lately about a serial killer. But this is a serial killer that could have easily been brought under control.

This is a serial killer that we could have captured, so to speak, very early in the game. But because of the fact that this serial killer who was known to be a serial killer, who was ignored by the system, this serial killer has resulted in many, many deaths.

My story again this evening will focus on two of those deaths, two young boys, two young boys who had no idea they were in the midst of a serial killer, two young boys whose lives were snuffed out in a matter of a few seconds.

The young boys' families and the young boys' friend's family who were also in the vicinity, how their life has been marred forever because of the fact that attention was not given to the ramifications of a serial killer. In fact, the episode itself was almost by design.

What am I talking about? Let me put it up. I would ask my colleagues and I ask, Mr. Speaker, to stick with me for the next 30 minutes or 40 minutes. This is the serial killer.

I say to my colleagues I hope each and every one pay attention to this, because this could have ramifications to any of my colleagues' constituents that may be recreating as the boating season begins, that may be recreating on a houseboat.

I hope, at the conclusion of my remarks, that one of the first things that my colleagues do when my colleagues return to their districts is that my colleagues speak at town meetings and so on. Take an opportunity to tell your constituents if they have a houseboat, watch out for the serial killer. I am going to tell my colleagues all about the serial killer.

This evening, I am going to spend a few minutes telling this story; and, fortunately, by telling this story, the family of these two young men through a lot of soul searching have had enough courage to step forward and allow me to talk about their tragedy. In fact, they had enough courage to come to Capitol Hill last week and to testify in front of committees.

As the mother of these two children said, she brought to Washington, D.C. a broken heart. That is what she delivered to Washington, D.C., a broken heart. It takes a lot of gumption for some folks to really come out and tell that.

Let us talk a little more about that. I will get into that later on. But let us look at boating and carbon monoxide, the silent serial killer. Let me repeat that, the silent serial killer. Right there, the back of that boat on the swimming platform.

This tragedy, by the way, occurred last August. Let us take a look at The Arizona Republic's article. It was published on December 31, 2000. Frankly, it is one of the best news accounts of a story that I read in my professional career.

It was by Maureen West and Judd Slivka, I hope that is the correct pronunciation of the author. It is August 2, and the sun is shining on the white paint of the houseboat named the Canyon Explorer. That is the name of the houseboat, the Canyon Explorer. Who wants to go skiing and who wants to go tubing, Ken Dixey, the father asks the nine kids on the 55-foot houseboat. Only two of his sons, Dillon, 11, and Logan, 8, want to go.

A pause in the story. There is Dillon. There is Logan. By the way, there is Ken. My colleagues will hear that name during the story. When I refer during the article, I will refer to Ken and his wife, Bambi. By the way, they are from Parker, Colorado. Dillon was 11 years old. Logan is 8.

Let us go back to the article. Who wants to go skiing and who wants to go tubing, Ken Dixey asks the nine children on the 55-foot houseboat, only two of his sons, Dillon, 11, and Logan, 8, want to go. Anybody else want to ski? But there are no other takers.

So Ken and Bambi Dixey of Parker, Colorado take their two youngest out alone on the fifth day of their annual houseboat vacation, with so many other people around, a total of nine children and four adults, there has not been much time to spend with one particular person.

The Dixeys have been coming out to Lake Powell for 15 years with their friends, Mark and Polly Tingey of Fort Collins, Colorado. At first, the couple went alone, but then as their children grew out of diapers and into swim trunks, they took them along.

At first, the children lived in life jackets on board the boat, but as they got older, all of the children turned into excellent swimmers as if born to water. Logan, in fact, wanted to be a Navy SEAL.

In 1994, Ken Dixey and Mark Tingey secretly bought a share of a privately owned houseboat as a present to their wives. The boat was named the Canyon Explorer, and it was a 55-foot Stardust Cruiser.

Every year, they reserved the first week of August on that boat for the past 12 years, they had taken the same route on the lake: leave Bullfrog Marina in Utah, putter along to Iceberg Canyon, spend a night there, and then move on to Neskahi Wash, which stands off an isolated still inlet that is perfect for skiing.

The inlet has a natural diving board too, a rock shelf that is natural for kids to catapult themselves off it. They nicknamed the place Jump Rock, and it became a tradition to visit there. Even after Logan hit the water the wrong way the year before, Logan banged himself up but he kept jumping anyway.

Another tradition was the first day safety lecture that the fathers gave their children: no running or playing tag on the boat, always swim with a buddy, the buddy system.

With the children getting older and more independent, Mark added something to his safety lesson this year. If we ever lost anyone, he told the kids, it would change our lives forever. So the father says to his two sons, as well as to the other children on the boat, if we ever lost any one of you, it would change our lives forever. So pay attention to these safety rules.

It is now 5 days later after the first day, August 2, a good day, and the safety lecture seems to be far away. Beneath the blazing sun, Logan masters the art of slaloming and skiing on one ski. He had tried it a few times before, but something had always gone wrong.

On this day, something finally clicks, he nails it. Logan, remember, the rock jumper, is fearless. When one of his friends could not haul in a fish, he jumped in and tackled it, hooks and all.

He loses one of his front teeth on this day. It is a baby tooth, and his mother, Bambi, promises that she will hide it that night for the Tooth Fairy. Although Logan is an adventurer, Dillon has persistence, refusing to let go of the tow bar cutting back and forth through the ski boat's wake.

He sings as he skis, and he talks to the rocks as he zips by. Let go, his father yells playfully, but 11-year-old Dillon does not listen. It is too much fun skimming along the lake.

Though he suffers from an occasional migraine headache, Dillon is confident. He is a little league pitcher at the top of his game. The last time out before this trip, he actually pitched a no-hitter. He is going to be a baseball star, he says. Then he is going on to become an actor. I have got plans he tells everyone. Nobody doubts him.

Logan, always a cuddler, sits on his dad's lap, while Ken drives the boat. When Bambi's attention is elsewhere, Ken lets Logan, 8, steer the boat and shows him how to work the clutch on the boat.

Logan is the aggressive and outgoing one who would crack jokes with the adults at a party. While the other kids goofed around with Nintendo downstairs, Dillon is the sweet kid, the boy who told the girl who had just gotten glasses that she looked nice when she did not want to go into her classroom.

□ 1930

When they make it back to the Canyon Explorer, Logan is fired up and tells the other kids about his skiing accomplishments and about the tooth fairy's impending visit.

The parents start the grill for dinner. Normally it is chicken and burgers, but tonight it is steak. After dinner, the adults wash dishes while the kids play on the boat. The kids are itching to go in the water for a swim. It is a nightly tradition.

The adults turn the houseboat's generator on to power the television and run the air conditioner. Temperatures are falling, but it is still in the 80-degree area. Outside it is getting darker. The moon is a milky silver in the sky. Someone flips the back lights on, illuminating the water. It is shortly before 9 o'clock in the evening. A thunderhead is gathering strength on the horizon, dark against the darkening sky.

The adults walk to the front of the houseboat to get candy bars out of the freezer. With this crowd, we need all the energy we can get, they joke; and they hear splashes from the back of the boat.

Dillon sticks his head out of the houseboat cabin and looks at the adults. His mother looks back at Dillon. Dillon cocks his head, mugs for her, and then walks away.

About 5 minutes later, the serial killer strikes. It is Connor, the Dixie's 14-year-old son, running up the side of the houseboat screaming something about Dillon and Logan, something about Dillon flopping in the water. Everyone thought he was joking around, and then he was gone. All the kids now are screaming.

Ken and Mark run to the stern of the boat. The children are back there pointing at the water. Dillon and Logan went down. They have not come back up. Up front, Bambi has a flash of a thought. Dillon's migraine headaches. It must be something else, something worse. Epilepsy? But Logan is missing, too. Both of them are missing.

They were swimming, and they ducked beneath the boat, surfacing in the cavity beneath the swim deck, precisely where the serial killer laid in wait. That is where the generator vents its odorless, colorless carbon monoxide gas.

It is hot, the children hear Dillon say. Moments later, moments later, Dillon's body appears 15 feet off the side of the houseboat, twitching, the children said. Then Dillon disappears.

At the same time, the Tingeys' 13-year-old son Mark, Jr., is on his knees on the graded swim platform. He sees Logan bumping his head against the platform. Tingey reaches under it. He tries to grab the 8-year-old, but Logan sinks and he sinks too quickly for Mark, Jr., to grab him.

Ken and the elder Tingey, Mark, dive into the water. Tingey looks beneath the water, but it is too silty. He grabs a pair of swim goggles and looks again. Nothing. An accomplished SCUBA diver, Ken Dixey, the father, dives towards where the children last saw Dillon's bubbles, but he cannot reach the lake bed.

He manages to make it to the bottom closer to the water's edge, but he runs out of air, and he has to surface. On a good day, the father can dive free-dive to 40 feet. For some reason, he cannot do that today. He comes up for air, and he ducks down again.

They turn out the lights, and they turn off the generator, thinking that the boys' disappearance might have something to do with fumes. But there is no light at all, and quickly the lights and the generator go back on.

About 15 minutes after the first scream, Tingey and Dixey bump into each other alongside the ship's side. In 20 years, in 20 years of knowing Dixey, Tingey has not seen a thing that this man cannot do. But his face, his face now says it all. They are gone. ''I will never see my boys alive again.''

Bambi is up front trying to raise someone, anyone on the ship's VHF radio. But she cannot raise anybody. She keeps trying.

The two men make a plan. Ken, Ken will dive deep to reach the boys. Tingey will swim to the rear where they were last seen beneath the swim deck, a place that the kids discovered a few days earlier while untangling a rope.

Tingey swims to the houseboat's stern and slips under the swim deck, but there are no children under the swim deck. He begins to feel lightheaded and sick. Something clicks in his head. I am in danger. Something else. The fumes, it had something to do with what happened to the boys.

Tingey struggles out from beneath the platform. Cole, the Dixeys' 16-year-old son pushes him to the swim deck where he and others congregate, shouting the missing boys names: Logan. Dillon. Logan. Logan. Dillon. Dillon.

It is 15 minutes until Tingey feels normal again. As soon as he does, he grabs his cell phone, and he gets in his ski boat to race out of the canyon where the signal can register on the local cell phone. He dials 911. It is now 10:20 in the evening Utah time, a little more than an hour after both of these young boys disappeared.

Ken, the father, is still diving. He is bumping into rocks. He is grabbing anything under water that has form, anything that could be one of his sons. Bambi is swimming around the sides of the boat to see if the children have somehow gotten stuck.

When the boys' parents finally get out of the water, they begin walking along the water's edge crying, looking to see if their boys have washed up onshore. It is a gruesome vigil made worse by the night that was still darkening.

On the boat, the children are on their knees, the rest of the children are on their knees; and they are praying, and they are crying.

Out on the lake Tingey is calling Bambi's best friend in Parker. ''You need to come out here now,'' he says. ''You need to help the Dixeys get back home when this is all over.''

Ken, worried about Tingey since his experience on the swim platform, comes out in a ski boat to check on his friend. The phone call is done. The two men head back to the houseboat, each in their own boat.

Now, why did I this evening go through this story with all of my colleagues? Why relate such a horrific incident to my colleagues here? Why did I go into the detail about the father and the mother yelling for Logan, yelling for Dillon? Why did I talk about these two young people? The reason is simple. This thing is a serial killer right here.

Do my colleagues know what, how many more Logans and how many more Dillons are going to be out there in one of these boats? We are just starting the boating season this year. How many more of these tragedies are going to occur? If we do our job, if the Coast Guard does its job, if parents do their job now, the parents that have found out from us, if we can all team together, and that is exactly what the Dixeys have asked us to do and the Tingeys have coordinated an effort to do, we think we can save a lot of lives.

Do my colleagues know something, that life might be one's own child. It might be one's life. Listen to me carefully about the defect on this boat. Listen to me carefully about what happens on fumes on houseboats. This could have been avoided.

The whole reason I am talking about Logan tonight, the whole reason that I am talking about Dillon tonight is because these deaths, these two young men, one of them wanted to be an actor, the other was well thought of, both expert swimmers. These deaths could have been avoided, and these families want to avoid any other deaths.

Is it just restricted to these two young men? We do not think so. We know on Lake Powell alone that there are at least nine other confirmed deaths that we know of in the past, they were classified as drowning deaths or swimming accidents. It is this tragedy, it is this tragedy last summer that brought to the attention of several interested people, hey, something is out there. There is a serial killer out there.

What a coincidence, a tragic coincidence that two young boys, brothers, died within seconds of each other. Something on that boat, something on that boat led to those deaths. That is when the investigation really got some momentum.

Now, let me tell my colleagues that, years ago, 1995, there was a letter written to the Coast Guard by an expert in this field saying, Coast Guard, be aware, there is a silent killer in existence on houseboats throughout this country, not just Lake Powell. Let me tell my colleagues here, we are not just talking about a lake in the West. These houseboats are distributed nationwide.

They sent a letter to the Coast Guard. They said there is a silent killer out there. We have got the proof. There is no question about the defect on the boat. There is a defect on these houseboats. They are not being repaired by the houseboat manufacturers. We have got to educate the public.

There was a letter written to this, basically to this problem. Unfortunately, it got filed away. The Coast Guard ignored the letter. It was 5 years ago, well, well, well before the deaths of these two young men.

Now, that said about the Coast Guard. Let me tell my colleagues that the Coast Guard now, under its currents admiral, under the vice admiral and the people in the Coast Guard, are completely cooperative. They have been, I think what one would classify as a good partner. They are becoming tenacious, not only in their educational campaign so that we do not have another death like Dillon and like Logan. They are also tenacious in the recall effort that we have tried to put together.

We have got quite an effort back here in Capitol Hill to try and make sure that we never again have to experience what some of my colleagues here on the floor, what some of us experienced last week when we listened to the tragedy of the Dixey family. Hopefully, there will not be another family like the Dixey family as a result of one of these silent killers on the houseboat.

Let us take a look at a little more detail exactly why this houseboat is a silent killer, why it is a serial killer.

First of all, carbon monoxide. Let us talk. Now we all know about carbon monoxide. We are around carbon monoxide all the time. If one walks down the sidewalk, and a car goes by here in Washington, D.C. or Denver, Colorado, or San Francisco, or Miami or New York, or wherever one wants to go, there is lots of cars; and we have carbon monoxide. But we have been raised to believe that carbon monoxide is not dangerous in an open area.

Carbon monoxide. All of us knows, it is deadly if one starts a car in the garage and one runs the engine, the carbon monoxide accumulates in the garage. There is nowhere for it to go. It is fatal. We know that.

We know that if one sticks a hose on the exhaust and one starts to breathe it, within a few seconds, one is going to be dead. We know that.

What this tragic incident of the Dixeys brought to light is that this silent killer can kill in the open. That is exactly what happened here.

Let us go over it, because part of my effort this evening is to educate all of us so that we can go back to our constituents and tell our constituents what to look out for, to help in this educational effort that the Dixeys and the Tingeys have really spearheaded. That is their purpose in coming back and sharing this horrible, horrible tragedy with us, because they want to educate other people about how to avoid that serial killer that found them early that evening.

Be aware of these kind of symptoms. Carbon monoxide, it is colorless. It is an odorless gas. Now, we have heard that. One does not know it is around. It has no color to it. It has no odor to it. One does not know that one is inhaling carbon monoxide gas.

Incomplete combustion of carbon chemicals, it is the leading cause of poisonings in our country. If one looks across our country, that is the number one cause of poisonings. As I said, it is a silent killer.

Here is what is important, symptom progression. First of all, one starts to get dizzy. One gets a headache. One becomes nauseous, disoriented. One can have convulsions, one will have convulsions, coma and death. Of course the order and the length of how long this goes is totally dependent on the quantity that one takes into one's body.

Now, for any of my colleagues that have a houseboat or have any of their constituents who have a houseboat, please, please, please pay attention to me now for the next few moments. Let me show my colleagues where the serial killer rests. Let me show my colleagues what results in almost instantaneous death if one is within the reach of that serial killer.

Here it is. This is the back of a houseboat. Any of my colleagues that have been on a houseboat will recognize this is the back of the houseboat. This is the canvas that goes around. Right in this area is where one's TV is, one's living quarters, and so on. This is the swimming platform. One can see the houseboat, by design, has a step down right here. One steps from this deck on to this small deck.

That is the swimming platform. Here you can see they have a slide that actually goes right off. This area right here, this entire area, is designed to be a swim platform. That is where you do the swimming. They do not want you swimming in the front of the houseboat. They did not design the houseboat for you to swim on the side of it, they designed it right here. So you swim right there. There is the ladder. That is the swim ladder right there.

Guess what is happening? Some of these houseboats, including the houseboat, the Canyon Explorer that the Dixeys and the Tingeys were on, unbeknownst to them, had the generator which turns the lights and the air-conditioning on, not a big engine, small motor, not the motor that drives the boat, but a generator that provides electricity and power within the living quarters, it has its exhaust exit right in here and right over here.

Now, let me show my colleagues what happens to it. Again, take a close look at this. This is the back. Here is our problem. This is where the arms of the silent killer are. There is where they are going to reach out, anywhere within either side of this ladder.

Here is what begins to happen. You go inside the houseboat. Now, here is the glass sliding door. You go in the houseboat, turn on the generator in there, here is the swimming platform and the swim ladder right here, and so you turn on your generator, and this is what begins to happen with the exhaust. Now, remember, when you just take a look at the exhaust, you see mere exhaust. You do not see the carbon monoxide. You can see the exhaust, you just do not see the content of the carbon monoxide. You see more smoke coming out of a car that has not been tuned up down here on Main Street.

So here, when they start it up, there is a little tiny exit valve right here, right on this side, and there is a small one right over here. And what begins to happen is the exhaust goes out into an open area. Again, this case brought to our attention that you can get carbon monoxide poisoning in an open area. That has not been our assumption. It has all changed as a result of those tragic deaths.

What begins to happen is that gas does not come out into the open. Because of the chamber that is created right underneath the swim deck, where logically you would swim, frankly I would swim under there, it begins to turn in circles and it begins to circulate within that cavity. It is not exiting the cavity with any kind of velocity. It is locked into that cavity right there. When you jump in the water, as you go down the ladder, you are within inches. Your face is within inches of that silent killer.

Let us take a look at what the measurements are. We had some scientists that went in on this. We had some people that went in and did the expert work on this. Take a very careful look at what happens. This is carbon monoxide. The only important thing we need to remember here is its parts per million. It just gives us some kind of measurement so that we can get an idea of what is going on underneath this deck. So the numbers are parts per million, and I am just going to give you an idea of the intensity that is building up in this deck.

Let us look. Okay, 35 parts per million. Thirty-five is the maximum exposure allowed by the EPA in outside air for a 1-hour period of time. So our Federal regulations, through the EPA, say that the maximum exposure that we will allow to be polluted for a 1-hour period of time is 35. Thirty-five is also the maximum exposure allowed by OSHA in the workplace over an 8-hour period of time. So over an 8-hour period of time, when OSHA comes in and inspects a workplace, it is a violation if they find an amount or a concentration over 35.

At 200 parts per million, you begin to feel some symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning. One, you begin to have a mild headache, you begin to feel fatigue, you have nausea, dizziness, and you become confused. That is at 200. At 400, you begin to have a serious headache.

Now, remember, 35 is what EPA said really ought to be the maximum over an hour. At 400, you begin to get a serious headache. Other symptoms intensify within a 1- to 2-hour period of time; 2½ to 3½ hours at 400 and you collapse in danger of death. So doubling that, at 800, we are doubling that, at 800 dizziness, nausea, convulsions. Within 45 minutes, you are dead. In 2 hours, at 800, you are dead in 2 hours.

Now, let us begin to take a look: 1,200. 1,200. Remember, 35 is the maximum EPA wants out there over an hour period. Now, 1,200 exposure considered to be immediately dangerous to life and health. If you have a measurement of 1,200 parts per million of carbon monoxide, death is impending. The danger is immediate. You are in an emergency situation.

Let us go on from that emergency situation. We have measured in the back of boats, and I am not talking about below the swim deck, I am talking about this area right here. Up here, in this area right here on a houseboat. If that generation is going, we have measured carbon monoxide, not locked underneath, but carbon monoxide on these decks in this category right here, in excess of 1,200; the amount measured in open air near the rear end of several boats that were examined. So several of the boats they found a level, not in the water, not next to the generator, in an open arena, exposure considered to be immediately dangerous to life and health.

Let us go on. If you go to 3,200 parts per million, 3,200 parts per million, you will be dead in 30 minutes. If you go to 6,400 parts per million, you will be dead in 10 to 15 minutes. That is at 6,400. Now, look at 10,000. In 6,400, you are dead in 10 to 15 minutes. Boom, it is over. Ten thousand, the amount that was measured in open air on or near the swim platform of several boats.

So at 6,400, 6,400, around there, if you are exposed to that, you are dead in 10 minutes. What they found out in this area right here, this area right here, are measurements of 10,000. Ten thousand. Remember, it is has always been the assumption that if the carbon monoxide gets out, it dilutes so quickly that it is not harmful to humans. Ten thousand was the measurement in the back of the boat.

At 12,000, it is immediate death. Death is immediate at 12,000. Seven thousand to 30,000. Remember, 12,000 is immediate. Thirty thousand is the amount measured on houseboats on Lake Powell under the swim platform. Thirty thousand is the measurement underneath this swim platform if your generator exhaust comes out underneath it. And several houseboats on Lake Powell today and several houseboats on lakes throughout this country have a measurement of 30,000, and 10,000 is instant death.

You want to know what happened to the Dixeys' sons? That is exactly what happened to the Dixeys' sons. You want to know a death that was avoidable? They knew that was in existence. You think these houseboat manufacturers repaired those boats? They did not repair them. They knew about them. They knew there was a problem. The Coast Guard knew there was a problem.

You wonder about how the Dixeys felt when they knew about this? I mean, what gives? Do we know we have a silent killer; do we know we have a serial killer?

Now, again I want to come back and tell you that the Coast Guard is now tenacious. We all wish they would have done it 5 years ago. But I will tell you, it bothers me with the manufacturers of these boats. What do you think when you put an exhaust out underneath a swim platform? That is exactly where this exhaust comes out.

You can see here on this picture, I hope, colleagues, you can see on this picture the haze in there. That is where it exits. What kind of rocket scientist would tell you that on a swim platform that might be where the people do their swimming. Of course it is where they do their swimming. That is where you must have an expectation that people will be in that water; that people will be within inches of that exhaust.

You need to know something? There are lots of people today, in fact, there may be some today as I am now speaking to my colleagues, there may be some out there today who have children now currently swimming off the back of their boat. It is boating season. I hope not. Because if it is happening, we stand to have another horrible, horrible tragedy like the Dixey family went through.

We are trying to do everything we can with this. First of all, the Arizona Republic, to their credit, they have done an excellent job in trying to get that story out. Of course, Arizona is a big boating State. 48 Hours is going to do a story on it. USA Today has done a story on it. New York Times has done a story. All the Denver Press, the Colorado Press, the Grand Junction Daily Sentinel has done excellent stories, Associated Press is getting that story out, and local TV news is getting it out.

We are starting to get word out where that serial killer is located. Because if we know where it is located, and we educate the public where this serial killer hides out, we can avoid the kind of tragedies that we saw with the Dixey family. It is our obligation to try and be as tenacious as we can be, to be as determined as we can be to get the message out. When you get on a houseboat this summer, you should say this to your constituents; when you get on a houseboat this summer, for God sakes, take a look at the back by the swim platform. Where does that generator exhaust come out?

And if you are renting a boat, you should insist it have a carbon monoxide detector inside the boat. And if the carbon monoxide detector goes off, pay attention to it. I went down to Lake Powell not long ago, and I was talking to the maintenance guy down there on rental boats. They have carbon monoxide detectors on those houseboats at Lake Powell that are rented by the concessionaire. And by the way, they have revented, or they do not vent on the back on those houseboats that are rented. But I asked him, I said, well, what do you find about these carbon monoxide detectors? The guy said most of the time these detectors come back disconnected because the people who have rented the boat think the thing is malfunctioning because it is going off. Do not do that. You have just invited the serial killer into your bedroom if you think that carbon monoxide detail detector is not working.

Now, why? Why am I so intense this evening? And why do I continue to reiterate the tragedy that the Dixey and the Tingey family suffered at Lake Powell in August of last year? Am I against the houseboat manufacturers, as some might suggest? Of course not. I love being out on Lake Powell. Water sports generally are very safe if you are responsible, as the Dixey family was. They lectured their kids. They sat all these kids down, gave them a safety lecture before they did that. When they were young, they were in life jackets. As they grew older, they took swimming lessons, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera. Responsible safety lessons are necessary.

But what is sad about this situation, and the reason that I get so worked up about it, is no matter how many swimming lessons the Dixeys would have given these two young men, no matter how much, no matter how much time Ken, or no matter how much time Bambi spent with these two boys on swimming lessons, no matter how many safety lectures they would have given them, if they would have been 5 feet away from these young boys, and by the way, they were not much further away than that, nothing could have saved those boys.

Why? Because the killer that got them, that carbon monoxide under the swim platform where people expect people to swim was instant death. That is exactly what happened. That is why I get worked up about it.

Is it avoidable? You bet. One, you can vent this carbon monoxide straight up. What does it mean? It means it is going to cost a little money. Last week in our committee hearing, we had a committee hearing, the Dixey family and the Tingey family were willing to come to Washington and spill all of their sadness. The mother brought a broken heart. The father in his testimony in front of our committee last week said, ''As a father, I feel I have an inherent responsibility. Probably the ultimate charge, an inherent responsibility, to protect my family. As my boys were drowning, I know that they thought and they expected that I would rescue them.''

Well, Mr. Dixey, you never had a chance. You and Bambi could have done everything possible, but because of the fact you did not know about that serial killer lurking underneath the swim platform of your houseboat, you had no chance.

Frankly for a couple like that, Mr. Speaker, for a couple like that to have these guilty feelings about what they could have done, there is nothing they could do. But somebody could have done something about it. First of all, the Coast Guard back in 1995; and again, they are doing something about it now. The boat manufacturers, and I should add now that the boat manufacturers, now that we have a recall, I went to the Coast Guard and I said, ''Put a recall.''

The Coast Guard said, ''We are not sure we can.'' They do their research, and they can put a recall. Now we have cooperation from the boat manufacturers, but that cooperation did not start until we had a recall. We did not get cooperation 5 years ago. Some of these boat manufacturers I think knew what was happening.

It should have been fixed. And if it would have been fixed, we would have two young men in our presence today. They would be alive, Dillon and Logan, and Bambi and Ken, they would not be in this kind of situation.

So colleagues, what do I want the message to be to you tonight? Try and educate. Have town meetings if you have an opportunity. We have a Memorial Day break coming up. We know on Memorial Day a lot of people go to the water. This is an opportunity for you, too. I want to do it. This is an opportunity for you to tell the story that I am relaying to you tonight, for you to tell the Dixey story and relate as the Dixeys have prayed ever since they lost their two wonderful children, as they have prayed as someone might, for you to go out and tell their story so no other family suffers as the Dixey family has.

That is if you have a houseboat, for gosh sake's, be aware of the danger of carbon monoxide. If you have got a houseboat, when you go to rent a houseboat, or if you are going to use a houseboat and it has carbon monoxide, it has generators, this is not the engines that drive the propellers, this is the generator that keeps the lights on inside the cabin.

If you rent a houseboat this weekend, Mr. Speaker, take a look at the back. If the generator exhaust comes out the back, tell the owner of that houseboat, number one, you are not going to rent it. And number two, he should not rent it to anybody. Tell him he has a silent serial killer on his hands, and his responsibility is to put a lock and key on that boat and until that boat is refitted, not let anybody touch it. If you do not, some of our constituents are going to suffer the same horrible tragedy which creates a nightmare every night of the Dixeys' life. I am asking for my colleagues to help this evening.

Mr. Speaker, this evening I was ready to talk about the budget. I wanted to talk about energy. I wanted to rebut the previous comments that were made obviously attacking President Bush I think unfairly. But sometimes there is a priority. My priority tonight was to put aside the discussion on the budget, to put aside the discussion on our energy problem, to try and relay a message about how deadly and how dangerous these houseboats are, and how important it is for us, Mr. Speaker, and how important it is for everyone that we come in contact with when we go out on our Memorial Day break, to know exactly what the danger of these houseboats are. It is very, very important.

Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, let me just thank specifically the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. LOBIONDO), the gentleman called a hearing on boating safety, and to thank my colleagues that have given us the time and their energy to get this message out. I do want to issue a deep appreciation to the families and so on who are willing to help us get this message out.

I wish Mr. Speaker and all of my colleagues a safe Memorial Day weekend.

QUALITY OF AMERICAN DEMOCRACY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ISSA). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2001, the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS) is recognized for 60 minutes.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I am delighted to be joined this evening by the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO), my good friend.

Mr. Speaker, I want to begin, as the first Independent elected to Congress in 40 years and I have been here now for 11 years, I want to talk about some issues that are often not addressed by my colleagues in the House or the Senate and some issues that are not talked about on television or radio with our corporate media but issues that need to be discussed and debated and thought about.

The first issue that I want to talk about is the most important issue. That is the quality of American democracy.

Mr. Speaker, we have an American flag behind us, and the American flag reflects the struggle and the deaths of so many Americans who fought and died to preserve our democracy. Democracy is a big deal. It means that the people, ordinary people, working people, low-income people, people who are not wealthy and powerful, but ordinary people having the right to control their own lives and making the decisions which impact on their children and on the future of the country, that is a big deal and something that we kind of take for granted.

What I am extremely concerned about, that the quality of our democracy and our democratic traditions are deteriorating, and that more and more people are giving up on our democratic process or not paying attention to what is going on and believe for many very good reasons that this institution, that Washington, D.C., is controlled by big money interests who do not pay attention to the lives and struggles of ordinary people, to the middle class. People are saying why should I bother to vote, why should I bother to participate. The deck is stacked against me, big money controls both political parties, big money controls the agenda.

Let me just say a word about what goes on in this country in terms of money. Let me quote if I can, Mr. Speaker, from today's Washington Post. ''Vice President CHENEY held a reception at his official residence last night for $100,000 donors to the Republican Party, giving the Democrats, after years of enduring GOP criticism of their use of the perks of office for fund-raising a chance to accuse Republicans of engaging in the same practices. CHENEY's hospitality was a prelude to tonight's Presidential gala, a black-tie dinner that is expected to raise at least $15 million for the Republican National Committee, and will mark President Bush's post-inaugural debut as a major fund-raising draw for his party.''

Mr. Speaker, we ended our debate over education kind of early this evening, about 5:00, for a very special occasion. And the occasion was because many of our Republican colleagues were racing out to this $15 million fund-raising dinner.

In my State of Vermont and all over this country, people sit back and they cannot believe it. They cannot believe that there are people who go to fund-raising dinners for $25,000 a plate, Republican dinners and Democratic dinners, people who contribute hundreds of thousands of dollars to both political parties. People say, ''What is going on in this country. That is not what democracy is supposed to be.''

Now, what people also understand is that folks do not go to fund-raising dinners like the one that the Republicans are holding tonight and do not contribute hundreds of thousands of dollars to the Republican Party or the Democratic Party because they believe in the democratic process. No one thinks that.

The reason that people contribute huge sums of money, the reason that corporate America is throwing hundreds of millions of dollars into the political process is that when you contribute, you gain access to the people who make the decisions, and they make decisions that benefit you.

Does anybody think that at tonight's fund-raising dinner for the Republican Party the major donors are coming up to the President and saying, ''Mr. President, you have got to raise the minimum wage because American workers cannot make it on $5.15 an hour.''

Does anyone think that is what is being discussed tonight? Do you think that the donors of the Republican Party are saying, ''Mr. President, what are we going to do about the fact that 43 million Americans have no health insurance, and many more are underinsured? Mr. President, we have to move that issue.'' I do not think so.

I think what is happening tonight is the President is taking some bows for his tax proposal which will give hundreds of billions of dollars in tax breaks to the wealthiest 1 percent of the population, people who make a minimum income of $375,000; and that is why people contribute to the political process.

Mr. Speaker, I would say the major issue as a Nation we have got to face is how do we revitalize American democracy. How do we go from having the lowest voter turnout of any major industrialized Nation to the highest voter turnout.

In next year's election, 2002, the estimate is 36 percent of the American people are going to vote. Almost two-thirds of the American people are saying, ''I am not going to participate in terms of who is going to the Congress, Senate, who is going to be the governor of my State. It does not matter.''

What is even scarier is that the voter turnout for young people is even lower, which portends very badly for the future of this country in terms of democratic participation.

I hope tonight, along with the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO), we will be exploring the role that big money plays in the political process, in terms of energy, tax breaks, in terms of our environment, and I think there is a lot to be discussed in that respect.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to a gentleman who has played a fantastic role in this Congress in taking on the big oil companies and fighting for an energy policy that makes a lot of sense to working Americans, rather than just Exxon and the big oil companies.

Mr. DeFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman. Just in following up on that train of thought, there is 1 billion, ''b'' as in billion, that is 1,000 million dollars spent by candidates for Congress in this last cycle; by far a new record, more than a $200 million increase.

I have to say sadly most of that money came from powerful special interests whose interests is not good public policy, not universal health care, not how to rein in the outrageous cost of prescription drugs, not how to have a sustainable energy policy for the United States of America that benefits small business, big business and residential ratepayers and working people alike, but no, they are narrow special interests.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to read sort of a roll call here from the energy industry of their contributions. Now, number one, it is hard to choose. I do not know whether to go to Enron because the CEO of Enron is Mr. Ken Lay, who is the largest single contributor to George Bush, $2 million over George Bush's political lifetime, and all of his company executives were required to give substantial funds to President Bush, and they raised millions of dollars. This is one company.

What is at stake for them? Well, last year, they had a billion dollars of income or a billion dollars of revenue and $100 million of income, a lot of it through manipulating energy markets. They do not produce things. They just manipulated energy markets.

So I am going to give them the number one spot, as I said, $2 million from the CEO of Enron. When Mr. CHENEY, who wrote our national energy policy, was asked to name people who he had met with, he said, well, I met with lots of people, lots of people; but the only one he could name, the only person that CHENEY in that press conference, Vice President CHENEY, could name, was Ken Lay, the head of Enron, because he said they have a different take on things.

That is right. They do not produce oil and gas. They do not produce electricity. What they produce is money by speculating on these markets, driving up the price and manipulating the markets to extract the money from consumers, but they do not add anything productive to the mix.

It was reported by the Wall Street Journal last Friday that Mr. Lay of Enron chose two key regulators who he had to call over to the White House to get appointed to be on the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to make certain that policies that benefit his billion dollar company are put in place.

Number two, close behind Enron, they could have been number one, is ExxonMobil; ExxonMobil, $15.9 billion in profits in the last year. It is a 100 percent increase. Americans are seeing it every day at the pump; and they are also seeing it in their homes, because Mobil has very substantial interests in the natural gas market which has been manipulated to extraordinary new highs.

They are kind of pikers, though. With that $15.9 billion of profits far outstripping the billion dollars of profits of Enron, they only gave $1.2 million to George Bush's election. They could have done a little better, but hopefully they are downtown tonight and they are making up for that deficit because certainly this so-called national energy policy which we received, this glossy, wonderful thing last week, in fact James Watt said that they dusted off his work from 20 years ago. I actually kind of think it was probably written more like 50 years ago in terms of how enlightened it is in moving us beyond the petroleum, coal, and nuclear economy. They certainly would do very well under that.

Let us go to number three here. Looks like number three goes to Chevron, $5.1 billion of profits; 150 percent increase. Total pikers, less than a million dollars to the Republican Party, only $770,000. I am certain, again, that they are making up for that tonight.

There is a direct linkage between this so-called national energy policy and massive, massive contributions from the energy industry in this country. It is just scandalous what is going on, the influence we have, two people from Texas, although Mr. CHENEY did move his residency to Wyoming in order to meet constitutional requirements, where he had formerly lived; but they both lived in Texas up until the election; both working previously for oil companies, Mr. CHENEY for Halliburton, and Mr. Bush a long history with the industry.

People wonder what is this big run-up in prices at the pump? What is going on with energy deregulation in California? How can the price of the electricity sold in California in 2 short years go from $7 billion to $70 billion? The same amount of electricity will be sold in California this year as 2 years ago. Despite what one reads in the press, they are conserving. They will consume probably as much or a little bit less than they did 2 years ago, and the price has gone up by 1,000 percent; 1,000 percent.

Every small business, every big business, every residential ratepayer is paying through the nose for the same essential commodity that keeps these lights on in this so-called deregulated market; and this national energy policy says this is such a great plan it is working so well, so well in the State of California that according to an unnumbered page in the summary of recommendations, in appendix one of President Bush's and Vice President CHENEY's national energy policy, that every State in the Union, despite, of course, the normal States' rights position of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle, should be required to implement California-like deregulation because it would be unbelievably profitable for Enron.

It is such a great deal. The lights go out. You do not know if you can afford your bill, but they think this is a model for the future and we should model this in every State in the union.

It has failed every place it has been tried.

Mr. SANDERS. Let me just pick up on the point of the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO). All over this country people are driving to work. In the State of Vermont, we are one of the most rural States in the country. People put a lot of miles on their car, and what they are noticing is that the price that they are paying for gas at the pump is zooming upward.

What they should also notice is that the profits of the major oil companies have expanded enormously. During the last year, ExxonMobil saw a 102 percent increase in their profits; Chevron, a 150 percent increase in their profits; Texaco, 116 percent increase in their profits; Conoco, a 155 percent increase in their profits; Phillips Petroleum did really good, a 205 percent increase; and on and on it goes.

So while working people all over this country are paying more and more at the pump, while people are scared to death about what the heating bills will be in States like Vermont next winter, the oil companies are enjoying huge profits. Some of us think that it might be appropriate, as radical an idea as it might be, for the United States Congress to stand up for the working people, for the middle class, for those people whose heating bills and whose oil bills and gas prices are moving upward, rather than for the oil companies who have contributed so much money to the Republican Party. I know that that is a radical idea, but some of us think maybe it is long overdue that we begin to do that.

I do not know if my friend, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO), wants to go there yet; but there is another issue that he has alerted me to awhile back that I think is a fascinating issue. It deals obviously with energy. It deals with trade. It deals with money and politics. And that is the issue of OPEC.

I must confess to my colleagues and to the American people that I am not a great fan of unfettered free trade. I voted against NAFTA. I voted against GATT. I am strongly opposed to the Most Favored Nation status, or PNTR, with China. We will talk about that in a little while.

What is interesting is a majority of the Members of the House, a majority of the Members of the Senate and the President of the United States, they disagree with me. They say free trade is just a wonderful, wonderful thing and that everybody does well when we have no limitations to production, to distribution, products go in and out of people's countries. That is the way we have to go.

I have a question and I want to credit my friend from Oregon for raising this issue a couple of months ago or longer than that, and that is everybody in the world understands that OPEC, the oil-producing countries, are a cartel. That is why they are in existence. In fact, in a couple of weeks they are going to be meeting, as they do periodically, to decide as to how much oil they will produce and what the price, in fact, of oil will be on the world market. It is a cartel. Their existence, their reason for existence, is to control oil production.

I find it amazing, and I would like my friend from Oregon to comment on it, how it could be that the representative from the United States Trade Department, operating under the Secretary of the Treasury, has not raced off to Geneva, Switzerland, where the WTO is and raised the complaint about OPEC's policies being a clear violation of international trade. I find it amazing that all of the proponents of free trade, who think it is a great idea that corporations run to China and hire workers there at 20 cents an hour when they throw Americans out on the street, that is great. Where are they when it comes to taking on OPEC and the oil industry that works with OPEC?

Mr. Speaker, I would yield to my friend from Oregon for some comments on that.

Mr. DEFAZIO. The gentleman raises a very interesting point. In fact, I consulted with experts at the Congressional Research Service. Like the gentleman, I opposed the formation of the World Trade Organization; I opposed NAFTA; opposed Most Favored Nation status for China, and unfortunately and pathetically the Clinton administration was as bad as the Reagan administration, the Bush I administration and the Bush II administration on these issues. There seems to be sort of a thread that runs through there.

I was concerned when I read about Mr. Chavez, the President of Venezuela, who is head of OPEC, saying, we can squeeze them. All we have to do is constrain production.

I thought, well, wait a minute. What about this free trade stuff that I hear from President Clinton and I am hearing now from President Bush? They are all for rules-based free trade. That is why we are going to have the WTO and put China in there. We are going to have rules, by God; we are going to have rules. Well, I checked out the rules.

I am not a lawyer, but it is pretty clear when I read the rules that OPEC cannot do what they are doing under the rules. So I consulted with the Congressional Research Service, and I said I am not a lawyer and I read this stuff and it kind of looks to me like OPEC, the seven countries in OPEC now, I did raise this issue with Vice President CHENEY and he looked at me very smugly and said did I not know that Saudi Arabia was not in OPEC?

I said, well, Mr. Vice President, I know that Saudi Arabia is not in OPEC, but the seven members who are in OPEC are members of the World Trade Organization. Saudi Arabia is an observer nation, and they want to be in the WTO so they have to follow the rules, too. Did not have much of a rejoinder to that.

I have sent a letter to President Bush and Vice President CHENEY and their trade representative asking them on behalf of the consumers of the United States, who are footing the bill every day when they pull up to the gas pump, to file a complaint for illegal constraint of trade and production under the World Trade Organization agreement and GATT by the OPEC nations. There has been a resounding silence.

I think what is really going on here is one finds that the American oil companies use the constriction of production by OPEC as an excuse to raise the price even more. I mean, we go back to the ExxonMobil profits, that $15.9 billion, that is $159,000 million in profits, a 102 percent increase by ExxonMobil. It had to come from somewhere.

It came from two places. Mobil was manipulating and constricting gas supply to drive up the price across the country to people who use natural gas to produce energy to heat their homes or run their business; and Exxon, specializing on the other side of the equation, and Mobil to some extent, was using the excuse of constricted supply from OPEC to drive up the price twice as much as OPEC had and increase their profits.

So it appears that the Bush administration, no big surprise given their oil background, will not use the rules-based trade that they want us to be in. In fact, they want to expand this to a giant super NAFTA which covers the entire western hemisphere. They will not use the rules of that to file a complaint against the OPEC countries, a complaint that according to the legal resources I have contacted the United States would win recouping billions of dollars of refunds for U.S. consumers.

Now, why will they not do that? If I were President of the United States and I had an opportunity to go out against foreign nations who are manipulating a product that is essential to my economy, I would do it in a second; and I would refund that money to all the American consumers who had been gouged by this manipulation. Strangely enough, the Bush administration will not do that.

As I say, to be fair, the Clinton administration before them would not do it either. It is a pathetic comment.

Mr. SANDERS. The bottom line here is very clear, that when free trade works for the benefit of the multinationals, it is a process to be touted; it is an ideology to be cheered on. But when breaking up a cartel, which is ripping off the American people and people all over the world, that when taking on this cartel would hurt corporate America's interest, suddenly the silence is deafening.

I want to applaud the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO) for raising this issue. I am going to stay on this issue.

I think the American people want the United States Trade Representative to go to Geneva and demand free trade in terms of the production of oil. We are concerned not only about what the rising price of oil and gas at the pumps means for people who are driving, but for the state of our whole economy and, clearly, Congress and the White House have to take some action on that.

Let me switch gears for a moment.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, just before we do that, just to go after this WTO thing for a moment, one of the concerns I have had about the WTO, and we are part of it, and I led the Democratic side with the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL) leading the Republican side, on a vote to withdraw from the WTO last fall, and we were defeated resoundingly; I do not think we even got 100 votes, and people around the country should check out their Members of Congress and see how many of them voted to withdraw from this manipulated trade organization, which is set up for multinational corporations, not for consumers, not for the environment, not for people who consume energy, not for people concerned about working conditions, but for the corporations; that the U.S. has changed laws, weakened laws because the WTO has found against us because we wanted to protect dolphins; the WTO has found against the United States for clean air. We have to import dirty gasoline from overseas under WTO rules from Venezuela because they found our clean air restrictions were an illegal international trade constraint.

Under NAFTA, the horrible pollution of our water table about the substance called MTBE, the United States may have to pay Canada hundreds of millions of dollars under NAFTA to stop the production and the introduction of MTBE into poisoning our water supply, because of that trade agreement, and the U.S. accedes to all of these things. We pay the penalties, we repeal the laws. Not myself, but other Members of Congress vote for these things because they bow to the World Trade Organization and to the NAFTA tribunals.

But somehow, when it comes to the American consumers, when it comes to people pulling up to the pump in their cars, when it comes to people from my rural areas pulling up, and we hear a lot about Americans and their brand-new SUVs and the bad gas mileage, but I have a heck of a lot more people in my district who are driving their beat-up pickup trucks to the pump in the few rural gas stations we have left in my State, they are getting gouged twice as much as some of the big city folks, and somehow, the United States of America, the President of the United States cannot stand up for them in the World Trade Organization and against OPEC. I find that absolutely pathetic.

I would trace it back to the Rollcall I was reading before. The profits: Exxon-Mobil, $15.9 billion; Chevron, $5.1 billion; Texaco, $2.5 billion; Conoco, $1.9 billion; Philips Petroleum, $1.9 billion; Duke Energy, $1.8 billion; I am sorry, we are getting into electricity; maybe we will get to that later. Occidental Petroleum, $1.6 billion; and so on and so on. The list goes on and on. I think that has a little bit more to do with it than the fact that American consumers are getting gouged.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, while we are on the issue of trade, I want to touch on an issue, talk about amazing issues, we talked about the WTO and OPEC. This one, in many respects, is even more amazing, and that is the Permanent Normalized Trade Relations with China. Let us talk a little bit about that and talk about it in two respects. Number one, what is going on?

Well, for a start, it seems to me that overall, our trade policy is almost by definition a disaster. Today, the United States has over a $400 billion trade deficit, which means that products that used to be manufactured in the United States by workers here who are making a living wage are now being manufactured in China, Mexico, many other countries around the world where people are being paid 20 cents or 30 cents an hour. Now, I find it very hard to talk about ''free trade'' and fairness in trade when American workers are being asked to compete against desperate people in China who make 20 cents an hour, who cannot form a union, who, if they stood up and asked for the most basic, elemental, democratic rights, they would be thrown in jail, and that is our competition.

Now, what is also very interesting about what is going on in terms of our relationships to China is how little we are hearing from the media on this issue.

If we look at our relations to China, and I am not anti-China, anti-Chinese, I do not want a Cold War with China, I want to see China integrated into the world economy, China has a fantastic history, and so forth and so on. I am not anti-Chinese. But why would we want to continue a trade policy with a country in which we have an $84 billion trade deficit, record-breaking trade deficit with China? If one is in Vermont, if one is in any State of the country, walk into the local department store and look at the labels of the products that we are buying, and we are not talking about cheap 50 cent products?

We are talking about a wide variety of products, some of them very, very good quality. One of the most important economic realities that has taken place in this country in the last decade is that the major multinational corporations have, to a significant degree, stopped investing in New England, stopped investing in the Midwest and many other sections of our country, but instead are investing billions and billions of dollars building state-of-the-art factories in China. And the reason for their doing that is, I guess, China is a great place to do business. Workers are forced to work for starvation wages, they cannot form unions, they cannot stand up for their rights; environmental regulations are weak or nonexistent.

What a fantastic place to do business. You can bribe government officials all over the place. It is a fantastic place. Why would one want to invest in the United States, pay workers here a living wage, have to obey environmental regulations and so forth and so on?

So what we are seeing is a huge amount of investment in China. And the support of this trade agreement, which has been a disaster for American workers by corporate America and their representatives in the United States Congress.

Now, what I found very interesting is that after we opened up our market to China, and we said to the American companies and so forth that are doing business in China, come on in, you could be Nike, you can pay your workers 20 cents an hour, you can sell your sneakers in this country for $100, great idea, no problem. Well, in the midst of all of this, a funny thing happened. A couple of months ago, as everybody knows, an American plane was collided with by a Chinese pilot. As a result of the heroic efforts of the American pilot, 24 service people were able to stay alive as their plane crash landed in China.

Now, one would think, one might think that given the fact that we have granted permanent normalized trade relations with China, that we have allowed them to sell products into our market which results in the loss of hundreds of thousands of American jobs, lowering of the wages of American workers, one might think that in the midst of all of that, what the Chinese government might say is, we are sorry for the accident.

Obviously, we are going to release the 24 American servicemen who crash landed, and you are going to get your plane back as soon as you possibly can. That would seem to me to be the logical response of a government which now has complete access to the American market, which has been granted Permanent Most Favored Nation status. Instead, this country held prisoner 24 American service people for 11 days and still has our airplane. Where is the outrage? Where is the outrage?

Well, in fact, as my colleague from Oregon knows, in a couple of months, within a couple of months, there will be another vote on Most Favored Nation status with China. The big money people are pouring huge amounts of money into the political process, and despite the recent outrage, my expectation is that MFN with China will, once again, be passed, and that we will not revoke PNTR, as I think we should.

So let me conclude my remarks in that regard by saying, I am not anti-Chinese. I do not want a Cold War with China. I want trade with China. But it has got to be trade based on principles that are fair for the American worker, not just corporate America, and a policy which results in a positive political relationship between China and the United States, which clearly the recent incident with the airplane indicates is not the case.

I yield to my friend for any thoughts he has on that issue.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Well, Mr. Speaker, certainly, big news in the Pacific Northwest recently was that the Boeing Company, after about a half a century, has moved its headquarters out of Seattle, and the rumor, and I have to unfortunately think it is true, is that the Boeing executives wanted to get out of town before they shipped the jobs to China. They have already outsourced some manufacturing to China. We know they would like to outsource more of their manufacturing of their planes to China. The CEO of the company has said he cannot wait until the day that he does not have to say it is an American corporation, that it is something else, a stateless company, and we know that they can get labor much cheaper in China. They are producing significant components of their planes there.

So the pressure on this administration, as the last administration, from the biggest corporations in this country, Boeing, Nike, IBM, Westinghouse, we can go down the list, is no matter what the Chinese do, so what if they sold nuclear weapons to terrorists, so what if they held our men and women hostage, so what if they are the most unfair trading nation on earth and they are stealing our jobs.

A few companies are making a little bit of money over there, and that is what drives U.S. policy and, unfortunately, and pathetically, this administration is going to be no different than the last, the Clinton administration no different than Bush I and Reagan on this issue; that is, whatever the dictators, the bloody dictators in Beijing want, they will get, no matter how high the price.

Last year the price was an $83.8 billion deficit with China, the most unfair trading nation on earth.

Pick up the report of the U.S. Trade Representative. It is about this thick, and read page after page after page after page of the ways that the Chinese have discriminated against U.S. manufactured goods. They are not buying our goods, except when they want to make copies of them. That is the only time they buy them. They are very studiously developing a market in the U.S. and avoiding U.S. goods coming into their country.

Last year, the wheat farmers from eastern Oregon came in to see me and they were just hysterical about the idea that they could get into China if we just only gave them permanent, Most Favored Nation status, and I said, I disagree. I gave them transcripts of radio talks by the Chinese agriculture minister saying there is no way we are going to allow our country to become dependent upon imports of food.

In fact, we intend to be exporting wheat and other goods. We only want access to their markets. And in trade we have to say nice things, but that is not what we mean and we are really going to do something totally different. I gave them the transcripts. They said, no, that is not true.

In fact, just before we voted here in this House of Representatives, a majority of our colleagues voted to give the Chinese everything they could ever dream of and, despite all of their misbehavior, they took in a boatload of wheat. Guess what? It is the last one they ever took. In fact, the same farmers came in to see me this year, they sat down quietly, and we were just sitting there on opposite sides of the office and they said, well, are you going to say it? I said, say what? They said, are you going to say you were right? I said yes, I was right, but what are we going to do about it?

Mr. Speaker, group after group of Americans has been snookered on this free trade rhetoric. They believe, and they are good Americans and they are hard-working Americans and they care about their family farms and their small businesses or their industrial small manufacturing plants. Group after group after group has come to me over the years on these trade issues and said, no, Congressman, they tell us it is going to benefit us, and group after group after group has come back 1 or 2 or 3 years later and said, we have been devastated. They are doing exactly the opposite of what they told us, and exactly the opposite has happened to our wheat folks. Not a grain of Oregon wheat has gone into China since that agreement was penciled.

Now, maybe they will take another boatload this spring because they need to get another vote here in this Congress, or maybe it will be apples from Washington or maybe it will be who-knows-what. It is a pretty cheap price to them when they are running an $83.8 billion unfair trade surplus with the U.S.

By the Commerce Department's own numbers, that is $1,660,000 U.S. manufacturing jobs that are gone to China. They always want to talk about oh, hey, every billion dollars of trade is 20,000 jobs. The only thing is they never talk about the net. We sent like $16 billion worth of stuff to China and we imported over $100 billion of stuff from China. That is the net number.

That is our job loss. Why will they not talk about that?

Mr. SANDERS. That is only half of the story. That is job loss. The other half of the story is what our trade policy with China means in terms of driving wages down in this country.

Every worker in this country knows that if we stand up and fight for decent wages, decent benefits, we have a boss there to say, ''Hey, you are lucky that you have this job because I could go to Mexico, I could go to China. Look at that factory down the road, what they did last year.''

So the presence of a huge labor market in China where people are forced to work for horrendous wages has not only resulted in the loss of huge numbers of jobs, but has certainly had an impact in lowering the real wages of American workers.

The fact is, one of the things that we hear in the media, and I want to say a word about the media, because I have found media coverage of this whole issue very, very interesting.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Very interesting, or nonexistent?

Mr. SANDERS. Both; interesting for its nonexistence. We should ask ourselves why, when we look, for example, at Fox Television, owned by the right-wing billionaire Rupert Murdoch, he is making a huge effort to get into the Chinese market. He is very clear. He has said it and his family has said it, that they do not want to disturb the Chinese government and they do not want to raise these types of issues.

General Electric, which owns NBC, has significant investments in China. Westinghouse, Disney, et cetera, et cetera, many of the major multinationals who own the media in the United States, are also investing in China. The last thing they want to see is the Congress rethink its trade agreements with China.

I think not only on that issue but on the issue of media in general, the American people should do a whole lot of hard thinking as to why we hear what we hear and why we do not hear what we do not hear. I would say that the example of coverage regarding China is a perfect example about the biases of corporate media in terms of what we hear.

I would also like to touch on an issue regarding the media and what is going on in our economy. When we do hear the media for the last 10 years, what we have been hearing over and over again is a drumbeat which says, ''The economy is booming; America, you have never had it so good,'' over and over.

I go back to Vermont. I hold many town meetings around the State. What I invariably do is say, ''I just read in the newspaper or saw on TV that the economy is booming. You have never had it so good. Please raise your hand if you think that is true.''

I do remember at a meeting of several hundred farmers, one guy did raise his hand. He thought the economy was going very well. Overwhelmingly, the vast majority of the people understand the reality of their lives; that is, that in many instances the middle class is working longer hours for lower wages.

Yes, the economy is booming for all of the people who are millionaires and billionaires. In fact, they have never had it so good. But if one is in the middle class, then what one runs into is that, everything being equal, we are now working a lot more hours than we used to.

If there is a family member who would prefer to stay home with the kids and raise the kids in the house, increasingly that is becoming impossible because families now need two breadwinners in order to pay the bills.

There was a study that came out I think from the International Labor Organization several years ago in which the United States claimed the very dubious distinction of having surpassed Japan for now working longer hours than the workers of any other major country on Earth.

So it seems to me that if real wages have declined, if people are working longer and longer hours, in my State of Vermont it is not uncommon not only for people to work two jobs, sometimes they work three jobs, and often these are part-time jobs, jobs without benefits.

We have 43 million Americans who have no health insurance, tens of millions of Americans who are underinsured. We have families going deeply into debt in order to figure out how they can pay for their kids' college education. We have elderly people who are not eating adequately because they have to pay the exorbitant prices that the drug companies are demanding from us for prescription drugs. On and on it goes.

I want to know, in the midst of all of that context, where the richest 1 percent of the population owns more wealth than the bottom 99 percent, where the CEOs of major corporations now earn 500 times what their employees earn, in the midst of all that, how can the media continue to talk about the booming economy?

Let us look at reality here and what is happening to the middle class in this country.

I yield to the gentleman from Oregon.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Just to follow up on that, Mr. Speaker, the point about the extraordinary, galloping increase in CEO salaries, whether or not the corporations are profitable, and absent the whole dot.com craziness, the gentleman is right, it is more than 500 times the average line worker's salary, up from a mere 20 years ago, when it was 27 times the average line worker's salary.

Just to break that down, in 365 days in a year, though people do not work that many days, say 220, basically a CEO earns more in one-half of one day than their line workers who work day in and day out 50 weeks a year, 40 hours a week. Something is a little bit wrong with that equation, the people who are producing the wealth.

What is the answer we get? We hear a lot of talk about the so-called surplus here in Washington, D.C., which is based upon some pretty funny budget estimates. I fear that we will be like Texas. Two years ago the legislature cut taxes twice at the behest of then Governor Bush in Texas. Now they are down there saying, hey, what were we thinking? What were we smoking? They have a $700 million deficit, and they are going to raise taxes.

This group here, should they jam through these tax cuts, particularly these tax cuts so heavily tilted towards the people who earn over $373,000 a year, and 43 percent of the benefits go to people who earn over that, will be in a very similar situation.

The programs for everybody else, student loans for their kids, prescription drug benefits for seniors, the Coast Guard, I had the Coast Guard come in and they said, we have to cut patrols 20 percent. The Corps of Engineers are saying, we are cutting back on flood controls. I asked, are they not part of the Bush administration? Do we not have a surplus? How come they were telling me about the cuts they are going to make?

Those were the orders from the White House: cut, cut, cut. Programs that serve the American people are being cut. Then the big bonus goes to this tiny fraction of people at the top. The American people are supposed to be happy with the crumbs they get at the table.

We cannot replace for $400 a year the cuts in Pell grants, the cuts in services to one's parents or oneself in Medicare; or when we are out there and the boat sinks and the Coast Guard says, ''Well, sorry, we had to cut back 20 percent of the patrols because the budget is tight because we had to have the tax cuts for the wealthy,'' and by the way, they have crews and lifeboats on their yachts, and so we are out there in our dingy boat and we sink, that is too bad.

Mr. SANDERS. The gentleman makes a very important point. Not only is the President's tax proposal grossly unfair, and the statistics that I have seen are even higher than that, that the wealthiest 1 percent end up getting 50 percent of the tax breaks.

Mr. DEFAZIO. I was being conservative, 43.

Mr. SANDERS. That is, remember, people with a minimum income of $373,000. Meanwhile, one could be a mother raising two kids making $22,000 a year. Do Members know what that tax cut is? Zero, not one nickel.

So it seems to me not only is the Bush tax proposal grotesquely unfair, giving huge tax breaks to the people who need it the least, but it is absolutely irresponsible.

President Bush, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO), myself, the American people, do not know what the economy will be next year, in 5 years, and certainly not in 10 years. Nobody knows.

For years and years, our conservative friends have been saying, we cannot spend money we do not have. We have to be cautious with the taxpayers' money. But they have decided to give out at minimum $1.3 trillion or probably a lot more over a 10-year period. Meanwhile, back in Vermont and throughout this country, young people who graduate from a 4-year college are ending up at $19,000 in debt, on average. Lower-income kids are ending up even more in debt, and that does not count the debt incurred by the young man's or woman's parents.

For the first time in many years, a lot of low-income high school graduates are thinking twice about whether or not they want to go to college. Meanwhile, Pell grants and other student aid programs for college students have in no way kept pace with the escalating cost of college, putting enormous stress on the middle class.

Yes, we have hundreds of billions of dollars available for tax breaks for the richest 1 percent; no, we cannot significantly increase Pell grants and other student aid programs for the middle class.

Just last Saturday in South Royalton, Vermont, I held a town meeting on an issue which needs an enormous amount of discussion and awareness, an increase in awareness, in public consciousness. That is the absolute crisis that exists in child care in this country today.

I find it appalling that there are people who would come up to this podium and talk about family values and their love of children and working families, and continue to ignore the crisis in child care which goes on in America today.

The reality, in my State and virtually all across this country, is that working families cannot find quality, affordable child care. It is much too expensive. Meanwhile, child care workers themselves are working for horrendously low wages. If they are running their own home centers, in some cases they are making below the minimum wage.

The turnover among child care workers is extremely high. People are not getting the training that they need.

Study after study demonstrates what common sense tells us, that the first 5 years of a child's life are the most formative years. What kind of Nation are we when we are ignoring the needs of millions of children? The end result is that while we do not put money in the front end in terms of child care, what we are doing certainly is putting money in the back end when these kids fail out of high school and end in jail, and we are spending $25,000 for them in jail, but we are not paying attention to their needs in child care.

The reality in child care is that huge numbers of women are now in the work force. They need help. As a society we have to pay attention. I think it makes a lot more sense to put money into child care, put money into financial aid for college students, rather than give tax breaks to people who do not need it.

I yield to my friend, the gentleman from Oregon.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Remember, as we are having this conversation, that the Republicans adjourned the House earlier today so they could go down to a $15 million, $25,000 a plate fundraiser. I have to say, most of the issues we are talking about here tonight are not very well represented at that event.

If I could just go back to tax cuts for a moment, one thing, of all the strange things this administration has said recently, or of this 1950s energy policy they gave us, which is just a tremendous, tremendous windfall for the oil, gas, and coil industry, was one where the administration said, well, we are putting an immediate stimulus, so-called, into the tax cut, around $100 million, and that money can be spent by the American people to pay the higher fuel bills.

First off, of course, approximately half of that is going to go to the people at the top who are not noticing the higher prices. Then when we divide up the rest of that among all the other Americans, it is not going to pay for a tank of gas at this inflated price-gouging we are seeing at the gas pump, let alone what we are seeing with the thousand percent run-up in electric prices in the West.

It is almost kind of like a Marie Antoinette ''Let them eat cake'' kind of thing; we are giving them some crumbs, what is their problem? They are going to get a little bit of money back. So what if they are being gouged at the pump by Enron, Dynegy, Synergy, all these other companies, Reliant, of course, being my favorite.

Just a minute on that. I have to refer to the fact that the Reliant Energy Company, based in Houston, Texas, according to the San Francisco Chronicle on Sunday, was gaming the California energy market on 10-minute increments. That is, they actually had their plant operators in the two crummy plants they bought in California at a very cheap price, old plants, they actually had them on the line to their traders on the floor in Houston.

The traders on the floor in Houston, as soon as they saw energy prices go down, would tell them to shut the plants down. As soon as they saw energy prices go up, they would tell them to crank the plants up. Of course, this wears the plants out quickly, causes them to go down, and hurts the energy supply.

But Reliant and Enron and Dynegy and Synergy and Exxon-Mobil and all the others, they are downtown eating caviar, popping very expensive champagne, and having a good old time with the President, and the Americans are being told, do not worry, there is a tax bill moving through Congress that will help you pay for a tank of gas.

Now, of course, you buy more than one tank a year. You are going to be kind of netted out on this issue.

Well, we cannot do anything about that. That is the free market. It is not the free markets. It is market manipulation. It is price gouging. It is lack of action against the OPEC cartel.

It is lack of action by the Bush Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to reign in what their own staff has said are unjustifiable prices in the wholesale energy.

The pattern here just runs through everything and it all comes back to follow the money. The money runs straight down to 1500 Pennsylvania Avenue, or whatever the address is at the White House there. That is where it is going and that is where it is flowing.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ISSA). The Chair must caution Members against casting personal innuendo toward the President or the Vice President of the United States.

The gentleman may continue.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Well, I thank the Chair.

Mr. Speaker, I certainly did not impugn any motive to them. I am just stating a fact. The fact, and I can read the facts here of the contributions, Exxon-Mobil, $1.2 million to the Republican Party in the last election cycle; Chevron, $770,000; Enron, $1.7 million; these are all from the Federal Election Commission, El Paso Energy, $787,000; Arco Petroleum, $439,000; Edison International, $503,000, Williams Company, $288,000; Reliance, $642,000; Dynergy, $305,000.

Those are facts that that money went to Bush-CHENEY for their election. It is a fact, and I would regret if anybody found that that was somehow impugning pecuniary motives to this administration.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will clarify.

Remarks in debate may fairly criticize the President's positions or policies, but they may not level personal characterizations or accusations of impropriety.

To imply a cause-and-effect relationship between political contributions and actions by the President or the Vice President is not in order.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Well, I would certainly be chastened by the Chair, and I just listed the millions of dollars that flowed to candidates CHENEY and Bush. I would just observe that they are at a $25,000 plate fund-raiser downtown where they are going to collect a minimum of $15 million, and many of these same companies that are doing so well in this energy policy will be present tonight.

However, I certainly would not link in any way those contributions to policy decisions by this administration. Any such linkage is merely certainly beyond the bounds of this Member to impugn.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I would agree with the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO), it is hard to imagine that the millions and millions of dollars that come in have any influence in public policy.

It is probably that the oil companies are concerned about the quality of our democracy and just want to get more debate and political interest out there.

We are running out of time here, and I just want to say a few words in closing, and, that is, I think what is very sad about what is going on in this country is we are, in fact, a very great Nation of great people.

We have enormous productivity. We have great wealth. We have great energy. Given that reality, this Nation today has the capability of providing a good quality of life and a decent standard of living for every man, woman, and child.

It is no longer Utopian to talk about every American having good quality health care through a national health care system as a right of citizenship. That is not Utopian. That, in fact, exists in virtually every other major country. We are the only Nation on Earth that does not guarantee health care to all people as a right of citizenship.

It is not Utopian today to say that every person in this country, regardless of income, should be able to get all of the education that they are capable of absorbing, rather than seeing so many of our young people going deeply into debt as they have to figure out a way to pay for the high costs of college education. That is not Utopian.

It is not Utopian to say that we can do, as France does, for example, and have universal high-quality child care for all of our people. It is not Utopian to say that we can provide the health care that our veterans who put their lives on the line defending this country are entitled to. That is not Utopian.

It is not Utopian to say that we can produce the energy that this country requires in an environmentally sound way rather than contributing to global warming or to acid rain or to other environmental degradation. That is not Utopian. The technology is here today.

It seems to me that what we as a Nation have to do is revitalize American democracy, get people actively involved in the political process, get people to stand up for their rights, for the rights of their children. If we do that, we can, in fact, take back this country for the big money interests who have so much power over us today.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO).

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, if I can make a quick sentence on the energy policy. What we are putting forward is a really grand 1953 energy policy, dig, drill, burn, build, and profit, profit, profit. I would just reflect, it is time to move beyond that. We have the technology and the capability of becoming the most energy-efficient and most well-fed, housed, clothed and heated Nation on Earth with new technologies.

We just need to invest in it. The Stone Age did not end because they ran out of rocks. They evolved. We need to evolve here in the United States of America.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO), my friend, for joining me this evening.

Congressional Record

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 107th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 147 WASHINGTON, TUESDAY, MAY 22, 2001 No. 71

Senate

The Senate met at 9:33 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable LINCOLN D. CHAFEE, a Senator from the State of Rhode Island.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Sovereign of this planet within this universe among universes, by Your plan and power the Earth has revolved around the Sun, and You have blessed us with a new day. Today will be like no other day past or to come. We praise You for the privilege of being alive. Help us to trust You with all of the challenges and opportunities ahead of us today. We commit them to You. Go before us to prepare the way. We want to be so in tune with You that what we do and say will accomplish Your will.

May we sense Your presence and make this day one of constant inner conversation with You. As the Senators practice Your presence, help them to trust You to guide their thinking. Give them a special measure of wisdom, insight, and discernment to tackle the problems that arise today. May this be a productive day as they hear and accept the psalmist's prescription for peace: Cast your burden on the Lord, and He shall sustain you.—Psalm 55:22. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable LINCOLN D. CHAFEE led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

A bill (H.R. 1836) to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 104 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2002.

higher gas prices and energy bills and to modify the reduction in the maximum marginal rate of tax.

Corzine motion to commit the bill to the Committee on Finance with instructions to report back within 3 days.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Wisconsin.

AMENDMENT NO. 724

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, my amendment would repeal the Medicaid Estate Recovery Program, the real ''death tax'' for many elderly Americans.

When nursing home bills force a person onto Medicaid, the Medicaid Estate Recovery Program allows the government to put a lien on the family house and, upon the death of the spouse, recover the amount that Medicaid spent on nursing care.

This Medicaid death tax does not affect the wealthy. In order to qualify for Medicaid, a person has to pay down assets, and the spouse can only keep so much under the spousal impoverishment provisions. But the Medicaid death tax effectively imposes a 100 percent estate tax on these vulnerable Americans.

My amendment would repeal this Medicaid death tax. It offsets the cost by shaving back ever so slightly the reductions in the estate tax rates for the very largest estates.

I urge colleagues to support the amendment.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I appreciate the amendment by my good friend from Wisconsin. Medicaid spenddown is a large problem. All who have studied this know it needs to be dealt with. This amendment was offered in committee and defeated in committee. It is not germane to this bill. This is a tax bill, not a Medicaid bill. I urge Senators not to support it.

The pending amendment is not germane. Therefore, I raise a point of order that the amendment violates section 305(b)(2) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act, I move to waive the applicable sections of the act for consideration of my amendment and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second. The question is on agreeing to the motion. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Alaska (Mr. STEVENS) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ENSIGN). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

NOT VOTING—1

Stevens

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote the yeas are 41, the nays are 58. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment falls.

The Senator from Wisconsin.

AMENDMENT NO. 725

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, this amendment is about fairness.

The bill before us is tilted heavily toward high-income taxpayers. The highest-income 1 percent of taxpayers would receive 35 percent of the benefits, while the majority of taxpayers in the bottom three-fifths of the population would get only a little more than 15 percent of the bill's benefits.

My amendment would strike the cut in the top tax rate, and use the savings to increase the amount of income covered by the 10 percent income tax bracket. It would thus reduce the already large benefits to that less than 1 percent of the population with incomes of more than $297,000, and use the savings to give tax cuts to all income taxpayers.

This amendment would restore a modicum of fairness to this bill, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, the Feingold amendment goes directly against one of the key pillars of this bipartisan tax bill now before the Senate.

This amendment rejects the principle that we should have rate reductions in all marginal rates and do it at all levels. I strongly urge my colleagues to vote against the amendment that goes against the bipartisan agreement.

In addition, we have higher marginal tax rates for businesses of the self-employed at 39 percent then for corporations at 35 percent. We believe there ought to be a closer relationship between the two.

Lastly, I plead with my colleagues, how many times do we have to vote on the same amendment—time after time after time—just offered in a little different way but by different Members? We have worked hard to put together a bipartisan budget agreement, and we also wanted to bring some civility to the process. What we did last night detracts from that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 725.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The next vote is on Feingold amendment No. 726.

The Senator from Wisconsin.

Mr. GRASSLEY. What is the number of the amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is No. 726, Feingold amendment No. 726.

The Senate will come to order. Senators will take their conversations off the floor to the Cloakroom.

The Senator from Wisconsin.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, the estate tax provisions are a major source of the unfairness in this bill. But even within the estate tax provisions themselves, this bill tilts to the very wealthiest.

The bill would increase the unified credit exemption up to $4 million a person, or $8 million a couple. This change alone will exempt all but the very wealthiest.

But the bill would also reduce the rate of taxation that the few extremely wealthy families who still have to pay the estate tax would pay. It thus focuses tax cuts on the very pinnacle of wealth.

My motion would spread the estate tax relief in this bill more broadly. My motion would recommit the bill to committee to strike all the estate tax rate reductions in the bill and use the savings to expand the amounts of the estate tax unified credit exemption amounts.

Thus under my amendment, more relatively smaller estates would be exempted from taxation altogether. This would allow the unified credit to increase to $5 million, or $10 million a couple.

I urge colleagues to support the amendment.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on my motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will clarify. This is a motion to recommit, not a vote on an amendment.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I think we need a clarification. The Chair told me it was amendment No. 726. I want to know what we are voting on.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is a motion to recommit.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Is it still his amendment No. 726?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. No. It is a motion to recommit the bill to the Finance Committee.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, No. 726 is next.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This is a motion to recommit the bill to the Finance Committee.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I would like to have the motion read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will read the motion.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Wisconsin, Mr. FEINGOLD, moves to commit the bill to the Committee on Finance with instructions that the committee report back within 3 days changes that would strike all the estate tax rate reductions in the bill and use the savings to expand the amounts of the estate tax unified credit exemption amounts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. First of all, our bipartisan bill before us uses the entire $145 billion to fund the increases in the unified credit. We have $1 million, $2 million, $3 million, all by the year 2005, and that is where Senator FEINGOLD's money went. We still found more for a $4 million credit by the year 2009.

This action undoes a very carefully crafted bipartisan effort by Senator LINCOLN, Senator KYL, Senator BAUCUS, and myself. I see this as one other effort—amendment after amendment—trying to destroy particularly the most easily crafted part of this bill, one mostly agreed to, by Senator LINCOLN and Senator KYL. I hope we can get away from these efforts to destroy this bipartisan compromise.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

The question is on agreeing to the motion to recommit. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

AMENDMENT NO. 726

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wisconsin.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, my next amendment eliminates the estate tax repeal for estates larger than $100 million and uses the savings to give tax cuts to all income-tax payers. Last year, the Treasury Department said for 1998, 35 estates amounted to more than $100 million. Thirty-one of those estates paid $1.4 billion in taxes or 7 percent of all estate taxes. Repealing the estate tax for those estates would have given those estates a tax cut averaging $45 million each.

My amendment by contrast would preserve the estate tax for these very wealthy estates and apply the savings to an across-the- board tax cut for all taxpayers by expanding the amount of income subject to the 10-percent tax bracket. Too often the choices we have to weigh here are heartbreakingly difficult. This is not one of those cases.

I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, all who have been voting to change the estate tax provisions, listen to what is wrong with his amendment. Every one of you who wants to tax people in the estates that we believe should not be taxed will vote against his amendment. His amendment seems too good to be true. It is too good to be true. It strikes repeal and adds a $100 million unified credit. That ought to be enticing to anybody, even anybody who is a Republican.

But remember, in our bill, when the estate tax is done away with, the capital gains tax is applied to gains above a very low extended-up basis for everybody. This bill before the Senate allows an extended-up basis to $100 million. There would be no capital gains applied to any of the growth. So you are ignoring a principle that we want all money to be taxed at least once, by capital gains or by income tax.

I ask that Members not let $100 million of growth in an estate not be allowed to be taxed at least once.

CELEBRATING WITH SENATOR ROBERT C. BYRD

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, it was approximately 42 years ago that our colleague, the senior Senator from West Virginia, cast his first vote. It was in January of 1959. He has cast votes consistently, virtually without missing a vote, for now more than four decades. ROBERT C. BYRD just cast his 16,000th vote. I congratulate our senior colleague from West Virginia.

(Applause, Senators rising.)

Mr. President, I also note it is a week from today that he will be celebrating his 64th wedding anniversary as well, so there is much to celebrate. But we congratulate Senator BYRD, we congratulate Senator and Mrs. Byrd on their anniversary a week from today, and we thank him for his great service to America.

I yield the floor.

AMENDMENT NO. 727

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 727 offered on behalf of the Senator from Iowa, Mr. HARKIN.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, Senator HARKIN asked me if we could pass over his amendment temporarily and go on to another amendment.

AMENDMENT NO. 711

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 711 offered by Senator LINCOLN.

The Senator from Arkansas.

Mrs. LINCOLN. Mr. President, if we are truly serious about not leaving any child behind, this amendment is essential. The amendment I am offering strikes the provision within the education savings accounts language that covers only the tuition, fees, room and board expenses for K–12 by still permitting the ESA tax savings for other educational-related expenses for all students including K–12. This amendment will create a level playing field by providing the same tax benefits to all parents regardless of where they send their children to school.

Under my amendment, all parents will be able to take advantage of ESA accounts for K–12-related expenses to buy computers, uniforms, other items—afterschool programs for their children—to use to supplement or further their education. It treats all parents equally.

Using ESA accounts for private school tuition is simply vouchers by another name. While I strongly believe in a parent's right to choose a public school education or private school education for their children, I am concerned that providing a tax incentive to pay private school tuition will divert the critical resources needed to improve our public schools.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas, Mr. HUTCHINSON.

Mr. HUTCHINSON. Mr. President, the amendment by my colleague from Arkansas tears the very heart out of the Coverdell ESA that previously passed this Chamber by large bipartisan majorities. This is by no means vouchers, by any stretch of the imagination. These are education IRAs, and the rights of parents should be preserved to have the maximum flexibility in their use. In fact, studies indicate that 75 percent of the parents who have used these ESAs have their children in public schools.

It harms the bipartisan nature of the chairman's mark, the agreement that was reached on education savings accounts, and to prohibit the use of ESA moneys for tuition and fees or room and board as proposed by the Senator from Arkansas would mean that the ESAs could only finance tutoring, enrichment courses, and postsecondary education costs. It would, in Arkansas, eliminate 26,645 children and their parents from participation in the use of these education savings accounts.

This is a bipartisan measure. It has been agreed upon. It is not vouchers by any stretch. I ask my colleagues to oppose this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

NOT VOTING—1

Stevens

The amendment (No. 711) was rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

AMENDMENT NO. 727

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 727.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is now pending under the previous agreement.

The Senator has 1 minute.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, everyone in this body stated their commitment to keeping Social Security and Medicare solvent. What this amendment does is it says we are going to stick to that commitment before we put in place certain tax policy changes.

This amendment is very simple and straightforward. It simply delays—does not do away with—the implementation of the cut in the top rate for the wealthiest of Americans until we have passed, and the President has signed, legislation that OMB certifies will assure the long-term solvency of both Social Security and Medicare.

The bill before us sets us back in our effort to ensure Social Security and Medicare solvency. In order to pay for these tax cuts, which go disproportionately to the wealthy few, and then also to meet our basic needs such as health care and law enforcement, in future years Social Security and Medicare would be raided. This is unacceptable. We need to strengthen these programs as we prepare the baby boomers to retire and not raid them to give tax breaks to a very wealthy few.

Again, this amendment simply says we delay the cut in the top rate until we secure Social Security and Medicare.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I think we went through similar debate and a vote yesterday on an approach by the senior Senator from West Virginia. So here we are again.

In March, we heard from people on the other side of the aisle that we need an economic stimulus immediately. And now we see an amendment—and it isn't just this amendment; it is amendment after amendment—seeking to delay the tax reduction.

This is another attempt to delay a tax cut until other programs are passed. We are working on making sure that Social Security and Medicare are solvent. Our budget agreement of 2 weeks ago speaks to that. And that does not mean we cannot provide tax relief for American taxpayers, and do it right now.

I strongly urge the defeat of the amendment.

Mr. President, this amendment is not germane to the provisions of the reconciliation bill before us. I raise a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

CHANGE OF VOTE

AMENDMENT NO. 721

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 721 and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, all of us know that in this bill there is an alternative minimum tax problem. What my amendment seeks to do is address that problem to the best of our ability by providing an exemption to all taxpayers at the income level of $100,000 or less from being put into the alternative minimum tax.

Today, there are 1.3 million Americans in the alternative minimum tax who paid it last year. Because of this bill and the lack of indexing for inflation, the result will be that almost 17 million Americans will pay about $40 billion by the year 2010 as a consequence of being pushed into a new bracket.

So we are telling people they are going to get a tax cut, but in effect they are not because there is a serious alternative minimum tax problem. I ask colleagues to help make it a fair tax bill for all Americans.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to the amendment. Every Member of this Congress knows that we ought to do more about the alternative minimum tax than we do in this bill, or that is possible to do at all. It is a major problem that needs to be addressed. We have made good steps to address it by having the child credit be credited permanently against the AMT and, secondly, by increasing the AMT exemption to $2,000 for singles and $4,000 for joint returns.

These are good steps that will mean millions of Americans will not be subject to the AMT. These efforts in the bill go far to address the concerns raised in this amendment—specifically, that those making less than $100,000 should not be subject to the AMT. I think we have achieved a good balance in this bill on the AMT with other priorities, and this amendment would upset this balance and this bipartisan bill.

NOT VOTING—1

Stevens

The amendment (No. 721) was rejected.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HATCH. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The next amendment is the Lieberman amendment No. 693.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise to make a unanimous consent request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, this is for the information of all of my colleagues. A number of Senators, obviously, will want to take a break for a quick lunch. I ask unanimous consent that we continue to vote another time or two until we approach 1 o'clock and then recess for 30 minutes until 1:30 p.m.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, also, as a matter of procedure, we are getting down to five or six amendments. I hope the minority whip or somebody on that side has a list of amendments that may be proposed but have not been seen on this side. I ask if we can have that shared with us so we can get a better idea of what we have left to do.

Quite frankly, for Senator BAUCUS and me, it is a little difficult to manage all these amendments when we do not know what they are or when they are coming up. I would also like to pursue an agreement to finalize a list so we can get our work done.

I wonder if somebody on the other side of the aisle can help us with that?

In that regard I know there are people who think this bill came up too soon after it came out of committee, but the leader was asking me Tuesday night to bring this up Wednesday, after we voted it out of committee. I thought that was too soon. Senator BAUCUS said he did not want to bring it up that early. I just took it upon myself to say I would not file the papers until it came up on Thursday so we would have an opportunity for people to have access to the language of the bill to write amendments.

I hope we will have the courtesy, then, of seeing the amendments that might come up and know how many there are. I see the distinguished Democratic whip, and I wonder if he can respond to my request. My request is, if there is a list of amendments, could we have that list of amendments so we know what our work is going to be.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I say to my friend from Iowa, who has worked so hard on this legislation, that we have a general idea of amendments, and we have been working this morning. I have a list of them in my pocket. We have quite a few. With the time we are going to have between 1 p.m. and 1:30 p.m., we will be able to have a more definitive list. Maybe even at 1 o'clock we can come up with—it will not be a complete list—a list so Senator GRASSLEY can have an idea of who is offering amendments and the subject matter of the amendments. We will work on that.

Was that the question the Senator asked?

Mr. GRASSLEY. Yes. I appreciate very much what the Senator said. I hope we can have such a list. We need to proceed in the bipartisan spirit under which Senator BAUCUS and I have been working and try to bring this bill to finality.

We have been able to defeat most amendments that have come before us. We know what this bill is going to look like for final passage and that we ought to get to final passage.

AMENDMENT NO. 693

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time on the Lieberman amendment? The Chair recognizes the Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. I thank the Chair. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 693 and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is the pending amendment. The yeas and nays have been ordered.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. I thank the Chair. Mr. President, this amendment aims at dealing with the current uncertainty in our economy and, in fact, obviously the intention of the Members of the Senate during debate on the budget resolution last month where, on a bipartisan basis, we adopted a stimulus package that was fair, fast, and fiscally responsible.

Unfortunately, the so-called stimulus plan in this bill that came out of the Finance Committee is not fair, fast, or fiscally responsible.

Simply put, the stimulus package in this plan will be hundreds of days late and hundreds of millions of dollars short of what America's families need, and that is a real economic stimulus now. The Federal Reserve recognized that again a few days ago in lowering interest rates.

That is why we have to do this in Congress. That is why this amendment will replace the semistimulus that is in the tax bill. It will offer cash, $300 to every American taxpayer, payroll and income tax. I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, common sense tells me we cannot have it both ways, on the one hand telling the country we need an immediate tax cut stimulus and on the other hand vote after vote delaying this bill.

To pay for these checks, the Joint Tax Committee estimates the Secretary of Treasury will have to increase taxes on small business owners by about $24 billion.

This amendment is also unconstitutional from the standpoint that article I, section 7, gives Congress the taxing powers, not the Secretary of Treasury.

If we can pass this bill today, I believe we could be on our way to putting more cash in families' hands by July 1 with the changes in W–2s that will result with the 10-percent rate going into effect January 1 this year.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 693. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

AMENDMENT NO. 736, WITHDRAWN

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. My amendment is now pending, and in order to try to in some small way expedite getting on with the business of the American people, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, this motion would recommit H.R. 1836 to the Finance Committee and direct the committee to report back promptly with an amendment that eliminates any income tax cut for those earning more than $500,000 a year, and uses the savings—approximately $24 billion a year, once fully effective, to establish a tax credit to help families afford the costs of long-term care.

Over 12 million senior and disabled Americans need long-term care today. That number will double over the next 10 years.

I believe that no one should have to spend down to Medicaid to afford long-term care, and no family should bear the burden alone.

A tax credit, as I propose, would provide much-needed relief to the families who provide long-term care for their loved ones, and is surely a better and fairer use of the surplus.

This is not about class warfare. This is about providing relief for our elderly and for the overburdened families who care for them. I thank Senators GRASSLEY, GRAHAM and BAYH for their leadership on this issue, and I hope my colleagues will agree that we should not provide a windfall for those earning more than half a million dollars a year, while ignoring the needs of so many families and the loved-one they struggle to care for.

I ask for the yeas and nays on the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I thank Senator CORZINE for recognizing some of our work regarding long-term health care financing challenges. However, in addition to this amendment, we have had others that don't seem to recognize the Senate Finance Committee's function. We have held hearings on this very subject.

As I said, I am very committed to working at finding solutions to long-term financing challenges. In fact, I have introduced such a bill with Senator GRAHAM of Florida. The impending retirement of baby boom generations presents a great incentive to act soon.

What this motion doesn't recognize is that we do taxes one time and we will do long-term health care another time. We can do both. This bill is not the appropriate vehicle. This amendment will delay the tax reduction for working families.

I hope we can defeat this motion. I see it as a continuing effort to kill the bill.

I raise a point of germaneness. The amendment is not germane to the provisions of the reconciliation measure. I therefore raise a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. CORZINE. I move to waive the Budget Act for consideration of the motion. I ask for the yeas and nays.

Who yields time?

On the question of the Conrad amendment, who yields time?

If no one yields time, time will be charged equally on both sides.

The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Madam President, this amendment is about fairness and simplification. Under the bill before us, the very wealthiest taxpayers get the biggest percentage point reduction in their marginal rates, but the vast majority of taxpayers, the 70 million, who represent 70 percent of the taxpayers in this country, get no rate reduction.

This chart I show you tells the story. The 15-percent rate, which is where the vast majority of American taxpayers are, get no rate reduction. Those at the very top get the biggest rate reduction.

My amendment reduces the unfairness. It reduces the size of the tax cut for the top 3 percent of income earners. Specifically, my amendment leaves in place the first percentage point reduction for the top two tax rates but cancels the next two scheduled reductions, and it uses the savings from this change to increase the standard deduction by $1,500 for singles; for couples the standard deduction will be increased by twice this amount, or a full $3,000 when fully phased in.

This amendment is about fairness and simplification. I urge my colleagues to support it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, not only is this amendment a bad amendment but the information just given out is erroneous. It is wrong. It is bad.

Every taxpayer who pays income tax gets a marginal rate tax cut under this bill. Let's make that clear. Every taxpayer gets a tax reduction.

I do not know how many amendments we have had on this bill to kill the marginal rate tax reductions we have. We have had a flood of amendments from the other party. Not one amendment from the other party has been adopted yet. And I have to wonder, what has happened to bipartisanship? Is bipartisanship dead and buried, when just 5 months ago we talked so much about it? If so, I and Senator BAUCUS have not been invited to the funeral. I urge the defeat of this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time has expired on the Conrad amendment.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment that has been offered by the Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. REID. Madam President, have the yeas and nays been ordered?

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. CONRAD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 744

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 744 offered by the Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Madam President, this amendment is about fairness and simplification. If we look at the bill before us, it gives the biggest rate reduction to the highest income-tax payers of all.

Only seven-tenths of 1 percent of the taxpayers are in the 39.6-percent bracket, but they get 20 percent more rate reduction than the 36-percent bracket, than the 31-percent bracket, than the 28-percent bracket. And in the 15-percent bracket, where the vast majority of taxpayers are in this country, 70 percent of the taxpayers get no rate relief—none.

My amendment simply takes the additional rate relief that the very wealthiest receive, the additional sixtenths of 1 percent—that is 20 percent more than the other brackets—and shifts it to the lowest 70 percent of the tax filers in this country. It says: Let's give fairness when we are giving tax relief.

NOT VOTING—1

The amendment (No. 744) was rejected.

AMENDMENT NO. 747

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question now is on agreeing to amendment No. 747, the Carper amendment. The Chair advises the Senator from Delaware that there are 2 minutes equally divided on his amendment.

Mr. CARPER. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, this bipartisan alternative reduces taxes by $1.2 trillion over the next 10 years while making available $150 billion for underfunded education proposals that work.

Our measure provides for modest reductions in each of the marginal tax rates while establishing retroactively a new 10-percent bracket.

This amendment provides for estate tax relief but not for its elimination.

We double the child credit and make it partially refundable.

Unlike the committee bill, our proposal makes permanent the R&D credit.

We extend popular expiring tax breaks and speed up marriage penalty relief.

We provide greater AMT protection and fund a number of energy production and conservation incentives now, not later.

I thank Senator CHAFEE for joining me in offering this comprehensive alternative. I yield to him.

Mr. BUNNING. Mr. President, can we have a copy of the amendment, please. We do not have a copy of the amendment.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the amendment, I say to my friend from Kentucky, was filed last night. It has been on file since sometime yesterday evening.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is an amendment at the desk.

The remainder of the time has been yielded to the Senator from Rhode Island, Mr. CHAFEE.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, the central tenet of this bill is reducing the tax cut down to $1.2 trillion. We would devote the other $150 billion towards educational initiatives.

How many of us have heard from our constituents about the high cost of the property taxes? The main contribution to these high property taxes is the cost of special education, and that is a Federal mandate.

Let us right now reduce the tax cut and put it towards IDEA and property tax relief.

I urge adoption of the Carper-Chafee property tax relief amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I commend the Senator from Delaware for his substitute amendment and urge my colleagues to support it. While in my view both the underlying bill and the substitute cut taxes more deeply than this nation can afford, the Carper substitute is far preferable to the underlying bill. It is simply fairer than the underlying bill. It provides a marginal rate cut for the 72 million middle class taxpayers who were skipped over in the underlying bill. It includes immediate marriage penalty relief and permanent deductibility of college tuition. And so, although I would not support enacting a tax cut of $1.25 trillion, Senator CARPER's amendment deserves our support because it illustrates a far better and more balanced approach to tax and budget policy.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to vote against this amendment. This is another effort to cut our marginal tax rate cuts by $150 billion. I defer to the Senator from Oregon for further comment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Mr. President, we have had many votes taken on the issue of the tax bill. We know how people are going to vote. We know the outcome. It is time to vote on this tax cut so we can get to education and deal with some of the issues Senators have identified.

For the sake of the American people, it is time to vote.

Mr. CARPER. I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, the amendment is not germane to the provisions of the reconciliation bill. I, therefore, raise a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. CARPER. Mr. President, I move to waive the relevant section of the Congressional Budget Act for consideration of this amendment. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Alaska (Mr. STEVENS) is necessarily absent.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Vermont (Mr. LEAHY) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

NOT VOTING—2

Leahy	Stevens

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this question, the yeas are 43, the nays are 55. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DASCHLE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The point of order is sustained, and the amendment falls.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I ask to speak for 1 minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I think we have a copy of the next amendment, so I am not speaking about the next amendment that will be up, but I will plead with the people on the other side who are stalling to keep us from voting on this bill to at least, within the spirit of how Senator BAUCUS and I have run the Finance Committee, be very open and transparent with us on what these amendments are going to be. We cannot expect 100 Members of the Senate to vote yes or no on an amendment unless we know what that amendment is.

The pattern I set in the Senate Finance Committee is best illustrated by something I told each of the other 19 members when I went to their offices to visit with them about how they saw the committee ought to function and how we ought to do business. That is, No. 1, transparency; and, No. 2, communication. The bottom line was I told every member if they wanted to know what was going on in this committee, all they had to do was ask and they would get an answer. If they didn't get an answer, at least they were entitled to know why they couldn't get an answer. And 99.9 percent of the time I figure everybody is entitled to know what everybody else is doing.

Now we reach a point where the product of this bipartisan effort is in this Chamber, and I hope in the very same way we can communicate with each other, we can be very transparent. But most important, on the issue of what amendments we are going to vote on, we ought to have those amendments at the desk so we can study them while we are debating other amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I will use my leader time to respond to the distinguished Senator from Iowa as well as to make a couple of comments about the next amendment.

I think the Senator from Iowa is absolutely right. We have no intention of denying him the opportunity to look at the amendments. I ask our assistant Democratic leader if he could take responsibility for ensuring that we would have not only the list of amendments, which we would be happy to share with the Senator, but the text of the amendments as well. I know he has a copy of the amendment about to be offered, and we will do our utmost to ensure copies are made available, as well as the list and the sequence of the amendments to be offered next.

AMENDMENT NO. 722

I now ask that amendment No. 722 be considered at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. DASCHLE] proposes an amendment numbered 722.

Mr. DASCHLE. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The text of the amendment is located in today's RECORD under ''Amendments Submitted and Proposed.'')

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, many Members have said for some time while we strongly support a tax cut, we have been very concerned about the flaws in this tax cut, concerned because it is based on projections we have grave doubts will ever be realized, budget projections that will be changed as early as July of this year; concerned about the magnitude, the size of the tax cut, and what we know it will do to Social Security and Medicare and how it will take away funds from those extraordinarily important commitments we made to our seniors; concerns we have about our ability to pay down the public debt; concerns we have about our ability to pay for prescription drug benefits or fully fund our education commitments.

We have a great number of concerns given the magnitude of this tax cut. We also are concerned about its fairness. This tax cut could be best described as devoting a third, a third, and a third to three very distinct categories of taxpayers. This tax cut gives one-third of the entire benefit to the top 1 percent of all taxpayers. Roughly a third goes to the next 19 percent of all taxpayers. And somewhat less than a third goes to the bottom 80 percent of all taxpayers. That is ultimately, in the second ten-year period, $4 trillion divided into a third, a third, and a third—a third for the top 1 percent, a third for the next 19 percent, and a third for the bottom 80 percent.

The tax bill before us also provides reductions in the tax rates—that is, to every rate except the 15 percent rate under which 72 million American taxpayers fall. Those 72 million Americans—including 250,000 South Dakota taxpayers—are denied a marginal tax rate cut in this bill.

We think we can do better than that. Our country deserves better than that. So we offer our alternative. Our alternative is fiscally responsible. It dedicates $900 billion to a tax cut, provides adequate resources for us to continue the effort to pay down the debt, and leaves adequate resources for us to meet the other obligations we have in health care, education, and Social Security and Medicare.

This amendment also recognizes the need for fairness. It provides a tax cut for everybody, but it also provides marriage penalty relief that starts next year, not in 5 years; a $1,000 child tax credit that extends to working families with incomes over $8,000; estate tax relief, providing up to $4 million for couples and $8 million for farms and small businesses; and it provides a tuition tax deduction for middle class Americans who send their children to college.

It provides savings incentives to encourage small businesses to provide pensions for their employees, and a permanent R&D tax credit. It eliminates the alternative minimum tax for incomes up to $80,000 and provides for energy conservation and efficiency tax incentives for more energy efficient homes, appliances, and cars.

I will not belabor this. I will simply say this is the Democratic approach to meaningful tax relief this year, tax relief that can be realized this year, not 7 or 8 years from now, tax relief that recognizes we also have other very important priorities, priorities involving paying down the debt, priorities involving ensuring our commitment to education, health, Social Security, and other priorities that recognize the importance of fairness. I urge its adoption and yield the floor.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will be 2 minutes equally divided. Who yields time?

The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, obviously the minority leader has a right to offer this amendment, even at this late hour and even as thick as it is. We all know under the rules of reconciliation you can offer amendments forever.

But I want to remind my colleagues that in 1993 when we were on the floor of the Senate and we were considering, under reconciliation, a massive tax increase that was proposed by then-President Clinton, we could have followed the same strategy. We could have offered amendments endlessly. We hated that tax increase as much as some of your colleagues hate this tax cut. But I think wiser heads prevailed, recognizing that in doing that we were trying to do two things that were bad: First, we were corroding the basic structure of the Senate in using our rights in ways that really undercut how the system works in reconciliation; and, second, we were trying to win on the floor of the Senate what we had lost in the election.

I ask unanimous consent for 1 minute under the leader's time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRAMM. I think, second, we would have been trying to win on the floor of the Senate what we had lost in the election.

I am no happier about the Clinton tax increase today than I was 8 years ago. But I believe we did the right thing 8 years ago and I would just like to say to my colleagues, the Senate has worked its will. We know in the end what the outcome is going to be. We voted on virtually every amendment that can be imagined, at least by the minds of Senators—maybe not the mind of man but Senators.

I ask my colleagues to let us bring this to a conclusion and to have the vote. That is the plea. I simply ask people look at where we are and ask are we serving our institution and are we, in the process here, really abusing a right that every Senator has. Nobody is saying they do not have it. Nobody is saying this is foul play. I just think what goes around comes around.

I urge my colleagues to remember, 8 years ago when we did not do this, when you had a President and when you were taking the country in a different direction.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for 3 minutes to answer the Senator from Texas.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask for 3 minutes on each side. I think Senator GRAMM somewhat responded to Senator DASCHLE.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, 3 minutes on each side.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I remind colleagues 1993 was fundamentally different than this year. In 1993 we were using the reconciliation process for the reason intended. The reason intended for the reconciliation process was to reduce deficits. That was a plan to reduce deficits.

This is a plan that many of us believe is totally outside the reconciliation process, totally outside of what was intended for reconciliation. This is not a deficit reduction package; this is a tax cut. It ought to be handled in the way other legislation is handled, with Senators having the right to debate and to amend.

We are under a very truncated process that takes away the minority's fundamental rights in this body. If we want to talk about the institution and what is critical for the functioning of this institution, and the fairness towards the minority and minority rights, then that is right at the heart of what is occurring here today because the rights of the minority have been truncated. The rights of the minority have been abridged. The rights of the minority have been left out.

That is why we are in a process in which the only way we can express ourselves is to offer amendment after amendment so we can make the case that we believe holds against this tax bill.

There is a fundamental and profound difference between what is happening today and 1993, when reconciliation was used for deficit reduction. That was precisely what reconciliation was designed to be used for. It is not and was never designed to be used for a tax cut.

The rights of the minority have been, in our view, limited. All of us will pay a price in the future if we allow ourselves to be turned into a House of Representatives where Senators lose their fundamental right to debate, their fundamental right to amend.

I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. We have 3 minutes?

Mr. President, fellow Senators, let me first say that in 1974 we changed the law that applies to the Senate with reference to how long you take on a budget resolution and what kind of amendments you can offer in a reconciliation bill. That was a law changed because we decided for the first time in the history of our country we would have a budget. We didn't have budgets before then, believe it or not. That budget process was invented then by that statute and the Senate, by an incredibly high vote—I think it was everybody but one—voted for that, including those who do not think we ought to use reconciliation to raise taxes and lower taxes both. This was voted in.

You will find since then that on three occasions the Senate has spoken on the issue of whether or not you can cut taxes in reconciliation. Three times we voted that that is appropriate. We have, on this process, this year. There was a vote in this body where Senators voted on whether we would use reconciliation in this bill for tax cuts. The whole argument was presented against it, on which my good friend Senator BYRD took a long time and presented all the history on it. I did the opposite. We voted. By a 51–49 vote we said let's use reconciliation and let's use it to cut taxes. Then we voted a resolution that said how much the taxes should be cut, and we told the Finance Committee to return the bill, which is now before us.

I do not know how you can claim we are violating anybody's rights. We have voted on those issues. They are the law of the land. When you want to repeal or change the 1974 law, do so. It might need amending. It might need changing.

Three times we voted on a reconciliation bill to cut taxes—three times. This is the fourth time. But this time we even took up the issue: Should we do it or not? And we said yes.

With that in mind I must say to my friends on the other side, it looks to me like, when we have spent a total of 31 and a half hours including the votes on this bill, and we have had 32 votes and only 1 passed. It was kind of irrelevant—a good amendment; a Senator on this side offered it, good amendment but actually it had nothing to do with the budget, the one that passed.

I think everybody in America should know this bill is going to get a significant majority, bipartisan, of U.S. Senators under this particular set of facts that I just described.

So, if we have not debated it enough, how long should it be debated? If we have not done everything can you do on this bill to make the two major points the Democrats want to make, I don't know how many more votes, how much more time you need?

I yield the floor.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Point of order, Mr. President. This amendment that we are supposed to know was here overnight, has a point of order against it. The amendment is not germane to the provisions of the reconciliation measure. I therefore raise a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I move to waive the relevant sections of the budget act.

I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Alaska (Mr. STEVENS) is necessarily absent.

NOT VOTING—1

Stevens

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CRAPO). On this vote the yeas are 41, the nays are 58. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment falls.

Mr. DASCHLE. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. REID. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. What is the matter now before the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Unless consent is granted, we will call up amendment No. 675.

Mr. REID. The Collins amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Amendment No. 675, unless it is agreed to be set aside.

The Senator from Utah.

Mr. HATCH. I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be set aside.

Mr. REID. I could not hear the Senator from Utah.

Mr. CONRAD. Could we have order in the Chamber, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah asked unanimous consent that the Collins amendment be set aside.

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATCH. As I understand it, the next amendment is Mr. CONRAD's, the distinguished Senator from North Dakota.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, anybody who knows and cares about Social Security reform, knows that it costs money.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senator suspend so the clerk can report.

Mr. CONRAD. I am pleased to do so.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CONRAD] moves to recommit H.R. 1836 to the Committee on Finance with instructions to report back within 3 days with the following changes: (1) reduce the marginal rate cuts in the top brackets and estate tax cuts by a total of $350,000,000,000 over the total of fiscal years 2002 through 2011; and (2) add the following new section:

SEC. . STRATEGIC RESERVE FUND FOR SOCIAL SECURITY REFORM AND DEBT REDUCTION.

If legislation is reported by the Committee on Finance of the Senate or the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that would strengthen Social Security, extend the solvency of the Social Security Trust Funds, maintain progressivity in the Social Security benefit system, and continue to lift more seniors out of poverty, the Chairman of the appropriate Committee on the Budget shall revise the aggregates, functional totals, allocations, and other appropriate levels and limits in the conference report accompanying H. Con. Res. 83, the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2002, by an amount not to exceed $350,000,000,000 for the total of fiscal years 2002 through 2011, as long as that legislation will not, when taken together with all other previously-enacted legislation, reduce the on-budget surplus below the level of the Medicare Hospital Insurance Trust Fund surplus in any of fiscal years 2002 through 2011.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, every single plan to strengthen Social Security that has been proposed by any Member on either side of the aisle costs money. Unfortunately, we don't have the money in this budget.

This bill is dramatically backloaded. It costs $1.3 trillion this decade. It costs more than $4 trillion next decade, at the very time the massive surpluses now turn to substantial deficits then.

My amendment says: Take $350 billion out of this tax cut and reserve it to strengthen Social Security. We all know it costs money. We ought to reserve it now. We ought to strengthen Social Security for the future.

I urge my colleagues' support.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, we have had 8 years where we haven't had any strengthening of Social Security, while there was a Democrat President. There is no question we need to do that, but there is also no question that this is a tax bill and we are trying to reduce taxes so we can stimulate the economy and keep our economy going.

When I got here this year, I thought we were surely going to have more bipartisanship, but here we go again. This is another in a long list of amendments meant to slow down and stop this bill. When is this partisanship going to end?

I urge the defeat of this amendment. The pending amendment is not germane under the provisions of the reconciliation measure. I therefore raise a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act, I move to waive the applicable sections for consideration of the pending motion, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Alaska (Mr. STEVENS) and the Senator from Vermont (Mr. JEFFORDS) are necessarily absent.

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by this Act shall be effective as though they had been included or reflected in section 201 of the Social Security Amendments of 1977.

(B) APPLICABILITY.—No monthly benefit or primary insurance amount under title II of the Social Security Act shall be increased by reason of such amendments for any month before July 2002. The amendments made in this section shall apply with respect to benefits payable in months in any fiscal year after fiscal year 2005 only if the corresponding decrease in adjusted discretionary spending limits for budget authority and outlays under section 3 of this Act for fiscal years prior to fiscal year 2006 is extended by Federal law to such fiscal year after fiscal year 2005.

(2) RECOMPUTATION TO REFLECT BENEFIT INCREASES.—Notwithstanding section 215(f)(1) of the Social Security Act, the Commissioner of Social Security shall recompute the primary insurance amount so as to take into account the amendments made by this Act in any case in which—

(A) an individual is entitled to monthly insurance benefits under title II of such Act for June 2002; and

(B) such benefits are based on a primary insurance amount computed—

(i) under section 215 of such Act as in effect (by reason of the Social Security Amendments of 1977) after December 1978, or

(ii) under section 215 of such Act as in effect prior to January 1979 by reason of subsection (a)(4)(B) of such section (as amended by the Social Security Amendments of 1977).

(c) OFFSET PROVIDED BY PROJECTED FEDERAL BUDGET SURPLUSES.—Amounts offset by this section shall not be counted as direct spending for purposes of the budgetary limits provided in the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 and the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985.

(d) REVENUE OFFSET.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall adjust the highest rate of tax under section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as amended by section 101 of this Act) to the extent necessary to offset in each fiscal year beginning before October 1, 2011, the decrease in revenues to the Treasury for that fiscal year resulting from the amendments made by this section.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, this amendment is offered on behalf of myself, Senator DORGAN, and Senator GRAHAM of Florida.

Notch babies, listen. This amendment helps dissolve the unfair notch for those born beginning in 1917. Townhalls, e-mails, letters, casual conversations—Senators, this is your opportunity to say ''yes'' to the notchers. A ''no'' vote is a stab in the back of America's greatest generation. Vote ''yes'' to restore dignity to these people who deserve it. Notch babies are to be protected today.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to this amendment. While I understand how important the notch issue is to millions of senior citizens, this is neither the time nor the place to address this issue.

The bill before us today provides much needed tax relief to hard working Americans. The amendment offered by Senator REID is not germane to this bill.

This amendment has never been reviewed by any committee of jurisdiction, nor scored by the Congressional Budget Office. No one has any idea how much it would cost or what new benefit inequities it would create. In addition, the proposed offset contained in the amendment is an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority to the Secretary of the Treasury. This is not a serious amendment.

If Congress is going to seriously consider this issue, it must be done in the context of overall Social Security reform so we can carefully consider the costs and benefits of any proposed change.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, we oppose this amendment. I yield to the Senator from Maine.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to the amendment. The Senator has raised an important issue dealing with the appropriate treatment of those who are known as the notch babies.

We all know this is not the bill on which to resolve this issue. We need to take up that issue in the context of modernizing our Social Security system, and this is just another attempt to delay final passage of the tax bill. So I encourage my colleagues to oppose this amendment regardless of their views on the underlying issue, and let's get on with the vote and approve this bill.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I will use 1 minute on leader time. If this is not the time to help notch babies, when is it? Some of them are approaching 84 years of age. Are we going to wait until next year until more die, or the year after? People go home and say nice things about the notch babies. Well, let's vote a nice thing for them today. Today is the day. There is no other day. This is our opportunity to take the notch unfairness out of our law.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I will use 1 minute out of leader time. We just lived through 8 years of a Democratic President, and no one effort was successful—or even tried, as far as I can recall—to help the notch babies. I have always voted in favor of helping the notch people, but the pending amendment is not germane and those on the other side know it. They are getting a great kick out of bringing this up. It is not germane.

I raise a point of order against the amendment under 305(b)(2) of the Congressional Budget Act.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, under all applicable rules of the Senate and the law, I ask that there be a waiver of the Budget Act, and I further say, explain to the notch babies that you are voting on some point of order.

I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays are ordered.

The Senator from Maryland is recognized.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I claim 1 minute under the procedure to speak on the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The order provides for only 1 minute on each side.

Mr. HATCH. I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Maryland be given 1 minute, and that we have 1 minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Maryland is recognized for 1 minute.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, on more than one amendment it has been said that for 8 years we had a Democratic President and we didn't do anything about this issue. We spent most of those 8 years working ourselves out of the deficit box into which we have been placed by the previous administrations.

It is only now when we have some surpluses that we can start talking about doing something about these issues. How were you going to do something when you had a deficit? This is a very worthy cause for using some of those surpluses that we now have. I urge support for the Reid amendment.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I will use 1 more minute. Well, it seems a little odd to me that after all these years, all of a sudden on a tax cut bill where we are trying to stimulate the economy, we get this issue. It is time to vote to reduce taxes. It is time to reduce the games. It is time to quit the partisanship. It is time to end this bill and get a vote up or down. If you can win, you win. If you can't win, you don't win.

Let's vote on this bill and quit playing partisan politics.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion. The yeas and nays have been ordered.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Alaska (Mr. STEVENS) and the Senator from Vermont (Mr. JEFFORDS) are necessarily absent.

AMENDMENT NO. 756

(Purpose: To require the Secretary of the Treasury to adjust the reduction in the highest marginal income rate if the discretionary spending level is exceeded in fiscal year 2002)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 756.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN] proposes an amendment numbered 756.

On page 314, after line 21, add the following:

SEC. . ADJUSTMENT TO RATES IN RESPONSE TO BREACH OF LIMITS.

If, in fiscal year 2002, the discretionary spending level assumed in the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2002 (H. Con. Res. 83) for such year is exceeded, the Secretary of the Treasury shall adjust the reduction in the highest marginal tax rate in the table contained in section 1(i)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by section 101(a), for taxable years beginning in calendar years after such fiscal year as necessary to offset the decrease in the Treasury resulting from such excess.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I wanted the amendment to be read because it is a short amendment. It is a fairly straightforward amendment. It is a modest effort at making the bill a little more fiscally responsible.

The amount of the tax cut is set forth in the budget resolution. That same budget resolution sets a cap for domestic discretionary spending. We are not waiting, as we should, to see how big a tax cut we should put in place to see whether or not we are going to live under those caps which the budget resolution sets for domestic discretionary spending.

This amendment says if Congress breaks the spending caps in the budget resolution, then this 1-percent reduction in the upper bracket, which is provided for in this fiscal year, will not go into effect to the extent that it is necessary to pay for the excess in domestic discretionary spending for which the Congress votes. Otherwise, we are dipping into the Medicare surplus.

This is an amendment for fiscal responsibility. It is modest and will help make this bill more fiscally responsible.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BROWNBACK). The Senator from Utah.

Mr. HATCH. I yield to the Senator from Ohio.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, this is the Senate. We do believe in free and open debate and amendments. But we go on hour after hour after hour. I have not counted the number of amendments on which we have voted. We are probably over 40 amendments. It seems we need to move on; we need to pass this bill and we need to move forward.

This is a bill that has been debated; it has been compromised. I think the Senate needs to work its will. I know the amendments keep coming, but at some point we need to pass it and get to conference and send it to the President.

Mr. HATCH. The Levin amendment is not germane to the provisions of the reconciliation measure. I, therefore, raise a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to waive the relevant sections of the act, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

AMENDMENT NO. 767

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk. I ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from California [Mrs. BOXER], for Mr. NELSON of Florida, for himself and Mrs. BOXER, proposes an amendment numbered 767.

Mrs. BOXER. I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To aid public health and improve water safety by providing tax-exempt bond authority to water systems to comply with the 10 parts per billion arsenic standard recommended by the National Academy of Sciences and adopted by the World Health Organization and European Union)

On page 314, after line 21, add the following:

SEC. ___. TAX-EXEMPT BOND AUTHORITY FOR TREATMENT FACILITIES REDUCING ARSENIC LEVELS IN DRINKING WATER.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 142(e) (relating to facilities for the furnishing of water) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraphs (1) and (2) as subparagraphs (A) and (B), respectively,

(2) by striking ''For purposes'' and inserting the following:

''(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes'', and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

''(2) FACILITIES REDUCING ARSENIC LEVELS INCLUDED.—Such term includes improvements to facilities in order to comply with the 10 parts per billion arsenic standard recommended by the National Academy of Sciences.''.

(b) FACILITIES NOT SUBJECT TO STATE CAP.—Section 146(g) (relating to exception for certain bonds) is amended—

(1) by striking ''and'' at the end of paragraph (3),

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (4) and inserting '', and'', and

(3) by inserting after paragraph (4), the following new paragraph:

''(5) any exempt facility bond issued as part of an issue described in section 142(a)(4) (relating to facilities for the furnishing of water), but only to the extent the property to be financed by the net proceeds of the issue is described in section 142(e)(2).''.

(c) EXEMPT FROM AMT.—Section 57(a)(5)(C) (relating to tax-exempt interest of specified private activity bonds) is amended by adding at the end the following new clause:

''(v) EXCEPTION FOR CERTAIN WATER FACILITY BONDS.—For purposes of clause (i), the term 'private activity bond' shall not include any exempt facility bond issued as part of an issue described in section 142(a)(4) (relating to facilities for the furnishing of water), but only to the extent the property to be financed by the net proceeds of the issue is described in section 142(e)(2).''.

(d) REVENUE OFFSET.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall adjust the highest rate of tax under section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as amended by section 101 of this Act) to the extent necessary to offset in each fiscal year beginning before October 1, 2011, the decrease in revenues to the Treasury for that fiscal year resulting from the amendments made by this section.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to bonds issued after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, in my minute I hope I can convince colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support this amendment. Just this past weekend, President Bush called for a war on poverty. This amendment is a step in that direction. It is offered in that spirit. What we do is help 1.5 million veterans who are now living in poverty by giving a tax credit to those employers who hire them. This idea was proposed and is supported by the National Coalition for Homeless Veterans and the Noncommissioned Officers Association. Veterans groups tell me the current tax credit, Welfare To Work, is not working for veterans because they are not on welfare. They need this tax credit.

So we send our people into harm's way and sometimes they come back and they really are having a tough time integrating into society, getting a meaningful job. This will reward employers who give them a job. And, by the way, we pay for it by bringing that top rate down to, not 36 percent but 36.05 percent. Let's do this for our veterans.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I say to the Senator from California, she does not have a bad amendment. I think in the proper time and place, such as on the Work Opportunity Training Act or things of that nature, it would be a good thing to do and for us to take a look at it. I will be glad to take a look at it. But at this point I am going to have to ask the amendment be defeated.

I raise a point of order, but it needs to be defeated because of the changes it makes in the tax rates. We are working on a tax bill. We have a well-balanced, well-crafted bipartisan bill. We have had 40 votes on amendments. There is too much effort, regardless of the good faith of this person in offering a good idea, to stall, stall, stall. I think we have to get this bill passed and get tax relief to the American people.

I raise a point of order. The point of order is against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I am not trying to stall. I am trying to make this a better bill for our people, including our veterans.

I move we waive the Budget Act.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

AMENDMENT NO. 768

(Purpose: To limit the reduction in the 39.6 rate bracket to 1 percentage point and to increase the maximum taxable income subject to the 15 percent rate)

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I have amendment No. 768 at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from South Dakota [Mr. DASCHLE], for himself and Mr. MCCAIN, proposes an amendment numbered 768.

Mr. DASCHLE. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

SEC. 104. INCREASE IN MAXIMUM TAXABLE INCOME FOR 15 PERCENT RATE BRACKET.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1(f) (relating to adjustments in tax tables so that inflation will not result in tax increases), as amended by section 302, is amended—

(1) in paragraph (2)—

(A) by redesignating subparagraphs (B) and (C) as subparagraphs (C) and (D),

(B) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the following:

''(B) in the case of the tables contained in subsections (a), (b), (c), and (d), by increasing the maximum taxable income level for the 15 percent rate bracket and the minimum taxable income level for the next highest rate bracket otherwise determined under subparagraph (A) (after application of paragraph (8)) for taxable years beginning in any calendar year after 2004, by the applicable dollar amount for such calendar year,'', and

(C) by striking ''subparagraph (A)'' in subparagraph (C) (as so redesignated) and inserting ''subparagraphs (A) and (B)'', and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

''(9) APPLICABLE DOLLAR AMOUNT.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(B), the applicable dollar amount for any calendar year shall be determined as follows:

''(A) JOINT RETURNS AND SURVIVING SPOUSES.—In the case of the table contained in subsection (a)—

''Calendar year:	Applicable Dollar Amount:
2005	$1,000
2006	$2,000

''Calendar year:	Applicable Dollar Amount:
2005	$500

"Calendar year:	Applicable Dollar Amount:
2006	$1,000
2007	$1,500
2005	$2,000
2009 and thereafter	$2,500.''.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect one day after the date of the enactment of this Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Democratic leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, this amendment is offered on behalf of the senior Senator from Arizona and myself, Mr. MCCAIN. It simply says that, instead of cutting the top marginal rate to 36 percent, cut the top rate to 38.6 percent. In turn, the savings would be devoted to expanding the 15 percent income tax bracket. The idea is to make this bill more fair by shifting more of its benefits to middle class people.

This is an amendment for which there has been some debate. This amendment is similar to the amendment offered by Senator McCain earlier. This amendment ought to be adopted and ought to be made a part of the pending bill. I ask for its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Mr. GRAMM. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SMITH of Oregon). The objection is heard.

Mr. GRAMM. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.

AMENDMENT NO. 748

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 748.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Florida [Mr. NELSON] proposes an amendment numbered 748.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide a proportionate reduction in the credit for State death taxes before repeal, thereby allowing for responsible full estate tax repeal)

On page 66, before line 2, insert the following:

''(C) COORDINATION WITH CREDIT FOR STATE DEATH TAXES.—

''(i) IN GENERAL.—Rules similar to the rules of subparagraph (A) shall apply to the table contained in section 2011(b) except that the Secretary shall prescribe percentage point reductions which maintain the proportionate relationship (as in effect before any reduction under this paragraph) between the credit under section 2011 and the tax rates under this subsection.''.

(d) REVENUE OFFSET.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall adjust the highest rate of tax under section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as amended by section 101 of this Act) to the extent necessary to offset in each fiscal year beginning before October 1, 2011, the decrease in revenues to the Treasury for that fiscal year resulting from section 2001(c)(2)(C) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as added by the amendments made by subsection (c)).

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, this is an amendment everybody can vote for because you want to protect your States. The bill phases out the estate tax for the State portion much quicker than it phases out the entire estate tax. It is going to put a real financial burden on our States. Under the existing bill, the State portion would be repealed much faster, not leaving our States enough time to prepare and plan for the loss of revenue. That is unfair to our State governments.

This amendment, sponsored by Senator GRAHAM and myself, would result in the full repeal of the estate tax but would phase out the State estate tax portion at a rate consistent with the repeal of the Federal portion and would pay for it through a temporary reduction in the top marginal rate cuts.

This would provide for a responsible full repeal of the estate tax while leaving time for our States to plan for this loss of revenue to the States.

I yield back the time, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, this is another one of those amendments. It has just a little change from what we voted on last night.

This delegates to the Secretary of the Treasury the setting of tax rates. I think this very much is an affront to the constitutional requirement that all revenue measures shall originate in the House.

Senator NELSON's amendment strikes at the heart of the principal jurisdiction over taxation held by the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee. Every year, for 10 years, he delegates the top marginal income tax rate to the Secretary of the Treasury to determine.

This amendment sacrifices the American taxpayer for the convenience of the State treasuries. I urge defeat of the amendment.

I have a point of order I want to raise. The amendment is not germane to the provisions of the reconciliation measure. That point of order is, as you have heard so many times: I raise a point of order that the amendment violates section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I was not aware that a point of order would lie on this. I would like to know what the Parliamentarian says.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will rule on the Senator's point of order if he wishes.

The amendment is not germane.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. I am sorry, I could not hear.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is not germane. The point of order is sustained.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Then, Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable sections of that act for the purpose of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion to waive is too late at this point. The Chair has ruled.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Then we are done. Let's move on to the next amendment.

Mr. REID. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. If this is appropriate, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Florida be allowed to put in his request for a waiver of the germaneness rule and have a vote on it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable sections of that act for the purpose of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question now is on agreeing to the motion.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. KOHL) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. VOINOVICH). On this vote the yeas are 42, and the nays are 57. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment falls.

AMENDMENT NO. 770

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN] proposes an amendment numbered 770.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To accelerate the increase in exemption amount for estates and reduce the reduction in the 39.6 percent marginal tax rate)

Beginning on page 68, strike line 12 and all that follows through page 70, line 19, and insert the following:

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (c) of section 2010 (relating to applicable credit amount) is amended by striking the table and inserting the following new table:

"In the case of estates of decedents dying during:	The applicable exclusion amount is:
2002 through 2010	$4,000,000.''.

(b) LIFETIME GIFT EXEMPTION INCREASED TO $1,000,000.—

(1) FOR PERIODS BEFORE ESTATE TAX REPEAL.—Paragraph (1) of section 2505(a) (relating to unified credit against gift tax) is amended by inserting ''(determined as if the applicable exclusion amount were $1,000,000)'' after ''calendar year''.

(2) FOR PERIODS AFTER ESTATE TAX REPEAL.—Paragraph (1) of section 2505(a) (relating to unified credit against gift tax), as amended by paragraph (1), is amended to read as follows:

''(1) the amount of the tentative tax which would be determined under the rate schedule set forth in section 2502(a)(2) if the amount with respect to which such tentative tax is to be computed were $1,000,000, reduced by''.

(c) GST EXEMPTION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (a) of 2631 (relating to GST exemption) is amended by striking ''of $1,000,000'' and inserting ''amount''.

(2) EXEMPTION AMOUNT.—Subsection (c) of section 2631 is amended to read as follows:

''(c) GST EXEMPTION AMOUNT.—For purposes of subsection (a), the GST exemption amount for any calendar year shall be equal to the applicable exclusion amount under section 2010(c) for such calendar year.''.

(d) REPEAL OF SPECIAL BENEFIT FOR FAMILY-OWNED BUSINESS INTERESTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 2057 is hereby repealed.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) Paragraph (10) of section 2031(c) is amended by inserting ''(as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this parenthetical)'' before the period.

(B) The table of sections for part IV of subchapter A of chapter 11 is amended by striking the item relating to section 2057.

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by this section shall apply to estates of decedents dying and gifts and generation-skipping transfers made after December 31, 2001.

(2) SUBSECTION (b)(2).—The amendments made by subsection (b)(2) shall apply to gifts made after December 31, 2010.

(f) REVENUE OFFSET.—The reductions in the highest marginal tax rate in the table contained in section 1(i)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by section 101(a) of this Act, are eliminated to offset the decrease in revenues to the Treasury for each fiscal year resulting from the amendments made by this section as compared to the amendments made by section 521 of the Restoring Earnings To Lift Individuals and Empower Families (RELIEF) Act of 2001 as reported by the Finance Committee of the Senate on May 16, 2001.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, this is similar to amendment No. 759 at the desk, but it has been redrafted to avoid the germaneness point of order which could have rested against it based on giving authority to the Secretary of the Treasury. It eliminates that authority. It just sets the rates.

What we do with this amendment is make the changes in the unified estate taxes immediate instead of waiting 10 years for that $4 million unified exemption, which is so important to making sure that small businesses are not caught by the estate tax. This amendment says we should do that now. We should bring forward these exemptions, these unified exemptions that are important to eliminate small businesses and farms from being caught in the estate tax. Ninety percent of the small businesses that would be caught by the estate tax will not be caught once we have a $4 million unified exemption. This brings forward that exemption and pays for it by eliminating the upper bracket reduction. A lot more people will be benefited—a lot more small businesses.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, unanimous consent for what?

I didn't hear the unanimous consent agreement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There was a quorum call requested by the Senator from Alaska.

Mr. REID. I don't understand.

Mr. KENNEDY. Was all the time used up, Mr. President? I thought there was time on each side. The time hasn't all been used up.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time has not been used up. That is why it required unanimous consent.

Mr. REID. I object.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I believe the unanimous consent was granted by the Chair.

Mr. REID. You can't grant something if you can't hear him. Reserving the right to object, we have spent now, this afternoon, probably close to 2 hours in quorum calls. There is going to come a time shortly when we are going to be blamed. We haven't held anything up. We didn't suggest the quorum call and here we are again. I have no problem with a quorum being called, but we have 30-some amendments left to vote on and I want to make sure we can't be blamed for not moving the bill forward.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I would like clarification. I believe I suggested the absence of a quorum. The President asked if there were any objections. I believe the quorum call was in order; is that correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alaska is correct.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, this amendment costs billions, and Senator LEVIN plans to pay for it by slashing any rate relief at the top rate. He proposes no estate tax and no capital gains tax on estates, and he pays for it with a denial of any tax break at all to the top rate.

This simply is not fair. This amendment will require a tax increase of billions of dollars, according to the Joint Tax Committee. It will increase taxes tens of thousands on small businessowners, and these folks throughout the country are the ones who create the jobs.

I urge everyone to vote against this amendment. Once again, I raise the point that this is probably the second, third, or fourth time we have voted on similar amendments. At some time, we ought to say enough is enough. I think now is time to say enough is enough.

I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Michigan.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. KOHL) is necessarily absent.

NOT VOTING—1

The amendment (No. 770) was rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. BAUCUS. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 771

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN] proposes an amendment numbered 771.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To make the maximum amount of the deduction for higher education expenses fully effective immediately, to repeal the termination of such deduction, and to provide an offset for revenue loss)

On page 314, after line 21, add the following:

SEC. ___. ACCELERATION OF FULL IMPLEMENTATION OF TUTITION DEDUCTION AND REPEAL OF TERMINATION.

(a) DEDUCTION FOR HIGHER EDUCATION EXPENSES.—

(1) MAXIMUM AMOUNT OF DEDUCTION.—Section 222(b)(2) (relating to applicable dollar amount), as added by section 431(a) of this Act, is amended to read as follows:

''(2) APPLICABLE DOLLAR LIMIT.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—The applicable dollar limit shall be equal to—

''(i) in the case of a taxpayer whose adjusted gross income for the taxable year does not exceed $65,000 ($130,000 in the case of a joint return), $5,000,

''(ii) in the case of a taxpayer not described in clause (i) whose adjusted gross income for the taxable year does not exceed $80,000 ($160,000 in the case of a joint return), $2,000, and

''(iii) in the case of any other taxpayer, zero.

''(B) ADJUSTED GROSS INCOME.—For purposes of this paragraph, adjusted gross income shall be determined—

''(i) without regard to this section and sections 911, 931, and 933, and

''(ii) after application of sections 86, 135, 137, 219, 221, and 469.''.

(2) REPEAL OF TERMINATION.—Section 222(e) (relating to termination), as added by section 431(a) of this Act, is repealed.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to payments made in taxable years beginning after December 31, 2001.

(c) REVENUE OFFSET.—The reductions in 2005 and 2007 in the highest marginal tax rate in the table contained in section 1(i)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by section 101(a) of this Act, are eliminated to offset the decrease in revenues to the Treasury for each fiscal year resulting from the amendments made by this section.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, when one looks at the deduction for college tuition in the bill, one finds, at least to my amazement, that it does not get fully phased in until 2004 and then it sunsets; it gets wiped out in 2006.

We should do a lot better than that for this important deduction, and this amendment will provide the full deduction immediately and pays for it by using part of the top tax bracket reduction.

An awful lot of people will benefit from this amendment helping to get students through college by having a real college tuition deduction, not just rhetoric but real, and be available now and not sunsetted 2 years after it is fully phased in.

I ask that the Senator from New York be recognized, if I have any time on my minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, this is an important amendment for those who care about paying for college.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. SCHUMER. We should make it permanent, and I urge support of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time in opposition? The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, the Senator from Michigan described his amendment. I am not going to go back through that. We have a very good package of educational assistance, tax incentives in our bill, of which the deduction of tuition is a major portion, and that major portion was put in to make this a more bipartisan bill, particularly under the leadership of Senator TORRICELLI.

What is wrong with this amendment is not that it does not do more but the fact that it increases billions of dollars for small business men and women. The revenue loss for the tuition deduction in our bill is $11 billion. We don't have this one scored, but this would be much higher.

Once again, I plead with people. We have a bipartisan bill. How many times do we have to defeat the same amendment? It has been 37 times now.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. LEVIN. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 771.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be in order.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I believe I have 1 minute. Is that correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is the Senator calling up an amendment?

AMENDMENT NO. 699

Mr. KENNEDY. Yes. I call up amendment No. 699.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY] proposes an amendment numbered 699.

Mr. KENNEDY. I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To condition the reductions in the 39.6 percent rate in 2002, 2005, and 2007 on the Federal Government funding certain increases in the maximum Federal Pell Grant amounts)

On page 9, between lines 14 and 15, insert:

''(4) REDUCTION IN TOP RATE CONTINGENT ON INCREASES IN FEDERAL PELL GRANT FUNDING.—Notwithstanding paragraph (2), the reductions in the 39.6 percent rate bracket which (without regard to this paragraph) would take effect for taxable years beginning in 2002, 2005, or 2007 shall not take effect at all unless the Secretary of Education certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury before November 1, 2001, November 1, 2004, or November 1, 2006, whichever is applicable, that during the fiscal year ending in 2001, or during each of the 2 fiscal years ending in 2003 and 2004 or 2005 and 2006, whichever is applicable, the Federal Government honored its commitment to fund the Federal Pell Grant program under subpart I of part A of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1070a) in an amount sufficient to increase the maximum Federal Pell Grant amounts awarded under such program to—

''(A) $4,250 for the 2002-2003 school year,

''(B) $4,650 for the 2003-2004 school year,

''(C) $5,050 for the 2004-2005 school year,

''(D) $5,450 for the 2005-2006 school year,

''(E) $5,850 for the 2006-2007 school year,

''(F) $6,250 for the 2007-2008 school year,

''(G) $6,650 for the 2008-2009 school year,

''(H) $7,050 for the 2009-2010 school year, and

''(I) $7,450 for the 2010-2011 school year.''.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, we hear a great deal during the discussion that we can afford the tax cut. We can also afford investments in education. This debate is really about choices. In this instance, we are offering the choice of getting the full funding of the Pell grants and deferring the reduction at the highest tax rate until we have the full funding.

This Nation made enormous progress through the GI bill. That was paid $8 paid back for every dollar that was put in. We made great progress in the cold war GI bill after the Korean war. In 1972, we enacted the Pell grant. The average Pell grant goes to a family with an income of $14,500. At the beginning of the Pell grant it paid for 80 percent of a public education and 40 percent of a private education. Today it is 40 percent of a public education and 18 percent of a private education. This will bring it up to 50 percent and 20 percent, in terms of public and private.

It is the best investment we can make in our Nation's future. I hope we will have support for expanding the Pell Grant Program.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Can we afford? Can we afford? How come we always hear the question, can we afford the tax cut? but we never hear, can you afford when it comes to spending money?

Mr. President, this may be a very well-intentioned amendment. It is very appropriate to bring up these educational issues. But it is not appropriate on a bipartisan tax reduction bill that this Senate requested in the budget resolution adopted 2 weeks ago. I urge my colleagues to reject this amendment.

The Kennedy amendment finances the increase in Pell grants by delaying marginal rate reductions if the Secretary of Education determines that Pell grants are not fully funded.

So this is not germane. I raise this point then: The amendment is not germane because it should not be on a reconciliation measure. The point of order against the amendment is under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive applicable sections of the act on the pending amendment. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote the yeas are 45, the nays are 54. Three fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment falls.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

AMENDMENT NO. 700

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 700, and I ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY] proposes an amendment numbered 700.

Mr. KENNEDY. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To condition the reductions in the 39.6 percent rate in 2005 and 2007 on the Federal Government sufficiently funding Head Start to enable every eligible child access to such program)

On page 9, between lines 14 and 15, insert:

''(4) REDUCTION IN TOP RATE CONTINGENT ON HEAD START FUNDING.—Notwithstanding paragraph (2), the reductions in the 39.6 percent rate bracket which (without regard to this paragraph) would take effect for taxable years beginning in 2005 or 2007 shall not take effect at all unless the Secretary of Education certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury before November 1, 2004, or November 1, 2006, whichever is applicable, that during each of the 2 fiscal years ending in 2003 and 2004 or 2005 and 2006, whichever is applicable, the Federal Government honored its commitment to fund the Head Start Act in an amount sufficient to enable every eligible child access to such program.''.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, this is another amendment about priorities.

We are now funding half the eligible children for Head Start. This amendment says, after we fund the rest of the children who are eligible for the Head Start program, then the top rate can be lowered from 39.6 percent to 36 percent.

We have had three Carnegie Commission studies that talked about the importance of investing in Head Start. We had a report issued in January of last year by the National Science Foundation entitled ''From Neurons to Neighborhoods.'' It is an evaluation of all the Early Head Start Programs, saying this is the best investment that we can make in terms of helping children develop their brains.

In a few days, we are going to deal with the education bill. This may very well be more important to the children of this country than that legislation. Let's say we believe in investing in our future, investing in our children. Let's fund the Head Start Program.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I am pleased to stand in for the chairman of the committee.

This amendment for full funding of Head Start has no place in this bill. The chairman has made the point over and over again that this bill is carefully constructed to include a variety of interests on both sides of the aisle. Each of these amendments is an attempt to upset that balance, in many cases, as in this one, with no estimate of the cost whatsoever. As a result, of course, a point of order lies, a point of order which I will make in just a moment.

It ought to be clear to everyone that this is boiling down to a question of who is for tax cuts and who isn't. Time after time, amendments are presented on that side of the aisle, and they are defeated by this side of the aisle. I think it ought to become clear to people after a while what is really occurring on. It is a stall tactic, and it really defines who is for tax cuts and who isn't.

Mr. President, because of the point I made, the pending amendment is not germane to the provisions of the reconciliation measure. I, therefore, raise a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable sections of the Budget Act for the consideration of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote the yeas are 45, the nays are 54. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment falls.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. BAUCUS. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay in the Table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 698

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, Senator KENNEDY has authorized me to offer amendment No. 698.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Illinois [Mr. DURBIN], for Mr. KENNEDY, proposes an amendment numbered 698.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To allow the Hope Scholarship Credit for all costs of attendance and to decrease the reduction in the 39.6 rate)

On page 9, strike the matter between lines 11 and 12, and insert:

''In the case of taxable years beginning during calendar year:	The corresponding percentages shall be substituted for the following percentages:
	28%	31%	36%	39.6%
2002, 2003, and 2004 ..	27%	30%	35%	39%
2005 and 2006	26%	29%	34%	38.2%
2007 and thereafter	25%	28%	33%	36.6%

On page 62, between lines 7 and 8, insert:

SEC. ___. HOPE SCHOLARSHIP CREDIT AVAILABLE FOR COSTS OF ATTENDANCE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 25A(f)(1) is amended by adding at the end the following subparagraph:

''(D) COSTS OF ATTENDANCE.—For purposes of determining the amount of the Hope Scholarship Credit under subsection (b), such term shall include the cost of attendance (as defined in section 472 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1087ll), as in effect on the date of enactment of this subparagraph) of the eligible student at an eligible educational institution.''

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2001.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, Members of the Senate, this is an amendment I am offering for Senator KENNEDY. The HOPE scholarship tax credit is valuable to students but not to those who are attending community colleges and public universities. It is limited to tuition and fees.

This amendment expands the reach of the HOPE scholarship tax credit to include other costs of college, such as transportation, daycare, cost of computers, books, and the like. This will mean the HOPE scholarship tax credit will help children of limited means from families who aren't wealthy receive a college education.

I hope Members of the Senate will consider a change in the upper tax rates to bring it to the same level as all other tax rate reductions, the benefits of that savings going to the kids in community colleges so they can qualify for the HOPE scholarship tax credit.

Thank you, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, compared to the bill that is before us, this amendment is a tax increase for a large segment of middle America. Families making $50,000, $60,000 a year would not see rates reduced.

Relative to the bill, the rates are effectively increased. We believe it would be a very expensive addition to a $30 billion package of education proposals already included in the bill. As a result, obviously, it not only upsets the bipartisan agreement that has been crafted between Senator BAUCUS and Senator GRASSLEY and the committee but in fact would represent a huge revenue loss —the estimate not being before us.

As I said before, what we are seeing is amendment after amendment being presented which do not pass but which clearly make the point that there are some folks here who are for tax cuts and some folks who are not for tax cuts.

This is the 43rd amendment on which we have voted. Of those presented today, almost half of them have not even been relevant. It is time to call this to a stop. I urge my colleagues to vote no.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts.

The amendment (No. 698) was rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

(Purpose: To provide for a fully refundable HOPE education tax credit)

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I send a motion to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WELLSTONE] moves to recommit H.R. 1836 to the Finance Committee, with instructions that the Committee on Finance report the bill to the Senate within three days, with the following amendments that:

Provide a fully refundable HOPE tax credit beginning in 2002; and Strike the reductions in the 39.6% bracket.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, this cuts the tax cut from the top .7 percent and instead puts the money into the HOPE Scholarship Program which would make it refundable. It would make a refundable tax credit, which means your community college students, who are about the hardest working group of students one will ever find—many are going back to school; many of them are men and women in their thirties and forties with children—would then be able to afford this.

Right now, if their income is below $26,000, $27,000 a year, they do not get any benefit unless it is refundable.

We could not do anything more important for higher education, especially if you care about the working class, these community college students. I hope there will be great support for this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, the Senator from Minnesota has well described his amendment. It is very similar to the last amendment, but this is a motion to recommit. There is no estimate of the revenue loss of the proposal, though it will be huge.

The bill already, as we all know, has a $30 billion package of education tax incentives. Given the amount of money available for the various pieces of relief within the bill, we think that is quite generous.

The proposal, obviously, will raise the taxes of individuals and small businesses by the billions that would be necessary to pay for it.

It is almost 8:30 p.m. This is the third day we have been taking up amendments. We have now considered 44. This will be 45. Almost half of them today have not been relevant. Why do we keep having the same amendments over and over? This is virtually the same amendment as the last one.

I appreciate those on both sides of the aisle who have supported the committee bill. It is important we continue to do that. This all boils down to who supports tax relief and who does not. If you support tax relief, vote no on this crippling proposal.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and the nays, and I say to colleagues, all this does is cut the tax cut for the top .7 percent. I do not know where my colleague gets these figures. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

AMENDMENT NO. 730

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, on behalf of myself and Senator JOHNSON, I CALL UP AMENDMENT NO. 730.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Iowa [Mr. HARKIN], for himself and Mr. JOHNSON, proposes an amendment numbered 730.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to adjust the income tax rates and to provide a credit to teachers and nurses for higher education loans)

At the end of subtitle D of title IV, add the following:

SEC. ___. CREDIT FOR CERTAIN HIGHER EDUCATION LOANS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart A of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 (relating to nonrefundable personal credits), as amended by section 432, is amended by inserting after section 25B the following new section:

"SEC. 25C. CERTAIN HIGHER EDUCATION LOANS.

''(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—In the case of a qualified individual, there shall be allowed as a credit against the tax imposed by this chapter for the taxable year an amount equal to the interest and principle paid by the taxpayer during the taxable year on any qualified education loan.

''(b) MAXIMUM CREDIT.—The credit allowed by subsection (a) for a qualified individual shall not exceed $2,000.

''(c) DEPENDENTS NOT ELIGIBLE FOR CREDIT.—No credit shall be allowed by this section to an individual for the taxable year if a deduction under section 151 with respect to such individual is allowed to another taxpayer for the taxable year beginning in the calendar year in which such individual's taxable year begins.

''(d) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

''(1) DEPENDENT.—The term 'dependent' has the meaning given such term by section 152.

''(2) NURSE.—The term 'nurse' means—

''(A) an individual who is—

''(i) licensed or certified by a State to provide nursing or nursing-related services, and

''(ii) employed to perform such services on a full-time basis for at least 6 months in the taxable year in which the credit described in subsection (a) is claimed, or

''(B) any other licensed or certified health professional practicing in a health profession shortage area, as defined in section 332(a)(1) of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 254e(a)(1)).

''(3) QUALIFIED EDUCATION LOAN.—The term 'qualified education loan' has the meaning given such term by section 221(e)(1).

''(4) QUALIFIED INDIVIDUAL.—The term 'qualified individual' means a teacher or a nurse.

''(5) TEACHER.—The term 'teacher' means—

''(A) a certified individual who is a kindergarten through grade 12 classroom teacher, instructor, counselor, aide, or principal in any State, Federal, or tribally licensed elementary or secondary school on a full-time basis for an academic year ending during a taxable year, or

''(B) a head start teacher in a licensed head start program recognized by the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

''(f) SPECIAL RULES.—

''(1) DENIAL OF DOUBLE BENEFIT.—No credit shall be allowed under this section if any amount of interest or principle on a qualified education loan is taken into account for any deduction or credit under any other provision of this chapter for the taxable year.

''(2) MARRIED COUPLES MUST FILE JOINT RETURN.—If the taxpayer is married at the close of the taxable year, the credit shall be allowed under subsection (a) only if the taxpayer and the taxpayer's spouse file a joint return for the taxable year.

''(3) MARITAL STATUS.—Marital status shall be determined in accordance with section 7703.''.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for subpart A of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 25B the following new item:

''Sec. 25C. Certain higher education loans.''.

(c) REVENUE OFFSET.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall adjust the highest rate of tax under section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as amended by section 101 of this Act) to the extent necessary to offset in each fiscal year beginning before October 1, 2011, the decrease in revenues to the Treasury for that fiscal year resulting from the amendments made by this section.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made under subsection (a) and (b) shall apply to any qualified education loan (as defined in section 25C(d)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by this section) incurred on, before, or after December 31, 2001, but only with respect to any loan interest or principle payment due in taxable years beginning after December 31, 2001.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, the Health Committee heard testimony last week by 2010 there will be a shortage of 725,000 nurses. This will grow to 1.2 million nurses by 2020 as the baby boom generation retires and needs more care.

Many other crucial professions are also in short supply. The number of unfilled pharmacist positions in community practice nationally rose from 2,700 vacancies in February of 1998 to over 7,000 by February of 2000.

Relative to education, over the next 10 years we must hire 2.2 million new teachers to replace those who are retiring or leaving the classroom.

My amendment will go a long way to improving the supply of teachers, nurses, and other health professionals. It would provide a 50-percent tax credit of up to $2,000 a year for the cost of repaying educational loans for nurses, teachers, and other health professionals who serve in federally designated health professional shortage areas.

It would be paid for by eliminating the huge tax break for the wealthiest of Americans provided in this bill. It would strike the reduction in the top rate. Again, that is precisely what this amendment does.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a letter from the NEA.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,
Washington, DC, May 21, 2001.

Senator HARKIN,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR HARKIN: On behalf of the National Education Association's (NEA) 2.6 million members, we would like to express our support for your amendment to the tax bill that would provide a tax credit to offset the costs of teachers' student loan payments.

As you know, providing every child the opportunity to excel requires ensuring a highly qualified teacher in every classroom. To meet this goal, America must meet the challenges posed by record public school enrollments, the projected retirements of thousands of veteran teachers, and critical efforts to reduce class sizes. Given these favors, public schools will need to hire an estimated 2.2 million new teachers by 2009.

Despite these urgent needs, recruitment of high-quality teachers remains a significant challenge—one exacerbated by low salaries. A recent NEA report found that during the decade from 1989–90 to 1999–2000, average salaries for public school teachers increased by less than one percent, in constant dollars. Often, therefore, talented individuals facing high student loan costs simply cannot afford to enter or remain in the teaching profession.

By providing a tax credit to offset student loan payments, your amendment will help attract and retain high-quality teachers. We thank you for your leadership in addressing this important issue.

Sincerely,

MARY ELIZABETH TEASLEY,
Director of Government Relations.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, it is now 8:45. I believe this will be the 46th amendment we will have considered. This amendment also deals with the subject that about half of the recent amendments have dealt with—education—which I have already discussed we have done a lot about in the bill already.

There is a point at which I think our colleagues are going to have to conclude that the continued offering of these amendments over and over and over again is for the purpose of dragging this out and preventing the Senate from passing an important bill for tax relief for the American people. It also depends upon whether you are for tax relief or not. For those who continue to offer these amendments, it is apparent that they are not for the bill, they are not going to support the bill, they continue to try to drag this out so we won't complete this bill before the Memorial Day recess.

The amendment is not germane to the provisions of the reconciliation measure, and therefore I raise a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

Mr. HARKIN. Pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act, I move to waive the point of order and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the next amendment in order will be that of the Senator from North Dakota, Mr. CONRAD, the ranking member on the Budget Committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

AMENDMENT NO. 781

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, this amendment improves our debt reduction by ending the repeal of the estate tax. The estate tax is ended just before we begin the second decade, right at the time the baby boomers start to retire and the cost of this tax bill then explodes to about $4 trillion.

My amendment is simple. It continues all of the provisions to increase the unified credit so that a couple could pass $8 million with no estate tax.

In addition, we preserve stepped up basis so that you pay future taxes on the basis of the value of the property when you inherit it, not on the basis of what your grandfather paid or what your father paid.

I believe this is a sound amendment and one that deserves the support of our colleagues.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Is the Senator going to send up the amendment?

Mr. CONRAD. I send the amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: to reduce debt by eliminating the repeal of the estate tax)

Strike the following sections of the bill: Sections 501, 541, and 542.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, it is a bit confusing when these amendments are taken out of order. At the moment, if I could ask for my colleagues' indulgence, we do not have a copy of this amendment. We may have to get it from the sponsor of the amendment.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona has the floor.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, it appears that we have not been given this amendment. I know that my colleagues on the other side have made it clear that it was their intent that we receive all copies of all amendments prior to the time of their presentation. As of right now, in any event, it does not appear we have this amendment.

I would ask for my colleagues' indulgence for a moment. If the Senator from North Dakota wishes to offer the amendment, then we are going to have to have an opportunity to review it.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement for 2 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Alaska.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I want to publicly thank my great friend and long-time companion, Senator INOUYE, for his kindness in pairing with me on two votes during the last 2 days. I had made a commitment to my granddaughter to be present at her graduation from high school, and I decided to keep that commitment. But we knew there would be close votes. I talked to my good friend, and he gave me this commitment he would pair on votes on which my absence might make a difference.

There are few friendships in this world that are stronger than my love for my great friend from Hawaii, a committed and dedicated American, and one who has been recognized by our country for his heroism at war. But he showed last night, once again, that he is a true friend as far as I am concerned.

I publicly thank him for that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to speak for 2 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the Senator from Alaska is certainly one to talk about friendship. I say that very seriously. When I was a Member of the House of Representatives, a man by the name of Alan Bible, who was 20 years a Senator here, died. And, of course, the procedure was that an airplane was supplied to Members of Congress to go to Nevada for the funeral.

The only person on that airplane, other than me, was Senator Ted Stevens. He was there as a result of his friendship with Alan Bible. Particularly, one vote that Senator STEVENS remembers was very hard for Alan Bible to cast. As a result of that, Senator STEVENS traveled 1 day 6,000 miles to repay what he felt was a debt he owed to a dead man. So Senator STEVENS is gracious in extending compliments to Senator INOUYE, which Senator INOUYE deserves. But Senator STEVENS, in my book, is someone who knows what friendship means.

Mr. STEVENS. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, there is an amendment pending. I believe that we have a copy of it now. We should be ready to go to the vote momentarily. It would be our intent, on both sides of the aisle, to make this the last vote tonight and resume voting again in the morning at 9:30, at which point I am hoping that Senator DASCHLE and I can work together and get an agreement as to how we would proceed in the morning and as to how we would complete action on this legislation.

I am not going to propound a unanimous consent request now, but we want Senators to know this will be the last vote of the night. We will be back at 9:30. Our intent is to work together to find a way to successfully complete action on this legislation.

Mr. BYRD. May we have order.

Mr. LOTT. I would be glad to yield to Senator BYRD or to Senator REID.

Mr. BYRD. May we have order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will please be in order.

Mr. REID. I say to the majority leader——

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate is not in order yet.

Mr. REID. I say to the majority leader, in the morning at 9:30 we would intend to vote first on amendment No. 780 offered by Senator DURBIN.

Mr. LOTT. I believe we have other amendments that would be in order. I believe Senator SNOWE has indicated that she will have one in the morning.

Mr. REID. I believe it is your turn.

Mr. LOTT. If we do not have one ready to go at 9:30, we would go to the Durbin amendment, and then one—have we offered one today?

Mr. REID. Three days ago.

Mr. LOTT. We might want to have one every other day until we can complete action.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I would like to take the minute now in opposition to the amendment. We have had an opportunity to review it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KYL. Thank you.

Mr. President, this amendment uses repeal of the death tax to pay down the debt further. We already defeated amendments which would help with HOPE scholarships and Head Start and a variety of other things. This now would use it to pay down the debt. Obviously, it is something we have considered and rejected in the past.

I urge my colleagues to reject it again. This would make, I believe, something like the 46th amendment. There does not appear to be anything new under the Sun here, and, as a result, I hope my colleagues will join me in defeating the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator yield back time?

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

BALANCE OF POWER

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, during the course of this week's debate, several amendments have been offered that would direct the Treasury Secretary to adjust marginal tax rates in a way that would provide the necessary savings to fund particular tax benefits.

I opposed these amendments because the U.S. Constitution explicitly vests that power in the legislative branch. It is the responsibility of the Congress—the people's representatives—to determine the appropriate level of taxation and, consequently, the proper marginal rates. By delegating such duties to the Treasury Secretary, the Congress would continue a dangerous pattern of recent years of ceding congressional responsibilities to the executive branch. Placing these powers in the legislative branch was part of the Framers' carefully crafted constitutional design, comprised of an intricate system of checks and balances and separation of powers.

I hope that the Senate will continue to protect the balance of powers by rejecting any amendment that would attempt to transfer its Constitutional responsibilities to the executive.

AMENDMENT NO. 695

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I rise to speak of my opposition to the amendment offered yesterday by Senator DODD, which would replace the estate tax repeal in order to partially pay for nontransportation infrastructure programs and save for debt reduction. I strongly support responsible tax cuts and a full repeal of the estate tax.

Even though paying down the national debt is one of my top priorities, I could not support an amendment that does not reflect my position of support for total repeal of the estate tax. I opposed this amendment because the revenue offset did not meet this criterion.

VOTE ON AMENDMENT NO. 747

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I was absent for rollcall vote No. 143. If I had been present, I would have voted in favor of the motion to waive the Budget Act on amendment No. 747 offered by Senator CARPER.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that there now be a period for morning business with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

U.S. RELATIONS WITH TAIWAN

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, last night, I spoke by phone to Taiwan President Chen Shui-bian shortly after he arrived in New York on a so-called ''transit stop'' on his way to Latin America. I told him how pleased I was the he was able to make this visit and that I regretted that I could not travel to New York to meet with him personally because of the tax bill now on the Senate floor.

I strongly opposed the restrictions placed on President Chen when he passed through Los Angeles last summer and was not permitted to meet with members of Congress. That is no way to treat the democratically elected President of Taiwan.

We are in a different era than in the 1970s when Richard Nixon opened up China, the three Communiques were produced, and the Taiwan Relations Act was passed.

On the one hand, we still honor the one China policy. The American message to Beijing and Taipei continues to be that they must negotiate together to resolve their differences by peaceful means. We are determined that neither side should be able to take unilateral steps that would fundamentally change the situation.

But, on the other hand, we need to understand that Taiwan now has a government that is as accountable to its people as is our own government. Although Taiwan had an authoritarian system until the late 1980s, today it is an active democracy based on a market economy. With U.S. support, Taiwan made this transformation into a free market democracy. We should be looking at Taiwan as one of the great success stories of America's foreign policy.

And that means we need to treat Taiwan differently than in the past. It is the 12th largest economy in the world. Taiwan is our 7th largest export market. In fact, we sold more goods and services to Taiwan last year than we did to China.

Once Taiwan joins the World Trade Organization, and I hope it is soon, I believe that we should begin work on a free trade agreement with Taiwan. I will shortly introduce legislation to provide fast track negotiating authority for such a negotiation.

Taiwan has taken many measures to liberalize its economy in recent years, especially in response to negotiations with the United States. While they await formally accession to the WTO, they are working hard to bring their laws and regulations into compliance with WTO requirements. They still have a lot of work to do to complete their liberalization efforts. Sectors such as telecommunications, financial services, and electronic commerce need to be freed up significantly. Protection of intellectual property needs to be improved. But a free trade agreement would help lock in the important economic changes already made, and it would also encourage continuing liberalization.

A free trade agreement with Taiwan would provide an even better market for American goods, services, and agricultural exports. It would reward Taiwan for the dramatic political and economic progress it has made. And it would benefit our economy, enhance our security, and promote global growth.

China would probably object to a US-Taiwan free trade agreement. But there would be no legal or diplomatic basis for such a protest. Taiwan is joining the WTO as a ''separate customs territory'' and will have all the rights and obligations of every other WTO member, including Beijing. We have been negotiating with Taiwan for years on market access, trade, and regulatory issues. Taiwan is a member of APEC, the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation forum. We must determine what will be U.S. policy toward Taiwan.

I recognize that this is an unusual proposal. I don't expect negotiations on a free trade agreement to start right away. But it is a vision toward which we should all work.

To conclude, I hope that President Chen has a useful stay in New York. I also hope that we will see a meeting between President Chen and Chinese President Jiang Zemin at the APEC summit in Shanghai in October. The dialogue that should emerge from such a meeting could help ensure peace across the Taiwan Strait.

ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE FOR EAST TIMOR

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, last week, the Standard Times of New Bedford, MA, published an op-ed piece by Senator KENNEDY on the situation in East Timor, in which he discussed the legislation on East Timor that he introduced with Senator CHAFEE, which is also cosponsored by myself and Senators FEINGOLD, HARKIN, KERRY, JEFFORDS, and REED. This legislation recently passed the House of Representatives as part of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act.

Senator KENNEDY's legislation would provide additional economic assistance for East Timor, which is struggling to overcome the violence and destruction perpetrated by Indonesian militias, with the support of the Indonesian military, after the vote for independence in August 1999. It would also provide for scholarships for East Timorese students, funding for the Peace Corps to start a program there, and other initiatives.

This legislation outlines a comprehensive approach to a new, positive relationship between the United States and East Timor, including the establishment of full diplomatic relations as soon as independence takes place.

As one who, like Senator KENNEDY, has admired the courage and determination of the East Timorese people and their capable leaders, Xanana Gusmao and Jose Ramos-Horta, I commend him for this legislation and ask unanimous consent that his op-ed piece be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the New Bedford, MA Standard Times, May 16, 2001]

PREPARE NOW FOR THE NEW EAST TIMOR

Two leaders of the East Timor independence movement are in Washington, D.C., this week for the first time since the people of East Timor voted overwhelmingly for independence in August 1999. Nobel Prize winner Jose Ramos-Horin spent 24 years in exile rallying support for East Timor's independence and will be foreign minister in the new government. Xanana Gusmao led the domestic opposition and will be a prominent figure in an independent East Timor. The goal of their visit is to obtain the support of the Bush Administration and Congress for their new country, and they deserve to receive it.

East Timor's road to independence has been long and violent. Portugal ruled East Timor for 550 years before pulling out in August 1975. East Timor was independent for four months before it was invaded by Indonesia in December that year. The U.N. General Assembly and Security Council strongly condemned the invasion, and never recognized Indonesian sovereignty over East Timor.

After two decades of unrest, former Indonesian President B. J. Habibie finally agreed to a referendum in January 1999. In August that year, the people of East Timor voted overwhelmingly in favor of independence from Indonesia, and they did so at great personal risk. Before, during and after the vote, the Indonesian military and anti-independence militia groups killed more than a thousand people and displaced thousands more, hoping to intimidate the independence movement.

Although the militias succeeded in destroying 70 percent of East Timor's infrastructure, they failed to derail East Timor's desire for freedom.

On August 30 this year, looking to America as an example, East Timor will elect a constituent assembly to decide which form of democratic government to adopt.

It is a process that reminds us of our own Constitutional Convention and would make our founders proud. A few months after that, East Timor, which is currently governed by the United Nations, will formally declare its independence. After years of hardship, violence and death, a new democracy will take its rightful place in the world. The new nation is a great success story, but it is far from complete.

East Timor is rebuilding itself from ashes following 24 years of Indonesian rule, and it needs international assistance. It remains one of the poorest countries in Asia. The annual per capita gross national product is $340. As many as 100,000 East Timorese refugees languish in militia-controlled refugee camps in West Timor, which is still part of Indonesia and where there has been a sharply reduced international presence since militias murdered three U.N. workers last September.

In the aftermath of the violence in East Timor, the United States has provided important humanitarian aid and assistance for nation-building. But our assistance has been provided on an ad hoc basis. We have made no commitment to a longterm political investment in a newly independent East Timor, and we should do so.

We should leave no doubt in the minds of any government officials in Indonesia that the United States will recognize and support the new nation of East Timor.

To advance this objective, I, along with Sen. Chafee, have introduced legislation in the Senate to facilitate East Timor's transition to independence.

Reps. Tom Lantos and Chris Smith have introduced similar legislation in the House of Representatives. Its purpose is to lay the groundwork for establishing a strong relationship with East Timor, including a bilateral and multilateral assistance program. Our legislation encourages President Bush, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, the Trade and Development Agency and other U.S. agencies to put in place now the tools and programs necessary to create a reliable trade and investment relationship with East Timor.

It provides a three-year commitment of $30 million in U.S. assistance, including $2 million for a Peace Corps presence and $1 million for a scholarship fund for East Timorese students to study in the United States, and supports economic assistance through international financial institutions.

To help professionalize the army, it authorizes the president to provide excess defense materials and international military education and training, if the president certifies that doing so is in the interest of the United States and will help promote human rights in East Timor and the professionalization of East Timor's armed forces. Our bill also supports efforts to ensure justice and accountability for past atrocities in East Timor.

The bill specifically calls on the State Department to establish diplomatic relations with East Timor as soon as independence takes place. It took President Truman 10 minutes to establish diplomatic relations with Israel in 1948. President Bush should be able to do the same with East Timor in 2001.

The people of East Timor have chosen democracy, and the United States has a golden opportunity to help them create their new democracy. We must prepare for that day now. The great faith in the democratic process they showed by voting for independence under the barrel of a gun must not go unrewarded.

We should put U.S. governmental programs and resources in place now to prepare for the reality of an independent East Timor. If we wait until East Timor declares its independence before we do the preliminary work, we will lose vital time and do a disservice to both the United States and East Timor. We must not miss this unique opportunity to help.

MIDDLE EAST VIOLENCE

Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. Mr. President, on May 18th, yet another grave terrorist attack occurred in Netanya, the fifth such attack this year. Six Israelis were killed and over one hundred wounded in the bombing.

The target of the attack was innocent civilians, targeted solely because they were Israelis. The recent bludgeoning to death of 14-year old Jewish boys in a cave demonstrates a new level of barbarism and inhumanity.

The Palestinian Authority is obligated, according to agreements it concluded with the State of Israel, to prevent terrorism and to cease incitement in the areas under its jurisdiction.

Regrettably, the Palestinian Authority has abandoned its obligations and is committing acts of terrorism and inciting violence against Israelis, both in Palestinian controlled media and in the curriculum taught to its school-age children. With such hatred and venom spewed by Palestinian Government organs, it is hard to imagine there is any true desire for peace, rather, there appears to be a deliberate attempt to destroy any foundation for peace that is necessary among the Palestinian people.

The Israeli Government has made a renewal of peace negotiations with the Palestinians its foremost goal. But negotiations cannot take place until there is a cessation of the violence.

The Government of Israel has repeated its desire to move forward in accordance with the four phases detailed in the recent report of the Mitchell Fact Finding Committee:

A. A complete cessation of violence; B. A substantial cooling-off period, accompanied by confidence building measures—together with proof on the part of the PA that it intends to maintain the calm (arresting terrorists, ending incitement, etc.); C. The implementation of signed agreements; D. The conduct of negotiations on all outstanding issues.

As Secretary Powell and the U.S. State Department prepare to re-enter the difficult world of Israeli-Palestinian negotiations, we can make a few observations about the recent brutality and violence by the PA.

First, the attack puts the lie to the claim that Palestinian violence is directed against so-called Israeli ''occupation.''

Second, we can question the effectiveness of peace negotiations with a group that embraces terrorism—and which belies the U.S. policy, that is, policy for the United States, that we do not negotiate with terrorists, while the Palestinian Authority was removed from the annual U.S. list of terrorists, it continues to commit acts of terrorism and we have helped to reinvent the PA as a ''negotiating partner'' for the Israelis. This looks hypocritical, dishonest and unrealistic.

Secretary Powell and the Department of State have an enormous undertaking in trying to find common ground between Israelis and Palestinians. The conflict appears intractable, and peace, despite decades of efforts, remains elusive. Yet we can only keep trying—trying to stop the bloodshed that seems synonymous with the Middle East and trying to seek stability in such an important and strategic part of the world.

THE SUPREME COURT'S DECISION IN ALEXANDER v. SANDOVAL

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, there are a great many important policy issues that divide Democrats and Republicans. When we find certain common sense principles that we agree on, however, we should seize the opportunity and act on them.

I believe that we have such an opportunity today. On April 24, 2001, the Supreme Court issued its latest in the never-ending sequence of 5-to-4 ''State's rights'' decisions, Alexander v. Sandoval. I rise to urge my colleagues to reaffirm our shared values by passing legislation to reverse the Court's decision in this case. By doing so, we can reinstate what was always Congress's intent, and reaffirm our nation's commitment to civil rights for all Americans. Let me explain.

Let's start with the principle of cooperative federalism. Every year, we in Congress send billions of Federal taxpayer dollars to the States to help fund education systems, health care, motor vehicle departments, law enforcement and other government services that every American is entitled to enjoy, no matter which State he or she lives in. That is the essence of federalism: helping to fund the States to perform government functions that are best performed at the local level. It is not Republican, and it is not Democratic; it is common sense.

The Federal Government and Federal taxpayers count on the States to use those Federal funds in a lawful manner, and most everyone would agree that the States should be accountable for doing so. President Bush has made accountability the central guiding principle of his education proposals. We have some immensely important differences of view on how to achieve accountability. But we should not lose sight of what unites us.

Republicans believe in accountability, and so do Democrats. We here in Washington owe the American people a duty, when we send their tax dollars to State and local authorities, to ensure that the people get a chance to hold those authorities accountable for using their money for the public good, for the benefit of all the people, and in accordance with the law of the land. That is not politics; it is common sense.

What has all this got to do with the Supreme Court? Well, 37-years ago, Congress enacted perhaps the most important piece of legislation of the post-war era, the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Title VI of the Civil Rights Act is an accountability provision pure and simple. It prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, or national origin, in any program or activity that receives Federal funds.

The Congress that passed the Civil Rights Act was committed to full and strong enforcement of civil rights. It recognized that discrimination comes in many forms. Governmental practices may be intentionally discriminatory or, more commonly, they may be discriminatory in their effect, because they have a disparate or discriminatory impact on minorities. To catch this more subtle but no less harmful form of discrimination, Congress authorized the Federal agencies that were responsible for awarding federal grants and administering federal contracts to adopt regulations prohibiting Federal grantees and contractees from adopting policies that have the effect of discriminating.

There has never been any serious question about Congress's intent in this matter. Before Sandoval, the Federal Courts of Appeals had uniformly affirmed the right of private individuals to bring civil suits to enforce the disparate-impact regulations promulgated under Title VI. The Supreme Court itself, in a 1979 case called Cannon v. University of Chicago, had concluded that Title VI authorized an implied right of action for victims of race, color, or national origin discrimination. And as Justice Stevens noted in his dissenting opinion in Sandoval, the plaintiff in Cannon had stated a disparate-impact claim, not a claim of intentional discrimination.

I will not attempt in these brief remarks to go over all the reasons why Sandoval was incorrectly decided as a matter of Supreme Court precedent. Justice Stevens does an excellent job in his dissent of demonstrating how the activist conservatives on the Court rejected decades of settled laws.

I will say this: The holding in Sandoval makes no sense as a matter of national policy. The lower courts in Sandoval found that the defendant, the Alabama Department of Public Safety, was engaged in a discriminatory practice in violation of Federal regulations. The Supreme Court did not challenge that finding, and also accepted that the regulations at issue were valid. Yet the Court's conservative majority held that the victims of the discrimination had no right to sue to enforce the Federal regulations. You do not have to be liberal, and you do not have to be conservative, to be troubled by the notion that a State can engage in unlawful discrimination and yet not be accountable in any court.

The good news is that the Sandoval holding is based on statutory interpretation and not constitutional law. The Congress is therefore free to overturn it, and we should do so at the very first opportunity. By doing so, we will fully preserve what I have called cooperative federalism. We will continue to provide funding assistance to the States. At the same time, we will prove that we are serious about the right of the American people to hold their government accountable in the most basic sense, accountable for obeying the law. And we will prove that we are as serious about the civil rights of minorities as the groundbreaking Congress that passed the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Fixing what the Court has broken should be a bipartisan undertaking. This is not about being a Republican or a Democrat; it is about reaffirming the will of the people as expressed by the Congress, reaffirming that the American people are entitled to have a government that is accountable, and reaffirming that in America, discrimination is not acceptable, whether it is done openly and crassly, or more invidiously and subtly. The unfair effects are the same and deserve redress.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2001

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about hate crimes legislation I introduced with Senator KENNEDY last month. The Local law Enforcement Act of 2001 would add new categories to current hate crimes legislation sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society.

I would like to describe a heinous crime that occurred April 25, 2000 in Germantown, MD. According to the victim, she and her partner and their 11-year-old daughter have been the victims of repeated anti-gay slurs. The victims have had rocks and other items thrown at their home because they are gay and some neighbors ''wanted us out of the neighborhood.'' The incident in question occurred after a verbal altercation between the victim's child and the perpetrator's child, culminating in the victim's attack by the perpetrator. When police arrived on the scene, the victim was lying on the ground; her hand was bleeding; she had been kicked repeatedly in the head by the perpetrator and his 12-year-old son (while the son was allegedly yelling, ''I'm going to kill you, dyke b---h.''); her face was swollen; she had footprints on her shirt; and marks on her neck and chest which required overnight hospitalization. Despite this, the police did not handle the incident as a hate crime and said that it was against their regulations to arrest the perpetrator because they had not witnessed the attack.

I believe that Government's first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act of 2001 is now a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation, we can change hearts and minds as well.

KIRK O'DONNELL MEMORIAL LECTURE

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I had the pleasure of attending the Kirk O'Donnell Memorial Lecture on American Politics last month to hear our distinguished former colleague, Daniel Patrick Moynihan. No one worked harder on public policy or served with a more distinguished record than he. His lecture offered an enlightening perspective on current discussions about Social Security and I ask unanimous consent that it be reprinted in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

A THRIFT SAVINGS COMPONENT FOR SOCIAL SECURITY: BIPARTISANSHIP BECKONS

(By Daniel Patrick Moynihan)

I have entitled this lecture ''A Thrift Savings Component for Social Security: Bipartisanship Beckons.'' I have done so not without a measure of unease. For it was our own Kirk O'Donnell who famously declared Social Security to be ''the third rail of politics.'' But then Kirk was ever one to take a dare. And I would note that the third rail was first installed on the I.R.T. subway in Manhattan, the Big Dig of its day, which Charles Francis Murphy had built as a favor for a friend.

But allow me a brief explanation for such reckless abandon at a time in life when serenity ought properly be one's object.

The end of the cold war did it!

On December 7, 1988 Mikhail Gorbachev went before the General Assembly of the United Nations to declare in effect that the Soviet ''experiment'' was over. The French Revolution of 1789, he said, and the Russian Revolution of 1917 had had a powerful impact ''on the very nature of the historic process.'' But, ''today a new world is emerging and we must look for new ways.'' That was then, now was different. ''This new stage,'' he continued, ''requires the freeing of international relations from ideology.'' The world should seek ''unity through diversity.'' Then this: ''We in no way aspire to be the bearer of the ultimate truth.''

But of course since 1917 and before the essence of Marxist-Leninism had been the claim to be the bearers of ''the ultimate truth.'' No longer; it was all over. And indeed in short order the Soviet Union itself would vanish.

For someone of the generation that had been caught up in the second world war and the cold war that followed, Gorbachev's address could fairly be described as one of the extraordinary events of the twentieth century. All but unimaginable at mid-century. I had been in the Navy toward the end of World War II and was briefly called back during the Korean War. I was in London at the time. Early one morning we mustered in Grosvenor Square and by late afternoon were crossing Holland on our way to the naval base at Bremerhaven. Partly, well mostly, for show, I had brought along a copy of Hannah Arendt's newly published The Origins of Totalitarianism. I opened to the first page, read the first paragraph to myself, then read it aloud.

''Two world wars in one generation, separated by an uninterrupted chain of local wars and revolutions, followed by no peace for the victor have ended in the anticipation of a third World War between the two remaining world powers. This moment of anticipation is like the calm that settles after all hopes have died.''

Silence. At length the senior officer present allowed: ''There must be a bar car somewhere on this train.''

That war never came and soon there were signs of instability in the Soviet empire. In 1975 I returned from a spell in India convinced that the Czarist/Soviet imperium would soon break up, as had all the other European dominions following that Second World War. Shortly thereafter I was at the United Nations when the Soviet Under Secretary for Security Council Affairs defected to the United States. The diplomat, a man of great intelligence, had simply ceased to believe any of the things he was required to say. Doctrine was receding even as ethnicity was rising.

Then there was Moscow in 1987. I was there on a mission of possible importance. Was treated with great courtesy, including a tour of Lenin's apartment in the Kremlin. Behind his desk was a small bookcase, with two shelves of French language and two of English language authors. They could well have been Lenin's or possibly were put there for the delectation of visiting intellectuals in the 1930s. No matter. I found that I had personally met three of the writers. Next day I called on Boris Yeltsin, then Mayor of Moscow. Our excellent ambassador introduced me, recounting the authors I had recognized. It was clear Yeltsin had never heard of any of them. Could care less. After a pause he looked at me, and through a translator declared, ''I know who you are and where you come from. And what I want to know is how the hell am I supposed to run Moscow with 1929 rent controls?''

Housing. Fairly basic, and in desperate short supply. At the other end of the consumer spectrum, as we were leaving what was still Leningrad, I told our KGB handler that some constituents in New York had given me the names of relatives, hoping I might call them. But it seemed there was no telephone book in our room. Perhaps he could find one for me. He went off; came back. There was no telephone book in Leningrad. None that is available to the public.

In the years preceding and the years following this brief adventure it appeared to me that ethnicity was the central conceptual flaw of Marxism-Leninism. The workers of the world were not going to unite. The Red Flag, red being the color of the blood of all mankind, was not going to fly atop the capitols of all the world. I continue to think that, and to suppose that the 21st century will see even more ethnic division. But I have added to my views a further component to the failure of communism which is nothing more mundane than consumerism.

It serves to recall the fixed belief of the early Marxists that free markets—capitalism in that ugly French term—would bring about a steady lowering of living standards, from which a politicized proletariat would rise in revolt. In John Kenneth Galbraith's phrase, ''The prospect of the progressive immiseration of the masses, worsening crises and . . . bloody revolution.'' But as a new generation of Soviet leaders ventured abroad, they came to realize that nothing of the sort was happening in the West. While at home . . . In the end they simply gave up.

Let us see if these two categories can be related in terms of our future as the one remaining world power, to use the phrase of the moment. Which will not necessarily or may not be current two or three generations hence. Unless, in my view, we ought to tend to certain domestic issues very soon now.

Begin with ethnicity. It would be just forty years ago that Nathan Glazer and I finished Beyond the Melting Pot. Our subject was ''The Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Jews, Italians and Irish of New York City,'' but we had something more in mind. Marxist theory predicted, you might say, that these groups would meld together as a united and militant mass, as espoused by assorted left-wing organizations. We argued that nothing of the sort had happened, or would; if anything, groups tended to become rather more distinctive with time.

We wrote that ours was a beginning book, and after forty years I can report that a more than worthy successor has come along.

In yet another remarkable achievement, The New Americans: How the Melting Pot Can Work Again, Michael Barone, drawing in part on our earlier paradigm finds parallels with new immigrant groups, notably Latins and Asians, members of the largest wave of immigration in our history. Demography is a kind of destiny. If there are any parallels in history, and there are, should we not look to a new era of inequality, competition, and conflict of the sort we experienced in the late 19th and early 20th century? I would think we ought, and would further contend that we got through that earlier time in our history in considerable measure through the social provision made by governments of that era, culminating in the New Deal of the 1930s. I would add, gratuitously if you like, that much of that social contract began with New York Governor Alfred E. Smith, who rose out of the quintessential melting pot, the lower east side of Manhattan.

Here, then is a proposition. Our response to the end of the cold war has been singularly muted, both in foreign and domestic affairs. In particular there has been no domestic legislation of any consequence. Neither as reward or precaution. (The G.I. Bill of Rights of 1944 was a bit of both. A reward to the veterans, and a measure to moderate the anticipated return of high unemployment.) I can envision a similar combination, albeit in reverse order.

In a word, unless we act quickly, we are going to lose Social Security established in that first era as a guaranteed benefit for retired workers, widowed mothers, and the disabled and their dependents.

We have just fifteen years before outlays of Social Security exceed income. This after eighty years of solvency and surplus. Again, demography. Social Security began as a pay-as-you-go system. The population cohort in the work force paid taxes that provided pensions for the population cohort that had retired. A Social Security card was issued to each worker, with the faint suggestion that there was a savings account of some sort somewhere in the system. Franklin D. Roosevelt famously told Luther C. Gulick, a member of his committee on government organization, that while it might indeed be a bit deceptive, that account number meant that ''no damned politician'' could ever take his Social Security away. But all understood the reality.

Problem is that in the early years there were thirty odd workers providing benefits for one retiree. No longer. Today there are three. By 2030 there will be two.

To repeat, as the Trustees now calculate, by 2016 the system will pay out more money than it takes in. There is nominally a trust fund representing surpluses accumulated over the years, but to redeem the bonds will require general revenue. The system is no longer self-financing, with all that implies.

Obviously we ought to forestall insolvency. But would it not be well, at the same time, to address the matter of intergenerational transfer. This was well and good when there were so few retirees. No longer. Would it not then be prudent to enable workers within the Social Security system to accumulate savings of their own to be used as they see fit during retirement?

I will argue that we have to do the first, and if we do, in the process we would be enabled to do the second.

The workings of such a system are not complex, or so I would contend. Mentored by David Podoff, I introduced a bill in the 105th Congress. With some refinements I reintroduced it in the last Congress, the 106th, as S. 21, a first day bill. Senator BOB KERREY of Nebraska, a fellow member of the Finance Committee, was a co-sponsor.

Four measures are required to ensure solvency:

First. Social Security benefits are tied to the Consumer Price Index compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Some forty years ago as an Assistant Secretary of Labor I was nominally in charge of the B.L.S. where, in the aftermath of a study carried out for the National Bureau of Economic Research, it was agreed that the C.P.I. overstates inflation. It can't be helped; it is in the nature of the beast. It simply needs to be corrected. A 0.8 percentage point drop would do it nicely. We need normal taxation of benefits; as with other pensions.

Second. We need to bring all newly-hired State and local employees into the system. (It is still optional, a holdover from the 1930s when the Supreme Court would probably have ruled that the Federal Government could not tax State governments or subdivisions thereof.) Well down the line we will need to raise the retirement age once again. We did this in 1983, providing a gradual ascent to age 67 by 2027. This will one day need to rise by similar small steps to, say, 70 at mid-century. But consider; we estimate that persons who retire at age 70 in the year 2060 will on average live another 17 years. Surely a goodly spell. And note that the majority of today's beneficiaries retire before reaching 65. Benefits are lower, but the option is there and most persons take it. (It would be well for the now freestanding Social Security Administration to do some survey research to sort out the different reasons folk take this option.)

Third. We should tax benefits in the same way other retirement payments are taxed. We began partial taxation in 1983.

Fourth. We would increase the maximum computation period over time from 35 to 38 years, and by stages increase the OASDI contribution and benefit base to $99,900.

Now to a thrift savings plan. The payroll tax began in 1935 at 1 percent for employee and employer. It rose by degrees until in 1977 it was set at a combined rate of 12.4 percent, scheduled to take place in 2011. However, a combination of miscalculation, the Consumer Price Index, and misfortune, a sharp inflation owing to oil price increases, led to a sudden crisis. In 1982 the revered Robert J. Myers judged that under the existing law ''the OASDI trust fund will very likely be unable to pay benefits on time beginning in July, 1983.'' A Presidential Commission was created, and in the end it succeeded. Deficit was avoided. But the date that the maximum rate of 12.4 percent to kick in was advanced to 1990. Hence the current surplus.

We argue, however, that with the adjustments I have outlined, the earlier 10.4 percent payroll tax will provide present retirement benefits for the required 75-year period.

This is crucial. We must absolutely guarantee that the present benefit structure will continue in place before we start devising a thrift savings component. To do otherwise is to invite the most shrill protests of raiding a sacred trust for the benefit of Wall Street, and so on.

However, we can do both. And oughtn't we? At this point in time our income tax system is remarkably progressive. The top 5 percent of taxpayers pay 53.8 percent of income tax. The bottom 50 percent pay 4.2 percent. But Social Security is paid on the first dollar of income however low that income might be.

We could, of course, repeal the 1977 increase. It would mean some money in people's pockets, but not so much as you'd notice.

Or we could start thrift savings accounts for the work force at large, much along the lines of the Federal government program begun in the 1980s. An add on, not a ''carve out.'' Employees would choose among a number of plans, from government securities to market funds, and switch about from time to time. It is not unreasonable to forecast that such funds would double every ten years; making for a sizable portfolio after, say, forty years. A third to half a million dollars. As much a twice that for two-earner families.

An argument up front for doing this is that it would immediately affect the Personal Savings Rate which literally vanished in the 1990s. In 1980 annual personal saving as a percent of disposable personal income was 10.2 percent. By 1990, 7.8 percent. By 2000, −0.1 percent. Last February −1.3 percent.

I don't claim to understand this, but surely it needs attention. And I assume a national thrift savings plan would help.

Why, then, has our proposal been so little welcomed in, well, the Democratic Party and organizations with similar political and social perspectives? A possible partial explanation is that in the early 1970s conservative economists began talking up the so-called ''Chilean model'' in which all social insurance funds are invested in private securities. Not a good idea, I would think. But an idea withal. And we need ideas.

I would hope we could be spared a left-right imbroglio here. The risk, as Kenneth S. Apfel, the first Commissioner, 1997–2001, of the newly freestanding Social Security Administration, has recently written that if we do we will end up in a ''stand off.'' Which is to say we will do nothing, until there is nothing to be done. The system goes into deficit and becomes politicized beyond recognition.

Apfel makes four proposals. First, those ''on the left side of the political spectrum'' have to give up the notion that ''future Social Security benefits can never be reduced even modestly.'' Our bill would have done that modestly. (Although a C.P.I. correction only reduces the rate of growth.) Second, he continues, those on the left must need to give up the stand ''That mandatory retirement savings proposals are out of the question.'' That I fear is now doctrine of the old cadre of Social Security administrators. But why persons on the left would oppose providing workers with a measure of wealth would seem a mystery. (But, alas, may not be.) Respected economists such as Martin Feldstein have proposed investment accounts as an extension of what is already going on with the various private retirement savings plans already in place and widely in practice.

As for the ''right,'' Apfel argues that first they must give up the notion ''That private savings accounts should be carved out of Social Security benefits.'' He means that money be diverted from providing the existing benefit schedule. To which I surely agree. To say again, we propose an add on, not a carve out. Secondly, he contends the right must give up the notion ''That future Social Security revenues should never be increased even modestly.'' Again, agreed.

As for the current surplus in the funds, Apfel is more adventurous than I might be, or my colleague, David Podoff. President Clinton briefly mentioned the idea of investing some of the surplus in private equities. I suspect that would have been Apfel's idea, and he holds to it. Keep in mind that between now and 2015 we will accumulate a surplus of near $5 trillion. If it is not invested outside government, it will be spent on other things. And so a respectful hearing is in order, withal I would be cautious. We have learned to manage private and public pension funds without interfering with markets. But direct Federal investment poses temptation. Or invites blunder.

But what really are the prospects of such a transformation in our Social Security system? I know we could do it, for we have done. In the early 1980s we were on the edge of insolvency. A bipartisan Presidential Commission was stalemated, but solutions were worked out in a final two weeks of intense, albeit secret negotiations. In his account of the events, Artful Work, Paul Light cites my observation at the time: ''Only by defining the problem as manageable, can you manage it.'' It may also be worth noting, as recorded in an article in the current issue of Foreign Affairs, Germany, France, Spain, and Italy are evidently going to have to move from pay-as-you-go state pension systems to investment in securities.

The 2000 election campaign may have seen a breakthrough. The Republican candidate called for a thrift savings component. Let it be clear that there was no mention, has been no mention, of the preconditions I set forth earlier. Still. The Democratic candidate dismissed the idea as ''risky.'' And more. William Galston, a professor of government associated with Democratic politics later observed, with professorial candor, ''He [Governor Bush] touched the third rail of politics. We turned on the juice. Nothing happened.'' Indeed polling during the campaign showed voters approved the program by fair to considerable margins. And so in his first address to a Joint Session of Congress, now President Bush called for a thrift savings component to Social Security that would provide ''access to wealth and independence'' for all. Again, no mention of the unpleasant preliminaries. Even so, let it be recorded that the 21st century began with an avowedly conservative president espousing perhaps the most progressive social insurance measure since the New Deal. Come to think, though, Theodore Roosevelt might have liked it. Even those early 20th century British conservatives who called for a ''property owning democracy.''

We are not to expect that anything like this will happen soon. But it is scarcely too soon to get serious about the subject.

In a typically concise article in The Wall Street Journal of April 26, Albert R. Hunt described ''An Electorate Up for Grabs.'' Looking at recent polls he finds ''The bottom line: Neither party commands a comfortable majority.'' He cites Robert Teeter: ''Right now

. . . neither side has the makings of a governing coalition.'' Then James A. Johnson, a Democratic counsel, who concludes: ''If both realize that, it'll drive them to bipartisan solutions.''

Could that be a Thrift Savings Component for Social Security?

COMMENDING BOSTON MEDICAL CENTER AND DR. BARRY ZUCKERMAN FOR THEIR ADVOCACY ON BEHALF OF POOR CHILDREN

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, for the past 8 years, the Boston Medical Center has had a unique program in place to give legal help to disadvantaged children and their families. Under the leadership of Dr. Barry Zuckerman, the hospital's chief of pediatrics, the Family Advocacy Program was established to fight the legal and administrative problems that doctors often face when trying to improve children's health in ways that ''pills and surgery cannot.'' Dr. Zuckerman believes that we must impact the whole child. As he puts it, ''you can't separate out a child's organ functions from the rest of his body and the context of his environment.'' That is why at Boston Medical Center, the hospital that treats more poor people than any other in Massachusetts, Dr. Zuckerman and fellow pediatricians decided to get their own lawyers to advocate on behalf of these poor children and families.

The three lawyers in the program do what they can to pressure negligent landlords to improve living conditions, help families apply for food stamps, pressure insurance companies to pay for baby formula and other things to help prevent child illness. Recently, the New York Times did a story on the program, recognizing the good it has done for the disadvantaged families of Massachusetts. I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the New York Times, May 16, 2001]

BOSTON MEDICAL CENTER TURNS TO LAWYERS FOR A CURE

(By Carey Goldberg)

BOSTON, May 15—A doctor gets very tired of this kind of thing: sending a child with asthma home to an apartment full of roaches and mold; telling the parents of an anemic toddler to buy more and healthier food when they clearly do not have a cent; seeing babies who live in unheated apartments come in again and again with lung ailments.

At Boston Medical Center, the hospital that treats more poor people than any other in Massachusetts, pediatricians got so tired of it that they decided to try a radical solution: getting their own lawyers.

That is, a staff of three lawyers, right in the hospital—and on ''walk-in Mondays,'' right in the pediatrics clinic—now fights the legal and administrative battles that the doctors deem necessary to improve children's health in ways that pills and surgery cannot. The program, which goes far beyond the social work that hospitals customarily provide, is all but unique nationwide, but doctors here say they hope it becomes a model.

''We're trying to think out of the box,'' said Dr. Barry Zuckerman, the hospital's chief of pediatrics. ''I want an impact on the whole child, since you can't separate out a child's organ functions from the rest of his body and the context of his environment.''

That means that the lawyers of the Family Advocacy Program at the hospitals do things like pressuring recalcitrant landlords, helping families apply for food stamps and persuading insurance companies to pay for baby formula. With more than 300 referrals a year, they cannot go to court much, but they can help poor families navigate the administrative byways. And they can help doctors make phone calls or write letters to get their small patients what they need.

Among other things, ''we help doctors put things in legalese,'' said Ellen Lawton, a staff lawyer and project director. ''They don't teach that in medical school.''

That helps the doctors, and the doctors help the lawyers through the medical heft they can throw behind a legal or administrative request.

When a doctor writes a letter about a child's need for, say, special education classes or a mold-free apartment, ''it's not as confrontational,'' Ms. Lawton said. ''It's like, 'This is what the kids need for their health,' and who's going to argue with that?''

The Boston Medical Center lawyers knew of just one other full-fledged program like theirs, a new one in Hartford run at Connecticut Children's Medical Center, in partnership with the Center for Children's Advocacy at the University of Connecticut Law School. There, said the advocacy center's director, Martha Stone, ''it took a while for medical personnel to exactly understand the concept of the medical-legal partnership project, because lawyers make people nervous.''

''So,'' Ms. Stone said, ''they had to overcome the bias that we were in there looking at malpractice issues. We were in there doing poverty issues which would affect health outcomes. So it's taken a lot of education on the part of the lawyer to have the medical staff understand.''

At Boston Medical Center, where the Family Advocacy Program has run since 1993, the program is well accepted by now but is still exploring ways to help poor families and looking for ways to expand. The walk-in lawyers' hours began just this winter, for example, and have found plenty of takers.

One recent Monday, the mother of a diabetic girl stopped in to see Pamela C. Tames, a staff lawyer, about an administrative hearing scheduled for the next day on whether her daughter should qualify for federal disability money. The girl's diabetes was still poorly regulated, said the mother, who would not let her name be used, and she frequently had to miss school and stay in bed when her blood-sugar levels went bad. The mother, who is on welfare, had no lawyer of her own and had been denied requests for disability.

''They say being diabetic is not a disability,'' she said, ''I think it is a disability if a mother has to stay at home and come get the child from school if the child constantly gets sick.''

She came to the law clinic, the mother said, ''because I need to know how to represent my case.''

Ms. Tames told her how, beginning with the suggestion that she get an extension from the judge so she could present her case better.

In many ways, the lawyers at the medical center act as typical legal services lawyers, but they describe various forms of synergy with the doctors they help. For one thing, doctors, they say, have become more willing to ask patients questions like, ''Do you have enough food?'' now that they have lawyers who can help if the answer is no.

Before, Ms. Lawton said, ''they didn't want to screen for something they could do nothing about.''

The Family Advocacy Program said its director, Jean Zotter, is meant to work as preventive medicine; it can catch problems early because patients' families are more likely to confide troubles to doctors than to agency bureaucrats, and to trust the information they receive in a clinic, she said.

''Traditional medicine can treat the effects of poverty,'' Ms. Zotter said, ''but this is a program that hopes to intervene so that poverty won't have the effects it has on children's health.''

The greatest challenge for would-be imitators of the program, its lawyers say, is probably getting financing for such a hybrid organism. The Boston program costs about $175,000 a year; it is paid for mainly by city money for welfare-to-work transitions, because it helps many families trying to cross that bridge. The Connecticut program, which has one staff lawyer, got a three-year, $260,000 grant from the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving.

But Dr. Zuckerman has been known to unleash national phenomena before. He founded Reach Out and Read, a program beloved of the Clinton and Bush White Houses alike, which makes books a part of pediatric care. It gives children a new book at each checkup and has spread to hundreds of pediatric clinics around the country.

''I don't see what I'm doing with these nontraditional programs as just add-ons,'' Dr. Zuckerman said. ''What I'm trying to do is change pediatric care so it can have more of an impact.''

RETIREMENT OF COMMANDER THOMAS K. RICHEY, UNITED STATES COAST GUARD

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I rise today to offer my congratulations to a fine Coast Guard officer, Commander Thomas K. Richey, who is retiring this month after more than 20 years of dedicated service to this country. Commander Richey served as a Legislative Fellow in my personal office from 1996 to 1998. During that time he was responsible for maritime, transportation and environmental issues that fell under the jurisdiction of the Senate Commerce, Science, and Transportation Committee. In 1998 he accompanied me to Kyoto, Japan during the negotiations of the Kyoto Protocol for controlling greenhouse gases.

Throughout his long and distinguished career Commander Richey has demonstrated superb managerial and leadership skills. Tom has served in a variety of demanding billets including Operations Officer of Coast Guard Group Mobile, Alabama, Commanding Officer of Coast Guard Station Atlantic City, New Jersey and Deputy Program Manager for acquisition of Cutter and station boats. Along the way Tom has been awarded five Coast Guard Commendation Medals with Operational Distinguishing Device and one Coast Guard Achievement Medal with the ''O'' device and numerous other team and unit commendations.

When Tom left my personal office in 1998 he became the Commandant's Liaison to the United States Senate. This is a top billet reserved for only the finest the service has to offer. His performance in both my personal office and the Senate has been outstanding. As many of my colleagues know, Tom was always quick to respond to any of our questions or concerns and was an invaluable tool in helping us respond to our constituents whenever a Coast Guard issue arose. I am grateful for having had the opportunity to work so closely with Tom.

I offer again my congratulations to Commander Richey and his lovely wife Maureen who reside in Maryland with their two children Patricia and Tommy. I expect great things of this outstanding officer in the future. Mr. President, I yield the balance of my time to my colleagues, Senators BREAUX and DEWINE who wish to express their appreciation as well to Commander Richey for his dedicated service to this country.

Mr. BREAUX. I am honored to join today Senator KERRY on the occasion of Commander Thomas Richey's retirement from the United States Coast Guard.

Senator KERRY and I both serve on the Oceans and Fisheries Subcommittee, and in fact we have sat next to each other for years during committee executive sessions, hearings and other subcommittee fora. It was during these occasions that I first came to know Commander Richey. I would classify the period of 1996–1998 as a very busy time for the subcommittee. During this period, Tom was instrumental in advising Senator KERRY and subcommittee members in general on crucial oceans and fisheries, and maritime issues.

On a more personal note, I sincerely appreciate Tom's assistance and diligent follow through in support of the issues and concerns of my constituents.

It brings me and all Americans great pride in knowing that the Coast Guard is represented by individuals with such high ideals, integrity and dedication to duty. I know of the sacrifices made by Commander Richey and his family and offer my congratulations and personal thanks for a job well done. I wish Tom the best of luck in all future endeavors.

Mr. DEWINE. I commend and congratulate Commander Thomas Richey of the United States Coast Guard for his more than 20 years of service to our country. Commander Richey has had a distinguished career of public service in defense of our great nation. I greatly appreciate all he has done to assist me and my staff over the past three years with maritime transportation issues on the Great Lakes.

Additionally, Commander Richey played a vital part in helping me gain a better understanding of the varied and critical role our Coast Guard plays in the war on drugs. I've been fortunate to travel with Commander Richey, where I had the opportunity to observe, first-hand, Coast Guard drug interdiction efforts off the coast of the island of Hispanola and Puerto Rico.

Commander Richey's accomplishments have been great and his presence here on Capitol Hill will be sorely missed. I thank him for his dedication and his service to our nation. I wish him and his family all my best.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

SALUTING AMERICA'S VOLUNTEERS

● Mrs. LINCOLN. Mr. President, I want to take this opportunity to bring special attention to an area of service that I find particularly important, volunteerism. As we tackle, some of our nation's most pressing needs and problems, we should be promoting and encouraging volunteer activities in our communities.

The importance of volunteering was taught to me as a child. I want to ensure now that we all are mindful of the lessons that volunteering teaches, such as a sense of community and compassion for others. I believe we should remind ourselves of the important role that volunteers play in the delivery of human services.

Volunteers provide an invaluable service to our communities and our citizens. Their presence and contributions put the ''caring'' back into caregiving. Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the contributions volunteers make to long-term care for our nation's seniors.

For example, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, a philanthropic health care organization, has been supporting the creative delivery of health care and health systems for years. In my home state of Arkansas, we are working with the Johnson Foundation in a program entitled ''Faith in Action.''

''Faith in Action'' is a faith-based initiative that encourages volunteerism as a strategy for meeting the needs of the chronically ill. This program provides seed money to fund partnerships between interfaith coalitions and other community organizations, such as Area Agencies on Aging, senior centers, and hospitals. All of these organizations share a common goal—to provide volunteer care to their neighbors in need.

These groups provide a variety of services, including organizing outreach to the homebound; training group leaders who oversee outreach ministries; locating homebound people who have lost touch with their communities; recruiting volunteers from church congregations and communities; connecting with local medical and social services; and providing emotional support services to community members.

The efforts of this dedicated group have brought much-needed support back into our Arkansas communities and are changing the lives of thousands of Arkansans. We are eternally grateful to leaders like Bishop Kenneth W. Hicks of United Methodist Church and Mr. Will Dublin, who have made a tremendous commitment to fostering and sustaining Faith In Action programs in Arkansas.

Next week, these men and many other Arkansas community leaders and volunteers will join me in Little Rock for a special event entitled ''Caring Across the Continuum,'' where we will consider new strategies to promote and encourage volunteer services to assist the aging. With their contributions and energy, I believe we can make a real difference in the quality of care we extend to our state's population of seniors.

I commend these volunteers for their efforts, and I encourage them to continue setting the example for us as we seek legislative remedies for our nation's needs. If there is one thing I have come to appreciate about public policy and planning, it is that we are incapable of paying for everything that we need as a nation. Nor should we expect to do so.

Volunteers play a vital role in filling the gaps in our health care and social services systems. The mere act of volunteering encourages us to look outside ourselves, which in turn nurtures the growth of caring communities. Let's encourage the rest of our nation to consider such efforts as we look to the future and seek to re-weave the moral fabric of our country with the qualities of volunteerism.●

TRIBUTE TO ROBERT H. FOSTER, PUBLISHER AND MODEL CITIZEN

● Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to Robert H. Foster of Dover, NH, publisher of the distinguished New Hampshire newspapers Foster's Daily Democrat and the Laconia Citizen, and a number of other papers, in honor of his 80th birthday which he celebrated on May 17. The newspaper is the longest continually managed and owned periodical by direct descendants of its founder with the family name in its banner.

I have known Bob for nearly 20 years. He is man of impeccable character, commitment to his community, and devotion to his family. His dedication to journalistic excellence has won him the respect of many politicians in the Granite State, no matter what philosophy or party affiliation. Robert Foster is known for his fairness, and for impressing upon his writers and editors that ''integrity matters.''

Robert and his wife, Terri, have been the driving force behind the success of the newspaper. Foster's Daily Democrat is rich in history dating back to the founding father of the newspaper, Joshua Lane Foster. On June 18, 1873, Joshua published the first edition of the Dover area newspaper. Robert assumed ownership of the newspaper upon the death of his father, Frederick Foster, on November 7, 1956. Robert has worked diligently to ensure that the newspaper continually maintains a standard of professionalism.

Today, as in 1873, Robert understands the importance of keeping the citizens of his community abreast of information which affects the quality of life in the Seacoast and the Lakes Region. Robert and Foster's Daily Democrat are a mainstay in the community, providing the latest news and information to their readers.

As members of the greater Dover community, Robert and Terri have been generous benefactors. Among other accolades, they have been honored as ''Citizens of the Year'' in Dover.

Robert, a World War II and Korean conflict veteran, has also served on the Board of Governors with the New England Newspaper Association and is a former Trustee at the University of New Hampshire.

Bob and Terri have three children: Catherine Hayward, Patrice Foster and Robert F. Foster. They are also proud grandparents of Catherine and Gregg Hayward and Samuel and Joshua Foster.

I commend Robert Foster for his numerous contributions to his community and our state. He is an exemplary leader who has gained the respect of those who know him. It is an honor and a privilege to represent him in the U.S. Senate, and I am proud to call him my friend. ●

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION AWARDS

● Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate Susan Dollenmaier of Tunbridge who was chosen as the Vermont Small Business Person of the Year. She has shown extraordinary innovation and vision in building a successful business in Vermont.

Ms. Dollenmaier is the president and co-founder of Anichini Inc., an importing and manufacturing company that designs, wholesales, and retails linens and textiles from Italy, India, the Far East, and Eastern Europe. Anichini also has a furniture division and a line of products for infants. A former social worker for the state of Vermont, Dollenmaier and her ex-business partner, Patrizia Anichini, launched the company about 20 years ago with only a $600 investment. This year, sales of Anichini's linens are expected to top $10 million. Besides its outlet store in West Lebanon, New Hampshire—a site she hopes to move to the Vermont side of the Connecticut River very soon—and a new one slated to open in Manchester, Vermont, Anichini operates retail stores in Beverly Hills and Dallas, along with a boutique in New York City. Susan makes sure that some of the cash flow from her wealthy and demanding clientele finances flex time, day care stipends, generous vacations and holidays, a profit-sharing plan and other benefits—as well as better-than-average wages—for her largely female work force of 45 employees. We are very happy Susan chose to start and maintain her business in Vermont.

I commend Susan and all of her employees for receipt of this prestigious award.

I ask that a copy of an April 15, 2001, article in the Valley News outlining Ms. Dollenmaier's achievements be printed in the RECORD.

The article follows:

SBA HONORS TURNBRIDGE'S ANICHINI INC.

(By Bob Piasecki)

TURNBRIDGE.—Most people drive right past the yellow farmhouse off Route 110 that contains Anichini Inc.'s offices, and that's just fine with Susan Dollenmaier.

Dollenmaier, president and co-founder of Anichini, the importer, manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer of linens and textiles for the rich and famous, prefers to keep a low profile.

That explains why there isn't a sign outside Anichini's headquarters or its warehouse farther down the road—and why there never will be, as long as Dollenmaier is running the company.

''I'm not into being a celebrity,'' says Dollenmaier, dressed casually in black leggings and a gray cable-knit sweater. ''I just want us to get recognition because of our products.''

That won't be possible for much longer because Dollenmaier was just named Vermont's Small Businessperson of the Year by the state's Small Business Administration.

Some of Dollenmaier's employees went ahead and nominated their boss for the prestigious award without telling her, and she ended up winning.

The selection put Dollenmaier in the running for being named the national Small Business Person of the Year award, which will be announced next month in Washington D.C.

The SBA singled out Dollenmaier and Anichin for ''seamlessly blending economic success with socially conscious business practices.''

Deborah Mathews, who has worked with Dollenmaier virtually since the day Anichini was launched, said she was willing to reduce her salary and make other painful cuts when times were tough.

''Susan's focus on the needs of her staff and the community in which she lives and works made her an ideal recipient for this honor,'' added Matthews.

''Susan has a profound gift for recognizing hidden potential, and she knows how to bring it out in the open,'' said Kenneth Silvia, director of the SBA's office in Vermont. ''It's manifest not only in her choice of Anichini's product line, but in the people who work at the company—the majority of whom are Vermonters.''

A former social worker for the state of Vermont, Dollenmaier and her ex-partner, Patrizia Anichini, launched the company about 20 years ago with a paltry $600 investment. This year, sales of Anichini's linens are expected to top $10 million.

Besides it outlet store in the Powerhouse Mall in West Lebanon, and a new one slated to open this summer in Manchester, Vt, Anichini operates retail stores in Beverly Hills and Dallas, along with a boutique in New York City. Its regular clientele includes celebrities such as Oprah Winfrey, Sharon Stone and Tom Cruise.

Not bad for the daughter of an electrical salesman who grew up in Libertyville, Ill., a small agricultural town 45 miles northwest of Chicago.

Dollenmaier said she always had a thing for beautiful textiles, but doesn't quite know where that fascination came from. ''That's something to figure out with a therapist,'' she jokes. But she suspects it probably has something to do with her grandmother, a dressmaker who also made her own quilts.

She sewed her own clothes as a teenager, and began collecting antique fabrics of all styles and types, never thinking it was ever going to turn into a business.

After graduating from Southern Illinois University, where she earned a degree in design and studied under R. Buckminster Fuller—the inventor of the geodesic dome—Dollenmaier bounced around for a while.

Her life changed in the early 1970s, when she came to south Royalton from Los Angeles to visit her sister, whose husband was attending Vermont Law School at the time, and fell in love with the area.

''It was spring. It was so green and there was so much water,'' Dollenmaier recalled, sitting at an enormous wooden table in Anichini's spacious conference room.

''It was so refreshing, I turned to my sister and said, 'this has got to be one of the most beautiful places in the world,' and essentially I never left after that.''

She got a job as a social worker for the state of Vermont, and helped set up several programs including Meals on Wheels in Tunbridge and many of the other towns along the First Branch of the White River. At the same time, Dollenmaier continued to go to tag sales, flea markets and estate sales, collecting antique fabrics for her burgeoning collection. After she sold part of her cache in New York City, Dollenmaier decided it was time for a major life change.

''It finally dawned on me that I wanted more challenges, and that I was headed toward running some government program in Washington, D.C., if I continued to be a social worker,'' she says.

So she quit after seven years, and with her partner, rented a loft in Manhattan on 20th Street. ''We lived there hand-to-mouth,'' she said buying, selling and swapping antique linens.

She remembers driving an old, unheated bread truck filled with their wares back and forth from New York and Vermont, where she also kept an apartment in Tunbridge. The duo got their first big break when Barney's, the upscale New York department store, agreed to sell some of their material in its home furnishings store, which was just opening.

During a trip to Venice with her husband, glassblower Robin Mix, Dollenmaier got the idea of making and selling new, heirloom quality textiles, which is essentially what Anichini does today.

''In Italy I found women who were still making the same kind of textiles I was buying and selling,'' she says. ''That's really where the seed of the business was formed.''

Soon after that, Anichini caught another break when one of Italy's premier textile weavers took a chance on the fledgling company and agreed to give it $50,000 worth of materials on consignment.

The business sold all $50,000, and was on its way. It grossed $100,000 in its first year, and has continued to expand and grow. Dollenmaier and Anichini eventually sold their loft in New York, and used the proceeds to buy the buildings the company still owns in Tunbridge.

The partners went their separate ways a few years ago, when Dollenmaier bought out Anichini's share in the business.

Today, Anichini has a furniture division, a line of products for infants and is widening its scope to include fabrics and designs from India, the Far East, Eastern Europe and other countries. It no longer bills itself as simply an purveyor of Italian, Dollenmaier says.

The company recently worked out an agreement with a weaver in India who is trying to keep some of the country's old techniques alive.

Dollenmaier acknowledges that the 2,000 or so women who make textiles for Anichini in India are, at least by Western standards, poor. Asked how this squares with Anichini's Ben & Jerry's-style commitment to social responsibility, Dollenmaier says she has thought deeply about this question.

''I guess I'd say they've got to be working doing something, and they are making a lot more money making stuff for us as opposed to someone else.''

One thing is certain, Anichini's 60 employees in the United States are treated quite well. The company provides profit sharing, which has averaged more than 10 percent of the employee's salary over the past five years, 11 paid holidays, five weeks vacation after five years of service, and paid membership in gym.

Dollenmaier hopes to eventually move Anichini's outlet store in West Lebanon across the river to the Route 4 corridor in Vermont. Long-range, she also plans to consolidate all of Anichini's operations in a new facility in Tunbridge that will be even harder to find than its existing buildings.

Looking back on her life and how she has parlayed a hobby and passion into a highly successful business, Dollenmaier says: ''I'm really doing exactly what I want. I really have very few regrets.''●

TRIBUTE TO MAJOR GENERAL MICHAEL W. DAVIDSON

● Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, today I rise to pay tribute to a great American, Major General Michael W. Davidson for his 32 years of meritorious service to our Nation. On June 16, 2001, Major General Davidson will retire from the service, and I know my colleagues join me in expressing our gratitude for his many contributions.

Major General Davidson began his career as an enlisted member of the Army 32 years ago. Since that beginning, he served his Nation in the Active Duty Army, U.S. Army Reserve, and the Army National Guard. His diligence and commitment to the United States Army did not go unnoticed, he was eventually promoted to the rank of two-star General Officer. In this capacity, General Davidson served a three year term as the first ever Assistant to the Chief Joint Chiefs of Staff for National Guard Matters.

During his tenure as Assistant to the Chief Joint Chiefs of Staff for National Guard Matters, Major General Davidson provided considerable insight and made lasting contributions regarding the integration of the Nation's Reserve Component forces into the planning and strategies of the United States Armed Forces. Major General Davidson's comprehensive knowledge of the Reserve Component and its capabilities as well as insightful analysis of our national security concerns were invaluable assets and set the tone for this new position. I am confident that all who follow Major General Davidson will benefit tremendously from his example.

Perhaps even more than his distinguished service, Major General Davidson is justifiably proud of his loving family. He and his wife Jo Ann have three children, twins Megan and Claire, both 22, and Brian, age 15. General Davidson and his family make their home in my hometown of Louisville, KY. Although he lives and was educated in Louisville, Major General Davidson's true allegiance is a few miles down the road in Lexington, or perhaps more specifically, Rupp Arena. Like so many others in the Bluegrass, The General is a huge supporter and fan of Kentucky Wildcat Basketball and I can hope that the next phase of his life will afford him many opportunities to enjoy the Wildcats in person.

In addition to catching as many Big Blue games as possible, Major General Davidson plans to busy himself with consultation work and teaching at the college level. Clearly, his commitment to service will endure.

Michael Davidson's time in uniform may be drawing to a close, however his record of dedicated service will continue for many years to come. On behalf of this body, I thank him for his dedication and contributions to this nation, and sincerely wish him and the entire Davidson family the very best in his retirement.●

NORTHWEST GEORGIA GIRL SCOUT GOLD AWARD WINNERS

● Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I am proud to announce that 53 girls from Northwest Georgia have achieved the Girl Scout Gold Award for the year 2001. The Gold Award is the highest honor a Girl Scout can accomplish, and each girl has endured a rigorous process during the last three years of the Scouting program.

The many lessons learned through the Girl Scout program will serve each girl well in the years to come. Setting and accomplishing goals, becoming effective leaders, and making a commitment to help others are among the many experiences each girl has had that set them apart from their peers. The special skills that the girls developed will be a tremendous asset to them as they finish their education and progress onto greater experiences.

Over the previous 3 years, each girl has illustrated tremendous dedication, effort, and hard work to achieve this prestigious award. However their success could not have been achieved without the support and encouragement of their family, friends, teachers, and troop leaders. On the quest for the Gold Award, each girl has endured challenges and hardships that would not have been overcome without the assistance of their community. As we recognize the achievement of these 53 girls, let us not forget to acknowledge the sacrifice that each family went through to help them reach their goal.

DOUGLASS W. COOPER—OHIO TEACHER OF THE YEAR

● Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, as we continue to debate the education reform legislation and the importance of teachers, in particular, I would like to recognize and congratulate an outstanding teacher from my home state, Mr. Douglass W. Cooper, who has been named the Ohio Teacher of the Year for 2001.

Nothing is as important to our children's education than the quality of their teachers. My own high school principal, Mr. Malone, once told me that when it comes to education in our schools, only two things really matter, a student who wants to learn and a teacher who can teach. Mr. Malone was right 35 years ago, and he's still right today!

A good teacher has the power to fundamentally change the course of a child's life. I'm sure that each of us can recall at least one great teacher who inspired us, or motivated us and changed our lives. These teachers guided us then and continue to influence us today.

Douglass Cooper is one of those teachers. He is the kind of teacher who has a life-lasting impact on his students. And, as Ohio Teacher of the Year, Mr. Cooper is being recognized for this and for his outstanding dedication and leadership in the classroom, school, and community.

Mr. Cooper, who received both a bachelor's and a master's degree from Wright State University, is currently a social studies teacher in Clinton County, Ohio, and has been teaching in the Wilmington School System for the last ten years. He serves as the chair of the social studies department at Wilmington High School. Mr. Cooper is a member of the Wilmington Local Professional Development Committee and serves his school as a mentor for entry-year teachers. He is a National Board Certified teacher and received the Ohio Governor's Educational Leadership Award in 1999.

Additionally, Mr. Cooper has spent much of his free time volunteering in his community. He is involved in the Clinton County Kids Voting Steering Committee and serves as Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 909.

I commend Douglass Cooper for his exceptional service and his unending dedication to his students and community. He is a great role model for our young people in school, as well as for his colleagues in the teaching profession. Ohio is honored to have him as a representative this year for teachers all over our State.●

IN CELEBRATION OF SANTA CLARA UNIVERSITY'S 150TH ANNIVERSARY

● Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I would like to take this opportunity to share with the Senate my thoughts on the 150th Anniversary of Santa Clara University.

Santa Clara University, located in the heart of California's Silicon Valley, became California's first school of higher learning in 1851. The college is celebrating its sesquicentennial this year on the same Santa Clara Valley campus it has occupied continuously since its founding. At the center of campus is the beautiful Mission Santa Clara de Asis, the eighth of the original 21 California missions.

Santa Clara University brings the intellectual rigor, respect for scholarship, and spiritual vision of its Jesuit founders to students of all backgrounds and beliefs. In the fall of 1961, women were accepted as undergraduates and Santa Clara University became the first coeducational Catholic University in California. The college is committed to the diversity that distinguishes California and the United States throughout the world and its student body includes more than 35 percent minority group members.

Santa Clara University's unique community events, undergraduate and nationally recognized graduate programs greatly inform and enrich communities in the Silicon Valley and the State of California. The sesquicentennial of Santa Clara University is a time for celebration by us all. ●

TRIBUTE TO WILLIAM HAZELETT

● Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate William Hazelett of Colchester who was chosen as the United States Small Business Administration National Exporter of the Year. Bill has shown extraordinary innovation and vision in building a very successful business in Vermont.

Bill Hazelett and his wife Dawn are old friends of mine and Marcelle's. Bill is the president of Hazelett Strip-Casting Corp., a manufacturing firm that designs and makes continuous metal casting machines designed to produce long sheets of metal and wire for everything from pennies to aluminum siding to automobile bodies. Hazelett Strip-Casting now employs 145 people. Foreign business accounts for 70 percent of its $23 million in annual sales, and Hazelett Strip-Casting has clients all around the world, including much of Europe, Canada, Indonesia, Japan, China, Saudi Arabia, Brazil and Chile. Bill moved his company to Vermont from Connecticut in 1957 because, as he says, ''I wanted to ski.'' We are very happy he came and decided to stay.

I commend Bill and Dawn for receipt of this prestigious award.

I ask that a copy of a May 9, 2001, article in the Burlington Free Press outlining Bill Hazelett's achievements be printed in the RECORD.

The article follows:

COLCHESTER MAN NAMED SBA'S NATIONAL EXPORTER OF THE YEAR

R. William Hazelett of Colchester on Tuesday received the U.S. Small Business Administration's National Exporter of the Year award from President George W. Bush in a White House ceremony. Hazelett, 82, president of Hazelett Strip-Casting Corp., was honored for building a manufacturing firm for which foreign business accounts for 70 percent of its $23 million in annual sales.

Hazelett had a simple reason for the recognition. ''We have a technology that is superior to any other technology in fabricating sheet metal,'' he said. ''My business was selected (for the award) as being very, very good at creating exporting business for the United States.'' The company designs and makes continuous metal casting machines, behemoths designed to produce long sheets of metal and wire that can weigh as much as 120 tons and cost $15 million. The machines produce sheet metal for everything from pennies to aluminum siding to auto bodies, Hazelett said.

Clients are scattered all over the world, including much of Europe, Canada, Indonesia, Japan, China, Saudi Arabia, Brazil and Chile, he said. Earlier this year, a Hazelett representative was part of the trade mission that traveled to Argentina with Gov. Howard Dean. Though no sale was made on the trip, it started a process that will lead to a sale, Hazelett said. ''You don't sell one of these machines overnight because a machine might cost $15 million,'' he said. ''You've got a whole plant that might cost $150 million that they go into. It's a very long-term consideration.'' Hazelett was confident a deal would be signed. ''We will get the business because we are the best in the world,'' he said.

Hazelett, which does all of its engineering and manufacturing in Vermont, employs 145 people. The company moved here in 1957 from Connecticut because, Hazelett said, ''I wanted to ski.''

In naming Hazelett for the honor, the SBA noted his company's ''stellar success in export marketing.'' ''Bill Hazelett's contribution to Vermont's stature as a world-class exporter center is absolutely outstanding,'' said Kenneth Silver, director of the SBA's Vermont district office.●

S. 924. A bill to provide reliable officers, technology, education, community prosecutors, and training in our neighborhoods; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, authority for the community policing program has expired, and I rise today to introduce legislation to extend that hugely successful program for another six years.

We created this program in 1994 as part of that year's crime bill. The COPS program has worked better than any of us could have hoped. Crime has gone down every year since the program has been in existence. We have invested over $7.5 billion to make our streets safer. 115,000 officers will be funded by the end of this fiscal year. 73,600 of those officers are on the beat today, over 200 of them in my own state of Delaware. Grants have been issued to more than 12,400 law enforcement agencies. Big cities and small towns have benefitted, and more than 82 percent of all COPS grants have gone to departments serving populations of 50,000 or less.

Community policing methods are taking hold across the country. A recent Justice Department study revealed that the number of community police officers nationwide increased by 400 percent between 1997 and 1999. Schools are benefitting: by the end of this fiscal year COPS will have funded almost 5,000 school resource officers. These are specially trained officers who work in schools to prevent crimes before they occur, mentor students, and assist school administrators in creating a safe learning environment. Since COPS started funding school resource officers, their numbers across the country have shot up more than 40 percent.

When we passed the crime bill in 1994, we set a goal of funding 100,000 officers by 2000. That goal has been met. But the need for more officers, for technology to help those officers do their job more efficiently, and for more prosecutors so the cases investigated by the police can effectively be brought, continues unabated. The Justice Department reports that in the last two fiscal years, demand for new police hiring grants has outstripped available funds by a factor of almost three to one. To meet this need, the legislation I introduce today authorizes $600 million per year over the next 6 years, enough to hire up to 50,00 more officer. We have made this portion of the program more flexible: up to half of these hiring dollars can be use to help police departments retain those community police officers currently on payroll. In another change from current law, portion of these funds can be used for officer training and education.

The legislation also provides funding for new technologies, so law enforcement can have access to the latest high-tech crime fighting equipment to keep pace with today's sophisticated criminals. Also included are funds to help local district attorneys hire more community prosecutors. These prosecutors will expand the community justice concept and engage the entire community in preventing and fighting crime. The statistics we have on community prosecutions are quite promising, and we should increase the funds available to local prosecutors, a piece of our criminal justice puzzle that has too often gone overlooked.

We need to pass this bill. Already the administration has announced its intention to end the police hiring program, to dramatically scale back the community prosecution program, and to cut other critical state and local law enforcement programs. That is not the right approach. Crime is down, but it will not stay down. Preliminary FBI crime reports for 2000 indicate that we may be reaching the end of our eight straight years of decreasing crime. Last December, the FBI reported that crime was down in most big cities, but up in cities of less than 50,000 people. It was up 1.2 percent in the South, the nation's most populous region. Several of our largest cities have reported increases in their murder rates. Crime will not stay down, unless we dedicate the resources necessary for state and local law enforcement to do their job effectively.

This bill has the support of every major law enforcement organization in the country. Fifty senators are original cosponsors of the legislation, including five Republicans. I want to pay a special tribute to my friends on the other side of the aisle and thank them for listening to their mayors, police chiefs, and officers who told them this is the right thing to do. We should not play politics with public safety, and I hope we can pursue common-sense crime-fighting proposals without regard to party.

I would like to thank the men and women of law enforcement for their service and heroism in bringing about the longest lasting decrease in crime in this nation's history. Let's build on that success, and let's continue to give them the support they deserve, by reauthorizing the COPS program.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill, as well as several letters supporting its introduction, be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

POLICE EXECUTIVE RESEARCH FORUM,
Washington, DC, May 17, 2001.

Hon. JOSEPH BIDEN, JR.,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR JOE: On behalf of the members of the Police Executive Research Forum (PERF), a national organization of police professionals who serve more than 50 percent of our nation's population, I wish to express our continued support of your plans to adequately fund and reauthorize the COPS Office and its many critical programs.

The COPS program has been a highly successful crime-fighting initiative. The vast majority of COPS grant recipients have put those funds to unprecedented good use. With COPS funding, PERF members have hired more officers, purchased critical technology, implemented innovative problem-solving programs, and received valuable training and technical assistance, all of which have played an important role in advancing community policing across the country. But the COPS Office's work is far from over.

Providing the citizens in our jurisdictions with safe communities requires resources beyond local reach. The COPS program's sole mission is to respond to the needs of local law enforcement and it has delivered much-needed resources in the fight against crime. Through this partnership with the federal government, we have made tremendous advances in community policing. We have always called for multi-year reauthorization and full funding for this critical program.

PERF would welcome the opportunity to work with you to increase the flexibility of COPS hiring funds and otherwise ensure the COPS programs' long-term success. We thank you for your tireless support of law enforcement.

Sincerely,

CHUCK WEXLER,
Executive Director.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF POLICE ORGANIZATIONS, INC.,
Washington, DC, May 3, 2001.

Hon. JOSEPH R. BIDEN, JR.,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR JOE: Please be advised that the National Association of Police Organizations (NAPO) will be strongly supporting your reintroduction of S. 1760, the ''PROTECTION Act.'' NAPO, representing 4,000 unions and associations and 230,000 sworn law enforcement officers, truly appreciates your effort to reauthorize and continue the success of the COPS program.

As you know, NAPO strongly supported the passage of the 1994 Crime bill creating the COPS program. Since its inception the COPS program has funded grants for over 110,000 community police officers. Most law enforcement officials and the public recognize the benefits of putting more cops on the street. The steady decline of violent crime over the last few years is evidence of the success of this program.

We support your legislation that will extend the COPS program for another six years and put up to 50,000 more police officers on our streets and in our neighborhoods to continue the success of community policing. We also strongly support the funding of educational scholarships for active law enforcement officers and new technology to help fight crime.

NAPO is cognizant of the fact that we must not become complacent with our past success. There is still a lot of work to be done and we will continue to fight with you for the resources needed to serve our communities adequately. NAPO's position is that the declining crime rate is not an excuse to disband the COPS program, but an opportunity to hire more officers to further fight and decrease violent crime that still permeates many of America's communities.

If I can be of assistance on this or any other matter, please have your staff contact me at (202) 842–4420.

Sincerely,

ROBERT T. SCULLY,
Executive Director.

INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF POLICE OFFICERS,
Alexandria, VA, May 4, 2001.

Hon. JOE BIDEN,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR BIDEN: On behalf of the entire membership of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers (IBPO), I want to thank you for introducing legislation to reauthorize the Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) program.

As the author of the 1994 Crime Bill you understand the significance of the COPS program. Every crime statistic available shows that America is a safer place to live since we implemented the COPS program. The COPS program enables communities to combat crime in the most effective way possible—by putting more officers on the street.

I understand that they are opponents to the COPS program. I urge them to talk to police officers in their states. The IBPO believes that public safety is far too important to be caught up in political debate. It would be a tragedy to cut back on any efforts to fight crime at this critical juncture.

As the largest police union in the AFL–CIO, we have first hand knowledge of what a success the COPS program is. We look forward to working with you on this most important piece of legislation.

Sincerely,

KENNETH T. LYONS,
National President.

NATIONAL SHERIFFS' ASSOCIATION,
Alexandria, VA, May 21, 2001.

Hon. JOSEPH BIDEN,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR BIDEN: I am writing to you regarding the Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) program and your bill, the Protection Act. We at the National Sheriffs' Association (NSA) support COPS and we appreciate the commitment made to law enforcement by Congress.

As you may know, sheriffs around the nation depend on the COPS program to supplement their law enforcement capabilities. Sheriffs need the additional funding provided so that they can better protect and serve their communities. The COPS program has been an overwhelming success and has had a tangible and positive impact on crime reduction. Nearly two-thirds of the sheriffs offices in the Nation have benefited from grant funding from this program and the added funding has made a significant difference in how we enforce the law. A sheriff with a COPS grant can fight and control crime while a sheriff without a grant is at the mercy of the criminal. With the added capability that a COPS grant provides, we have reduced crime, streets are safer and honest law-abiding people feel secure in their communities.

NSA supports a flexible COPS program that allows sheriffs to determine their own needs and apply for funds accordingly. Sheriffs have overwhelming technology needs that can be addressed through the COPS technology grant programs. These programs have helped sheriffs purchase state-of-the-art computer technology and communications equipment. In this information age, it is more important than ever that we strive to achieve telecommunications and systems compatibility among criminal justice agencies, improve our forensic sciences capability at the state and local level and encourage the use of technologies to predict and prevent crime. All of these will give law enforcement the advantage over criminals. The total package of law enforcement support that COPS provides is an integral part of crime control in America.

In our view, COPS is a program that is vital to effective law enforcement and to sheriffs in both rural and urban jurisdictions. Without COPS, I firmly believe our communities would be a little less safe and a little more dangerous. Thank you again for your commitment to reducing crime. Know that NSA will do our part in the fight against crime and given the proper resources, we can truly make a difference.

Sincerely,

JERRY ''PEANUTS'' GAINES,
President.

By Mr. WELLSTONE:

S. 925. A bill to amend the title XVIII of the Social Security Act to provide a prescription benefit program for all medicare beneficiaries; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I rise to introduce long overdue legislation that will bring affordable prescription drugs to all Medicare beneficiaries. This legislation is the Medicare Extension of Drugs to Seniors, MEDS, Act of 2001.

For a good period of the time that I have been a Senator, the Federal Government has operated with budget deficits. The goal during that period was deficit reduction, while protecting the programs that are important for people. I had hoped that when the economy began to do better, and we began to see surpluses, that finally, as a Senator from Minnesota, I would be able to do really well for people. It would not just be stopping the worst, it would be doing the better.

Unfortunately, what we have this year in Washington instead is a choice. Either you are in favor of Robin-Hood-in-reverse tax cuts, with as much as 40 percent of the benefits going to the top 1 percent of earners. Or you are in favor of making an investment above and beyond reducing the debt and protecting Social Security and Medicare. I am one who favors making investments in people, for making sure that there is opportunity for all, quality education for all our children and young people, quality and affordable housing, that we honor our commitments to our veterans, that we reform mental health and achieve parity for mental health and addiction treatment services, that we help women out of domestic violence. And that we make sure that the senior citizens who built this country are able to afford prescription drugs.

Everyone in Congress knows there is a need for more affordable prescription drugs. Everyone in Congress knows that the surplus is large enough to afford both a fair tax cut and better prescription drug coverage for seniors. The surplus is largely thanks to sound budget decisions made in the early 1990s, which promoted economic growth and greatly expanded tax revenues. Those surpluses now make it not only possible, but imperative that we address the prescription drug cost crisis. We must remember that Congress also made mistakes during the 1990s. The Balanced Budget Act of 1997 brought cuts in Medicare spending, cuts that I opposed and that will total over $600 billion. It is only fair, now that there is a surplus, to return those cuts in health care spending back into the health care system where there is need. And I don't have to tell colleagues about the need. We all know it from our own families and our constituents.

When Medicare was first enacted in 1965 the program ''mimicked'' typical private insurance which often did not include outpatient prescription drugs. Times have changed, but in that regard Medicare has not. Virtually all employment based insurance now includes outpatient prescription drug coverage. Fully 99 percent of state and local government employees have this coverage. The federal employees program requires all plans to cover out patient prescription drugs, and Medicaid in every state does the same. Its time to bring Medicare up to date with a prescription drug plan available to all beneficiaries.

You don't have to tell people that prescription drugs are the largest out-of-pocket health care cost for seniors. They know. Over 85 percent of Medicare beneficiaries take at least one prescription medicine, and the average senior citizen fills eighteen prescriptions per year. Nationally, more than half of the cost of these drugs comes directly out of seniors' pockets. In Minnesota the number is even higher. Seniors who cannot afford drug coverage often do not take the drugs their doctors prescribe. One of every eight senior citizens at some time is forced to choose between buying food and buying medicine. That's not right.

Charles Van Guilder, a Minnesota senior, was faced with the devastating option of having to divorce his wife in order to protect their assets which might be stripped away by high-rising Medicare HMO costs. Struggling with Parkinson's Disease, she was faced with an $850 monthly charge for prescription drugs and home health premiums.

Rose Grigsby was faced with a choice of living in Arizona where because of disparities in Medicare + Choice reimbursements she payed $17.50 a month for her healthcare including prescription drugs and even a health club membership and moving back home to Minnesota where she would have to pay $270 a month for 80 percent drug coverage. Despite wanting to be with family, she couldn't afford to move. Where's the fairness in that? It is time we add prescription drug coverage to Medicare so it is available on an equal basis to every senior in every state.

The drug industry America's most profitable has never wanted a prescription drug benefit included in Medicare.

The industry is interested in protecting its very large profits. The most recent annual Fortune 500 report on American business showed once again as it has in each of the last 19 years that the pharmaceutical industry ranks first in profits. In the words of the editors of Fortune Magazine, ''Whether you gauge profitability by median return on revenues, assets or equity, pharmaceuticals had a Viagra kind of year.''

Where the average Fortune 500 industry in the United States returned 5 percent profits as a percentage of revenue, the pharmaceutical industry returned 18.6 percent. Where the average Fortune 500 industry returned 3.8 percent profits as a percentage of their assets, the pharmaceutical industry returned 16.5 percent. Where the average Fortune 500 industry returned 15 percent profits as a percentage of shareholders equity, the pharmaceutical industry returned 36 percent.

The richest pharmaceutical company, Merck, pulled in nearly $6 billion in profits, more than the entire Fortune 500 airline industry and registered twice the profits of the engineering construction industry. The 12 major companies of the pharmaceutical industry made $10 Billion more in total profits than the 24 companies of the motor vehicle and parts industry, including Ford, GM and others.

Those record profits are no surprise to America's senior citizens. Medicare beneficiaries without prescription drug coverage are being gouged every day of the week by a pharmaceutical industry that charges higher prices in the United States than in any other country of the world. So, America's seniors know where those record profits come from—they come from their own pocketbooks.

Year after year, the pharmaceutical industry rakes in record profits, much at the expense of America's most vulnerable citizens: the elderly, frail and ill. The high price of drugs forces seniors to chose between food and life preserving medications. Last year, when a Medicare prescription drug benefit available to all Senior Citizens seemed within reach, the pharmaceutical industry dipped into its coffers and forked over millions of dollars to fund a stealth campaign to defeat any such proposal.

Nowhere in its campaign against a Medicare prescription drug benefit did the pharmaceutical industry tell people that it was the prescription-drug companies that were paying for the campaign. The industry's front organization is called Citizens for Better Medicare. That is like Foxes for Better Chickens. A more accurate description would be Pharmaceutical Companies for Higher Profits. But drug companies would rather hide behind a false shield, count their profits and count the ways they can continue to extract high profits from the American public, especially from the elderly.

Indeed, according to a report from the Boston University School of Public Health, the pharmaceutical industry has encouraged the spread of seven interlocking myths that have ''permeated, paralyzed and poisoned'' public discourse of prescription drug policy. Let me just share 2 of those myths:

Myth #1: High prices and profits are bestowed on the drug industry by a legitimate and bountiful free market. In reality, little of a free market is present in the world of patented prescription drugs. Today's prices and profits are therefore not justified by a legitimate free market.

Myth #2: If government interferes with today's high price and profits, ''The lights go out in the labs, and there is no R&D,'' according to PhRMA, the drug industry's lobbying arm. As the Boston University researchers noted, that is like saying ''give us all of your money or we'll let you die.'' The researchers call that PhRMA's Fog of Fear. But the reality is the drug makers' profit-maximization is not to increase research. The facts are: Analysis of 1999 data shows that the six major drug makers spent 11 percent of their revenue on research and development, while 16 percent went to profits and 31 percent went to marketing and administration. These data closely parallel those collected in earlier years. Looking at the main task of drug company employees, as of June 1998: Fully 35 percent of drug makers' employees were engaged in marketing, with an additional 13 percent in administration. Producing and developing drugs each occupied only about one-quarter of employees. Looking at changes in employment of PhRMA members, from 1995 to 1999: The number of production workers fell, research workers rose slightly, while marketing employment rose by one-third.

The fact is there is plenty of room for the pharmaceutical industry to make a good profit without gouging the American consumer.

The fact also is that with each passing year, the need for Medicare prescription drug coverage has become more acute. The reasons are well known.

First, the cost of prescription drugs has skyrocketed in recent years. Direct to consumer advertising has increased demand, and drug companies have responded by raising prices and putting life saving drugs even further out of reach of the average senior citizen. Last year alone drug prices increased an estimated 17 percent. And there is no relief in sight. This year drug costs will increase another 18 percent.

Second, these increases hit seniors disproportionately: A 1998 study by the minority staff of the House Government Reform Committee found that older Americans without prescription drug insurance pay on average twice as much as the discounted prices drug companies offer large scale purchasers like HMOs and government agencies. The PRIME Institute, headed by Steve Schondelmeyer, at the University of Minnesota found what Minnesota seniors already know, that pharmaceutical prices overseas are far less then we pay in the United States. Statistics say that for every dollar we spend in the United States, Canadians spend on average just 64 cents; Italians spend just 51 cents; the English 65 cents and Swedes 68 cents. They say statistics often lie. Well, from what I have seen and heard, the drugs seniors need most are even more expensive in the United States than those statistics tell us. Even more astounding than the average figures are some specific comparisons: Synthroid for thyroid disease costs seniors 14 times the discounted price to favored customers; and Micronase for diabetes costs over 3½ times as much. So not only are seniors forced the pay out of pocket for these drugs, but the price they are charged is a national disgrace.

Furthermore, prescription drug spending accounts for 19 percent of the out of pocket costs for senior citizens and is the largest spending category after premium payments. Beneficiaries were projected to spend an average of $480 out-of-pocket on prescription drugs in 2000. Average out-of-pocket prescription drug spending is even higher for beneficiaries in poor health, $685, those without drug coverage, $715, and those who are severely limited in their activities of daily living, $725.

The high cost of drugs puts Americans in all income groups at risk. Of those seniors with incomes below 250 percent of poverty about 38 percent, 7.6 million, lack Rx drug coverage. Of those with higher incomes 28 percent, 5.4 million, have no drug coverage.

The increase in drugs cost and utilization is far outpacing the overall increase in the cost of living. A national study by Brandeis University and PCS Health Systems published in May 2000 found that prescription drug expenditure trends were even higher than previously estimated. They found that: Prescription drug costs grew at an annual rate of 24.8 percent per year from 1996 to 1999. Prescriptions per enrollee grew 14 percent per year. And not surprisingly, the number of prescriptions per person is rising fastest in the 65+ age group, from an average of 16 prescriptions in 1996 to an average of 23 by 1999.

Rural Americans are hardest hit of all. In June 2000 the National Economic Council published a report on prescription drug coverage for rural Medicare beneficiaries. Among its findings: Rural beneficiaries are over 60 percent more likely to fail to get needed prescription drugs due to cost. A greater proportion of rural elderly spend a greater percent of their income on prescription drugs. Rural beneficiaries use nearly 10 percent more prescriptions. Rural beneficiaries pay over 25 percent more out-of-pocket for prescription drugs than urban beneficiaries but they are 50 percent less likely to have any prescription drug coverage.

For Minnesotans, the lack of a Medicare prescription drug benefit hits especially hard because there are few alternatives. Only 19 percent of Minnesota firms offer retiree health insurance and the number has been dropping. Medicare's HMO reimbursement in Minnesota is so low that no basic Medicare Managed Care Plans can include Rx Drug coverage. Even with the increased Medicare + Choice capitation payment floor we voted in last year, it is not enough for these plans to offer prescription drug coverage. When a comprehensive benefit without a cap is available, the costs become prohibitive—up to $130 per month, just for the pharmacy benefit. The cost of prescription drug coverage under the average Medigap policy in Minnesota is $90 per month, and that is only for limited benefits. Because of this, in Minnesota, 65 percent of seniors have no prescription drug coverage. That's twice the national average. But the fact is over half of the Seniors in the United States have either no prescription drug coverage or totally inadequate coverage.

Both the high cost of drugs and lack of coverage have severe consequences. People discontinue their medications against medical advice, thereby placing themselves at risk for problems like heart attacks, cancer recurrence, depression and complications of diabetes. People lower the dose they take to make their prescriptions last longer. When I was in Duluth, Minnesota, meeting with seniors to discuss this very issue, one of my constituents told me about a neighbor who cut his pills in quarters because he couldn't afford to refill the prescription and wound up with an unnecessary hospitalization. People take their medicines as prescribed but then skimp on food and other necessities. Ray Erlandson, a retired steel worker from West Duluth was at that meeting in Duluth. Ray was spending about $300 a month for prescription drugs for he and his wife. He had nearly run out of savings. What does Ray say? ''People have to choose between food and buying their drugs. That shouldn't happen in this country. It's a dirty rotten shame. I'd like to ask the VIPs of the drug companies, Do you go to church? Do you know what you are doing to the elderly people?''

How can the richest country on earth force its senior citizens to choose between the medicines they need to survive and the foods they need to stay healthy? We shouldn't allow it. The answer is to provide a prescription drug benefit for all seniors that includes a pricing policy that keeps costs affordable.

In the 1960s when barely half the nation's senior citizens could afford health insurance, and far more were at risk for the loss of their life savings, we as a country responded and created Medicare.

Today, at the beginning of a new century, when only half the nation's seniors—at best—have close to adequate prescription drug coverage, we are again called upon as a nation to respond. The beauty of it all is that we have a surplus that allows us to respond with a prescription drug program that we can all be proud of. The tragedy of it all is that we are not doing it. We have an administration that is more concerned with giving huge tax cuts to the wealthiest 1 percent of Americans than it is with providing the life sustaining medications our seniors need. We have a pharmaceutical industry that is more concerned with maximizing profits and making campaign contributions than it is with maximizing access to life saving medications and making prescription drugs affordable.

The administration's prescription drug proposal is a clear demonstration of just where their priorities are. Republicans want to give $550 billion in tax cuts just to the wealthiest 1 percent of American families, leaving a pittance for Medicare prescription drugs. And the effect of those priorities will be seen in their as yet undisclosed plan: high premiums for beneficiaries; high deductibles, up to $2000; high copay; or a benefit available to only a fraction of the seniors who need it. In short, a benefit that isn't worth much. Millions of seniors will be left still holding the bag. You can't provide the kind of Medicare Rx Drug benefit that everyone on Medicare deserves with a tin-cup budget.

Any meaningful prescription drug benefit passed by this Congress should reflect key principles: universality; low cost to beneficiaries; and serious efforts to reduce the price of prescription drugs. To remedy the high cost of prescription drugs and to provide comprehensive coverage, I am proud to introduce the Medicare Extension of Drugs to Seniors, MEDS, Act of 2001.

Specifically, under this proposal, seniors and the disabled would have a 20-percent co-pay on all prescription drugs and a small, $24 monthly premium. Every person would receive the same voluntary benefit, regardless of income or geographical location. Under the MEDS plan, no beneficiary would ever have to spend more than $2,000 out-of-pocket on their medications. Low-income beneficiaries would have no out-of-pocket expense. By contrast, other plans that have been proposed would have seniors paying up to $6,000 a year. Still, they would not necessarily cover everyone currently eligible for Medicare

How can the MEDS plan provide such a strong benefit without busting the budget? By including provisions which seriously address the outrageously high prices that Americans are forced to pay for prescription drugs.

First, the MEDS plan includes strong, loophole-free language to allow American pharmacists, wholesalers and distributors to purchase FDA-approved prescription drugs at the lower prices charged abroad. Last year, a version of this legislation passed both Houses of Congress with solid bipartisan majorities. Unfortunately, at the last minute, the pharmaceutical industry was successful in adding loopholes to the bill that essentially make it unworkable. With strong reimportation language like that included in the MEDS plan, Americans would save 30–50 percent on the price of prescription drugs without any government subsidy.

Second, the MEDS plan includes a provision, originally proposed by Representative TOM ALLEN, that would permit Medicare beneficiaries to purchase their prescription drugs at the same price other government agencies such as the VA does. MEDS also creates a so-called ''global budget'' which would allow Medicare to negotiate on behalf of all Medicare beneficiaries and work to restrain costs in the long term.

Finally, the MEDS plan would ensure that when taxpayers foot the bill for research and development of a prescription drug, the pharmaceutical industry must offer that drug at a fair and reasonable price. Today, the federal government spends billions of dollars a year on research and development of medicines. Most often, this R&D is then given over to the pharmaceutical industry, which charges Americans any price they want for the final product. If we change this absurd system, we would ensure that new medicines would be affordable in the years ahead.

You can expect the pharmaceutical industry to protest loudly. And you can expect the industry to increase its campaign contributions, which totaled $19 million last year alone, its lobbying spending, which reached $91 million in 1999, and its advertising budget.

It is interesting. One pharmaceutical company executive recently said that no senior citizen should be forced to choose between his or her prescription and other vital needs. But the high prices his company charges and the high-priced lobbyists who do its bidding on Capitol Hill are forcing that very choice on many senior citizens. While paying lip service to seniors, according to a published news story, that same executive was earning over $6 million in salary, plus stock options worth more than $10 million.

The drug companies will say that reductions in price will dry up research. I believe that is nonsense. Drug companies put billions more dollars into profits, marketing and administration than they do into research, based on information in their own annual reports. Just how hard would this most profitable of American industries be hit if we enacted a universal Medicare prescription drug benefit that required the drug companies to offer seniors the best price they now offer other Federal government programs? According to Merrill Lynch, only by about 3 percent.

In a June 23, 1999 report entitled A Medicare Drug Benefit: May Not Be So Bad, Merrill Lynch debunked the notion that a Medicare prescription drug benefit would seriously damage the pharmaceutical industry's profitability. Merrill Lynch's analysis concludes that the toughest proposal on the table in Washington, the Prescription Drug Fairness for Seniors Act, (The Allen Bill), the provisions of which are included in this bill, and which provides a 40 percent discount on drug costs for all 39 million Medicare beneficiaries, would cut just 3.3 percent from total pharmaceutical industry revenues because volume increases would offset much of the lost revenue due to the lower prices. According to Merrill Lynch: Volume is more important than price in driving pharmaceutical company sales growth. Between 1994 and 1998, the impact of volume on sales growth outpaced price by better than a 4-to-1 ratio. Medicare beneficiaries who either lack or have inadequate drug coverage underutilize prescription drugs because they cannot afford them. With a 40-percent price discount, the one-third of beneficiaries who lack any drug coverage would increase their consumption by 45 percent, and the two-thirds with some coverage would see a 10-percent increase in drug purchases. This increased utilization reduces the lost revenue that would otherwise result from a 40-percent price discount for Medicare beneficiaries by almost one-half. Without adjusting for volume increases, a 40-percent price discount for Medicare beneficiaries would reduce total pharmaceutical industry revenues by 5.9 percent. But after adjusting for increased utilization, the net drop in sales is just 3.3 percent. And that is from just a reduction in price, not an increase in coverage. If you factor in the coverage provided by the MEDS Act which all Seniors will have, drug company revenues will increase.

It is time to get our priorities straight. Millions of hard-working Americans go to work every day and pay their taxes so that when they hit 65, they can retire in a country they can be proud of, a country that offers basic security for all an even better life for their children. Each day they read in the paper about scientific breakthroughs: the genome project and new advances in the treatment of cancer, heart disease, and diabetes, all being carried out at the National Institutes of Health, one of our nation's jewels. They turn on the television and see drug company advertisements that extol new and expensive medications. But what good is that medical research and those expensive drugs if they are unaffordable and out of reach of millions of Americans. That is the situation we have today. And it is unacceptable!

The time has come to support a comprehensive, affordable, 20-percent copay, $2000-cap, prescription drug benefit for all seniors, a plan that does not favor the health insurance or pharmaceutical industries over our own parents and grandparents. The MEDS Act provides such a benefit, and I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting this legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 925

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the ''Medicare Extension of Drugs to Seniors (MEDS) Act of 2001''.

(b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—The table of contents for this Act is as follows:

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Prescription medicine coverage was not a standard part of health insurance when the medicare program under title XVIII of the Social Security Act was enacted in 1965. Since 1965, however, medicine coverage has become a key component of most private and public health insurance coverage, except for the medicare program.

(2) At least ⅔ of medicare beneficiaries have unreliable, inadequate, or no medicine coverage at all.

(3) Seniors who do not have medicine coverage typically pay, at a minimum, 15 percent more than people with coverage.

(4) Medicare beneficiaries at all income levels lack prescription medicine coverage, with more than ½ of such beneficiaries having incomes greater than 150 percent of the poverty line.

(5) The number of private firms offering retiree health coverage is declining.

(6) Medigap premiums for medicines are too expensive for most beneficiaries and are highest for older senior citizens, who need prescription medicine coverage the most and typically have the lowest incomes.

(7) All medicare beneficiaries should have access to a voluntary, reliable, affordable, and defined outpatient medicine benefit as part of the medicare program that assists with the high cost of prescription medicines and protects them against excessive out-of-pocket costs.

SEC. 3. PRESCRIPTION MEDICINE BENEFIT PROGRAM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Title XVIII of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395 et seq.) is amended—

(1) by redesignating part D as part E; and

(2) by inserting after part C the following new part:

''PART D—PRESCRIPTION MEDICINE BENEFIT FOR THE AGED AND DISABLED

''ESTABLISHMENT OF PRESCRIPTION MEDICINE BENEFIT PROGRAM FOR THE AGED AND DISABLED

''SEC. 1860. There is established a voluntary insurance program to provide prescription medicine benefits, including pharmacy services, in accordance with the provisions of this part for individuals who are aged or disabled or have end-stage renal disease and who elect to enroll under such program, to be financed from premium payments by enrollees together with contributions from funds appropriated by the Federal Government.

''SCOPE OF BENEFITS

''SEC. 1860A. (a) IN GENERAL.—The benefits provided to an individual enrolled in the insurance program under this part shall consist of—

''(1) payments made, in accordance with the provisions of this part, for covered prescription medicines (as specified in subsection (b)) dispensed by any pharmacy participating in the program under this part (and, in circumstances designated by the Secretary, by a nonparticipating pharmacy), including any specifically named medicine prescribed for the individual by a qualified health care professional regardless of whether the medicine is included in any formulary established under this part if such medicine is certified as medically necessary by such health care professional (except that the Secretary shall encourage to the maximum extent possible the substitution and use of lower-cost generics), up to the benefit limits specified in section 1860B; and

''(2) charging by pharmacies of the negotiated price—

''(A) for all covered prescription medicines, without regard to such benefit limit; and

''(B) established with respect to any drugs or classes of drugs described in subparagraphs (A), (B), (D), (E), or (F) of section 1927(d)(2) that are available to individuals receiving benefits under this title.

''(b) COVERED PRESCRIPTION MEDICINES.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Covered prescription medicines, for purposes of this part, include all prescription medicines (as defined in section 1860K(1)), including smoking cessation agents, except as otherwise provided in this subsection.

''(2) EXCLUSIONS FROM COVERAGE.—Covered prescription medicines shall not include drugs or classes of drugs described in subparagraphs (A) through (D) and (F) through (H) of section 1927(d)(2) unless—

''(A) specifically provided otherwise by the Secretary with respect to a drug in any of such classes; or

''(B) a drug in any of such classes is certified to be medically necessary by a health care professional.

''(3) EXCLUSION OF PRESCRIPTION MEDICINES TO THE EXTENT COVERED UNDER PART A OR B.—

A medicine prescribed for an individual that would otherwise be a covered prescription medicine under this part shall not be so considered to the extent that payment for such medicine is available under part A or B, including all injectable drugs and biologicals for which payment was made or should have been made by a carrier under section 1861(s)(2) (A) or (B) as of the date of enactment of the Medicare Extension of Drugs to Seniors (MEDS) Act of 2001. Medicines otherwise covered under part A or B shall be covered under this part to the extent that benefits under part A or B are exhausted.

''(4) STUDY ON INCLUSION OF HOME INFUSION THERAPY SERVICES.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of the Medicare Extension of Drugs to Seniors (MEDS) Act of 2001, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a legislative proposal for the delivery of home infusion therapy services under this title and for a system of payment for such a benefit that coordinates items and services furnished under part B and under this part.

''PAYMENT OF BENEFITS; BENEFIT LIMITS

''SEC. 1860B. (a) PAYMENT OF BENEFITS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—There shall be paid from the Prescription Medicine Insurance Account within the Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund, in the case of each individual who is enrolled in the insurance program under this part and who purchases covered prescription medicines in a calendar year—

''(A) with respect to costs incurred for covered prescription medicine furnished during a year, before the individual has incurred out-of-pocket expenses under this subsection equal to the catastrophic out-of-pocket limit specified in subsection (b), an amount equal to the applicable percentage (specified in paragraph (2)) of the negotiated price for each such covered prescription medicine or such higher percentage as is proposed under section 1860G(b)(7); and

''(B) with respect to costs incurred for covered prescription medicine furnished during a year, after the individual has incurred out-of-pocket expenses under this subsection equal to the catastrophic out-of-pocket limit specified in subsection (b), an amount equal to 100 percent of the negotiated price for each such covered prescription medicine.

''(2) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—The applicable percentage specified in this paragraph is 80 percent or such higher percentage as is proposed under section 1860G(b)(7), if the Secretary finds that such higher percentage will not increase aggregate costs to the Prescription Medicine Insurance Account.

''(b) CATASTROPHIC LIMIT ON OUT-OF-POCKET EXPENSES.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The catastrophic limit on out-of-pocket expenses specified in this subsection for—

''(A) for each of calendar years 2003 and 2004, $2,000; and

''(B) subject to paragraph (2), for calendar year 2005 and each subsequent calendar year is equal to the limit for the preceding year under this paragraph adjusted by the sustainable growth rate percentage (determined under section 1861I(b)) for the year involved.

''(2) ROUNDING.—Any amount determined under paragraph (1)(E) that is not a multiple of $10 shall be rounded to the nearest multiple of $10.

''(3) SPECIAL ENROLLMENT PERIOD FOR 2003.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—An individual who first satisfies subsection (a) in 2003 may, at any time on or before December 31, 2003—

''(3) SUBSEQUENT YEARS.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—For months in a year after 2003, the monthly premium under this subsection shall be (subject to subparagraph (B)) the monthly premium (computed under this subsection without regard to subparagraph (B)) for the previous year increased by the annual percentage increase in average per capita aggregate expenditures for covered outpatient medicines in the United States for medicare beneficiaries, as estimated and published by the Secretary in September before the year and for the year involved.

''(A) DEDUCTION FROM BENEFITS.—In the case of an individual who is entitled to or receiving benefits as described in subsection (a), (b), or (d) of section 1840, premiums payable under this part shall be collected by deduction from such benefits at the same time and in the same manner as premiums payable under part B are collected pursuant to section 1840.

''(B) TRANSFERS TO PRESCRIPTION MEDICINE INSURANCE ACCOUNT.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall, from time to time, but not less often than quarterly, transfer premiums collected pursuant to subparagraph (A) to the Prescription Medicine Insurance Account from the appropriate funds and accounts described in subsections (a)(2), (b)(2), and (d)(2) of section 1840, on the basis of the certifications described in such subsections. The amounts of such transfers shall be appropriately adjusted to the extent that prior transfers were too great or too small.

''(2) DIRECT PAYMENTS TO SECRETARY.—

''(A) ADDITIONAL PAYMENT BY ENROLLEE.—An individual to whom paragraph (1) applies (other than an individual receiving benefits as described in section 1840(d)) and who estimates that the amount that will be available for deduction under such paragraph for any premium payment period will be less than the amount of the monthly premiums for such period may (under regulations) pay to the Secretary the estimated balance, or such greater portion of the monthly premium as the individual chooses.

''(B) PAYMENTS BY OTHER ENROLLEES.—An individual enrolled in the insurance program under this part with respect to whom none of the preceding provisions of this subsection applies (or to whom section 1840(c) applies) shall pay premiums to the Secretary at such times and in such manner as the Secretary shall by regulations prescribe.

''(c) CERTAIN LOW-INCOME INDIVIDUALS.—For rules concerning premiums for certain low-income individuals, see section 1860E.

''SPECIAL ELIGIBILITY, ENROLLMENT, AND COPAYMENT RULES FOR LOW-INCOME INDIVIDUALS

''SEC. 1860E. (a) STATE AGREEMENTS FOR COVERAGE.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall, at the request of a State, enter into an agreement with the State under which all individuals described in paragraph (2) are enrolled in the program under this part, without regard to whether any such individual has previously declined the opportunity to enroll in such program.

''(2) ELIGIBILITY GROUPS.—The individuals described in this paragraph, for purposes of paragraph (1), are individuals who satisfy section 1860C(a) and who are—

''(A)(i) eligible individuals within the meaning of section 1843; and

''(A) INDIVIDUALS ELIGIBLE (AT STATE OPTION) FOR PART B BUY-IN.—In the case of an individual described in subsection (a)(2)(A), the coverage period shall be the same period that applies (or would apply) pursuant to section 1843(d).

''(B) QUALIFIED MEDICARE MEDICINE BENEFICIARIES.—In the case of an individual described in subsection (a)(2)(B)—

''(i) the coverage period shall begin on the latest of—

''(I) January 1, 2003;

''(II) the first day of the third month following the month in which the State agreement is entered into; or

''(III) the first day of the first month following the month in which the individual satisfies section 1860C(a); and

''(ii) the coverage period shall end on the last day of the month in which the individual is determined by the State to have become ineligible for medicare medicine cost-sharing.

''(4) ALTERNATIVE ENROLLMENT METHODS.—In the process of enrolling low-income individuals under this part, the Secretary shall use the system provided under section 154 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1994 for newly eligible medicare beneficiaries and shall apply a similar system for other medicare beneficiaries. Such system shall use existing Federal Government databases to identify eligibility. Such system shall not require that beneficiaries apply for, or enroll through, State medicaid systems in order to obtain low-income assistance described in this section.

''(b) SPECIAL PART D ENROLLMENT OPPORTUNITY FOR INDIVIDUALS LOSING MEDICAID ELIGIBILITY.—In the case of an individual who—

''(1) satisfies section 1860C(a); and

''(2) loses eligibility for benefits under the State plan under title XIX after having been enrolled under such plan or having been determined eligible for such benefits; the Secretary shall provide an opportunity for enrollment under the program under this part during the period that begins on the date that such individual loses such eligibility and ends on the date specified by the Secretary.

''(c) STATE OPTION TO BUY-IN DUALLY ELIGIBLE INDIVIDUALS.—

''(1) COVERAGE OF PREMIUMS AS MEDICAL ASSISTANCE.—For purposes of applying the second sentence of section 1905(a), any reference to premiums under part B shall be considered to include a reference to premiums under this part.

''(2) STATE COMMITMENT TO CONTINUE PARTICIPATION IN PART D AFTER BENEFIT LIMIT REACHED.—As a condition of additional funding to a State under subsection (d), the State, in its State plan under title XIX, shall provide that in the case of any individual whose eligibility for medical assistance under title XIX is not limited to medicare cost-sharing and for whom the State elects to pay premiums under this part pursuant to this section, the State will purchase all prescription medicines for such individual in accordance with the provisions of this part without regard to whether the benefit limit for such individual under section 1860B(b) has been reached.

''(3) MEDICARE COST-SHARING REQUIRED FOR QUALIFIED MEDICARE BENEFICIARIES.—In applying title XIX, the term 'medicare cost-sharing' (as defined in section 1905(p)(3)) is deemed to include—

''(A) premiums under section 1860D; and

''(B) the difference between the amount that is paid under section 1860B and the amount that would be paid under such section if any reference to '80 percent' in subsection (a)(2) of such section were deemed a reference to '100 percent' (or, if the Secretary approves a higher percentage under such section, if such percentage were deemed to be 100 percent).

''(d) PAYMENT TO STATES FOR COVERAGE OF CERTAIN MEDICARE COST-SHARING.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall provide for payment under this subsection to each State that provides for—

''(A) medicare cost-sharing described in section 1905(p)(3)(A)(ii) for individuals who would be qualified medicare beneficiaries described in section 1905(p)(1) but for the fact that their income exceeds the income level established by the State under section 1905(p)(2) and is at least 120 percent, but less than 135 percent, of the official poverty line (referred to in such section) for a family of the size involved and who are not otherwise eligible for medical assistance under the State plan; and

''(B) medicare medicine cost-sharing (as defined in subsection (e)(2)) for qualified medicare medicine beneficiaries described in subsection (e)(1).

''(2) AMOUNT OF PAYMENT.—The amount of payment under paragraph (1) shall equal 100 percent of the cost-sharing described in such paragraph, except that, in the case of an individual whose eligibility for medical assistance under title XIX is not limited to medicare cost-sharing or medicare medicine cost-sharing, the amount of payment under paragraph (1)(B) shall be equal to the Federal medical assistance percentage described in section 1905(b)) of amounts as expended for such cost-sharing.

''(3) METHOD OF PAYMENT; RELATION TO OTHER PAYMENTS.—Amounts shall be paid to States under this subsection in a manner similar to that provided under section 1903(d). Payments under this subsection shall be made in lieu of any payments that otherwise may be made for medical assistance provided under section 1902(a)(10)(E)(iv).

''(4) TREATMENT OF TERRITORIES.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), this subsection shall not apply to States other than the 50 States and the District of Columbia.

''(B) PAYMENTS.—In the case of a State (other than the 50 States and the District of Columbia) that develops and implements a plan of assistance for pharmaceuticals provided to low-income medicare beneficiaries, the Secretary shall provide for payment to the State in an amount that is reasonable in relation to the payment levels provided to other States under paragraph (2).

''(e) DEFINITIONS; SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this section:

''(1) QUALIFIED MEDICARE MEDICINE BENEFICIARY.—The term 'qualified medicare medicine beneficiary' means an individual—

''(A) who is entitled to hospital insurance benefits under part A (including an individual entitled to such benefits pursuant to an enrollment under section 1818, but not including an individual entitled to such benefits only pursuant to an enrollment under section 1818A);

''(B) whose income (as determined under section 1612 for purposes of the supplemental security income program, except as provided in section 1905(p)(2)(D)) is above 100 percent but below 150 percent of the official poverty line (as defined by the Office of Management and Budget, and revised annually in accordance with section 673(2) of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981) applicable to a family of the size involved; and

''(C) whose resources (as determined under section 1613 for purposes of the supplemental security income program) do not exceed twice the maximum amount of resources that an individual may have and obtain benefits under that program.

''(2) MEDICARE MEDICINE COST-SHARING.—The term 'medicare medicine cost-sharing' means the following costs incurred with respect to a qualified medicare medicine beneficiary, without regard to whether the costs incurred were for items and services for which medical assistance is otherwise available under a State plan under title XIX:

''(A) In the case of a qualified medicare medicine beneficiary whose income (as determined under paragraph (1)) is less than 135 percent of the official poverty line—

''(i) premiums under section 1860D; and

''(ii) the difference between the amount that is paid under section 1860B and the amount that would be paid under such section if any reference to '50 percent' therein were deemed a reference to '100 percent' (or, if the Secretary approves a higher percentage under such section, if such percentage were deemed to be 100 percent).

''(B) In the case of a qualified medicare medicine beneficiary whose income (as determined under paragraph (1)) is at least 135 percent but less than 150 percent of the official poverty line, a percentage of premiums under section 1860D, determined on a linear sliding scale ranging from 100 percent for individuals with incomes at 135 percent of such line to 0 percent for individuals with incomes at 150 percent of such line.

''(3) STATE.—The term 'State' has the meaning given such term under section 1101(a) for purposes of title XIX.

''(4) TREATMENT OF DRUGS PURCHASED.—The provisions of section 1927 shall not apply to prescription drugs purchased under this part pursuant to an agreement with the Secretary under this section (including any drugs so purchased after the limit under section 1860B(b) has been exceeded).

''PRESCRIPTION MEDICINE INSURANCE ACCOUNT

''SEC. 1860F. (a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is created within the Federal Supplemental Medical Insurance Trust Fund established by section 1841 an account to be known as the 'Prescription Medicine Insurance Account' (in this section referred to as the 'Account').

''(b) AMOUNTS IN ACCOUNT.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The Account shall consist of—

''(A) such amounts as may be deposited in, or appropriated to, such fund as provided in this part; and

''(B) such gifts and bequests as may be made as provided in section 201(i)(1).

''(2) SEPARATION OF FUNDS.—Funds provided under this part to the Account shall be kept separate from all other funds within the Federal Supplemental Medical Insurance Trust Fund.

''(c) PAYMENTS FROM ACCOUNT.—The Managing Trustee shall pay from time to time from the Account such amounts as the Secretary certifies are necessary to make the payments provided for by this part, and the payments with respect to administrative expenses in accordance with section 201(g).

''ADMINISTRATION OF BENEFITS

''SEC. 1860G. (a) THROUGH HCFA.—The Secretary shall provide for administration of the benefits under this part through the Health Care Financing Administration in accordance with the provisions of this section. The Administrator of such Administration may enter into contracts with carriers to administer this part in the same manner as the Administrator enters into such contracts to administer part B. Any such contract shall be separate from any contract under section 1842.

''(b) ADMINISTRATION FUNCTIONS.—In carrying out this part, the Administrator (or a carrier under a contract with the Administrator) shall (or in the case of the function described in paragraph (9), may) perform the following functions:

''(1) PARTICIPATION AGREEMENTS, PRICES, AND FEES.—

''(A) NEGOTIATED PRICES.—Establish, through negotiations with medicine manufacturers and wholesalers and pharmacies, a schedule of prices for covered prescription medicines.

''(B) AGREEMENTS WITH PHARMACIES.—Enter into participation agreements under subsection (c) with pharmacies, that include terms that—''(i) secure the participation of sufficient numbers of pharmacies to ensure convenient access (including adequate emergency access);

''(ii) permit the participation of any pharmacy in the service area that meets the participation requirements described in subsection (c); and

''(iii) allow for reasonable dispensing and consultation fees for pharmacies.

''(C) LISTS OF PRICES AND PARTICIPATING PHARMACIES.—Ensure that the negotiated prices established under subparagraph (A) and the list of pharmacies with agreements under subsection (c) are regularly updated and readily available to health care professionals authorized to prescribe medicines, participating pharmacies, and enrolled individuals.

''(2) TRACKING OF COVERED ENROLLED INDIVIDUALS.—Maintain accurate, updated records of all enrolled individuals (other than individuals enrolled in a plan under part C).

''(3) PAYMENT AND COORDINATION OF BENEFITS.—

''(A) PAYMENT.—

''(i) Administer claims for payment of benefits under this part and encourage, to the maximum extent possible, use of electronic means for the submissions of claims.

''(ii) Determine amounts of benefit payments to be made.

''(iii) Receive, disburse, and account for funds used in making such payments, including through the activities specified in the provisions of this paragraph.

''(B) COORDINATION.—Coordinate with other private benefit providers, pharmacies, and other relevant entities as necessary to ensure appropriate coordination of benefits with respect to enrolled individuals, including coordination of access to and payment for covered prescription medicines according to an individual's in-service area plan provisions, when such individual is traveling outside the home service area, and under such other circumstances as the Secretary may specify.

''(C) EXPLANATION OF BENEFITS.—Furnish to enrolled individuals an explanation of benefits in accordance with section 1806(a), and a notice of the balance of benefits remaining for the current year, whenever prescription medicine benefits are provided under this part (except that such notice need not be provided more often than monthly).

''(4) RULES RELATING TO PROVISION OF BENEFITS.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—In providing benefits under this part, the Secretary (directly or through contracts) shall employ mechanisms to provide benefits economically, including the use of—

''(i) formularies (consistent with subparagraph (B));

''(ii) automatic generic medicine substitution (unless the physician specifies otherwise, in which case a 30-day prescription may be dispensed pending a consultation with the physician on whether a generic substitute can be dispensed in the future);

''(iii) tiered copayments (which may include copayments at a rate lower than 20 percent) to encourage the use of the lowest cost, on-formulary product in cases where there is no restrictive prescription (described in subparagraph (D)(i)); and

''(iv) therapeutic interchange.

''(B) REQUIREMENTS WITH RESPECT TO FORMULARIES.—If a formulary is used to contain costs under this part—

''(i) use an advisory committee (or a therapeutics committee) comprised of licensed practicing physicians, pharmacists, and other health care practitioners to develop and manage the formulary;

''(ii) include in the formulary at least 1 medicine from each therapeutic class and, if available, a generic equivalent thereof; and

''(iii) disclose to current and prospective enrollees and to participating providers and pharmacies, the nature of the formulary restrictions, including information regarding the medicines included in the formulary and any difference in cost-sharing amounts.

''(C) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prevent the Secretary (directly or through contracts) from using incentives (including a lower beneficiary coinsurance) to encourage enrollees to select generic or other cost-effective medicines, so long as—

''(i) such incentives are designed not to result in any increase in the aggregate expenditures under the Federal Medicare Prescription Medicine Trust Fund;

''(ii) the average coinsurance charged to all beneficiaries by the Secretary (directly or through contractors) shall seek to approximate (but in no case exceed) 20 percent for on-formulary medicines;

''(iii) a beneficiary's coinsurance shall be no greater than 20 percent if the prescription is a restrictive prescription; and

''(iv) the reimbursement for a prescribed nonformulary medicine without a restrictive prescription in no case shall be more than the lowest reimbursement for a formulary medicine in the therapeutic class of the prescribed medicine.

''(D) RESTRICTIVE PRESCRIPTION.—For purposes of this section:

''(i) WRITTEN PRESCRIPTIONS.—In the case of a written prescription for a medicine, it is a restrictive prescription only if the prescription indicates, in the writing of the physician or other qualified person prescribing the medicine and with an appropriate phrase (such as 'brand medically necessary') recognized by the Secretary, that a particular medicine product must be dispensed based upon a belief by the physician or person prescribing the medicine that the particular medicine will provide even marginally superior therapeutic benefits to the individual for whom the medicine is prescribed or would have marginally fewer adverse reactions with respect to such individual.

''(ii) TELEPHONE PRESCRIPTIONS.—In the case of a prescription issued by telephone for a medicine, it is a restrictive prescription only if the prescription cannot be longer than 30 days and the physician or other qualified person prescribing the medicine (through use of such an appropriate phrase) states that a particular medicine product must be dispensed, and the physician or other qualified person submits to the pharmacy involved, within 30 days after the date of the telephone prescription, a written confirmation from the physician or other qualified person prescribing the medicine and which indicates with such appropriate phrase that the particular medicine product was required to have been dispensed based upon a belief by the physician or person prescribing the medicine that the particular medicine will provide even marginally superior therapeutic benefits to the individual for whom the medicine is prescribed or would have marginally fewer adverse reactions with respect to such individual. Such written confirmation is required to refill the prescription.

''(iii) REVIEW OF RESTRICTIVE PRESCRIPTIONS.—The advisory committee (established under subparagraph (B)(i)) may decide to review a restrictive prescription and, if so, it may approve or disapprove such restrictive prescription. It may not disapprove such restrictive prescription unless it finds that there is no clinical evidence or peer reviewed medical literature that supports a determination that the particular medicine provides even marginally superior therapeutic benefits to the individual for whom the medicine is prescribed or would have marginally fewer adverse reactions with respect to such individual. If it disapproves, upon request of the prescribing physician or the enrollee, the committee must provide for a review by an independent contractor of such decision within 48 hours of the time of submission of the prescription, to determine whether the prescription is an eligible benefit under this part. The Secretary shall ensure that independent contractors so used are completely independent of the contractor or its advisory committee.

''(5) COST AND UTILIZATION MANAGEMENT; QUALITY ASSURANCE.—Have in place effective cost and utilization management, drug utilization review, quality assurance measures, and systems to reduce medical errors, including at least the following, together with such additional measures as the Administrator may specify:

''(A) DRUG UTILIZATION REVIEW.—A drug utilization review program conforming to the standards provided in section 1927(g)(2) (with such modifications as the Administrator finds appropriate).

''(B) FRAUD AND ABUSE CONTROL.—Activities to control fraud, abuse, and waste, including prevention of diversion of pharmaceuticals to the illegal market.

''(C) MEDICATION THERAPY MANAGEMENT.—

''(i) IN GENERAL.—A program of medicine therapy management and medication administration that is designed to assure that covered outpatient medicines are appropriately used to achieve therapeutic goals and reduce the risk of adverse events, including adverse drug interactions.

''(ii) ELEMENTS.—Such program may include—

''(I) enhanced beneficiary understanding of such appropriate use through beneficiary education, counseling, and other appropriate means; and

''(II) increased beneficiary adherence with prescription medication regimens through medication refill reminders, special packaging, and other appropriate means.

''(iii) DEVELOPMENT OF PROGRAM IN COOPERATION WITH LICENSED PHARMACISTS.—The program shall be developed in cooperation with licensed pharmacists and physicians.

''(iv) CONSIDERATIONS IN PHARMACY FEES.—There shall be taken into account, in establishing fees for pharmacists and others providing services under the medication therapy management program, the resources and time used in implementing the program.

''(6) EDUCATION AND INFORMATION ACTIVITIES.—Have in place mechanisms for disseminating educational and informational materials to enrolled individuals and health care providers designed to encourage effective and cost-effective use of prescription medicine benefits and to ensure that enrolled individuals understand their rights and obligations under the program.

''(7) BENEFICIARY PROTECTIONS.—

''(A) CONFIDENTIALITY OF HEALTH INFORMATION.—Have in effect systems to safeguard the confidentiality of health care information on enrolled individuals, which comply with section 1106 and with section 552a of title 5, United States Code, and meet such additional standards as the Administrator may prescribe.

''(B) GRIEVANCE AND APPEAL PROCEDURES.—Have in place such procedures as the Administrator may specify for hearing and resolving grievances and appeals, including expedited appeals, brought by enrolled individuals against the Administrator or a pharmacy concerning benefits under this part, which shall include procedures equivalent to those specified in subsections (f) and (g) of section 1852.

''(8) RECORDS, REPORTS, AND AUDITS.—

''(A) RECORDS AND AUDITS.—Maintain adequate records, and afford the Administrator access to such records (including for audit purposes).

''(B) REPORTS.—Make such reports and submissions of financial and utilization data as the Administrator may require taking into account standard commercial practices.

''(9) PROPOSAL FOR ALTERNATIVE COINSURANCE AMOUNT.—

''(A) SUBMISSION.—The Administrator may provide for increased Government cost-sharing for generic prescription medicines, prescription medicines on a formulary, or prescription medicines obtained through mail order pharmacies.

''(B) CONTENTS.—The proposal submitted under subparagraph (A) shall contain evidence that such increased cost-sharing would not result in an increase in aggregate costs to the Account, including an analysis of differences in projected drug utilization patterns by beneficiaries whose cost-sharing would be reduced under the proposal and those making the cost-sharing payments that would otherwise apply.

''(10) OTHER REQUIREMENTS.—Meet such other requirements as the Secretary may specify.

The Administrator shall negotiate a schedule of prices under paragraph (1)(A), except that nothing in this sentence shall prevent a carrier under a contract with the Administrator from negotiating a lower schedule of prices for covered prescription medicines.

''(c) PHARMACY PARTICIPATION AGREEMENTS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—A pharmacy that meets the requirements of this subsection shall be eligible to enter an agreement with the Administrator to furnish covered prescription medicines and pharmacists' services to enrolled individuals.

''(2) TERMS OF AGREEMENT.—An agreement under this subsection shall include the following terms and requirements:

''(A) LICENSING.—The pharmacy and pharmacists shall meet (and throughout the contract period will continue to meet) all applicable State and local licensing requirements.

''(B) LIMITATION ON CHARGES.—Pharmacies participating under this part shall not charge an enrolled individual more than the negotiated price for an individual medicine as established under subsection (b)(1), regardless of whether such individual has attained the benefit limit under section 1860B(b), and shall not charge an enrolled individual more than the individual's share of the negotiated price as determined under the provisions of this part.

''(C) PERFORMANCE STANDARDS.—The pharmacy and the pharmacist shall comply with performance standards relating to—

''(i) measures for quality assurance, reduction of medical errors, and participation in the drug utilization review program described in subsection (b)(3)(A);

''(ii) systems to ensure compliance with the confidentiality standards applicable under subsection (b)(5)(A); and

''(iii) other requirements as the Secretary may impose to ensure integrity, efficiency, and the quality of the program.

''(D) DISCLOSURE OF PRICE OF GENERIC MEDICINE.—A pharmacy participating under this part shall inform an enrollee of the difference in price between generic and nongeneric equivalents.

''(d) SPECIAL ATTENTION TO RURAL AND HARD-TO-SERVE AREAS.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall ensure that all beneficiaries have access to the full range of pharmaceuticals under this part, and shall give special attention to access, pharmacist counseling, and delivery in rural and hard-to-serve areas (as the Secretary may define by regulation).

''(2) SPECIAL ATTENTION DEFINED.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the term 'special attention' may include bonus payments to retail pharmacists in rural areas and any other actions the Secretary determines are necessary to ensure full access to rural and hard-to-serve beneficiaries.

''(3) GAO REPORT.—Not later than 2 years after the implementation of this part the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to Congress a report on the access of medicare beneficiaries to pharmaceuticals and pharmacists' services in rural and hard-to-serve areas under this part together with any recommendations of the Comptroller General regarding any additional steps the Secretary may need to take to ensure the access of medicare beneficiaries to pharmaceuticals and pharmacists' services in such areas under this part.

''(e) INCENTIVES FOR COST AND UTILIZATION MANAGEMENT AND QUALITY IMPROVEMENT.—The Secretary is authorized to include in a contract awarded under subsection (b) with a carrier such incentives for cost and utilization management and quality improvement as the Secretary may deem appropriate, including—

''(1) bonus and penalty incentives to encourage administrative efficiency;

''(2) incentives under which carriers share in any benefit savings achieved;

''(3) risk-sharing arrangements related to initiatives to encourage savings in benefit payments;

''(4) financial incentives under which savings derived from the substitution of generic medicines in lieu of nongeneric medicines are made available to carriers, pharmacies, and the Prescription Medicine Insurance Account; and

''(5) any other incentive that the Secretary deems appropriate and likely to be effective in managing costs or utilization.

''EMPLOYER INCENTIVE PROGRAM FOR EMPLOYMENT-BASED RETIREE MEDICINE COVERAGE

''SEC. 1860H. (a) PROGRAM AUTHORITY.—The Secretary shall develop and implement a program under this section called the 'Employer Incentive Program' that encourages employers and other sponsors of employment-based health care coverage to provide adequate prescription medicine benefits to retired individuals and to maintain such existing benefit programs, by subsidizing, in part, the sponsor's cost of providing coverage under qualifying plans.

''(b) SPONSOR REQUIREMENTS.—In order to be eligible to receive an incentive payment under this section with respect to coverage of an individual under a qualified retiree prescription medicine plan (as defined in subsection (f)(3)), a sponsor shall meet the following requirements:

''(1) ASSURANCES.—The sponsor shall—

''(A) annually attest, and provide such assurances as the Secretary may require, that the coverage offered by the sponsor is a qualified retiree prescription medicine plan, and will remain such a plan for the duration of the sponsor's participation in the program under this section; and

''(B) guarantee that it will give notice to the Secretary and covered retirees—

''(i) at least 120 days before terminating its plan; and

''(ii) immediately upon determining that the actuarial value of the prescription medicine benefit under the plan falls below the actuarial value of the insurance benefit under this part.

''(2) OTHER REQUIREMENTS.—The sponsor shall provide such information, and comply with such requirements, including information requirements to ensure the integrity of the program, as the Secretary may find necessary to administer the program under this section.

''(c) INCENTIVE PAYMENT.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—A sponsor that meets the requirements of subsection (b) with respect to a quarter in a calendar year shall have payment made by the Secretary on a quarterly basis (to the sponsor or, at the sponsor's direction, to the appropriate employment-based health plan) of an incentive payment, in the amount determined as described in paragraph (2), for each retired individual (or spouse) who—

''(A) was covered under the sponsor's qualified retiree prescription medicine plan during such quarter; and

''(B) was eligible for but was not enrolled in the insurance program under this part.

''(2) AMOUNT OF INCENTIVE.—The payment under this section with respect to each individual described in paragraph (1) for a month shall be equal to ⅔ of the monthly premium amount payable from the Prescription Medicine Insurance Account for an enrolled individual, as set for the calendar year pursuant to section 1860D(a)(2).

''(3) PAYMENT DATE.—The incentive under this section with respect to a calendar quarter shall be payable as of the end of the next succeeding calendar quarter.

''(d) CIVIL MONEY PENALTIES.—A sponsor, health plan, or other entity that the Secretary determines has, directly or through its agent, provided information in connection with a request for an incentive payment under this section that the entity knew or should have known to be false shall be subject to a civil monetary penalty in an amount equal to $2,000 for each false representation plus an amount not to exceed 3 times the total incentive amounts under subsection (c) that were paid (or would have been payable) on the basis of such information.

''(e) PART D ENROLLMENT FOR CERTAIN INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY EMPLOYMENT-BASED RETIREE HEALTH COVERAGE PLANS.—

''(1) ELIGIBLE INDIVIDUALS.—An individual shall be given the opportunity to enroll in the program under this part during the period specified in paragraph (2) if—

''(A) the individual declined enrollment in the program under this part at the time the individual first satisfied section 1860C(a);

''(B) at that time, the individual was covered under a qualified retiree prescription medicine plan for which an incentive payment was paid under this section; and

''(C)(i) the sponsor subsequently ceased to offer such plan; or

''PROMOTION OF PHARMACEUTICAL RESEARCH ON BREAK-THROUGH MEDICINES WHILE PROVIDING PROGRAM COST CONTAINMENT

''SEC. 1860I. (a) MONITORING EXPENDITURES.—The Secretary shall monitor expenditures under this part. On October 1, 2003, the Secretary shall estimate total expenditures under this part for 2003.

''(b) ESTABLISHMENT OF SUSTAINABLE GROWTH RATE.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall establish a sustainable growth rate prescription medicine target system for expenditures under this part for each year after 2003.

''(2) INITIAL COMPUTATION.—Such target shall equal the amount of total expenditures estimated for 2003 adjusted by the Secretary's estimate of a sustainable growth rate (in this section referred to as an 'SGR') percentage between 2003 and 2004. Such SGR shall be estimated based on the following:

''(A) Reasonable changes in the cost of production or price of covered pharmaceuticals, but in no event more than the rate of increase in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers for the period involved.

''(B) Population enrolled in this part, both in numbers and in average age and severity of chronic and acute illnesses.

''(C) Appropriate changes in utilization of pharmaceuticals, as determined by the Drug Review Board (established under subsection (c)(3)) and based on best estimates of utilization change if there were no direct-to-consumer advertising or promotions to providers.

''(D) Productivity index of manufacturers and distributors.

''(E) Percentage of products with patent and market exclusivity protection versus products without patent protection and changes in the availability of generic substitutes.

''(F) Such other factors as the Secretary may determine are appropriate.

In no event may the sustainable growth rate exceed 120 percent of the estimated per capita growth in total spending under this title.

''(3) COMPUTATION FOR SUBSEQUENT YEARS.—In October of 2004 and each year thereafter, for purposes of setting the SGRs for the succeeding year, the Secretary shall adjust each current year's estimated expenditures by the estimated SGR for the succeeding year, further adjusted for corrections in earlier estimates and the receipt of additional data on previous years spending as follows:

''(A) ERROR ESTIMATES.—An adjustment (up or down) for errors in the estimate of total expenditures under this part for the previous year.

''(B) COSTS.—An adjustment (up or down) for corrections in the cost of production of prescriptions covered under this part between the current calendar year and the previous year.

''(C) TARGET.—An adjustment for any amount (over or under) that expenditures in the current year under this part are estimated to differ from the target amount set for the year. If expenditures in the current year are estimated to be—

''(i) less than the target amount, future target amounts will be adjusted downward; or

''(ii) more than the target amount, the Secretary shall notify all pharmaceutical manufacturers with sales of pharmaceutical prescription medicine products to medicare beneficiaries under this part, of a rebate requirement (except as provided in this subparagraph) to be deposited in the Federal Medicare Prescription Medicine Trust Fund.

''(D) REBATE DETERMINATION.—The amount of the rebate described in subparagraph (C)(ii) may vary among manufacturers and shall be based on the manufacturer's estimated contribution to the expenditure above the target amount, taking into consideration such factors as—

''(i) above average increases in the cost of the manufacturer's product;

''(ii) increases in utilization due to promotion activities of the manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer;

''(iii) launch prices of new drugs at the same or higher prices as similar drugs already in the marketplace (so-called 'me too' or 'copy-cat' drugs);

''(iv) the role of the manufacturer in delaying the entry of generic products into the market; and

''(v) such other actions by the manufacturer that the Secretary may determine has contributed to the failure to meet the SGR target.

The rebates shall be established under such subparagraph so that the total amount of the rebates is estimated to ensure that the amount the target for the current year is estimated to be exceeded is recovered in lower spending in the subsequent year; except that, no rebate shall be made in any manufacturer's product which the Food and Drug Administration has determined is a breakthrough medicine (as determined under subsection (c)) or an orphan medicine.

''(c) BREAKTHROUGH MEDICINES.—

''(1) DETERMINATION.—For purposes of this section, a medicine is a 'breakthrough medicine' if the Drug Review Board (established under paragraph (3)) determines—

''(A) it is a new product that will make a significant and major improvement by reducing physical or mental illness, reducing mortality, or reducing disability; and

''(B) that no other product is available to beneficiaries that achieves similar results for the same condition at a lower cost.

''(2) CONDITION.—An exemption from rebates under subsection (b)(3) for a breakthrough medicine shall continue as long as the medicine is certified as a breakthrough medicine but shall be limited to 7 calendar years from 2003 or 7 calendar years from the date of the initial determination under paragraph (1), whichever is later.

''(3) DRUG REVIEW BOARD.—The Drug Review Board under this paragraph shall consist of the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, the Directors of the National Institutes of Health, the Director of the National Science Foundation, and 10 experts in pharmaceuticals, medical research, and clinical care, selected by the Commissioner of Food and Drugs from the faculty of academic medical centers, except that no person who has (or who has an immediate family member that has) any conflict of interest with any pharmaceutical manufacturer shall serve on the Board.

''(d) NO REVIEW.—The Secretary's determination of the rebate amounts under this section, and the Drug Review Board's determination of what is a breakthrough drug, are not subject to administrative or judicial review.

By Mr. HARKIN (for himself, Mr. HELMS, Mr. SCHUMER, Mr. HOLLINGS, and Mrs. FEINSTEIN):

S. 926. A bill to prohibit the importation of any article that is produced, manufactured, or grown in Burma; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, the people of Burma continue to suffer at the hands of the world's most brutal military dictatorship which cynically calls itself the State Peace and Development Council, (SPDC). Now more than ever, as a nation committed to internationally-recognized human rights and worker rights, democracy, and freedom, America must heed the call of the International Labor Organization, (ILO), and support stronger, coordinated multilateral actions against Burma's repressive regime. In the face of overwhelming evidence of continued, systematic use of forced labor, including forced child labor in Burma, we must do all we can to deny any material support to the military dictators who rule that country with an iron fist.

Furthermore, there is no clear and tangible evidence that the latest informal, closed-door dialogue between the Burmese generals on one side and Aung San Suu Kyi and the other duly-elected leaders of the pro-democracy movement on the other side is bearing fruit. Therefore, we must demonstrate anew to the Burmese people our recognition of their nightmarish plight as well as our support for their noble struggle to achieve democratic governance.

In 1997, a strong, bipartisan majority of the Congress enacted some sanctions and former President Clinton issued an Executive Order in response to a prolonged pattern of egregious human rights violations in Burma. At the heart of those measures is the existing prohibition on U.S. private companies making new investments in Burma's infrastructure. Many other national governments, as well as scores of city and State governments in the U.S. followed suit and adopted their own sanctions.

Nevertheless, the ruling military junta in Burma has clung to power and continues to blatantly violate internationally-recognized human and worker rights. The 1999 State Department Human Rights Country Report on Burma cited ''credible reports that Burmese Army soldiers have committed rape, forced porterage, and extrajudicial killing.'' It referred to arbitrary arrests and the detention of at least 1300 political prisoners.

The following excerpts from the most recent 2000 State Department Human Rights Country Report paint an even more disturbing reality:

The Burmese Government's extremely poor human rights record and longstanding severe repression of its citizens continued during the year. Citizens continued to live subject at any time and without appeal to the arbitrary and sometimes brutal dictates of the military regime. Citizens did not have the right to change their government. There continued to be credible reports, particularly in ethnic minority areas, that security forces committed serious human rights abuses, including extrajudicial killings and rape. Disappearances continued, and members of the security forces tortured, beat, and otherwise abused prisoners and detainees.

The judiciary is not independent and there is no effective rule of law.

The Government continued to restrict worker rights, ban unions, and use forced labor for public works and for the support of military garrisons. Forced labor, including forced child labor, remains a serious problem. The use of forced labor as porters by the army—with attendant mistreatment, illness, and sometimes death—remain a common practice. In November, 2000 the International Labor Organization ILO Governing Body judged that the Government had not taken effective action to deal with 'widespread and systematic' use of forced labor in the country and, for the first time in its history, called on all ILO members to apply sanctions to Burma. Child labor is also a problem and varies in severity depending on the country's region. Trafficking in persons, particularly in women and girls to Thailand and China, mostly for the purposes of prostitution, remain widespread.

As of September, 2000, the International Committee of the Red Cross had visited more than 35,000 prisoners in at least 30 prisons, including more than 1,800 political prisoners. The ICRC also has begun tackling the problem of the roughly 36,000 persons in forced labor camps.

The Government continued to infringe on citizens' privacy rights, and security forces continued to monitor citizens' movements and communications systematically, to search homes without warrants, and to relocate persons forcibly without just compensation or due process.

The SPDC continued to restrict severely freedom of speech, press assembly, and association. It has pressured many thousands of members to resign from the National League for Democracy, NLD, and closed party offices nationwide. Since 1990 the junta frequently prevented the NLD and other pro-democracy parties from conducting normal political activities. The junta recognizes the NLD as a legal entity; however, it refuses to accept the legal political status of key NLD party leaders, particularly the party's general secretary and 1991 Nobel Laureate, Aung San Suu Kyi, and restrict her activities severely through security measures and threats.

Furthermore, Human Rights Watch/Asia reports that children from ethnic minorities are forced to work under inhumane conditions for the Burmese Army, lacking adequate medical care and sometimes dying from beatings.

Last year, the UN Special Rapporteur on Burma, in a chilling and alarming account, puts the number of child soldiers at 50,000, the highest in the world. Sadly, the children most vulnerable to recruitment into the military are orphans, street children, and the children of ethnic minorities.

The same UN report also discusses the dire state of minorities in Burma who continue to be the targets of violence. Specifically, it details that the most frequently observed human rights violations aimed at minorities include extortion, rape, torture and other forms of physical abuse, forced labor, ''portering'', arbitrary arrests, long-term imprisonment, forcible relocation, and in some cases, extrajudicial executions. It also cites reports of massacres in the Shan state in the months of January, February, and May of 2000.

A 1998 International Labor Organization Commission of Inquiry determined that forced labor in Burma is practiced in a ''widespread and systematic manner, with total disregard for the human dignity, safety, health and basic needs of the people.''

Last August, California District Court Judge Ronald Lew found in one high-profile court case ''ample evidence in the record linking the Burmese Government's use of forced labor to human rights abuses.''

In sum, the Burmese military junta continues to commit such horrific and appalling human rights and worker rights violations that we have no choice but to unite with other nations around the world and take stronger action.

Even though the Burmese military junta has been terrorizing the 48 million people of Burma since it came to power in 1988 and has vowed to destroy the National League for Democracy, NLD, Aung San Suu Kyi, a remarkably courageous leader and very brave woman, manages to stand steadfast, like a living Statue of Liberty, in her undaunted quest and that of the Burmese people for democracy. We must never forget that she and her NLD colleagues won 392 of 485 seats in a democratic election held in 1990. But they have never been allowed to take office.

Aung San Suu Kyi, the 1991 Nobel Peace Prize winner, and countless others are denied freedom of association, speech and movement on a daily basis. Last summer, she came under renewed threats and intimidation. For example, her vehicle was forced off the road last August by Burmese security forces when she tried to travel outside Rangoon to meet with her NLD colleagues. She sat in her car on the roadside for a week until a midnight raid of 200 riot police forced her back to her home and placed her under house arrest until September 14, 2000. Nevertheless, she tried again on September 21st, but she was prevented from boarding a train. The pathetic excuse from the authorities for abridging her freedom to travel within Burma, on that occasion, was that all tickets had been sold out.

This Congress must answer anew the cry of the Burmese people and their courageous freedom-fighters. That is why I am introducing bipartisan legislation today, along with Senator JESSEE HELMS and several of our colleagues, to ban soaring imports from Burma, most of which are apparel and textiles sold by many brand-name American retailers. I am equally pleased that U.S. Congressman TOM LANTOS from California is introducing the companion bill in the U.S. House of Representatives this week.

Most Americans think that a trade ban with Burma already exists. Nothing could be further from the truth. When I began investigating U.S. trade with Burma last summer in concern with the National Labor Committee, I was chocked and alarmed to discover skyrocketing U.S. apparel and textile imports for example.

Last November I requested cable traffic between the U.S. Embassy in Burma and the U.S. State Department at Foggy Bottom to see exactly what officials in Washington, D.C. knew about soaring imports from Burma. It took nearly four months for me to get this unclassified cable traffic. But now I know why. Its contents are very troubling. It constitutes irrefutable evidence that current U.S. sanctions with Burma are far more apparent than real. They are far more bluster than bite. Consider the fact that the U.S. Government currently provides the Burmese military junta with very easy access to the U.S. apparel market because 95 percent of their exports are under no practical import restrictions at all.

Due to rising imports of apparel and textiles from Burma alone, more than $400 million dollars are now flowing into the coffers of the Burmese military dictatorship. These ruthless military dictators and their drug-trafficking cohorts are spending this hard currency to purchase more guns from China and to buy loyalty among their troops to continue their policy of extreme repression and human cruelty.

In other words, American consumers are unwittingly helping to sustain the repressive military junta's grip on power when buying travel and sports bags, women's underwear, jumpers, shorts, tank tops and towels made in the Burmese gulag. It is outrageous that many brand-name U.S. apparel companies such as FILA, Jordache, and Arrow Golf are making more and more of their clothes in the Burmese gulag where many workers earn as little as 7 cent/hour or $3.23/week and where production is non-stop—24 hours/day and 7 days/week.

Make no mistake about it. U.S. apparel imports from Burma are providing the SPDC with a growing source of critically-needed hard currency because the military dictators directly own or have taken de facto control of production in many apparel and textile factories. They are further enriched by a 5 percent export tax. As I said earlier, this hard currency is used to finance the purchase of new weapons and ammunition from China and elsewhere, thus helping to underwrite the perpetuation of modern-day slavery, forced labor and forced child labor in Burma.

But you don't have to take my work for it. U Maung Maung, the General Secretary of the Federation of Trade Unions in Burma, decried at a recent news conference in Washington, D.C., that ''the practice of purchasing garments made in Burma extends the continued exploitation of my people, including the use of slave labor by the regime, by further delaying the return of democratic government in Burma.'' At grave personal risk, he and other NLD leaders have disclosed the growing importance of exports to America and other foreign markets in helping sustain the Burmese military junta in power.

Some may question whether a ban on Burmese trade, including apparel and textile imports, might not harm American companies and consumers? Nothing could be further from the truth. Currently, U.S. apparel and textile imports from Burma account for less than one-half of one percent of total U.S. apparel and textile imports.

Others may assert that enactment of this legislation would violate WTO rules. Yes, Burma does belong to the WTO. Accordingly, the SPDC would have the standing technically to bring a formal complaint when this legislation is enacted. But our response to such a development should be bring it on. Let the Burmese generals argue before the WTO that they have the right to export products made by forced labor and child slaves and in flagrant violation of other internationally-recognized worker rights. This would clearly bring into focus the folly of writing rules for global trade that don't include enforceable worker rights, thus compelling workers in civilized trading nations to have to compete for their jobs de facto with forced labor in Burma.

America must answer the clarion call of the ILO and take a stronger stand in solidarity with the Burmese people and in defense of universal human rights and worker rights in that besieged nation. A trade ban with Burma will reaffirm the belief of the American people that increased trade with foreign countries must promote respect for human rights and worker rights as well as property rights. It will also signal American readiness to join in a new and stronger course of coordinated, multilateral action that is designed to force the Burmese generals from power once and for all and to satisfy the yearning of the Burmese people for democratic, self-government.

In closing, I also ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD and that four recent editorials from the Washington Post, the New York Times, and the Boston Globe calling attention to the profound and prolonged suffering of the Burmese people and the need for stronger action in the U.S. and around the world also be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 926

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The International Labor Organization (ILO), invoking an extraordinary constitutional procedure for the first time in its 82-year history, adopted in 2000 a resolution calling on the State Peace and Development Council to take concrete actions to end forced labor in Burma.

(2) In this resolution, the ILO recommended that governments, employers, and workers organizations take appropriate measures to ensure that their relations with the State Peace and Development Council do not abet the system of forced or compulsory labor in that country, and that other international bodies reconsider any cooperation they may be engaged in with Burma and, if appropriate, cease as soon as possible any activity that could abet the practice of forced or compulsory labor.

SEC. 2. UNITED STATES SUPPORT FOR MULTILATERAL ACTION TO END FORCED LABOR AND THE WORST FORMS OF CHILD LABOR IN BURMA.

(a) TRADE BAN.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, until such time as the President determines and certifies to Congress that Burma has met the conditions described in paragraph (2), no article that is produced, manufactured, or grown in Burma may be imported into the United States.

(2) CONDITIONS DESCRIBED.—The conditions described in this paragraph are the following:

(A) The State Peace and Development Council in Burma has made measurable and substantial progress in reversing the persistent pattern of gross violations of internationally-recognized human rights and worker rights, including the elimination of forced labor and the worst forms of child labor.

(B) The State Peace and Development Council in Burma has made measurable and substantial progress toward implementing a democratic government including—

(i) releasing all political prisoners; and

(ii) deepening, accelerating, and bringing to a mutually-acceptable conclusion the dialogue between the State Peace and Development Council (SPDC) and democratic leadership within Burma (including Aung San Suu Kyi and the National League for Democracy (NLD) and leaders of Burma's ethnic peoples).

(C) The State Peace and Development Council in Burma has made measurable and substantial progress toward full cooperation with United States counter-narcotics efforts pursuant to the terms of section 570(a)(1)(B) of Public Law 104–208, the Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 1997.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The provisions of this section shall apply to any article entered, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, on or after the 15th day after the date of enactment of this Act.

MYANMAR'S INCORRIGIBLE LEADERS

A few months ago it looked as if the military junta in Myanmar might ease its repressive rule slightly. The regime was talking with the country's courageous pro-democracy leader, Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, and there even seemed to be a possibility that she would be liberated from the prolonged house arrest the government has enforced. But those hopes have all but vanished. If the Bush administration means to speak out against human rights abuses abroad and pressure governments to treat their citizens humanely, Myanmar would be a fine place to start.

The military leaders of Myanmar, formerly called Burma, are among the world's cruelest violators of human rights. The junta has tortured and executed political opponents, exploited forced labor and condoned a burgeoning traffic in heroin and amphetamines. In the clearest indication that the regime has little intention of reforming, the United Nations special envoy who acted as a catalyst for the talks between the government and Mrs. Aung San Suu Kyi has been denied permission to visit the country since January. Also, an anticipated release of political prisoners has failed to materialize, as has a pledge by the junta that Mrs. Aung San Suu Kyi's party, the National League for Democracy, would be allowed to resume activity.

Earlier this year the junta released 120 mostly youthful members of the party who had been imprisoned the previous year, but it is still believed to be holding as many as 1,700 political prisoners, including 35 people who were elected to Parliament in 1990. Mrs. Aung San Suu Kyi's party won more than three-quarters of the seats in that election, but the junta annulled the results.

The United States and the European Union have cooperated to isolate Myanmar, and in 1997 the Clinton administration banned new American investments there. But some Asian countries have been reluctant to join in sanctions. China, in particular, has helped sustain the junta with military aid. Regrettably, last month Japan broke ranks with a Western-led 12-year ban on non-humanitarian assistance to Myanmar by approving a $29 million grant for a hydroelectric dam.

Last year the International Labor Organization, responding to concerns about forced labor, voted to urge governments and international donors to impose further sanctions on Myanmar. Washington should consider a ban on imports from that nation, including textiles. Myanmar is rapidly increasing apparel exports to the United States. Mrs. Aung San Suu Kyi's allies have argued that the hard-currency earnings primarily benefit the military, not the laborers who make the garments. Washington should certainly be using its influence with Japan and other Asian countries to deter any further non-humanitarian assistance.

[From the Boston Globe, May 7, 2001]

BURMA SANCTIONS' VALUE

When it comes to the military dictatorship ruling Burma, President Bush has an opportunity he should welcome to demonstrate the realism his advisers commend and, simultaneously, a firm commitment to America's democratic ideals.

The Burmese junta stands condemned by much of the world for its horrendous abuse of human rights, its complicity in the trafficking of heroin and methamphetamines, and its thwarting of the democratic government that was elected with 80 percent of the seats in Parliament in Burma's last free election, in 1990.

Currently, there are varying sanctions on the junta. The International Labor Organization, for the first time in its 81-year history, asked its members to sanction the regime for the continuing, brutal imposition of forced labor on Burmese and minority ethnic groups.

There are also European Union sanctions and restrictions imposed by the Clinton administration that prohibit new U.S. investment in Burma and ban senior officials in the regime from obtaining visas to enter the United States.

Although it is far from clear that the junta intends to permit a revival of democracy, there is little doubt that it has engaged in talks with Nobel Peace Prize winner Aung San Suu Kyi—who is held under virtual house arrest in Rangoon—in large part because of the unremitting pressure of sanctions.

As a result of sanctions, the officers in power cannot disguise their bankrupting of what had been one of Asia's most literate and resource-rich countries. Even the junta's principal sponsor for membership in the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, Prime Minister Mahathir Mohammad of Malaysia, has counseled Burma's ruling officers to ease the embarrassment of their fellow ASEAN members by opening a dialogue with Suu Kyi.

In a letter last month to Bush, 35 senators including Edward Kennedy and John Kerry made a strong case for maintaining sanctions, noting that ''the sanctions have been partially responsible for prompting the regime to engage in political dialogue with Aung San Suu Kyi and her supporters.'' The letter also said there is ''strong evidence directly linking members of the regime to'' the trafficking of ''the heroin which plagues our communities.''

Bush should insist that the junta take measurable steps toward the retrieval of democracy in Burma, and not merely for altruistic reasons. Next to the regime in North Korea, the Burmese junta has been Beijing's chummiest ally, permitting China to project its burgeoning power into the Bay of Bengal, to the dismay of India.

Were a democratic government to replace the junta, neighboring Thailand, which is now suffering from an influx of drugs from Burma, would join India and the rest of the region in breathing a sigh of relief.

[From the Washington Post, Nov. 26, 2000]

A REBUKE TO FORCED LABOR

Not in 81 years had the International Labor Organization imposed such sanctions; but Burma is a special case. The ILO, a United Nations arm in which unions, businesses and governments participate, found that the Asian nation also known as Myanmar has so flagrantly violated international norms that sanctions had to be imposed. In particular, its ruling generals were found guilty of encouraging forced and slave labor in ''a culture of fear.''

Burma is a special case in part because its dictators cannot even pretend to reflect the will of their people. In 1990, they permitted a national election. A pro-democracy party headed by Aung San Suu Kyi, daughter of Burma's hero of independence, won four out of five parliamentary seats. But parliament never met; the generals refused to accept the results. Aung San Suu Kyi, who won the Nobel peace prize in 1991, is under house arrest; most of her party colleagues are in prison. The generals grow more corrupt while Burma grows ever poorer.

The ILO sanctions approved last week are, as AFL-CIO president John Sweeney said, ''only a starting point.'' Nations are ''urged to halt any aid, trade or relationship that helps Burmese leaders remain in power,'' he said. The United States already has imposed restrictions on investment, but that hasn't stopped companies such as Unocal from mounting major efforts in the country. Nor has it prevented trade, much of which enriches only the generals.

Companies that do business in Burma now more than ever will have to explain themselves. So will nations that sought to water down the ILO action, including fellow autocracies like Malaysia and China and, more surprisingly, democracies like India and Japan. Those nations, though, found themselves very much in the minority, just as Burma finds itself more isolated than ever.

[From the New York Times, Nov. 19, 2000]

THE RUIN OF MYANMAR

The Southeast Asian nation of Myanmar is a case study in repression and misgovernment. For 12 years a secretive military junta has ground down the liberties and living standards of 50 million people. By banning most contact with the outside world and buying off the leadership of restive ethnic minorities, the junta has deflected serious challenges to its rule, despite the dismal failure of its economic policies and spreading social ills.

The military has ruled Myanmar since 1962, when it was known as Burma. After the violent suppression of democracy movement in 1988, an even more ruthless set of generals took charge. They permitted elections in 1990, then ignored the results when democratic forces led by Daw Aung Sang Suu Kyi won an overwhelming victory. She has spent 6 of the past 11 years under house arrest. Other leaders of her party have been relentlessly persecuted, university students have been relocated from the cities, and unions and civic associations have been prohibited. The junta has banned computer modems, e-mail and the Internet and made it a crime for people to invite foreigners into their homes.

The Times's Blaine Harden recently reported that Myanmar, which a half-century ago had one of Asia's best health care systems and highest literacy rates, is now near the bottom in these and many other measures of development as government spending has been diverted from schools and health care to the military. Most people now live on less than a dollar a day. Drug smuggling and AIDS have grown explosively and threaten to spill over to neighboring countries like China and Thailand.

The United States has led international efforts to isolate Myanmar through economic sanctions, including a ban on new investment. But other Asian countries have been reluctant to apply pressure. China, in particular, has helped sustain the junta through military aid. But an increasing number of countries are losing patience. Last week the 175-member International Labor Organization took the unusual step of condemning the junta's use of forced labor and invited member countries to impose sanctions. A good start would be restricting trade and investment in areas of the economy that profit from forced labor. Washington too should consider additional steps like encouraging disinvestment by American companies. Myanmar's people deserve international support in their struggle against a destructive tyranny.

By Mr. CORZINE:

S. 927. A bill to amend title 23, United States Code, to provide for a prohibition on use of mobile telephones while operating a motor vehicle; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, today I am introducing a bill, the Mobile Telephone Driving Safety Act of 2001, to enhance highway safety by encouraging States to restrict the use of cell phones while operating a motor vehicle.

The cell phone is an important and valuable type of technology that has grown increasingly popular throughout our nation. But as cell phone use has grown, so has a related problem, the increasing number of traffic accidents caused by drivers who are distracted by cell phone use.

The risks of driving while talking on the phone were made very clear to many Americans when on April 29, 2001 a car containing model Nikki Taylor crashed into a utility pole. The driver of the car admitted that he had been distracted from operating the car when he tried to answer his cellular telephone. That few second distraction was all that was necessary to cause the crash. As a result, Ms. Taylor suffered severe and life-threatening injuries.

Unfortunately, Ms. Taylor's case is just the most visible recent example of a much broader problem. Several studies have established that using a cell phone while driving substantially increases the risk of an accident. One, published in the New England Journal of Medicine, concluded that ''use of cellular telephones in motor vehicles is associated with a quadrupling of the risks of a collision during the brief period of a call''. The study goes on to say ''this relative risk is similar to the hazard associated with driving with a blood alcohol level at the legal limit''.

In response to the growing problem of cell phone use while driving, counties and municipalities around the country, including two municipalities in my own State of New Jersey, have banned the use of cell phones while driving on their roads. Just recently, Governor Pataki of New York endorsed similar statewide legislation. Yet, at this point, no State has actually enacted such a law. Many cite strong industry resistance to explain the failure of state legislatures to act.

While some wireless industry representatives may resist cell phone driving safety legislation, the American people strongly support the idea. A recent poll by Quinnipiac University showed that 87 percent of New York voters support such a ban. This survey echoes the results from other surveys taken nationwide.

In addition to preventing accidents and saving lives, a ban on cell phone use while driving also would help lower the cost of auto insurance. That is especially important to me because I represent a state in which insurance premiums are among the highest in the nation.

The Mobile Telephone Driving Safety Act of 2001 is structured in a manner similar to other Federal laws designed to promote highway safety, such as laws that encourage states to enact tough drunk driving standards. Under the legislation, a portion of Federal highway funds would be withheld from States that do not enact a ban on cell phone use while driving. Initially, this funding could be restored if states act to move into compliance. Later, the highway funding forfeited by one state would be distributed to other states that are in compliance. Experience has shown that the threat of losing highway funding is very effective in ensuring that states comply.

To meet the bill's requirements, States would have to ban cell phone use while driving. However, such a ban need not be absolute. It could include an exception where there are exceptional circumstances, such as the use of a phone to report a disabled vehicle or medical emergency. In addition, if a state makes a determination that the use of ''hands free'' cell phones does not pose a threat to public safety, such use could be exempted from the ban, as well.

This is a necessary bill to keep our streets and highways safe. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

By Mr. JEFFORDS (for himself, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mr. FEINGOLD):

S. 928. A bill to amend the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 to require, as a condition of receipt or use of Federal financial assistance, that States waive immunity to suit for certain violations of that Act, and to affirm the availability of certain suits for injunctive relief to ensure compliance with that Act; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I am pleased to be here today to introduce legislation that will restore to state employees the ability to bring claims of age discrimination against their employers under the Age Discrimination and Employment Act of 1967. The Older Workers Rights Restoration Act of 2001 seeks to provide state employees who allege age discrimination the same procedures and remedies as those afforded to other employees with respect to ADEA.

This legislation is needed to protect older workers like Professor Dan Kimel, who has taught physics Florida State University for nearly 35 years. Professor Kimel testified at a recent hearing before the Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee that, despite his years of faithful service, in 1992 he was earning less in real dollars than his starting salary. To add insult to injury, his employer was hiring younger faculty out of graduate schools at salaries that were higher than he and other long-service faculty members were earning. In 1995, Professor Kimel and 34 colleagues brought a claim of age discrimination against the Florida Board of Regents.

Dan Kimel and his colleagues brought their cases under the Age Discrimination and Employment Act of 1967, ADEA. In 1974, Congress amended the ADEA to ensure that state employees, such as Dan Kimel had full protection against age discrimination. I stand before you today because this past year the Supreme Court ruled that Dan Kimel and other affected faculty do not have the right to bring their ADEA claims against their employer. The Court in Kimel v. Florida Board of Regents, held that Congress did not have the power to abrogate state sovereign immunity to individuals under the ADEA. As a result of the decision, state employees, who are victims of age discrimination, no longer have the remedies that are available to individuals who work in the private sector, for local governments or for the federal government. Indeed, unless a state chooses to waive its sovereign immunity or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission decides to bring a suit, state workers no longer have a federal remedy for their claims of age discrimination. In effect, this decision has transformed older state employees into second class citizens.

For a right without a remedy is no right at all. Employees should not have to lose their right to redress simply because they happen to work for a state government. And a considerable portion of our workforce has been impacted. In Vermont, for example, the State is one of our largest employers. We cannot and should not permit these state workers to lose the right to redress age discrimination.

This legislation will resolve this problem. The Older Workers Rights Restoration Act of 2001 will restore the full protections of the ADEA to Dan Kimel and countless other state employees in federally assisted programs. The legislation will do this by requiring the states to waive their sovereign immunity as a condition of receiving federal funds for their programs or activities. The Older Workers Rights Restoration Act of 2001 follows the framework of many other civil rights laws, including the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1987. Under this framework, immunity is only waived with regard to the program or activity actually receiving federal funds. States are not obligated to accept such funds; and if they do not they are immune from private ADEA suits. The legislation also confirms that these employees may bring actions for equitable relief under the ADEA.

I urge all my colleagues to join me in supporting this bill.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 928

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the ''Older Workers' Rights Restoration Act of 2001''.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) Since 1974, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (29 U.S.C. 621 et seq.) has prohibited States from discriminating in employment on the basis of age. In EEOC v. Wyoming, 460 U.S. 226 (1983), the Supreme Court upheld Congress' constitutional authority to prohibit States from discriminating in employment on the basis of age. The prohibitions of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 remain in effect and continue to apply to the States, as the prohibitions have for more than 25 years.

(2) Age discrimination in employment remains a serious problem both nationally and among State agencies, and has invidious effects on its victims, the labor force, and the economy as a whole. For example, age discrimination in employment—

(A) increases the risk of unemployment among older workers, who will as a result be more likely to be dependent on government resources;

(B) prevents the best use of available labor resources;

(C) adversely effects the morale and productivity of older workers; and

(D) perpetuates unwarranted stereotypes about the abilities of older workers.

(3) Private civil suits by the victims of employment discrimination have been a crucial tool for enforcement of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 since the enactment of that Act. In Kimel v. Florida Board of Regents, 120 S. Ct. 631 (2000), however, the Supreme Court held that Congress lacks the power under the 14th amendment to the Constitution to abrogate State sovereign immunity to suits by individuals under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967. The Federal Government has an important interest in ensuring that Federal financial assistance is not used to subsidize or facilitate violations of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967. Private civil suits are a critical tool for advancing that interest.

(4) As a result of the Kimel decision, although age-based discrimination by State employers remains unlawful, the victims of such discrimination lack important remedies for vindication of their rights that are available to all other employees covered under that Act, including employees in the private sector, local government, and the Federal Government. Unless a State chooses to waive sovereign immunity, or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission brings an action on their behalf, State employees victimized by violations of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 have no adequate Federal remedy for violations of that Act. In the absence of the deterrent effect that such remedies provide, there is a greater likelihood that entities carrying out programs and activities receiving Federal financial assistance will use that assistance to violate that Act, or that the assistance will otherwise subsidize or facilitate violations of that Act.

(5) Federal law has long treated nondiscrimination obligations as a core component of programs or activities that, in whole or part, receive Federal financial assistance. That assistance should not be used, directly or indirectly, to subsidize invidious discrimination. Assuring nondiscrimination in employment is a crucial aspect of assuring nondiscrimination in those programs and activities.

(6) Discrimination on the basis of age in programs or activities receiving Federal financial assistance is, in contexts other than employment, forbidden by the Age Discrimination Act of 1975 (42 U.S.C. 6101 et seq.). Congress determined that it was not necessary for the Age Discrimination Act of 1975 to apply to employment discrimination because the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 already forbade discrimination in employment by, and authorized suits against, State agencies and other entities that receive Federal financial assistance. In section 1003 of the Rehabilitation Act Amendments of 1986 (42 U.S.C. 2000d–7), Congress required all State recipients of Federal financial assistance to waive any immunity from suit for discrimination claims arising under the Age Discrimination Act of 1975. The earlier limitation in the Age Discrimination Act of 1975, originally intended only to avoid duplicative coverage and remedies, has in the wake of the Kimel decision become a serious loophole leaving millions of State employees without an important Federal remedy for age discrimination, resulting in the use of Federal financial assistance to subsidize or facilitate violations of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967.

(7) The Supreme Court has upheld Congress' authority to condition receipt of Federal financial assistance on acceptance by the States or other recipients of conditions regarding or related to the use of that assistance, as in Cannon v. University of Chicago, 441 U.S. 677 (1979). The Court has further recognized that Congress may require a State, as a condition of receipt of Federal financial assistance, to waive the State's sovereign immunity to suits for a violation of Federal law, as in College Savings Bank v. Florida Prepaid Postsecondary Education Expense Board, 527 U.S. 666 (1999). In the wake of the Kimel decision, in order to assure compliance with, and to provide effective remedies for violations of, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 in State programs or activities receiving or using Federal financial assistance, and in order to ensure that Federal financial assistance does not subsidize or facilitate violations of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, it is necessary to require such a waiver as a condition of receipt or use of that assistance.

(8) A State's receipt or use of Federal financial assistance in any program or activity of a State will constitute a limited waiver of sovereign immunity under section 7(g) of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (as added by section 4 of this Act). The waiver will not eliminate a State's immunity with respect to programs or activities that do not receive or use Federal financial assistance. The State will waive sovereign immunity only with respect to suits under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 brought by employees within the programs or activities that receive or use that assistance. With regard to those programs and activities that are covered by the waiver, the State employees will be accorded only the same remedies that are accorded to other covered employees under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967.

(9) The Supreme Court has repeatedly held that State sovereign immunity does not bar suits for prospective injunctive relief brought against State officials, as in Ex parte Young, 209 U.S. 123 (1908). Clarification of the language of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 will confirm that that Act authorizes such suits. The injunctive relief available in such suits will continue to be no broader than the injunctive relief that was available under that Act before the Kimel decision, and that is available to all other employees under that Act.

SEC. 3. PURPOSES.

The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to provide to State employees in programs or activities that receive or use Federal financial assistance the same rights and remedies for practices violating the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 as are available to other employees under that Act, and that were available to State employees prior to the Supreme Court's decision in Kimel v. Florida Board of Regents, 120 S. Ct. 631 (2000);

(2) to provide that the receipt or use of Federal financial assistance for a program or activity constitutes a State waiver of sovereign immunity from suits by employees within that program or activity for violations of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967; and

(3) to affirm that suits for injunctive relief are available against State officials in their official capacities for violations of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967.

SEC. 4. REMEDIES FOR STATE EMPLOYEES.

Section 7 of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (29 U.S.C. 626) is amended by adding at the end the following:

''(g)(1)(A) A State's receipt or use of Federal financial assistance for any program or activity of a State shall constitute a waiver of sovereign immunity, under the 11th amendment to the Constitution or otherwise, to a suit brought by an employee of that program or activity under this Act for equitable, legal, or other relief authorized under this Act.

''(B) In this paragraph, the term 'program or activity' has the meaning given the term in section 309 of the Age Discrimination Act of 1975 (42 U.S.C. 6107).

''(2) An official of a State may be sued in the official capacity of the official by any employee who has complied with the procedures of subsections (d) and (e), for injunctive relief that is authorized under this Act. In such a suit the court may award to the prevailing party those costs authorized by section 722 of the Revised Statutes (42 U.S.C. 1988).''.

SEC. 5. SEVERABILITY.

If any provision of this Act, an amendment made by this Act, or the application of such provision or amendment to any person or circumstance is held to be invalid, the remainder of this Act, the amendments made by this Act, and the application of such provision or amendment to another person or circumstance shall not be affected.

SEC. 6. EFFECTIVE DATE.

(a) WAIVER OF SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY.—With respect to a particular program or activity, section 7(g)(1) of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (29 U.S.C. 626(g)(1)) applies to conduct occurring on or after the day, after the date of enactment of this Act, on which a State first receives or uses Federal financial assistance for that program or activity.

(b) SUITS AGAINST OFFICIALS.—Section 7(g)(2) of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (29 U.S.C. 626(g)(2)) applies to any suit pending on or after the date of enactment of this Act.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I am honored today to join Chairman JEFFORDS and Senator FEINGOLD to introduce the Older Workers' Rights Restoration Act of 2001. Our goal is to restore to older state government workers the right to seek remedies for age discrimination. A recent decision by the Supreme Court took that right away. State workers now have fewer federal protections against age discrimination than other employees in the country. This bill will remedy that injustice.

In 1967, Congress outlawed age discrimination in employment in the private sector by passing the Age Discrimination in Employment Act. In 1974, recognizing that employees of state government agencies were also often subject to pervasive and arbitrary age discrimination, Congress extended the Act to cover state governments. For more than 25 years, state employees were protected from age discrimination, and had the same remedies as all other employees covered by this law.

But in Kimel v. Florida Board of Regents, decided last year, the Supreme Court held that Congress lacked the power to subject states to suits under the federal age discrimination laws. As a result, unless a state agrees to allow suits against its agencies in such cases, state employees cannot seek relief on their own behalf to remedy age discrimination.

In a recent hearing before the Labor Committee, I was privileged to hear the eloquent testimony of Dr. J. Daniel Kimel, the plaintiff in the Supreme Court case. Dr. Kimel has been a professor of physics at Florida State University for 35 years and is paid less than younger faculty. Because of the Supreme Court's ruling, Dr. Kimel has been unable to seek any remedy at all for this age-based salary discrimination.

Large numbers of State employees, those who work for State colleges and universities, State police forces, State departments of transportation, State environmental protection agencies and many other State agencies, lack effective Federal remedies for age discrimination. That result is unfair. These State workers are vulnerable to age discrimination, which wastes valuable talent and adversely affects morale.

No worker should be subject to discriminatory hiring, firing, or other job action based on age or any other characteristic that has nothing to do with job performance. We must act to see that workers are adequately protected against this threat.

The bill that Chairman JEFFORDS, Senator FEINGOLD and I are introducing today is in the best tradition of the nation's civil rights laws. It provides that when a State program receives Federal tax dollars, the program must permit its employees to seek remedies under the Federal age discrimination law. The courts have long recognized that Congress can act to see that Federal funds are not used to subsidize discrimination, and this is what our bill will do. In fact, all of the scholars who testified in our Committee hearing agree that this is an appropriate and constitutional use of Congress' power.

This important bill will help to ensure that all Americans are protected from age discrimination in employment. I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this needed legislation.

By Mr. HUTCHINSON:

S. 929. A bill to amend the National Labor Relations Act to preserve charitable giving; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. HUTCHINSON. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Preserve Charitable Giving Act. I am proud of this legislation but am profoundly saddened that it has become necessary.

Aggressive union organizing tactics have made this legislation necessary because those tactics have forced many of our nation's largest retailers who allow charities to solicit donations on their premises to also give unions access to their premises for the express purpose of organizing or face a flurry of unfair labor practice charges. When faced with this situation, these retailers are thus forced to deny access to everyone, resulting in a loss of charitable donations. The magnitude of this loss cannot be overstated, as charitable donations raised through Wal*Mart alone are over $127 million annually. This means that there are now fewer hot meals for the hungry, fewer toys for poor children, and less clothing and shelter for the homeless.

This is unacceptable. Companies should not be forced to choose between furthering charity or increasing union membership. The Preserve Charitable Giving Act will clarity the National Labor Relations Act so that retailers who choose to allow access to their premises for charitable solicitations will not also be forced to give access for union organizing purposes. Thus, I ask my colleagues to preserve charitable giving by helping to enact this legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 2. PROPERTY ACCESS.

Section 8(a)(1) of the National Labor Relations Act is amended by adding after ''section 7'' the following: ''Provided, That in the case of a published, written, or posted no solicitation or no access rule, an exception for charitable, eleemosynary, or other beneficent purposes shall not be grounds for finding an unfair labor practice''.

By Mr. MCCAIN:

S. 930. A bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to set aside up to $2 per person from park entrance fees or assess up to $2 per person visiting the Grand Canyon National Park to secure bonds for capital improvements, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce legislation that will authorize the Secretary of Interior to develop and implement a bonding program to help finance capital improvement projects at the Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona.

For the past few years, I have worked on legislation to implement a national parks bonding program to benefit the National Parks system by proposing a unique public-private partnership mechanism to finance capital improvements through bond revenues. This legislation has received substantial support by many of the organizations working with the National Parks system. The legislation I am introducing today is similar to the National Parks Capital Improvements Act of 2001, but it specifically authorizes a park-specific bonding program for the Grand Canyon National Park in my home state of Arizona.

This park-specific proposal is similar to actions taken back in the late 1980's to legislate a solution to the air traffic and noise pollution problems affecting the Grand Canyon National Park caused by overflights over the canyon. Congress enacted legislation to require specific measures to mitigate air traffic through the National Parks Overflights Act. Once a framework for the Grand Canyon National Park was established, it became clear that broader legislation was necessary to address similar overflights issues to promote safety and quiet in the entire national parks system.

Much in the same way, I am proposing to allow the Secretary of Interior to utilize the bonding mechanism at the Grand Canyon National Park, in partnership with a supporting organization. Bonding has worked well in other governmental sectors to leverage additional financing for local projects where federal or state resources are not otherwise sufficient or available.

This bonding legislation, as well as the broader national parks bonding bill, would allow the Grand Canyon National Park to utilize up to $2 of its existing fee structure to dedicate to securing bonds to finance capital improvement projects. For example, based on current visitation rates at the Grand Canyon, a $2 surcharge would enable us to raise $100 million from a bond issue amortized over 20 years. That is a significant amount of money which could be used to accomplish many critical park projects. With approximately 1.2 million acres to protect, this type of financial tool would go far to help redress the backlog of needed repairs, maintenance and other approved projects at the Grand Canyon National Park.

I remain committed to broader legislation to implement a park-wide bonding program. However, I am proposing that we should also consider testing this innovative approach by authorizing its use to help protect one of the nation's largest and most magnificent parks, the Grand Canyon.

I ask unanimous consent to print the text of this bill in the RECORD.

S. 932. A bill to amend the Food Security Act of 1985 to establish the conservation security program; to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, today I am introducing the Conservation Security Act of 2001, a bill that represents a fresh bipartisan farmer-friendly approach to farm policy and agricultural conservation. I am pleased to be joined by my colleague Senator GORDAN SMITH from Oregon, as well as Senators DASCHLE, LEAHY, DORGAN, JOHNSON, DAYTON, SCHUMER, CLINTON, STABENOW, KOHL, SARBANES, KERRY, KENNEDY, WELLSTONE, DURBIN, and BOXER.

America's farmers and ranches produce a bountiful, safe, and nourishing food supply, and they also protect our natural resources, environment and wildlife habitat. Farmers and ranches have a long history of stewardship of private lands. They are the key to enhancing conservation of resources for future generations.

Private land conservation became a national priority in the days of the Dust Bowl, leading to the creation in the 1930s of the Soil Conservation Service, (now the Natural Resources Conservation Service), at the Department of Agriculture. With the very foundation of our food supply at risk, the federal government stepped forward with billions of dollars in assistance to help farmers conserve their precious soils.

Since that time, total federal spending on conservation has steadily declined in inflation-adjusted dollars. Funds for lands in production have been especially hard hit. Yet today, agriculture faces a wide range of environmental challenges, from overgrazing and manure management to cropland runoff and air quality impairment. Urban and rural citizens alike are increasingly interested in supporting conservation on agricultural lands.

Farmers and ranchers pride themselves on being good stewards of the land, but they are limited by financial constraints. Every dollar spent on constructing a filter strip or developing a nutrient management plan is a dollar unavailable for other purposes. And even in better times, there is a lot of competition for each dollar in a farm's budget.

Who benefits from conservation on agricultural lands? As much or more than farmers, all of us, depend on the careful stewardship of our air, water, soil and other natural resources. Farmers and ranchers tend not only to their crops and animals, but also to our nation's natural resources.

Since all Americans share in these benefits, it is only right that we contribute to conserving private lands. It is time to enter into a true conservation partnership with farmers and ranchers to help ensure hat conservation is an integral and permanent part of our agricultural policy nationwide.

In the 1985 farm bill, we required farmers who wanted to participate in USDA farm programs to develop soil conservation plans for their highly erodible land. This provision helped put new conservation plans in place for our most fragile farmlands. In the most recent farm bill, we streamlined conservation programs and established new cost-share and incentive payments for certain practices. These measures have helped enhance the environment and natural resources, but we still have more to do.

The Conservation Security Act of 2001 builds on our past successes and takes a bold step forward in farm and conservation policy.

The Conservation Security Act would establish a universal and voluntary incentive payment program, the Conservation Security Program, to support and encourage conservation activities by farmers and ranchers. Under this program, farmers and ranchers could receive as much as $50,000 a year in conservation payments by entering into 5- to 10-year agreements with USDA and carrying out eligible conservation practices. Moreover, the program is designed to encourage implementation of practices that address local conservation priorities. Payments are based on the number and types of practices and level of conservation carried out on their lands in agricultural production. Farmers and ranchers may choose to implement practices from one or more of the following three tiers of practices.

In Tier I, participating farmers would adopt or maintain basic individual practices, including nutrient management, soil conservation, and wildlife habitat management on part or all of their operation. Tier I plans are for 5-year periods. Based on enrolled acreage, practices and the level of conservation, farmers or ranchers in Tier I would receive annual payments that could reach as much as $20,000. A one-time advance payment could be made of the greater of $1,000 or 20 percent of the annual payment.

Farmers or ranchers in Tier II would implement more extensive conservation practices on their working lands. They could choose from Tier I practices and practices II practices, including controlled rotational grazing, partial field practices like buffers strips and windbreaks, wetland restoration and wildlife habitat enhancement, for a period of 5 to 10 years, at the farmer's discretion. The practices adopted in Tier II must address at least one resource of concern (i.e. water quality, air quality, soil quality, wildlife habitat, etc.) for the entire operation. For adopting or maintaining Tier II practices, farmers or ranchers would receive up to $35,000 a year with access to a one-time advance payment of the greater of $2,000 or 20 percent of the annual payment.

To qualify under Tier III, farmers and ranchers would adopt a comprehensive set of conservation practices on the entire operation. The Practices would address all resources of concern on the operation, including air, land, water and wildlife. For carrying out a Tier III plan of practices, farmers and ranchers would receive up to $50,000 a year with access to a one-time advance payment of the greater of $3,000 or 20 percent of the annual payment.

Again, I emphasize, the Conservation Security Program would be totally voluntary. Farmers and ranchers would decide if they want to participate and to what extent they want to participate. The more conservation they do, the greater the payment. Many farmers are already using many of these practices, but they receive little or no financial support. This legislation changes that by rewarding those farmers and ranchers who have already implemented these practices through payments for maintaining them.

In addition, the Conservation Security Act provides a strong incentive to go beyond the farm's current level of conservation. And it does so in a way that is compatible with our international trade obligations. The payments received under the Conservation Security Program would fit into the ''Green Box'' under the WTO Uruguay Round.

Payments received under the Conservation Security Program are not linked to participation in commodity programs, and farmers don't have to participate in the Conservation Security Program to be eligible for commodity payments. Further, the Conservation Security Act, which focuses on land in production, complements and does not interfere with the existing conservation programs. A farmer or rancher may participate in these programs, including the Conservation Reserve Program, the Wetlands Reserve Program, and the Farmland Protection Program and still participate in the Conservation Security Program. We need to support these and the other conservation programs, but to truly benefit agriculture and address the public's desire to enhance the environment, natural resources and wildlife habitat on agricultural land we must also address conservation needs on land in production.

Farmers and ranchers across our country want to take actions to enhance the environment, but they need financial and technical assistance. The Conservation Security Act provides that needed assistance. Further, the Conservation Security Act was crafted to include opportunities for all producers nationwide, including producers of fruits, vegetables, speciality crops, row crops and livestock to participate in the Conservation Security Program.

Our private lands are a national treasure, and conservation on farm and ranchlands provides environmental benefits that are just as important as the production of abundant and safe food. The Conservation Security Act will help secure the economic future of our farmers and ranchers by providing them the means to increase their income while conserving our natural resources, the environment, and wildlife habitat for today and for future generations.

I thank the Chair.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 932

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the ''Conservation Security Act of 2001''.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) in addition to producing food and fiber, agricultural producers can contribute to the public good by providing improved soil productivity, clean air and water, fish and wildlife habitat, landscape and recreational amenities, and other natural resources and environmental benefits;

(2) agricultural producers in the United States have a long history of embracing environmentally friendly conservation practices and desire to continue those practices and engage in new and additional conservation practices;

(3) agricultural producers that engage in conservation practices—

(A) may not receive economic rewards for implementing conservation practices; and

(B) should be encouraged to engage in good stewardship, and should be rewarded for doing so;

(4) despite significant progress in recent years, significant environmental challenges on agricultural land remain;

(5) since the 1930's, when agricultural conservation became a national priority, Federal resources for conservation assistance have declined over 50 percent, when adjusted for inflation;

(6) existing conservation programs do not provide opportunities for all interested agricultural producers to participate;

(7) a voluntary, incentive-based conservation program open to all agricultural producers that qualify and desire to participate would—

(A) encourage greater improvement of natural resources and the environment;

(B) address the economic implications of conservation practices in a manner consistent with international obligations of the United States;

(C) enable United States farmers and ranchers to produce food for a growing world population; and

(D) encourage conservation practices that provide a public benefit while not infringing on the freedom of an agricultural producer to manage agricultural operations as the agricultural producer chooses;

(8) total farm conservation planning can help producers increase profitability, enhance resource protection, and improve quality of life;

(9) on-farm practices may help deter invasive species that jeopardize native species or impair agricultural land of the United States; and

(10) a conservation program described in paragraph (7) would help achieve a better balance between Federal payments supporting conservation on land used for agricultural production and Federal payments for the purpose of retiring agricultural land from production.

SEC. 4. REGULATIONS.

The Secretary of Agriculture shall promulgate such regulations as are necessary to carry out this Act and the amendments made by this Act.

By Mr. JEFFORDS (for himself, Mrs. CLINTON, Mr. LEAHY, Mr. LIEBERMAN, and Mr. SCHUMER):

S. 933. A bill to amend the Federal Power Act to encourage the development and deployment of innovative and efficient energy technologies; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce, with Senators CLINTON, LEAHY, LIEBERMAN, and SCHUMER, the Combined Heat and Power Advancement Act of 2001. This legislation ensures that highly efficient sources of electricity, such as combined heat and power systems, are able to interconnect nationwide with the electricity grid by establishing uniform and nondiscriminatory interconnection standards. Enabling these innovative, clean, and efficient technologies to come online will reduce energy costs and help protect public health and the environment.

Last week, President bush released the National Energy Policy Development Group's comprehensive energy plan. I am pleased this plan includes recommendations related to increasing energy conservation and efficiency. Specially, the plan recommends the development of well-designed combined heat and power, CHP, systems.

I am heartened that President Bush recognizes the positive impact that CHP systems can have on our nation's energy needs. These innovative systems produce both electricity and steam from a single fuel source in a facility located near the consumer. By recovering and utilizing waste heat, these systems save fuel that would otherwise be needed to produce heat or steam in a separate unit. CHP systems can reach energy efficiency levels in excess of 80 percent. This is well above the 33 percent average for conventional electrical generation technologies. In short, the U.S. can obtain more than twice the power from the same amount of energy by widely implementing combined heat and power technologies and applications.

Unfortunately, several regulatory and policy barriers block the widespread use of these innovative technologies. The bill would ensure that CHP systems and other innovative technologies can interconnect with a local distribution utility and that the costs of such interconnections shall be just reasonable, and not unduly discriminatory.

Currently, there are roughly 50 Gigawatts, GW, of energy produced from CHP systems annually. If this barrier is removed, 50 GW of additional CHP electrical generating capacity could be brought to market by 2010. To illustrate the magnitude of potential savings to the entire nation, the result of this additional capacity is equal to all the energy needed to power Massachusetts. Most of these systems are targeted for industry, where thermal and electrical needs are most often located close together. However, there is also tremendous potential for CHP in homes. Fifty GW of CHP could light and heat 50 million homes, or 43 percent of all U.S. homes, for the same energy that the central station plans could only light the homes. With removal of regulatory barriers, these efficient systems may begin to be economical at the small sizes suitable for homes.

We cannot solve today's energy problems with yesterday's solutions. CHP represents an innovative approach to expanding energy supply by maximizing energy efficiency. These systems will encourage technological innovations, reduce energy prices, spur economic development, enhance productivity, increase employment, improve environmental quality, and advance energy security and reliability in the United States.

I invite my colleagues to join me in my efforts to promote combined heat and power by co-sponsoring this important legislation. I ask that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 933

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the ''Combined Heat and Power Advancement Act of 2001''.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) the removal of barriers to the development and deployment of combined heat and power technologies and systems, an example of an array of innovative energy-supply and energy-efficient technologies and systems, would—

(A) encourage technological innovation;

(B) reduce energy prices;

(C) spur economic development;

(D) enhance productivity;

(E) increase employment; and

(F) improve environmental quality and energy self-sufficiency;

(2) the level of efficiency of the United States electricity-generating system has been stagnant over the past several decades;

(3) technologies and systems available as of the date of enactment of this Act, including a host of innovative onsite, distributed generation technologies, could—

(A) dramatically increase productivity;

(B) double the efficiency of the United States electricity-generating system; and

(C) reduce emissions of regulated pollutants and greenhouse gases;

(4) innovative electric technologies emit a much lower level of pollutants as compared to the average quantity of pollutants generated by United States electric generating plants as of the date of enactment of this Act;

(5) a significant proportion of the United States energy infrastructure will need to be replaced by 2010;

(6) the public interest would best be served if that infrastructure were replaced by innovative technologies that dramatically increase productivity, improve efficiency, and reduce pollution;

(7) financing and regulatory practices in effect as of the date of enactment of this Act do not recognize the environmental and economic benefits to be obtained from the avoidance of transmission and distribution losses, and the reduced load on the electricity-generating system, provided by onsite, combined heat and power production;

(8) many legal, regulatory, informational, and perceptual barriers block the development and dissemination of combined heat and power and other innovative energy technologies; and

(9) because of those barriers, United States taxpayers are not receiving the benefits of the substantial research and development investment in innovative energy technologies made by the Federal Government.

SEC. 3. PURPOSE.

The purpose of this Act is to encourage energy productivity and efficiency increases by removing barriers to the development and deployment of combined heat and power technologies and systems.

By Mr. BURNS (for himself and Mr. BAUCUS):

S. 934. A bill to require the Secretary of the Interior to construct the Rocky Boy's North Central Montana Regional Water System in the State of Montana, to offer to enter into an agreement with the Chippewa Cree Tribe to plan, design, construct, operate, maintain and replace the rocky Boy's Rural Water System, and to provide assistance to the North Central Montana Regional Water Authority for the planning, design, and construction of the noncore system, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. BURNS. Mr. President, I am pleased today to join my colleague from Montana, Senator BAUCUS, in introducing the Rocky Boy's/North Central Montana Regional Water System Act of 2001. The purpose of this bill is to authorize a regional water delivery system which will serve both the Rocky Boy's Reservation and the surrounding region in north central Montana. For the last few years I have been working on this bill with the members of the Chippewa Cree Tribe, the citizens of the six towns affected, and the users of the eight water districts who have joined together to bring clean, safe drinking water to their families. More than 30,000 people would be serviced by this rural water system.

This bill is needed now for a number of reasons. First, it will provide a means to import water to the Rocky Boy's Reservation for drinking and for other everyday needs. Over the last decade, the population of the Rocky Boy's Reservation has grown by 40 percent, leaving existing water infrastructure insufficient. Secondly, there are three small water systems in the region which are currently operating out of compliance with the EPA's Surface Water Treatment Rule. Others are nearing non-compliance, and one has been issued an administrative rule by the Montana Department of Environmental Quality to begin water treatment as soon as possible.

This bill helps us to realize that simply maintaining a small town or district's water system can be so expensive and filled with red tape that its users can hardly afford it. Under current law even if small systems are able to be developed, they must be continually monitored and the results reported. That may not be a problem in a larger community with a sizeable tax base and a labor pool, but in a rural setting those expenses and responsibilities are spread between so few people that it can quickly become a major problem. I know rural Montana. I can tell you our very smallest towns are hurting. They are deeply affected by a lagging agricultural economy, and the inability to provide water for any number of reasons could be enough to shut a small town down. Is that what we want? I don't think so. One of the ways we can address that problem is with the development of regional water systems, which are more efficient, and easier to manage.

I truly believe it is time to stand up and face our commitments to Indian Country and rural America head on. This bill is the perfect opportunity for that, because it uses the teamwork of committed citizens and builds on the system they have developed. This is a very good example of cooperation between tribal and non-tribal entities, and of what happens when people come to the table ready to find a solution.

This project has been a long time coming. The State of Montana committed to it in 1997 with a promise of $10 million for construction, and by providing technical assistance through the Montana Department of Environmental Quality. Initial federal assistance followed in the form of an appropriation of $300,000 for engineering and planning for fiscal year 2000. The report was completed and the preliminary engineering is complete. With the passage of the water compact settling the water rights between the Chippewa Cree Tribe and Montana, P.L. 106–163 signed by President Clinton in 1999, the stage was set for this project to be built.

All the bases have been covered and it is time to authorize this project. There is a real need for a less burdensome way to manage the water needs of the area. The Rocky Boy's Reservation is in need of an expanded water source and system, and smaller water districts and municipalities are also struggling to stay in operation. The best way to solve both these problems at once is to build an efficient regional water system. I propose we do just that and show our commitment to rural America.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the concurrent resolution be agreed to and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

(The text of the concurrent resolution is located in today's RECORD under ''Submitted Resolutions.'')

FALLEN HERO SURVIVOR BENEFIT FAIRNESS ACT OF 2001

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President,I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of H.R. 1727, which is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the bill by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 1727) to amend the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 to provide consistent treatment of survivor benefits for public safety officers killed in the line of duty.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I am pleased that the Senate is passing the Fallen Hero Survivor Benefit Fairness Act as part of Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act.

Last night, I voted for the Smith amendment to add the Fallen Hero Survivor Benefit Fairness Act to the reconciliation tax package, and I am proud to cosponsor the Senate companion bill, S. 881, introduced by the senior Senator from Utah. Since the House of Representatives passed the Fallen Hero Survivor Benefit Fairness Act, H.R. 1727, on May 15, 2001, by a vote of 419–0, I am hopeful that this legislation to support the families of our nation's public safety officers will soon become law.

This legislation extends present-law treatment of survivor annuities for public safety officers killed in the line of duty on or before December 31, 1996. It is needed to correct a harsh inequity in the tax code that treats some survivors of slain public safety officers differently than others based on the date of the officer's death. That is unconscionable.

The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 provided that a survivor annuity paid on account of the death of a public safety officer who is killed in the line of duty is excluded from income for individuals dying after December 31, 1996. The survivor annuity must be provided under a government plan to the surviving spouse of the public safety officer or to a child of the officer. Public safety officers include law enforcement officers, firefighters, rescue squad or ambulance crew. But the family members of public safety officers killed before January 1, 1997 are fully taxed on their survivor annuities.

I believe that survivors of public safety officers killed in the line of duty should all receive the same tax treatment. We should do all we can to support the families of public safety officers killed in the line of duty. Basic fairness demands it.

I look forward to the Fallen Hero Survivor Benefit Fairness Act becoming law. It is only right that our Nation's tax laws support the families of public safety officers who gave the ultimate sacrifice to make America a safer place.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the bill be read a third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements relating to the bill be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (H.R. 1727) was read the third time and passed.

ORDERS FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 2001

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until the hour of 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, May 23. I further ask unanimous consent that on Wednesday, immediately following the prayer, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the morning hour be deemed expired, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and the Senate then resume consideration of the tax reconciliation bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. GRASSLEY. For the information of all Senators, the Senate will continue voting on reconciliation amendments as we have done for the past 19½ consecutive Senate hours. Votes will occur every 10 to 15 minutes until otherwise notified. It is hoped the Senate can pass this important tax bill early tomorrow so we can resume consideration of the education bill in a timely manner. Votes can be expected throughout the week.

ORDER FOR ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GRASSLEY. If there is no further business to come before the Senate, I now ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order, following the remarks of Senator GRASSLEY and Senator DODD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

BIPARTISANSHIP

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, we voted on 3 amendments last week, 17 amendments yesterday, 27 amendments today. That is an awful lot of amendments on a bill that should have been done after 20 hours, plus a few votes.

We have had a flood of amendments, and almost all of them have come from the other party. Not one amendment from the other party has passed yet. That is after 3 last week, 17 yesterday, and 27 today. When is enough enough?

I ask this question in the spirit of bipartisanship that Senator BAUCUS and I have worked on since the first of the week and the entire work of the Senate Finance Committee, in the spirit of how the Finance Committee has always worked, and also in the spirit of the bipartisanship talked about 5 months ago in the new Congress. Why in the new Congress? Because it is the first time in 120 years the Senate has been evenly divided.

I hope that bipartisanship is not dead. But if bipartisanship is dead and buried within the last 5 months of this new Congress, I have not been invited to the funeral, and I don't think Senator BAUCUS was invited either. Senator BAUCUS and I have been working on this tax bill since January. That was right around the time the leaders of this body worked out power sharing. We all knew from the beginning that shared power brings shared responsibility. Where is the responsibility to get the people's work done? Where is the responsibility to finish legislation that has been worked upon for months by a committee of this Senate, one of the most powerful committees of this Senate? Where is the responsibility to finish legislation that is the product of the bipartisanship that is known to be a product of the Finance Committee or the bipartisanship that was asked for in January? Where is the responsibility to finish legislation that has ample bipartisan support to pass?

When this bill finally gets to that final rollcall vote, people are going to be shocked how many people are going to vote for this bill on final passage. Bipartisan, again.

Then, in the meantime, we are putting up with 27 rollcalls today, 17 rollcalls yesterday, 3 rollcalls last Thursday. Three long days of work on this bill, and we still do not see light at the end of the tunnel because there are stalling tactics that for some reason or another go beyond the protection of a minority within the Senate.

I don't argue with that protection of the minority. There is only one political institution in the United States Government where minority views are protected. Those are in the Senate of the United States. There are all sorts of rules to protect the minority. But there also can be abuse of the protection that is granted the minority, way beyond what was ever intended by the people who wrote our Constitution or established the traditions and the rules of the Senate. There is a time when statesmanship has to be above pure politics meant to kill tax relief for American taxpayers, a tax relief that is the third greatest in the last 50 years and the greatest in the last 20 years.

There has to be a time when examples of bipartisanship have to be followed by those who are calling for bipartisanship. I think Senator BAUCUS and I have established a good tradition of bipartisanship, a tradition of bipartisanship that I hope will not only help get a bipartisan vote on this bill tomorrow or the next day, a bipartisan vote on a product coming out of conference but, more importantly, as I said in my opening remarks last Thursday on this bill, a bipartisanship that will continue for many important issues that this Senate has to work on the rest of this year and next year. There is a long list of trade legislation our committee must produce. There is the issue that was most important in the Presidential campaign of both candidates: prescription drugs for seniors and how that impacts upon the whole Medicare program. There are the problems of dealing with the uninsured, the people who do not have health insurance. That is something that was involved in candidate Gore's campaign and Candidate Bush's campaign with which we must deal.

There are issues of helping with tax incentives for people to save and to have better opportunities for pensions. There are the issues dealing with tax credits for higher education and the issue of education savings accounts.

You can go on and on. But most of the major issues were part of the Presidential campaign, and for the most part to some degree or another were part of the campaigns of each candidate for President in the last election. Consequently, they have a right to be on the agenda. We have a responsibility to make sure they are not only on the agenda but are carried out.

So I hope what Senator BAUCUS and I have been working on since the first of the year will help produce further agreements. Some of them may be even more important than this tax bill.

I yield the floor.

RELIEF ACT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I know the hour is late. I am deeply appreciative of the floor staff of this body. They worked late last night and late again today. We started some 12 hours ago, so I will try to keep these remarks relatively brief, if I can.

It has been a little frustrating for this Member, and I suspect others over the past day or so, as we have dealt with what arguably would be the most significant piece of legislation we are likely to deal with for the next decade. And that legislation is the tax bill that is before us. So I wanted to take a few minutes to review the bidding, if I could, over what has happened over the last couple of days. I'd like to review where we are and why there are so many of us who have expressed our concerns about the direction of this legislation, its substance, and its priorities.

It is not that those of us here object to a tax cut. In fact, the overwhelming majority of Democrats and Republicans support a tax cut. That is not the issue. The issue is the makeup of this tax cut. The issue is the fairness of it, its distribution, and its size. And one of the most significant issues is the inability to predict with any certainty what economic conditions will look like 5 years from now, 3 years from now, let alone 10 years from now, where much of this bill is backloaded and when the effects of it will be felt the most.

I want to spend a few minutes and just go over, if I could, some of the amendments we have considered today.

First of all, let me point out that it has been said by some that we have had stalling amendments—27 amendments considered today, 17 yesterday, 3 the day before. We had a total of 20 hours of debate on this bill, less than 1 calendar day of actual debate on this bill. You were allowed to have 1 minute to explain an amendment and 1 minute to rebut that amendment. So as we have considered some 47 amendments over the last 3 days, there has hardly been the kind of deliberative debate one normally associates with the U.S. Senate.

There has been this abbreviated, truncated approach because that is all you are allocated under a reconciliation bill that gives you 20 hours: 20 hours to debate what arguably may be the single most important piece of economic legislation that this or succeeding Congresses will deal with for the coming decade or beyond. Twenty hours, less than 1 day.

I am one of a handful of people in this Chamber who was present 20 years ago. I see my friend from Delaware in the Chamber. He was present in the Chamber 20 years ago when we considered a tax cut of equal magnitude but of far less divisiveness. In fact, I think there were 10 or 11 of us who voted against that tax bill for the reasons that it would contribute to expanding the size of the national debt; would result in consumers paying higher interest rates for automobiles, for college loans, for homes; that we would end up in the red ink; and that our Nation would suffer economically.

At least back in 1981 we had 12 days of debate—not 20 hours. We had 12 days of debate on that bill.

Mr. BIDEN. Will the Senator yield on that one point?

Mr. DODD. I will be happy to yield.

Mr. BIDEN. The Senator, if I am not mistaken, was one of only 10 or so who voted no. The Senator from Delaware voted yes on that amendment. I have cast over 10,000 votes as a U.S. Senator. It was one of the two votes I most regret ever having cast. The other one was voting for a fine, decent man, Supreme Court Justice Scalia. I regret that because his view turned out to be so fundamentally different than my view of the Constitution.

One of the reasons why I think what the Senator is saying is so important is it took the Senator from Connecticut and the Senator from Delaware—you doing the right thing in the first instance, me making a mistake—it took us almost 20 years to bail out. I have the scars on my back, as does the Senator. He did not deserve them, I do—for the efforts we had to undertake to put the budget back in shape.

We did that at a time when we had expanding productivity, when we had a lot of unmet capacity in the country, when, in fact, we were moving—there was a chance to rectify it. There will be no chance because when this kicks in—and I am going to sit down—when this kicks in, because it is the same time guys like the Senators from Connecticut and Delaware, the baby boom generation, are going to be retiring.

Mr. DODD. That is right.

Mr. BIDEN. We are going to be in real trouble.

So I hope, I say to the new Senators on the floor, they do not make the same mistake this senior Senator did almost 20 years ago; that is, vote for something such as this. We will pay a dear price in this country for this vote.

I compliment the Senator on his comments tonight, as well as his vote in the 1980s. I wish I had the foresight he had to know what was going to happen.

Mr. DODD. I thank my colleague for those comments. Out of those 10,000 votes he cast, by far, there were many more good ones. I appreciate his comments this evening.

Mr. President, I stood in that debate. I remember the debate well. When you compare this week's debate to that debate of 20 years ago when we had something like 115 or 116 amendments, maybe more, they were fully debated amendments. We had the give and take, back and forth over the wisdom or demerits of the various proposals. That is not what has taken place here today.

Imagine what it looks like to the American public as they watched these last couple of days. We were placed in a situation of allowing only 20 hours of debate under a reconciliation process that never contemplated that a tax cut proposal would be a part of it. Reconciliation was used and designed to reduce deficits, not to add to them.

So by choosing the limitation of 20 hours, you have then forced Members of this body to offer votes in what they call a vote-arama; that is, no time for debate, just offer the amendment and vote.

So it has been tremendously distressing for Members who believe this bill needs to be modified substantially before it would enjoy the kind of truly broad bipartisan support of which the chairman of the committee speaks. That has not occurred. So we have had 20 hours of debate, that is it, on a bill of such magnitude and such significance that will crowd out our ability to invest intelligently in the needs of this country.

Let me just briefly describe this tax bill. More than one-third of a $4 trillion tax cut over the next 10 years will go primarily to the top 1 percent of income earners in America. The second one-third goes to the top 9 percent of income earners in America. But if you are in the 15-percent tax bracket, you get no relief. Of all the brackets that exist that is the one that gets no tax cut at all. Mr. President, that is 72 million middle-income Americans. So if you are watching this evening or listening to this discussion and you fall into that category, this tax debate has nothing to do with you.

Two-thirds of this tax debate involves the top 9 percent of income earners in America. As a result of wasting $4 trillion, here are the things we are deciding are of less significance, just so you know. Most Americans were working today probably did not have the chance to tune into this debate. So let me just review for them what happened.

These are some of the amendments that this body considered today. This is what some of these amendments asked: Can we reduce the size of this tax cut for the most affluent Americans by 1 percentage point in order to fund a prescription drug benefit for the millions of seniors in this country who are being swamped by the cost of prescription drugs?

This body said: No, we think providing a tax cut for the top 1 percent of income earners is of a higher priority than providing the prescription drug benefit for Americans.

We asked how about doing something to protect Social Security and Medicare, because as my colleague from Delaware just absolutely correctly pointed out, the baby boom generation retires when the very worst aspects of this bill kick in. This body said no.

This bill is like a time-release capsule. You have all heard of time-release medicines. You take the medication, and nothing happens in the first 5 hours, or very little happens. Then, in the second 5 hours, the time release produces the kind of benefits that would attack whatever problem you are suffering from.

That is what this tax bill is. The first 5 years are relatively modest, in terms of their impact. It is when the second 5 years kick in, that this tax cut becomes overwhelming in its impact on our budget. That is exactly the time that you will have an overwhelming majority of baby boomers retiring and who will need Social Security and Medicare.

It is not by accident that this tax bill was written that way. It was designed specifically to create the train wreck between the retiring baby boom generation and this tax cut. This is not coincidental. This is what we have been trying to say over and over, with 1 minute discussions of these amendments. It is not the fault of the American public. How do you get to understand the impact of an amendment when you only have 60 seconds to describe the long-term effects of it?

Consider, if you will, the full funding for the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. We have debated over and over the importance of full funding for elementary and secondary education.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to proceed for an additional 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, is so ordered.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I want to respond to some of the things that were said earlier, just to kind of bring this to closure from this Senator's perspective, if I may, and I ask for an additional 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will not object.

Mr. BIDEN. Will the Senator yield for a very brief question. Will the Senator agree with me that if you want to know what a country values, you should take a look at what its Tax Code says—who it makes pay, and what its budget is. I respectfully suggest that everything the Senator is saying—and I hope he continues to speak—reflects a fundamental difference in values—not just priorities, a fundamental difference in values between those who support this bill—they are not bad votes. It is not good and evil; it is a different value judgment. This tax bill neither reflects my priorities nor my values.

The Senator has laid out a number of items. He is going to lay out more. How do we explain that everybody in the Tax Code who is in a certain income tax bracket gets relief except people in the 15-percent tax bracket? How do you do that? It is a value judgment.

I assume our friends think, if you give the wealthier people a cut, and not the middle-income people and the little guy, that somehow that is going to trickle down. That is a value judgment, a fundamental value judgment.

How do we stand around and say, somebody who receives $100 million in inheritance should get a tax break when, at the same time, it is going to be paid for out of Social Security and Medicare surpluses? This is about values.

So I guess it is less a question than a statement. I hope the Senator lays out every one of these things because I think it is important the public understand so they can make clear choices. What do they value the most? This is a value judgment.

My friends on the other side always talk about values. Well, let me tell you, this is where the rubber meets the road. This reflects our values. I am where the Senator from Connecticut is. I hope he continues to educate me and the public about it. Make no mistake about it. It is not just priorities; it is about our basic values, what we value most.

Mr. DODD. I thank my colleague.

Mr. President, if I may, I ask unanimous consent for 10 minutes at this point to complete my thoughts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. With great indulgence, the Chair consents.

Mr. DODD. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, to continue with these charts behind me, I mentioned the rate cut for 72 million Americans, from 15 to 14 percent. We cut the top rate of income earners at the very top of the income brackets of America, and every bracket on down, except the lowest one, which affects 72 million Americans.

You go on down the list. College tuition deductibility: The Senator from New York, Mr. SCHUMER, suggested, why not provide deductibility of the high cost of college tuition? That amendment was rejected.

You go on down the list. Immediate marriage penalty relief: How often have we heard about the penalties of the marriage penalty tax? We want to provide immediate relief for that. We are told no.

So offering these amendments during the day in this Chamber is not dilatory. These are not amendments that are designed to stall at all. Twenty hours of debate on a bill of this size, of this importance, is inadequate. This is not the House of Representatives. This is not some chamber in which just a handful, if you will, even a slight majority, should be able to dictate entirely what they will at the expense of those who have other points of view—even if it were only one. But when the points of view reflect almost 50 percent of this body, shouldn't those points of view be taken into consideration? We have been told repeatedly throughout consideration of this bill that we have to get this done. I don't disagree. But I don't think that we should rush action on this important legislation without taking thoughtful consideration of its potential impact on the future health and growth of our economy. I do not think that is quite right.

Some of the most important debates we have had in this Chamber have been lengthy. They have been unfettered with time constraints on offering amendments over a 60-second period. We had a debate a few weeks ago on campaign finance reform. It took 2 weeks. Most Members, I think, recognize it as one of the better debates in this Chamber. We did not do it in 20 hours. We did it in 2 weeks.

We have had debates in the past on any number of issues that have taken days. That is the unique nature of this body. That is the role of the Senate: not to act as some body where it is only a question of getting it done as fast as you can. This is the middle of May. It is not the end of the session. We have had a new administration in town for 16 weeks. This is a bill that we are considering that will have impacts for 10 years.

So when Members bring up these alternative ideas of fair and fiscally responsible tax cuts, the answer has been no. When we say, Social Security reform and debt reduction are important, the answer has been no. When we say we want to take care of spending caps, veterans benefits, middle-class tax benefits, the answer has been no.

That is not being frivolous. That is not being petulant. That is not being people who are in a tantrum, as someone said today. This is not about Democrats and Republicans. It is not a battle about the Presidency and the Senate Democrats here. It is about the American public. They are the ones who will live with the circumstances and the decisions that we make in this body over the next few days for many, many years to come. They are the ones who we have to keep in mind as we draft this legislation.

There is no argument about having a tax cut. There is room in this surplus for a tax cut. But there ought to be room, as well, to reduce the national debt.

We pay $220 billion a year in interest payments on the national debt. Think how many classrooms could be built, how many people who could be made healthy, how many houses could be constructed, how many water systems or sewage systems could be repaired or built with the $220 billion that goes to interest payments on the national debt. It does not construct anything. It does not help anybody. All it does is pay down on our financial obligations.

There is a great risk with the adoption of this tax proposal that we will be back in red ink and in debt again. Interest rates will begin to climb just as we saw in the 1980s. As those interest rates go up, the cost of an automobile, the cost of a home, the cost of a child going on to college, goes up. Then remember this debate and remember what this body did. This body has acted in a way, in my view, that is irresponsible and unmindful of the cost to this society.

That is why it is important for us to take some time and think about what we are doing, and offer some alternative ideas that can improve the quality of life for people.

So when it comes to prescription drugs, the Patients' Bill of Rights, elementary and secondary education, Medicare, Social Security, the infrastructure of this country, the defense needs of America, the environmental needs of America, there will be no room in the budget of the United States if this tax proposal is adopted.

I am alone in this Senate Chamber this evening, with the exception of the Presiding Officer. It is late. It has been a long day. I am tired, as my colleagues are. But I wanted to take these few minutes to review, as I said, what occurred here today and yesterday because I think it is so fundamentally and profoundly important.

My hope is that people might speak up in the remaining 24 or 48 hours that we have before we vote on final passage of this bill and leave for the recess. I hope that people can express themselves and ask their Members to think twice before they adopt a $4 trillion tax cut, the effects of which are cloudy at best, and is predicted by many to have dire consequences 10 years down the road. Who can say in 10 years what the economy will look like?

There is an energy crisis looming on the horizon. What will be the impact of that on this economy? We are told the administration wants to increase defense spending by as much as $100 billion or $200 billion. What is the impact of that on this economy? And here we are adopting a $4 trillion tax cut. All of these events are coming together, and yet we are also told we need to invest in education, in health care, and the infrastructure of America. But where are the resources going to come from?

It just doesn't add up. The math isn't there. We are told under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act that we are going to have a math test for every third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grader. I suggest we need a math test here because these numbers don't add up. A third, fourth, fifth or sixth grader would tell you that: Add these numbers, and they don't produce a balanced budget or a surplus. They put this country in great economic peril.

That is why I take the floor this evening, to express my outrage and concern about what we are doing: 20 hours of debate, and then a vote-a-rama with 1 minute to describe or offer some explanation of an amendment that might make a difference on prescription drugs, on education, on Medicare, on middle-income Americans, 1 minute.

These amendments and these votes will not be forgotten. They will not be forgotten.

It has been said by philosophers that those who fail to remember the mistakes of history are doomed to repeat them, or words to that effect. Not unlike Cassandra of mythological note, for those of us who were here 20 years ago, I beg and beseech my colleagues who are relatively new: We don't tell you these things out of some sense of nostalgia. Twenty years ago, I heard the same arguments being made about the wisdom of a tax cut that was too big, too excessive. The overwhelming majority of our colleagues in the Senate and in the other Chamber disregarded those warnings and voted for a tax proposal that ultimately put this economy in a tailspin. As the Senator from Delaware has noted, it has only been during the last few years that we have recovered from it.

I deplore what is occurring here. I plead with my colleagues: Modify this tax cut proposal. There is room for a decent, strong tax cut that would provide benefits to almost all Americans while also providing room to pay down the debt and to invest in the needed investments of our country in education and health care and the infrastructure of America, to mention just three. There ought to be room to do all three of those things.

Adopting a tax cut that is too big is not unlike adopting a spending program that is too big. Imagine what we would be saying here today if someone were talking about a spending program of $4 trillion over the next 10 years. We would be saying: How do you know whether or not we can afford it 10 years from now? What will the economic conditions be in America 10 years from now?

It would be foolish to commit the resources of this country without having some idea of what the economic circumstances would be in our Nation.

Is it any less foolish to commit ourselves to a $4 trillion tax cut unknowing of what the economic circumstances will be 2, 3, 4, or 5 years from now? The answer is obvious.

For those reasons, I hope Americans across this country will raise their voices, will let Members know how they feel about this proposal, will express their worry that we may be adopting a proposal that will cause this country serious harm.

I apologize for taking a few minutes this evening, but we have not had time today to engage in debate. All we have had is 1 minute to offer amendments.

There are now recorded votes on where people stand on the issue of health care, education, Medicare, Social Security, transportation, and a variety of other issues about which the American public cares.

For those reasons, I urge my colleagues to rethink this proposal. It is only May. Step back, rethink this, develop a truly bipartisan proposal. Come back and ask us to rethink how we might fashion a proposal that would provide tax cuts for Americans as well as leave room for the other necessities of this Nation: Its defense needs, its educational needs, its health care needs. Those needs contribute to the long-term security of America as well. Leaving them to be crowded out, as we are on this day in May, this early on in this new century, is a mistake of historic proportions.

I yield the floor.

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

TO HONOR MS. GEMA DUARTE LUNA AS A RECIPIENT OF THE ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY YOUNG ALUMNI ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

HON. ED PASTOR

OF ARIZONA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. PASTOR. Mr. Speaker, I rise before you today to bring attention to the achievements of a great woman who was recently presented with the Arizona State University (ASU) Young Alumni Achievement Award. This award is bestowed upon an alum who has excelled early in his or her profession and has served the community with distinction. She is a native Arizonan, devoted wife, loving mother of two, and I am proud to know her as my friend. Mr. Speaker, I speak of Ms. Gema Duarte Luna of Phoenix, Arizona.

Raised in the small town of Superior, Arizona, Gema graduated from ASU in 1984 with a Bachelor of Science degree and was the first in her family to receive a college degree. She has had many triumphs in the fields of business, management, and local politics including appointments to many civic committees, such as the Mayor's Fiscal Capacity Committee and the City of Phoenix Transit Tax Citizen's Committee, due to her extensive involvement in issues affecting the community.

She also serves as a board member for KAET Channel 8 (a public television station), Xicanindio Artes, an organization that provides youth programs and promotes Chicano and Native American artists, the National Conference for Community and Justice, a diversity program for high school students, and serves as a member of the ASU Cesar Chavez Institute, a youth leadership program.

Gema served as chairwoman of the Arizona Hispanic Chamber of Commerce and is the current chair of the chamber's annual spring black and white ball which is the largest banquet and fund-raising activity of the Hispanic business community.

While working as the Affinity Marketing Manager for Bank of America she received the prestigious ''LEND'' award for her commitment to improve the efforts that target low and moderate families and neighborhoods. Currently, she serves as the market segment manager for the Arizona Republic and through her ongoing development and supportive measures, she has been instrumental in the funding of the ASU foundation, a non-profit organization that acts as the principal agent through which gifts are made to benefit the university.

As my colleagues can see, she is a role model to all Arizonans and young Latinas throughout the nation. Her involvement in the community is truly an inspiration and a testament to her dedication and commitment. Her strong presence and proven leadership skills have earned her the respect of her peers and she continues to be a well respected voice in the Valley's Hispanic community. Therefore, please join me today in honoring my friend, Ms. Gema Duarte Luna.

RECOGNIZING THE GUAM POLICE DEPARTMENT

HON. ROBERT A. UNDERWOOD

OF GUAM

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, as we observe National Police Week, I would like to take this opportunity to recognize members of the Guam Police Department who have distinguished themselves during the past year. On the island of Guam, the highest honors are usually reserved for the Police Officer of the Year and the Civilian of the Year—awards presented annually to the top employees of the Guam Police Department (GPD). For the year 2001, Police Officer II Patrick J. Santos was named Police Officer of the Year while Ms. Yolanda M. Crisostomo was honored as Civilian of the Year.

Assigned to the Homicide Unit as a Special Agent, Officer Patrick J. Santos has proven his knowledge and abilities in the field of law enforcement. Officer Santos has displayed diversified skills in investigating some of the most complex cases required in police work. With sixteen years of experience in the field, he has participated and investigated in several homicide cases, cleared 119 felony cases, 101 misdemeanor cases and 113 death cases involving suicides, accidents and death by natural causes. In the pursuit of his chosen career, he had been made to sacrifice time away from his family. Often on call without regard to the time of the day, he has selflessly devoted many hours investigating and working on sensitive, complex, and time consuming cases. For his efficiency, dedication and professionalism, the Guam Police Department has chosen to award Officer Santos its highest honor for the year 2001.

GPD's Civilian of the Year is a Clerk Typist II assigned to the Legal Affairs Section. While the department underwent a critical personnel shortage, Yolanda M. Crisostomo was left to manage GPD's Legal Affairs Section. As the sole employee assigned to the section, Ms. Crisostomo tended to duties normally distributed among six staff members. Within the period of one year, she was able to personally generate 7,837 minutes of transcription that converted to 237 investigative reports and a total of 4,740 pages of typewritten legal documents. This is in addition to her collateral duties as a claims representative and a lay representative in adverse actions—duties that entailed legal research and normally assigned to paralegals. Her efficiency and good judgement in the performance of her duties have earned her the coveted honor of being GPD's Civilian of the Year for 2001.

On behalf of the people of Guam, I congratulate Patrick and Yolanda for having been named as GPD's Police Officer and Civilian of the Year. Through their diligence and dedication to their duties at the Guam Police Department, they have made great contributions towards the safety and protection of our island's residents.

I additionally wish to submit for the RECORD, the names of units, police officers, and civilian employees who were also recognized for their services to the department and to the people of Guam. I urge them to keep up the good work!

RECOGNITION FOR TWO OUTSTANDING TEACHERS

HON. MARK UDALL

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to two teachers, Jack Ganse and Micheal Matassa of Superior, Colorado. Jack and Michael are eighth grade science and math teachers at Eldorado K–8 school. They have initiated a program in which their classes will work together to study how the tremendous population growth Superior has experienced effects the quality of the air, land, and water.

In this program, Jack and Michael have found a way to engage our children in a meaningful educational experience. This experience will engage the students in an issue that our civic leaders must wrestle with on a continuous basis. It will be an education in math and science and civics all at the same time.

As in many parts of the country, urban sprawl has become a great concern to the citizens of Colorado. Superior has grown from a small, rural town of 250 residents in the mid-1980's to a community of nearly 9,000 residents according to the 2000 census. It holds the title of Colorado's fastest growing town. Jack and Michael and their students are going to investigate the effects of this growth on everything from wildlife to possible local climate change from all the new concrete. In addition to posting their findings on the school's web site, the classes will also provide the information to the town board, so that it can then be used to assist in municipal decisions.

Jack and Michael are two of only 55 pairs of teachers nation wide to earn a $15,000 grant from Verizon to fund their project. This project will continue each year with each succeeding class picking it up and adding to the database.

At a time when unchecked growth is having detrimental impacts on our natural resources and environment, these two individuals are connecting our students' energies and knowledge to a pressing community need. They are teaching them that their studies can have a practical application, an application that will benefit the entire community.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to personally thank Jack Ganse and Michael Matassa for their selfless dedication to their community and to the education of the students to whom we entrust to them.

TRIBUTE TO INA SINGER

HON. SOLOMON P. ORTIZ

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Ina Singer, an American patriot and dedicated public servant, who retires on May 30, 2001, from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

I first met Ina in 1969 when she came to the Coastal Bend of Texas after a hurricane. She was detailed to the Corpus Christi-Robstown, Texas, area to set up temporary housing for people who lost homes in the hurricane. It was the beginning of a long and beautiful friendship and professional relationship.

Ina is widely recognized as one of the best managers in the federal government. She is leaving the Directorship of Multifamily Housing in Baltimore, after a long and distinguished career in public service. Ina is a smart, tough motivator of people, and she has applied her considerable talents to improving public housing in the mid-Atlantic area since 1969.

Prior to her present position, Ina has held the following positions with HUD: Associate Deputy Assistant Secretary for Multi-family Housing, Director of the Housing Management Division in the Baltimore Office, and a variety of positions in the mid-Atlantic area that provided her with a foundation of understanding asset management and property disposition, the staples of the work HUD does.

She is an extraordinary leader who motivates people and gets the job done. High performance ratings have followed Ina throughout her career at HUD, and her team consistently exceeds their goals. She is one of the ''go-to'' people at HUD when trouble pops up. She has been detailed all over the country to deal with troubled offices.

Ina has taken her no-nonsense attitude about the disposition of taxpayers' money and applied that to programs at HUD. Anybody can say yes, but Ina is the rare government creature who is unafraid to say ''no'' to people who would be bad partners or who would sell bad property.

In her current position, she expanded her responsibility from the Chesapeake Bay area to include other Maryland counties and the District of Columbia, forming valuable community partnerships and creating a virtual office in the greater Maryland-District of Columbia area.

In addition to all the work she does for HUD, she also gives of her time to national roles she views as important to furthering the mission at the Department. In 1990, Ina was awarded HUD's Distinguished Service Award for consistently going above and beyond the call of duty. She leaves HUD with the respect of her colleagues both locally and nationally.

Ina has a beautiful family: her husband Jon, and their children Meredith and Michael. I ask my colleagues to join me today in paying tribute to Ina Singer as she completes a distinguished lifetime of service to the United States as a tremendous steward of the public trust.

A TRIBUTE TO LEE QUARNSTROM

HON. SAM FARR

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. FARR of California. Mr. Speaker, I am in the habit of paying tribute on this floor to constituents and persons who have made extraordinary contributions to our community. But words fall me when it comes to describing the life of one of Santa Cruz's finest newspaper columnists, Lee Quamstrom. Consequently, Mr. Speaker, I ask your indulgence in my sharing with the House the observations of Mr. Quamstrom's journalism colleagues on the event of his retirement:

Whereas, Lee Quamstrom has toiled for the San Jose Mercury News for nearly 20 years, covering daily events in Santa Cruz County, Monterey County as well as the great American West, and during that time has written literally more than a dozen news stories; and

Whereas, Lee has covered three generations of Santa Cruz County politicians, simultaneously indulging and insulting them; and

Whereas, Lee is the only man in Santa Cruz County to have made the psychedelic journey from Merry Prankster to Cranky Curmudgeon; and

Whereas, Lee has acted as a selfless champion of homeless rights, giving even the poorest among us the special privilege to call themselves ''bums''; and

Whereas, Lee has been voted ''Man of the Year'' by the Santa Cruz Bicycling Club for his columns that have come flat out against capital punishment for cyclists; and

Whereas, Lee is the longest-standing member of the local journalistic community's honorary, limited organization, ''The Three Biggest Jerks in Santa Cruz County,'' serving along with such notables as Dick Little, Steve Shender, Tom Honig, Bob Smith, Greg Beebe, Lane Wallace and Don Wilson; and

Whereas, Lee has been a friend, an advocate and an intellectual voice for all that is good about journalism, Santa Cruz County and for all who ply their trade just trying to get a story in the paper without the copy desk screwing it up. He's funny, appropriately disrespectful and—perhaps the greatest praise of all—never boring to have around.

Now, therefore, be it resolved that Lee Quamstrom has been the most memorable Santa Cruz resident ever and thus shall be allowed to dismantle the Santa Cruz lighthouse, brick by brick, and take it to the real Surf City, Huntington Beach in Orange County, Calif. As his buddy and former fellow columnist, James Trotter, put it:

''He might as well take the lighthouse because without Lee Quamstrom, Santa Cruz will never be the same place again.''

HONORING BILL AND JULIE ESREY

HON. KAREN McCARTHY

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Ms. MCCARTHY of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor two of my constituents from Kansas City who recently have been recognized for their outstanding contributions to their community.

William T. Esrey, Chairman and CEO of Sprint Corporation, and his wife Julie Esrey have been awarded the 2001 Star Award by the Kansas City Starlight Theater. The Starlight Theater is Kansas City's largest and oldest performing arts organization and is the second largest theatre of its kind in the United States. Founded in 1950, the Starlight Theatre is now in its 51st season.

This distinguished Star Award was presented the Esreys, who are Honorary Co-Chairs for the 15th Annual Starlight Theatre Benefit Gala on Saturday, May 19, 2001. The Star Award is given to honor those individuals who have made outstanding contributions and dedicated long-time service to Kansas City, making a difference in the community. The Esreys are honored with this award through countless hours worked in the community to help benefit an extensive list of community service organizations.

Under Bill Esrey's leadership, the Sprint Foundation has been a major benefactor of The Starlight Theater. Additionally over the past five years alone, Sprint has donated more than $17 million in Sprint Foundation contributions and matching grants to organizations in greater Kansas City. Mr. Esrey also spearheaded the drive that raised millions of dollars for the rehabilitation of Union Station and the development of Science City, including $9 million in Sprint contributions since 1991.

Julie Esrey has worked both for Exxon and as an international economist for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, as well as serving on the boards of Bank IV (Kansas), Duke University and Brown Shoe. In Kansas City, she has served as honorary Chairman, American Cancer Society Gala; Honorary Chairman, Lyric Opera Ball; Chairman, Children's Mercy Golf Classic; Chairman, March of Dimes Gourmet Gala; and Honorary Chairman, KCPT Speaking of Women's Health for 2001, as well as serving on the Central Governing Board of Children's Mercy Hospital from 1989 through 1995.

During Bill Esrey's tenure as CEO, Sprint has grown into a $23 billion worldwide communications force and was named the most admired communications company in Fortune Magazine's survey of corporate reputation. Business Week named Esrey as one of the ''Top 25'' business executives in the world in 1997. Bill Esrey joined Sprint, then known as United Telecommunications, Inc., in 1980 as Executive Vice President of Corporate Planning. In 1984, Esrey led the effort to fundamentally reposition the company by entering the long distance market and building the nation's first all-digital fiber optic network. Today Sprint is a leader in the communications industry, which has emerged as one of the growth engines for the overall U.S. economy. Currently, Bill Esrey serves on the boards of Exxon-Mobil Corporation, Duke Energy Corporation and General Mills, Inc. He also is chairman of the Business Council and a member of The Business Roundtable.

In addition to their dedication to the community and their careers, Bill and Julie are dedicated to each other and their family. Married since 1964, they have two grown children, Bill Jr. and John, who have participated in many local activities and follow in their parent's footsteps in giving back to the community.

Mr. Speaker, I ask you to join me in congratulating Bill and Julie Esrey on receiving the 2001 Star Award. Their dedication to the Kansas City community and their family is an example to all of us of the difference individuals can achieve who have dedicated their lives to making the world a better place. Thank you Bill and Julie.

FERS REDEPOSIT ACT

HON. JAMES P. MORAN

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, there is no debate over whether the federal government is facing a crisis—it is. Reports indicate that about 30 percent of the government's 1.6 million full-time employees will be eligible to retire within five years, and an additional 20 percent could seek early retirement. Furthermore, 65 percent of the Senior Executive Service will be eligible for retirement by 2004.

One hearing has been held and numerous editorials have been written about the impending workforce shortage, but very few specific policy changes have been suggested. Today I am introducing legislation that takes a step in the right direction. The FERS Redeposit Act would allow individuals who left the federal government and received a refund of their Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS) contributions to reenter government service without losing their accrued annuity. Instead of forfeiting credit earned during their prior service, returning employees would be able to redeposit their cashed out annuity upon reentrance. This benefit is already available to federal employees who are registered under the older Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS).

Retiring federal employees represent the institutional knowledge and expertise needed to run the government, and we must pro-actively address this drain on our human capital. Creating incentives for federal employees who left for the private sector to return to government service is one way to address this problem. Studies indicate that a key trait of younger workers, who are covered by FERS, is their increased professional mobility. FERS's design implicitly acknowledges this fact by incorporating a portable private sector-style Thrift Savings Plan and 401(K) plan. It is ironic that those federal workers who are in CSRS—most of whom have worked their entire careers in the federal government—have a redeposit option while the younger FERS employees do not.

As more and more FERS employees leave the federal government and later wish to reenter federal service, a redeposit option would provide the incentive needed to bring these individuals back to the government.

I urge my colleagues to join me in this effort to make federal service more attractive by cosponsoring this important legislation.

RECOGNIZING THE CONTRIBUTIONS OF AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH

HON. BOB SCHAFFER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. SCHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize the value of agriculture research and the contribution it makes to the lives of U.S. producers and consumers.

Over the past few months, American livestock producers have closely followed the latest international news. We have watched nervously as foot-and-mouth disease (FMD) has ravaged the United Kingdom's livestock community, and as it has marched into the European mainland, the Middle East, Asia and South America.

To date, around 1,560 sites in Britain have been hit by the highly contagious virus. Now, Brazil is the latest country suspected of hosting the disease. Moreover, FMD has cost the world's cattle, hog and sheep industries billions of dollars. Britain's meat industry estimates the highly-contagious disease has cost it $12 million a week in lost sales leaving the UK with a bill of more than $4.3 billion just to halt and destroy the disease.

All of this begs the question: How do we best protect American livestock from animal ailments such as FMD and mad cow disease?

In the new global market, it is only a matter of time before the rest of the world's diseases come knocking on America's door. Considering my district—Colorado's Fourth District—is a leader in livestock sales, and that the U.S. livestock industry generates $55 billion a year, we must be able to defend our livestock from threats like FMD by means of science and technology, instead of relying only on border checks, federal agents and good luck.

Nor is new legislation the answer for the long term. The real key to prevention lies in agricultural research and development. It makes sense to take a proactive approach in protecting and improving America's livestock. Such research leads to the discovery of new uses for ag products, which in turn boosts demand.

I was surprised to learn that even though agriculture receives less than two percent of the federal research budget, productivity in the ag sector grows four-to-ten times faster than in other sectors. And while the federal government provides about 24 percent of funding for ag research, the private sector pays more than 60 percent of the bill, proving ag research is one of government's best buys.

Much of agriculture's most innovative research is conducted in my home of Colorado. Research excellence is perhaps best exemplified at Colorado State University's Center for Economically Important Infectious Animal Diseases. The center provides America's livestock producers with the latest knowledge and technology in the fight against diseases. A leader in livestock research, the center also plays a key role in food safety concerns.

Another example is the National Beef Cattle Evaluation Consortium (NBCEC). Comprised of renowned scientists from CSU and other leading universities, as well as local cattlemen, the NBCEC is bolstering the competitiveness of U.S. beef by maximizing genetic research and returning the advantage to U.S. cattle producers.

The USDA's research budget has barely grown in real terms over two decades. But the recent livestock epidemics have provided an overdue wake up call, and we can expect Congress to advance a substantial increase in funding for ag research. If planned properly, such support will secure long-term solutions for the producers and consumers of today and tomorrow.

With more than one million individual farms and ranches comprising the U.S. livestock industry, investing in knowledge and prevention is one of the best ways policy makers can stand by American agriculture. It is a matter of national security. After all, at stake is America's capacity to feed itself and the rest of the world.

I ask the House to join me in supporting America's producers by doing everything possible to better the country's agricultural research.

20TH ANNIVERSARY OF GUMA' MAMI

HON. ROBERT A. UNDERWOOD

OF GUAM

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, this year marks the 20th anniversary of Guma' Mami, which means ''Our House'' in the native language of the people of Guam. Guma' Mami is a non-profit corporation whose mission is to facilitate the full inclusion and integration of adults with developmental disabilities or mental retardation into their communities through individual and family support. Their success stem from ensuring the highest quality of services to support, enhance and improve the quality of life of adults with cognitive and other developmental disabilities.

Guma' Mami began in May 1981 by providing individual and family support and planning a housing support program. Until recently, the organization operated three housing support programs—the Independent Group Home, the Mary Clare Home and a transition home. The Mary Clare Home, which was opened in memory of a young woman in need of positive behavior support, and the Independent Group Home accommodates 11 individuals. These homes are staffed 24-hours a day, 7-days a week by Community Living Counselors and supervised by a Housing Support Manager with the ultimate goal for these individuals to transition into a home of their choice with the support services they need. To date Guma' Mami has successfully helped 18 persons from its housing support program to homes of their own—from dependency to autonomy. The third home, a transition or emergency shelter, served as temporary housing for homeless developmentally disabled individuals as well as those soon to be homeless. The housing support program successfully ran its eighteen-month funding cycle and transferred clients to homes of their choice. It was funded by the Guam Housing and Urban Renewal Authority through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Community Development Block Grant.

Guma' Mami also assists individuals who live in the community by providing supportive services through its Comprehensive Case Management Program. Three Case Managers and a Program Coordinator in this section provide services and support for up to 104 individuals in the community. Case Managers monitor the progress of consumers by conducting consumer-driven needs assessment on an on-going basis and coordinate linkages with community resources, such as respite care, day programs, employment, psychological services, medical and dental services, as well as recreation and leisure, and emergency shelter when needed.

Other services provided by Guma' Mami include assisting clients by advocating for rights and training in self advocacy efforts; crisis intervention by providing coping skills for daily living, supportive counseling especially in time of crisis, positive behavior support and family training; and transportation services. Home visits and other personal contacts are made to assist with social integration, budget management, mobility training and personal hygiene. Guma' Mami is the legal guardian of some of the individuals with more significant disabilities. As legal guardian, Guma' Mami attends to the needs of these individuals, such as medical matters and living arrangements.

One of the hallmarks of Guma' Mami has been its ability to take on an active leadership role in the community. Today, the island community looks to Guma' Mami not only for the provision of housing options, but also for leadership in the planning and development of policy reform. Guma' Mami is represented in the Guam Developmental Disabilities Council, the Guam System for Assistive Technology, the University Affiliated Program on Developmental Disabilities, the Rehabilitation Council and the Statewide Independent Living Council. Guma' Mami takes pride in programs that are driven by the preference and choices of individuals it supports.

Twenty years later the organization continues to exist as a highly regarded professional service provider and this year they adopted the slogan, ''IT'S ALL ABOUT CARE'' to emphasize the basic human value that drives their mission of inclusion and integration of adults with developmental disabilities into their communities through individual and family support. The organization has implemented its three-year plan, ''Guma' Mami: Millennium 2000,'' and has taken steps to begin meeting the goals and objectives as delineated in its plan.

In celebration of their 201h anniversary, and its continuous efforts to breakdown barriers, erase negative stereotypes of persons with developmental and mental disabilities, and educate the public, the Governor of Guam will proclaim the week of May 27 to June 2 as ''Guma' Mami Week'' in Guam. The Guam Legislature will also adopt a resolution in support of Guma' Mami's efforts.

The Guma' Mami Board of Directors, its staff and management have planned many activities for the week-long celebration. The celebration will begin with a Mass at Santa Teresita Church in Mangilao, the village where the organization's homes are located. Awareness activities include placing a banner along Guam's main highway, inviting the community to visit the Mary Clare and Independent Group Homes and to watch a series of interviews with Guma' Mami clients and staff during the nightly TV news program. Guma' Mami Week will culminate with a luncheon at which clients and persons in the community who have been of great support to Guma' Mami will be recognized.

Mr. Speaker, I share this story with you and my colleagues as a proud member of the Guma' Mami organization, and because its success is a reflection of the selflessness, the generosity and the caring nature of the people of my district. I lend my support in the form of financial contributions and by always being vigilant on the availability of federal grants with which the organization may improve the quality of its services. I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing and congratulating the staff and management of Guma' Mami, headed by Executive Director Peter Blas, for their tireless efforts to provide a positive and pro-active impact in the lives of persons with disabilities through community involvement, service excellence, and advocacy efforts.

Congratulations are also in order for the Board of Directors under the guidance and leadership of President James Denney for their significant contribution to the Guam community, most especially to individuals with developmental disabilities and their families enabling them to become active and contributing members of the community.

TRIBUTE TO LAURIE MATTHEWS

HON. MARK UDALL

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the service of Laurie Matthews. For the past decade Laurie has directed the Colorado State Parks through a period of transition that has resulted in the system becoming a ''national model.'' Overseeing forty state parks with an annual budget of $40 million, Laurie has become one of the most valued leaders in outdoor recreation in the nation.

When Laurie took charge of the state parks system, it consisted of 190,000 acres with a maintenance backlog that experts said would take over forty years to clear up. Under her leadership the state park system in Colorado expanded by 25,000 acres worth $54 million and completely erased the maintenance backlog. Her dedication to the outdoors showed in her bolstering of environmental education and interpretation by adding 19 new visitor centers and 30 new seasonal interpreters to better assist the public.

Laurie also serves on the Board of Directors for the National Association of State Park Directors, Volunteers for Outdoor Colorado, and Leave No Trace. She has been highly praised for her dedicated service to the state of Colorado by Gov. Bill Owens and the Executive Director of the Department of Natural Resources, Greg Walcher. Today I would like to add my voice to this praise. Laurie's service to the people and the lands of Colorado has been outstanding. The quality of life in our state has been enhanced by her commitment.

She leaves Colorado to join her husband in the Himalayan Dental Relief Project in Nepal. During my travels and mountain climbing experiences in that country, I have come to know and appreciate the people of Nepal and I know that Laurie will be of tremendous service to them. I wish Laurie and her husband the best possible luck there. If she has even a fraction of the amount of success there that she has had in Colorado then the people of Nepal will indeed be extremely fortunate.

Mr. Speaker, I am attaching a recent article and editorial from the Denver Post, and want to personally thank Laurie Matthews for her years of dedicated service.

HEAD OF COLORADO STATE PARKS TO STEP DOWN

(By Theo Stein)

Tuesday, April 17, 2001.—Ten years ago, Laurie Matthews inherited a Colorado State Parks system that had 190,000 acres, a $6 million annual budget and a maintenance program so far behind that officials said it would take 44 years to catch up.

On Monday, Matthews announced she is leaving her position as director after a decade that saw park officials erase the maintenance backlog and add 25,000 acres of new holdings to a system that now counts 11 million visitors a year.

Under her tenure, sought-after lands were added under the park system's ''crown jewel'' initiative, and acquisitions around three urban-area parks, Castlewood, Roxborough and Barr Lake, provided important buffers.

''State parks have flourished under her leadership, and we will miss her greatly,'' said Edward Callaway, parks board chairman. ''I have absolutely the highest regard for that woman.'' Matthews said she's resigning effective June 20 to spend several months in Nepal helping her husband, dentist Andrew Holeck, with the nonprofit Himalayan Dental Relief project they cofounded. ''For five years, we've gone over to Nepal and gradually have done more and more of the clinics,'' she said.

While she's excited about the challenge, Matthews also said she has mixed feelings about leaving. ''It's been a wonderful 10 years, the system is positioned beautifully, but, yeah, it's difficult,'' said Matthews. ''What I'll miss most are the wonderful people who work for Colorado State Parks.''

Matthews said three developments provided the footing necessary to make the gains of the past 10 years. First came the legislation enabling Great Outdoors Colorado, which earmarked state lottery money to help parks and recreation.

Second was a bill championed by the state's congressional delegation that allowed federal agencies to join cost sharing partnerships with states to renovate aging parks.

Finally, the state legislature approved park fee increases.

Matthews also focused on environmental education in the parks, adding 19 new visitor centers and 30 seasonal interpreters to assist the public.

CONTINUE PARKS LEADERSHIP

(By Denver Post Editorial Board)

MONDAY, APRIL 23, 2001.—In the past decade, Colorado's state parks have truly blossomed—and just at the right time. As our state's population grows, more people need more places for outdoor recreation. And our 40 state parks (with more slated to open in the next few years) offer just such opportunities to 11 million visitors each year.

Such a diverse system demands the excellence in leadership it has enjoyed for the past 10 years under state parks Director Laurie Matthews.

Now, however, the 48-year-old Matthews is leaving to help her husband run a new, nonprofit group that will provide free dentistry to Nepal's impoverished children.

Matthews' contribution to Colorado conservation cannot be overstated. She has been a tireless advocate for public recreation, environmental education, wildlife habitat preservation and open-space preservation. She has created good will between her agency and the state legislature—no easy task, given lawmakers' skepticism toward bureaucracies—and fostered cooperation among local, state and federal public-land managers. She has also lent her energy to numerous outdoor organizations, building community ties even as she helped build trails.

There's no replacing Matthews, but the state now must find a successor.

Whether Gov. Bill Owens' administration chooses someone inside or out of the state system, the next parks director must posses certain key qualities.

Foremost is solid leadership, including the ability to think strategically and envision what the state parks system should be five to 10 years hence. Indeed, protecting the parks from development pressures, while respecting the rights of surrounding property owners, is one of the toughest juggling acts the new director will face.

The director also must work collegially with other state agencies, while having the gumption to stand up for the best, long-term interests of the parks system.

Matthews certainly brought such admirable traits to her job. The Owens administration should search for a successor with equal attributes.

TRIBUTE TO THE LAKEVIEW HIGH SCHOOL KEY CLUB, BATTLE CREEK, MICHIGAN

HON. NICK SMITH

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. SMITH of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, as a former president of the Key Club in my hometown of Addison, Michigan, it gives me great pleasure to rise today to honor the members of the Lakeview/Urbandale Kiwanis Club in Battle Creek, Michigan and the over 40 students from Lakeview High School who will gather on May 22, 2001 to celebrate the chartering of the community's first Key Club.

Key Club is an international service club for high school students which operates under the sponsorship of a local Kiwanis Club, and is designed to aid students in developing leadership skills, initiative and good citizenship through interaction with business and professional leaders in the community.

The Key Club constitution promotes daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationships; the adoption and application of higher standards in scholarship, sportsmanship, and social contacts and providing a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render unselfish service, and to build better communities.

The history of Key Club dates to May of 1925 with the chartering of the first chapter at Sacramento High School in California by the Kiwanis Club of Sacramento. The club was originally formed to provide vocational guidance to young, high school males and to serve as an alternative to high school fraternities and secret organizations. Today, Key Club is the largest high school service organization in the country, with more than 200,000 members in over 4,500 clubs throughout North America, Europe and the Caribbean.

The impeccable reputation of Kiwanis International is well documented and well deserved. Countless individuals worldwide have been assisted through the organization's commitment to community service and helping those in need. I am honored to recognize the members of the Lakeview/Urbandale Kiwanis Club for tireless efforts on behalf of the greater Battle Creek area and for their willingness to serve as mentors and role models to area youth. I congratulate the Lakeview High School Key Club on the receipt of its charter and wish the group much success in its inaugural year.

WORCESTER—AN ALL-AMERICAN CITY

HON. JAMES P. McGOVERN

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. McGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to inform my colleagues that the City of Worcester, Massachusetts has won the National Civic League's All America City Award five times in the history of the fifty-one year program: 1949, 1960, 1965, 1981, and 2000. Worcester is a city that the National Civic League credits with being able to solve community problems.

On Thursday, May 24th the city will host an All-America City Celebration in Worcester City Hall when city officials and community partners will unveil five permanently-mounted plaques to commemorate this achievement.

The Worcester City Council, Worcester School Committee, Superintendent Dr. James Caradonio, the Central Massachusetts Legislative Delegation, All America City Delegates, municipal department heads, and community partners will be invited to participate in this event. Reverend Richard Wright and Mrs. Shirley Wright, Community Co-Chairs for the City's successful bid for the Award one year ago, will serve as moderators for the occasion. The event will include a brief speaking program, refreshments, and music by the Worcester Firefighters Pipe and Drum Brigade. It should be quite a party.

As Tom Hoover, Worcester's City Manager, noted: ''I am very proud of our collective work to improve the lives of others and ultimately this community; it is the right thing to do!''

Mr. Speaker, I know all of my colleagues join me in congratulating the people of Worcester for this remarkable achievement.

RECOGNIZING JUDY JAMES FOR HER OUTSTANDING SERVICE TO THE SONOMA COUNTY FARM BUREAU

HON. MIKE THOMPSON

OF CALIFORNIA

HON. LYNN C. WOOLSEY

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. THOMPSON of California. Mr. Speaker, we rise today to recognize Judy James, who is retiring after twelve years of service as the Executive Director of the Sonoma County Farm Bureau.

In the past twelve years, agriculture in Sonoma County has undergone profound changes. New pests and diseases have threatened production, farmers and ranchers have had to resist urban encroachment and development pressures, and environmental regulations have restricted some agricultural practices. The Farm Bureau, under the leadership of Ms. James, has successfully guided its members by adapting to these changing times.

Ms. James has always been a creative and dedicated advocate for Sonoma County agriculture.

She developed the Government Executive Institute program to educate local policy makers about the challenges faced by Sonoma County farmers and ranchers. The Sonoma County Farm Bureau received the first of its three national awards from the American Farm Bureau Federation for this program.

Ms. James also created the Ag-Education Contribution Fund that is supported by Farm Bureau members. Funds raised through this program are used to promote Sonoma County agriculture in the local schools.

Under her direction, the Bureau's annual Crab Feed grew from serving 100 people to serving more than 600 people, thereby generating more than $15,000 annually for Farm Bureau activities.

Although Ms. James is retiring from a leadership role in the Farm Bureau, she will continue to be an active member. She will help her husband run the family vineyard, assist her children on their 4–H livestock projects, and teach agriculture classes at Santa Rosa Junior College.

Mr. Speaker, because of Judy James' many contributions to the Sonoma County Farm Bureau and to her community, it is fitting and proper to honor her today.

INTRODUCING THE FATAL GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENT INVESTIGATIONS ACT

HON. COLLIN C. PETERSON

OF MINNESOTA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing the ''Fatal Grade Crossing Accident Investigations Act'' to require the National Transportation Safety Board to investigate all crashes between a train and a road vehicle that result in a fatality.

The NTSB is currently charged with investigating a variety of transportation and pipeline accidents, some of which result in no loss of life or even injury. However, freight trains and cars collide 4,000 times a year resulting in 400 deaths. The NTSB gathers these statistics from the Federal Railroad Administration and feels that its work is done. Meanwhile, the NTSB is the only agency with the authority to fully investigate these fatal crashes, and its failure to do so leaves a vacuum where families have to fight with railroad companies for answers and local law enforcement agencies are powerless to help them. In some cases, the family of a lost loved one must sue the railroad for the train engine's data recorder or results of toxicology tests that railroads conduct on employees involved in a crash. The NTSB has the authority to collect this information—if it chooses to investigate the accident. My bill requires the National Transportation Safety Board to put its resources to work where a loss of life occurs on any railroad crossing.

I am offering this bill with support from a group called Citizens Against Railroad Tragedies which brought to my attention the serious gap that exists in car-train accident investigations. I encourage all Members of the House to hear the concerns of their constituents who are associated with this group and to help us eliminate railroad crossing accidents by increasing the safety at intersections and investigating the crashes that tragically still occur everyday across our country.

HONORING DR. WILLIAM WILKINSON

HON. GRACE F. NAPOLITANO

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mrs. NAPOLITANO. Mr. Speaker, I am extremely proud to rise today to honor a very special man—Dr. William Wilkinson, a long time physician and former Chairman of the Board of Directors of Beverly Hospital in Montebello, California. Today, in recognition of Dr. Wilkinson's numerous contributions to the hospital and community at large, a record of achievements and service spanning more than 40 years, Beverly Hospital will dedicate its new Senior Resource Center in his name and establish the ''Dr. William Wilkinson Nursing Education Fund.''

Dr. Wilkinson has a long litany of accomplishments which speak to his sense of duty and responsibility to the sick, to his profession and to the community that is so much a part of his life. He has been on the Beverly Hospital Board of Directors since 1971 and also served as its President; was an official physician for the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles; a member of the Founding Board of Directors of MERCI—Mentally and Emotionally Retarded Children (1962); a Clinical Instructor for the Department of Family Medicine at the University of California at Irvine (1974–1988); an Assistant Professor of Family and Community Medicine at the University of Southern California beginning in 1980; and a Trustee on the Beverly Hospital Foundation Board. In addition, Dr. Wilkinson was awarded the Outstanding Volunteer Teacher of the Year (1986–1987) while at the University of California at Irvine.

Mr. Speaker, I would like all my colleagues to join me in saluting Dr. William Wilkinson for his selfless and untiring efforts on behalf of others. His devotion to his work and his commitment to others—the needy, the poor, the sick, the young and old alike—have endeared him to so many of his fellow medical professionals and to the countless people who have received his comfort, advice and professional care. It is indeed fitting today that we honor Dr. Wilkinson for all he has done to make life better for so many.

POWER TEAM WEEK, KENNESAW, GEORGIA

HON. BOB BARR

OF GEORGIA

HON. JOHNNY ISAKSON

OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. BARR of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, the dates Monday, May 28th through Sunday, June 3rd, 2001, will be recognized by the City of Kennesaw, Georgia as, ''Power Team Week.'' During this week young people from all walks of life will have the opportunity to be motivated, encouraged and inspired by their awesome displays of strength, and powerful, values based motivational message.

In Congress we struggle every day with serious issues and problems facing the youth of our country. It is encouraging to know John Jacobs and his Power Team, are motivated by a quote from Mr. Jacobs himself, ''today's young people are tomorrow's future.'' He is absolutely correct, and for more than 20 years, he and The Power Team have been taking the message of ''saying no'' to drugs and alcohol, the importance of high moral standards in one's life, and striving for academic excellence, directly to the youth of America.

We commend John Jacobs and The Power Team for their continued work on behalf of America's young people, and for the City of Kennesaw for recognizing May 28th through June 3rd, 2001 as ''Power Team Week.''

ASIAN PACIFIC AMERICAN HERITAGE MONTH

HON. ADAM B. SCHIFF

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to commemorate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month this May 2001. Almost two decades ago, President Jimmy Carter signed a joint resolution declaring the first Asian Pacific American Heritage Week as May 4–10, 1979. Then, a decade ago, the celebration was extended to the entire month. Finally, Public Law 102–450 approved on October 23, 1992, designated May of each year as Asian Pacific American Heritage Month.

I am proud that the region I represent in Congress is a diverse one and is home to many people of Asian Pacific heritage. So many of my constituents have distinguished themselves through their accomplishments in education, business, medicine and science, and other forms of public and private sector involvement, and through a strong and successful family life. To commemorate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month, I would like to briefly highlight the remarkable accomplishments of three distinguished Asian Pacific American civic leaders who represent constituents from California's 27th Congressional District, which I am proud to serve in the U.S. House of Representatives.

John Chiang has shown a deep and genuine commitment to public service as Vice Chair of the California Board of Equalization. Elected as the representative of the Fourth District of the Board of Equalization in 1998, Mr. Chiang has promoted public-private community outreach and taxpayer-education initiatives to better serve his more than 8 million constituents in Los Angeles County. Mr. Chiang organized the first joint Board of Equalization, Franchise Tax Board, and Internal Revenue Service seminar for nonprofit organizations and joined with the Los Angeles County Assessor's Office to hold a tax seminar for religious organizations. He has also organized business and labor forums on fighting tax evasion in the ''underground economy'' and sponsored state legislative reforms to enhance the California Taxpayers' Bill of Rights. John is the son of Judy Chiang, a generous and committed community volunteer, and Dr. Mutong Thomas Chiang, a thoughtful and dedicated scholar.

Carol Liu has a long-standing record of community leadership, culminating with her election last year as the representative of California's 44th Assembly District. Assemblymember Liu's top priority is to restore California's public education system to be among the very best in the nation. Prior to her election to the State Assembly, Ms. Liu's work in education included serving as a PTA President, President of the Pasadena City College Foundation Board, and Co-Chair of the Pasadena City College capital campaign to fund construction of a new physical education and sports complex. In addition, Liu sits on the Board of Trustees of the U. C. Berkeley Foundation. She also served her community as a civic leader, with her election to the La Canada Flintridge City Council in 1992, reelection in 1996 and her terms as Mayor in 1996 and 1999. Liu has been honored for her contributions to the community with the La Canada Flintridge Educational Foundation Spirit of Outstanding Service Award and the Second Baptist Church Outstanding Service Award. In 1998, when I served as a State Senator in California, I was proud to designate her as the 21st Senatorial District Woman of the Year. Liu is married to Mike Peevey, a businessman and entrepreneur, and they are the proud parents of three grown children, Jed, Maria, and Darcie, and even prouder grandparents of three grandchildren.

Matthew Y.C. Lin, M.D., is the first Asian American elected to serve as a Member of the City Council of the City of San Marino, California. Dr. Lin, a board-certified orthopedic surgeon, has an extensive record of community service. His volunteer activities include leadership positions with the San Marino Schools Foundation, Pasadena Symphony, Chinese Club of San Marino, United Way of the San Gabriel Valley and Luke Christian Medical Mission. He has sought to improve the lives of our children through his service at the West San Gabriel Valley Boys and Girls Club, Asian Youth Center, and by coaching AYSO soccer and serving as assistant coach for the San Marino High School Judo Club. He has taken part in voluntary medical missions to aid the victims of disasters, responding to the Taiwan earthquake in September 1999 and the earthquake in El Salvador in January 200 1. Dr. Lin and his wife, Joy, are the proud parents of four adult children, Jenny, George, Tim and Jerry.

I am proud to recognize the community and civic accomplishments of Councilman Lin, Assemblywoman Liu and Board of Equalization Member Chiang as we celebrate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. They are truly remarkable leaders who through their service to our communities are an inspiration to us all.

AMERICA'S NATIONAL TREE—THE OAK

HON. BOB GOODLATTE

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. GOODLATTE. Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure today to introduce legislation recognizing the people's selection of the oak tree as America's national tree. This past Arbor Day, April 27, Members of Congress, Agriculture Secretary Veneman, Interior Secretary Norton, and EPA Administrator Whitman joined the National Arbor Day Foundation in a ceremonial unveiling of a young oak on the Capitol grounds. Selected by the American public over a four-month long open voting process using the Internet (http://www.arborday.org/NationalTree/ntResults.html), the oak earned the title of America's Chosen National Tree. To recognize this distinction, I and Mr. GOSS of Florida along with Mr. OSBORNE of Nebraska are introducing legislation today granting the oak official status as America's national tree. The junior Senator from Nebraska, Mr. NELSON, has already introduced companion legislation, S. 811.

As a member of Congress representing a heavily forested district in Virginia, I fully understand and appreciate how trees add to an individual's quality of life. As chairman of the House Agriculture Subcommittee responsible for forestry, I know how trees and forests enhance the environment, add recreational opportunities and provide for the livelihoods of 1.4 million working individuals in the $262 billion dollar forest industry. Whether one is enjoying the myriad of products generated from a forest, or the simple satisfaction of laying under a shaded giant, trees contribute to all Americans. This is why I am here today and why it is appropriate to recognize the Oak as the National tree chosen by the American public.

I would also like to commend the National Arbor Day Foundation for its use of the Internet as the primary communication tool in this endeavor to name America's National tree. As co-chair of the Congressional Internet Caucus, I applaud the powerful role the Internet played in this historic vote. Not only did this medium make possible easy, broad-based participation in the vote, but it also offered many educational opportunities for those who checked out arborday.org online. Having been a member of the Foundation for 16 years, I am impressed with their work in promoting trees in our communities across the country, and I am also pleased that they are using the capabilities of the Internet to educate the American public about the proper care and benefits of trees.

Along with other well-known national emblems, the oak is a most fitting selection as America's National tree. The stately oak not only surrounds us here on the Capitol ground, but also is a part of our daily lives as wood products in our homes, our offices and places of gathering. Common to all fifty states, the oak has played a huge role in America's history as a valuable resource. It helped our founding fathers establish a new nation, supplying building materials for the expanding original thirteen colonies. It further greeted pioneers as they traveled across the new republic to the West Coast. And to this day it has remained an enduring, valuable, and highly-prized raw material. Its use as beautifully crafted furniture, sturdy door and window framing, ornate flooring and paneling, all reinforce the sensible selection of the oak. This majestic tree, which has long been a part of our national heritage and strength, fully merits this distinction.

I want to personally thank those who took part in the vote for America's national tree, and I applaud Arbor Day for its dedication to the future for which the oak represents. I look forward to working with my colleagues to designate the oak as America's national tree.

PRINTED CIRCUIT INVESTMENT ACT OF 2001

HON. PHILIP M. CRANE

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. CRANE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today and join my good friend and colleague, Bob Matsui of California, to introduce the Printed Circuit Investment Act of 2001. This simple and straightforward bill allows manufacturers of printed wiring boards and printed wiring assemblies, known as the electronic interconnect industry, to depreciate their production equipment in three years rather than the five years in current law. Printed wiring boards are those ubiquitous little green boards loaded with tiny wires and microchips that are the nerve centers of electronic items from television sets to computers to mobile phones and electronic organizers.

The interconnecting industry, like so much of the electronics industry, has changed dramatically in just the last decade. This industry, which has $44 billion in annual sales, was once dominated by large companies. Now it consists overwhelmingly of small firms. The rapid pace of technological advancement today makes interconnecting manufacturing equipment obsolete in 18 to 36 months. This makes the interconnecting industry very capital intensive. In fact, capital expenditures last year totaled more than $3 billion and continue to grow.

The depreciation rules found in the tax code have not kept pace with the realities of this dynamic market. The industry currently relies on tax law passed in the 1980s, that was based on 1970s era electronics technology. US competitors in Asia, however, enjoy much more favorable tax treatment as well as direct government subsidies,

The Printed Circuit Investment Act of 2001 will provide necessary tax relief to the interconnect industry and the 400,000 Americans whose jobs directly rely on the success of this industry. I urge my colleagues to join Congressman MATSUI and I in supporting this important legislation.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. BOB RILEY

OF ALABAMA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. RILEY. Mr. Speaker, I was unavoidably detained for rollcall No. 126, H. Con. Res. 56, Expressing the sense of the Congress regarding National Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day. Had I been present for this vote I would have voted in favor of H. Con. Res. 56.

I was also unavoidably detained for rollcall No. 127, H.R. 1885, To expand the class of beneficiaries who may apply for adjustment of status under section 245(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act by extending the deadline for classification petition and labor certification filings, and for other purposes. Had I been present for this vote I would have voted against H.R. 1885.

WELCOMING PRESIDENT CHEN SHUI BIAN TO THE U.S.

HON. JIM RYUN

OF KANSAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. RYUN of Kansas. Mr. Speaker, a distinguished visitor, President Chen Shui Bian of the Republic of China will be stopping briefly in New York before heading to Central America later this month.

This is the first visit by Mr. Chen to New York as a head of state. President Chen has just completed his first year in office as the Tenth President of the Republic of China on Taiwan. As the former mayor of Taiwan's capital, President Chen has served as a dedicated leader to this island democracy.

President Chen's visit will undoubtedly serve to strengthen the warm friendship between the United States and the Republic of China. I hope my colleagues will join me in extending a word of welcome to President Chen during his visit to the United States.

THE INTRODUCTION OF H.R. 1692, TO SIMPLIFY AND MAKE MORE EQUITABLE THE TAX TREATMENT OF SETTLEMENT TRUSTS ESTABLISHED PURSUANT TO THE ALASKA NATIVE CLAIMS SETTLEMENT ACT

HON. DON YOUNG

OF ALASKA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, on May 3, 2001, eighteen of our colleagues from both sides of the aisle and I introduced H.R. 1692, a bill to simplify and make more equitable the tax treatment of Settlement Trusts established pursuant to the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act.

I am very pleased today to add the names of two of our distinguished colleagues, Representative WES WATKINS, a cosponsor from last Congress and Member of the Ways and Means Committee to which the bill was referred, and Representative MARK SOUDER.

Also, in my statement upon introduction of the bill, there were two items that need correcting. First, Representative FROST, Representative BONO, and Representative STUPAK should have been referred to as ''Representative'' as were the other cosponsors. And, in the last paragraph of the statement, the word ''vetted'' was inadvertently transcribed in the RECORD to read ''vetoed.'' With that edit, that paragraph should have read:

A version of this bill was included by the Ways and Means Committee in legislation last Congress that was vetoed and a version of it passed the Senate as well. This current version of the bill we are introducing today has been vetted over the past several years with the tax writing committees of Congress in the House and Senate, the Joint Committee on Taxation and the Department of Treasury. It addresses the key deficiencies in the current law. I urge that it be included in tax-related legislation considered by the House in this session of the 107th Congress and that our colleagues join the co-sponsors of the bill in supporting this meritorious legislation.

TO HONOR MS. TERRI CRUZ AS THIS YEAR'S RECIPIENT OF THE JEWELL AWARD WHICH HONORS THOSE THAT HAVE GIVEN GENEROUSLY AND SELFLESSLY FOR THE BETTERMENT OF THEIR COMMUNITY

HON. ED PASTOR

OF ARIZONA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. PASTOR. Mr. Speaker, I stand before you today to pay tribute to a great woman who has been an influential force in assisting Arizonans in need. The woman of whom I speak is Ms. Terri Cruz, a woman whose accomplishments in life are reflected in the success of her community and its members.

Ms. Cruz has touched the lives of many citizens of Arizona through her active community involvement. In 1985 she was appointed by former Governor Bruce Babbitt to the Nursing Care Institution Administrators Board, while concurrently serving as the National Chairman of the Hispanic Senior Citizen Foundation Board. Other boards Ms. Cruz has served on are the YWCA, Maricopa County and Phoenix Human Resource Commissions and the Mayor's Commission for the Aging. In addition, she served as President of the West Phoenix LULAC (League of United Latin American Citizens) Council.

Ms. Cruz's work as a Job Developer for Operation S.E.R. provided training for high school students in clerical skills, general office procedures, and other areas, giving young people who may not otherwise have had the opportunity to gain these valuable skills become productive members of their communities.

Currently Ms. Cruz is the Social Services Counselor for Chicanos Por La Causa, Inc., based in Phoenix. Her primary responsibility is providing social services to clients. She helps solve problems they may be having with Social Security, food stamps, health agencies, and landlord/tenant problems. Many of these problems may have gone unchecked if it were not for caring individuals such as Ms. Cruz. As a tribute, Chicanos Por La Causa named one of their buildings after Ms. Cruz for all her work in helping individuals gain job skills and obtain employment.

Because of her lifelong dedication to helping others, Ms. Cruz recently was honored with a Jewell Award. This is an award that annually recognizes ''a woman who has given generously and selflessly for the betterment of our community,'' in metropolitan Phoenix. Her extensive background in job training and development, her commitment to working within business, industry, social and community organizations and government to help others truly has made her deserving of this award.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask that you and my colleagues join me today in honoring this giving and caring individual, my friend, Ms. Terri Cruz.

THE STORY OF EMILY ROSS

HON. STEVE C. LaTOURETTE

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. LATOURETTE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a courageous young woman from Westlake, OH, who recently contacted me to share her story and the need for increased funding for Muscular Dystrophy research. Emily, a sophomore at Westlake High School, has Friedreich's Ataxia, one of the many neuromuscular diseases that fall under the umbrella of Muscular Dystrophy. Emily was diagnosed when she was five.

Emily's parents, Charlie and Carolyn Ross, shared with me two articles Emily wrote about her daily struggle with Muscular Dystrophy and how she is overcoming the challenges the disease places before her. The first was written when Emily was in eighth grade, ''A Day in the Life of Emily Ross.'' The second, ''Onward and Outward!'' was published in the April 2001 edition of The Bay Press. I am submitting the writings of Emily Ross into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD so they will become a part of the official record of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Mr. Speaker, Emily believes that God chose her to have Muscular Dystrophy because he needed someone to help find a cure. I applaud her courage and grace, and hope that others will be as touched by her story as I was.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF EMILY ROSS

(By Emily Ross)

When I wake up in the morning, I shut off my alarm and begin my day by stopping to think how I am going to walk across my bedroom floor. Attempting to go into the bathroom is scary because my feet are stiff, my balance is terrible and I manage to bang into every piece of furniture in my bedroom! I get downstairs to the kitchen for breakfast by scooting down on my behind step by step. Going into the kitchen for breakfast I have trouble opening the peanut butter jar, pouring a glass of milk or getting any cereal into my mouth because my hands shake. I hope my teeth are clean because I cannot squeeze the toothpaste. Buttons, zippers and socks are a challenge. I'm already tired but off to school I go with my Mom and my dog, Oats.

At school, my Mom helps me to the door because my feet trip easily on the uneven sidewalk. I cannot open the heavy doors by myself. Once inside, I hope on my battery-powered scooter and go to my locker. If I'm not shaking too badly I can get my combination lock opened in three tries! Headed to my first class I face crowded hallways, funny looks from other kids and hurtful comments like ''there goes the cripple.'' Sometimes some of the kids will lie on the floor pretending that I have hit them with my scooter which really hurts my feelings. I'm constantly being asked to move out of the way because they say my scooter takes up too much room. After class I'd like a drink of water but the water fountains are too high. At lunchtime I never buy a school lunch because I cannot reach the food on the shelves or get my scooter through the narrow gate. I tried to walk through the lunch line several times but everyone is pushing and I'm scared I'll lose my balance. I dropped my tray once and believe me, once is enough!

It's now sixth period and I'm starting to get really tired and I have two more class periods to go. The bell rings and school is finally over. It's pretty tricky getting my scooter down the hallway with everyone pushing and shoving their way out to the buses. I finally get to my locker, hope I can get it open in time so I don't miss my bus, grab my coat and panic when I can't zip up my backpack. All my papers fall out all over the floor. I frantically stuff them back inside my backpack, park my scooter, and struggle past 800 other kids waiting to catch their bus rides home. My bus finally arrives and I gratefully sit down for my ride home. An aide helps me up to the side door of my house and helps hold my hands steady so I can aim my key in the lock and she also helps me to turn the doorknob so I can get safely inside. Once inside I let my backpack and coat drop on the floor and I fall onto the couch where I am grateful to God that I have made it another day. Oats, my dog, is the only one I can talk to when I get home from school. she always understands me.

My name is Emily Ross. I am 13 years old and in the eight grade. I have Friedreich's Ataxia which is one of forty neuromuscular diseases listed under Muscular Dystrophy. It is a hereditary degenerative nerve disease which affects the hands and feet resulting in fatigue and loss of feeling and balance. I was diagnosed when I was 5. I thank God allowed me to have MD because he needed someone to help find a cure. He's chosen me and has led me to a team of doctors that have asked to take a biopsy of muscle and nerve tissue in a ''one of a kind'' research program which The Muscular Dystrophy Society is sponsoring. They are hoping to determine how they can replace or regenerate the protein that is missing in the cells of all Friedreich's patients. Even if a cure is years away, this study may allow for a medicine that could help me and many others to stop shaking and stop our muscles from weakening anymore.

Not all of my days are stressful because I have the love of my family and many good friends who help me throughout each day. My Mom, Dad and my brother, Hunter, help me squeeze the toothpaste, open the peanut butter jar and button my clothes. My school has allowed me to start my school day one hour later than everyone else and when my friends see me coming up to the door, they hold them open for me. Sometimes it's even a really cute boy which makes my day start off pretty darn good!!! My scooter is sometimes being used by my crazy science teacher but she always comes zooming down the hall just in time for me to get to English. My teachers have been wonderful with kind understanding and a willingness to adapt to my special needs. because of my school's support, I am a straight A student. And, if my feelings are hurt by some kids, I have many more good friends that support me in many different ways. Sometimes I think the entire school knows my locker combination because they are always helping me to open it. They help me carry my books, write my lessons for me, copy homework assignments, take notes off the board, stand in the lunch line to get me a chicken patty sandwich and help me make it through a Friday night canteen in the auditorium in one piece!!! god must have really been looking out for me after school because I have the oldest living bus driver in the world who is late every single day. For me, this is a blessing.

I am proud to say I am going on the 8th grade Washington, D.C. trip this June for four days, I plan on attending M.D. Camp for the second years, I help elementary kids to read at our Library's summer program and if she'll hire me again, I'd like to help Mrs. Peterson at our church this summer in the Family Life Ministry office.

So I guess you could say that I'm quite a lucky girl. God has blessed me with a special challenge that lets me look at the world in a lot of different ways. When I grow up I hope to help make the world an easier place to be for all special people. Thank you for listening to me today and I hope you will see people with special needs through different eyes—God's eyes.

ONWARD AND OUTWARD!

AN UPDATE FROM EMILY ROSS

(By Emily Ross)

Two years ago I shared ''A Day in The Life of Emily Ross'' with our congregation. I was very touched when recently many of you asked how I am doing now that I am in high school and faced with a new set of challenges. I'm proud to say that I am doing well, accepting the challenge Heaven has asked of me, Muscular Dystrophy is a silent, progressive disease, and Friedreich's Ataxia, the type I have, robs me of the ability to store energy in my cells. I have noticed a loss of touch and hearing, as well as slurred speech over the years, but I've become quite clever at managing my daily activity.

I am now a sophomore at Westlake High School, maintaining a 3.2 grade average, carrying a full class schedule, and even hosting a five-minute broadcast segment called ''This Week in Science'' through WHBS, our school's television broadcasting system. I am no longer able to walk by myself, so my new leg braces, along with the use of a scooter, help me to my classes. The school purchased a special locker for me that opens with a magnetic key, so I no longer have to worry about combination locks; they even remodeled certain areas to accommodate my scooter. I have full use of the school's elevator and front row seating in all of my classrooms. Some teachers are compassionate and understanding, some strict and unbending, but isn't that the way it is for all students? By evening, my hands are usually too tired to hold a pencil, so someone in my family writes my homework for me as I dictate. My mom is very good at not telling me if the answer I am saying is correct, she just keeps writing no matter what!

Every year, a few students stare and whisper as I drive by in my scooter, but most of the kids have know me since elementary school, and I now fit in almost effortlessly. I have concerns that boys will be judgmental, seeing only the wheelchair and not the girl seated in it. I will admit to having days filled with self-pity at not being able to walk, dance, or run but they soon pass when I realize all the things I am capable of and have already accomplished. I actually like going to school because it's something I can manage independently, and I feel comfortable surrounded by my teachers and friends.

I am a bit more cautious, though, in the world outside my high school. I am trying very hard to leave the security of familiar surroundings and make an attempt to be seen at more school and community functions. It took me a long time to learn that if people do not see you at school events, the mall, or the movies (like a normal teenager), then they assume that you do not wish to be included. Many teenagers have never even been close to a wheelchair, or think that because my body is weak then my mind must be also. It is up to me to invite questions from people, to answer their curiosities, to help them feel comfortable—not only around me, but around my equipment, too. I need to let them know that I just wish to be treated like everyone else.

One of my personal challenges this past year was saying yes to a movie and dinner with my friends. It meant not being ashamed to be seen in my wheelchair, which may not sound like a big thing to an adult, but it was a scary first step for me. To help me accomplish this, God blessed me with two guardian angels, my friends Stephanie and Britney. Stephanie, my best friend for six years now, proudly pushes me through the mall, across parking lots, or up to jewelry counters. We have an understanding that when she pushes, I hold all our packages, frozen cokes, and purses. Stephanie has always treated me with dignity, great compassion, and honesty, and I thank her for that, Britney is a girl I met at Muscular Dystrophy Camp last summer, and she is fighting her own form of the disease. She is also a sophomore living in Alliance. Having someone to talk to who truly knows how you are feeling because they are going through the same experience is a one-in-a-lifetime gift from Heaven. The two of us together at the mall is a team adventure with both of us counting on the other for balance or for a steady hand when trying on a new lipstick.

God has also given me a wonderful family, who has taught me how lucky I am. I can tell my mom anything, and I do. She always listens when I need to vent my frustrations. She makes the jerking muscles relax the fevers subside, the exhaustion feel comfortable. She makes me laugh. My dad brings breakfast upstairs to me every day before school so I don't waste any energy going downstairs into the kitchen. He has remodeled, rewired, and redesigned our entire house to accommodate me and carries my wheelchair up and down the steps hundreds of times per week. He makes me safe. My brother has done off to college this past year, and surprisingly, I miss him! He used to look out for me when we were in high school together, and he still calls to see if I need anything. He makes me normal. My dog, Oats, is always glad to see me and cares about me in a dog sort of way. Somehow she can predict when I'm going to fall and has actually sacrificed herself as a sort of cushion between me and the floor. She follows me from room to room, stares up at me adoringly and loves to eat potato chips while I tell her about my day.

So I'm learning with daily ''help me get through this'' prayers, to look at the world with the following in mind: If I need to create solutions to my unique challenges during my teenage years, then I also need to actually ''get out there'' to experience them. Considering all the things I hope to accomplish within the next few years. I'm going to need all the ''out there'' experience I can muster! You see, I plan on driving within the next year, which will mean special testing, special adaptive devices, and, hopefully, a ramped van. My biggest dream is to have my own motorized wheelchair within the next year and enjoy the freedom to wheel around unassisted. The grandest of all will be attending college upon graduation from high school.

With the continued support from everyone around me and God's graceful hands holding me up, I will write to you again a few years from now with news of my adventures on a campus somewhere, running for class president.

TO HONOR THE TORREZ FAMILY AS RECIPIENTS OF THE 2001 ARIZONA HISPANIC CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ENTREPRENEURS OF THE YEAR AWARD.

HON. ED PASTOR

OF ARIZONA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. PASTOR. Mr. Speaker, today I rise before you to pay tribute to not one person, but an entire family in my district which has established itself as a beacon of accomplishment. The family I speak of is the Torrez Family, owners of the great Azteca Plaza in Phoenix.

The Torrezes have been a benevolent part of our community for over 56 years. Adolfo Torrez and the late Kay Anne Torrez set a standard not only with their commitment to their business and customers, but also with the values and ethics that they installed in their children Raoul, Royna, and Gregory.

Azteca Café was first started by Adolfo and Kay Torrez in 1946. Soon they added a small bar which they named Azteca Bar. These two businesses flourished at the corner of Third and Washington streets. Over the next few years, the Torrez family would expand their property and their businesses to include a flower shop, furniture store, bridal store, formal clothing retailer, and even a dry cleaning company.

The three Torrez children would work side by side with their parents learning from their versatility and passion for hard work. Today Gregory, Raoul, and Royna, continue in their parents footsteps, managing Azteca Plaza and are proving to their community that they are as ethical and driven as their parents, and as compassionate and caring for their community.

The Torrez family recently received the 2001 Arizona Hispanic Chamber of Commerce Entrepreneurs of the Year Award for their work not only as business people, but for their contributions to society.

Mr. Speaker and all my colleagues, please join me today in paying respect to this incredible family, my friends, the Torrezes of Phoenix.

UNIVERSAL DECLARATION OF PUPIL RIGHTS

HON. MAURICE D. HINCHEY

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. HINCHEY. Mr. Speaker, a group of students from Kingston, New York have spent a good part of the past couple of years working with a students from St. Petersburg, Russia to draft a document that catalogs a set of universal rights of students. The program from which they are working is administered by the Center for Civic Education, which promotes worldwide community participation.

The students in my district have been communicating with the students in St. Petersburg mostly by Internet, but have had personal exchanges as well, both in Russia and in New York. In comparing their educational stories, the students found that they shared similar experiences and held common opinions about problems that young people were faced with at either ends of the world. They decided it was time to document certain rights that they believed to be applicable to students around the world. The end result is the Universal Declaration of Pupil Rights.

The students will soon be meeting with representatives of the United Nations to present their document. In recognition of the efforts that were put into creating this important document and because I firmly believe that all young people should be afforded certain rights that guarantee an appropriate education, I would like to take this opportunity, Mr. Speaker, to submit the Universal Declaration of Pupil Rights in the Record so that it may receive an appropriate level of attention.

THE U.S. INTERNATIONAL POLICY ON SUSTAINABLE USE

HON. RICHARD W. POMBO

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. POMBO. Mr. Speaker, through professional and scientific management, this nation currently enjoys stable and healthy wildlife and marine resource populations. Sadly, there were excessive harvests of wildlife in the 17th and 18th centuries, but that circumstance is history never to be repeated. Today, through appropriate laws and reasoned regulations, the future of these resources is assured for generations to come.

Given this background of successful management and wise use of these renewable resources, I am dismayed when government representatives of this nation participate in international conventions, treaties and bilateral and multi-lateral conservation agreements concerning the sustainable use of wildlife and marine resources, a different agenda seems to be in place; specifically, that agenda rejects science and favors anti consumptive use of those renewable resources.

For example, policy positions taken by the United States Delegations at the Conference of the Parties of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) and the Annual Meetings of the International Whaling Commission (IWC) of the International Convention for the Regulation of Whaling (ICRW) reflect a political agenda rather than a science-based policy. Through the past leadership of the United States at CITES and IWC, several nations have followed this flawed and imprudent policy to the detriment of various wildlife and marine species.

Mr. Speaker, I was pleased to note President Bush's recent remarks to the Environmental Youth Award winners regarding this Administrations foundation for environmental policy. He affirmed that it will be ''based on sound science, not some environmental fad of what may sound good—that we're going to rely on the best evidence before we decide [on policy].'' Currently, the United States is developing its position for the upcoming 53rd Annual Meeting of the IWC.

Due to the significance of the event, I recently sent a letter to the Secretary of Interior, the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce concerning the background of United States policy at the IWC meetings. Mr. Speaker, at this time I hereby submit to the RECORD for my colleagues consideration the letters (referenced above) to the Bush administration.

I believe the time has come for the United States to truly reflect an international commitment to the sustainable use of renewable wildlife and marine resources based on science. As I stated in my letters, this conservation policy should be followed whether the subject species are elephants, turtles, whales, or trees. Such leadership by the United States is the responsible and ethical policy that must be pursued for the benefit of renewable wildlife, marine resources and humankind itself.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC, May 3, 2001.

Hon. GALE NORTON,
Secretary, U.S. Department of Interior, Washington, DC.

DEAR SECRETARY NORTON: I am writing to express my strong support for the need for science to be the fundamental guide in United States participation in international conservation commitments as legally recognized under the Uruguay Round Agreements of the General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

Unfortunately, the United States policy under the former-Clinton administration acted contrary to this legal concept under the tenets of the International Convention for the Regulation of Whaling (ICRW). Specifically, it did so by continued opposition and obstructionist positions on the resumption of limited and managed whaling by island and coastal nations.

Although it is true that there was over exploitation of certain whale stocks in the 18th and 19th centuries for commercial oil products, this is not the case today. In fact, no whale stocks were ever threatened by whale harvests for human food consumption. The Scientific Committee of the governing body of the ICRW and the International Whaling Commission (IWC) has found that limited harvests would have no adverse impact on population stocks.

However, in the past, the United States and other nations have consistently opposed the resumptions of limited whaling on what amounts to purely a political agenda. For instance, the United States supported the adoption of the Southern Ocean Sanctuary for whales without any scientific basis for such a position. Further, the United States is supporting the adoption of a Pacific Ocean Sanctuary where there is no scientific basis for the establishment of such a sanctuary. Even after the Bush administration took office, the Department of State has opposed legal trade in whale products between Norway and Japan. I would sincerely urge the Bush administration to carefully review the United States policy in terms of science and law.

I must say, I was extremely pleased to note President Bush's recent remarks to the Environmental Youth Award winners about environmental policy. As you know, the President stated that decisions regarding environmental matters in his Administration would be, and I quote, ''based upon sound science, not some environmental fad or what may sound good—that we're going to rely on the best evidence before we decide [on policy].''

After representing the Congress at two Conferences of the Parties (COP) to Convention on International Trade in Endangered Specie of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES), as well as having chaired several hearings in the Congress about the sustainable use or renewable resources on the international level, I know the United States is certainly a nation that supports the consumptive use of renewable wildlife and marine resources under scientific management.

As such, I respectfully request that any future policy regarding various species—whether the subject species are elephants, whales, turtles, or trees—be based on sound science and the legal ramifications of the Uruguay Round Agreements of GATT.

I appreciate your attention to this request, and I look forward to your response. Please do not hesitate to contact me should you have questions or comments.

Sincerely,

RICHARD W. POMBO,
Member of Congress.

ERADICATION OF TUBERCULOSIS ON A WORLD-WIDE BASIS

HON. SILVESTRE REYES

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. REYES. Mr. Speaker, as you know, infectious diseases are needlessly killing millions of people every year and cost the global community billions in healthcare costs and lost revenue. Diseases such as Tuberculosis (TB) are on the rise around the world, and due to their infectious properties, are threatening the health and welfare of Americans. TB cannot be stopped at our national borders and the only way to eliminate TB here at home is to control it abroad. In fact, according to the National Intelligence Council, new and re-emerging infectious diseases will pose a rising global health threat and will complicate U.S. and global security over the next twenty years. We must take action to address these dangers now.

I feel strongly that Congress should make a significant investment in low-cost, high-impact programs like TB control. Mr. Speaker for just $20 to $100 invested in a quality TB program, a life can be saved. This is one of the most cost-effective health interventions available today. In FY2001, Congress provided $60 million for international TB control, a solid step towards addressing this killer. More must be done this year. Fifteen million people in the U.S. are infected with the TB bacteria, and nearly two million people perish world-wide each year. In addition, eight million people are afflicted with this disease annually and every second of every day, someone in the world is infected with the disease.

TB is the biggest killer of people with AIDS, and TB rates have skyrocketed in sub-Saharan Africa due to the AIDS/TB co-epidemics. Direct Observed Therapy treatment or ''Dots'' is one of the most cost-effective ways to prolong and improve the lives of people with HIV. As we increase resources for HIV and AIDS, it makes sense to increase funding for TB control as well.

If we do not act promptly, new deadly drug-resistant strains of TB and rising HIV rates will make TB very difficult or impossible to control. I have asked that we provide $200 million in the FY2002 foreign aid budget for the international TB control program.

Mr. Speaker, as a member of Congress from a international borer city, I know the importance of combining TB at our borders. Now is the time to combat tuberculosis and eradicate this horrible disease before it begins more impacting our population.

HONORING METRO SCHOOLS DIRECTOR, DR. BILL M. WISE, ON THE OCCASION OF HIS RETIREMENT FROM THE METROPOLITAN NASHVILLE-DAVIDSON COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

HON. BOB CLEMENT

OF TENNESSEE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Metro Schools Director Dr. Bill M. Wise on the occasion of his retirement from the Metropolitan/Davidson County/Nashville, Tennessee school system after thirty-one years of outstanding service to students, teachers, and personnel.

Dr. Wise is to be commended for the impact he has made on the local, state, and national levels through his tireless work to achieve unity during legal battles over court-ordered desegregation busing. His leadership proved pivotal in the successful resolution of this important matter. Leaders from across the Nation have sought his advice and expertise in this area and he has offered consultations and hope in times of crisis to schools in Texas, South Carolina, Mississippi, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, and Alabama. Wise is also recognized nationally for his successful management skills and expertise in school facilities management.

His philosophy has always focused on what is best for students and student achievement including improving physical conditions in school facilities and fostering morale. Because of his strong leadership skills combined with character and courage, Wise's efforts have proven extremely fruitful.

A native Tennessean, Bill Wise was educated at the University of North Alabama in Florence, where he received a Bachelor of Science in 1963, and a Master's Degree in 1965. He continued his education at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, earning a Doctorate of Education in 1970.

Wise began his career as an Alabama school teacher in 1963 working for the Florence City School system and later moving to the university level as an instructor and coach at the University of North Alabama until 1968.

After a two-year stint as a Ford Foundation Fellow at the University of Tennessee, Wise was named Assistant Superintendent for the Metropolitan Nashville-Davidson County Public School System in 1970. He was promoted to Deputy Superintendent, where he served from 1994–1997. He then became Interim Director of Schools and nine months later was named Director of Schools.

As Director of Schools, Wise has been responsible for an operating budget upwards of $300 million and a capital budget of nearly $100 million, while implementing and overseeing The Strategic Plan for the Metropolitan Nashville Public School District. The school district includes more than one hundred twenty-five public schools with thousands of students from all walks of life.

Wise has been honored numerous times by his peers. Recent awards include: the Council of the Great City Schools First Annual Bill Wise Award in 2000; the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame, Middle Tennessee Chapter, Distinguished American Award in 2001; and the Tennessee School Plant Management Association's Superintendent of the Year for 2001.

Additionally, he has been active in numerous professional organizations including: the American Association of School Administrators; the Tennessee Association for Supervision and Administration; the Council of the Great City Schools, Business Officials Group; the Southeastern Association of School Business Officials; Phi Delta Kappa; Iota Lambda Sigma; and Council of Educational Facility Planners.

His civic contributions include involvement on the Board of Directors for the following organizations: Green Hills YMCA; Nashville Chapter of the American Red Cross; National Kidney Foundation of Middle Tennessee (Past President); Nashville Institute for the Arts; Cumberland Science Museum; Boy Scouts of America's Middle Tennessee Council; Junior Achievement of Middle Tennessee, Inc.; and Metropolitan Nashville Public Education Foundation.

With the obvious challenges and changes that Wise has faced during his career in public education, I am pleased to honor him for facing adversity with courage and using the tools available in an imperfect system to craft a successful educational program for students in our community. I respect his philosophy of focusing on learning, support systems and appropriate settings for equity and excellence for all students and promoting change as positive and necessary for continual personal improvement.

In closing, Dr. Wise is to be commended for building a solid foundation for those who will follow in his footsteps and strive to meet the goal of improving educational opportunities for all Tennesseans. I have no doubt that his dedication and service to our community, our state, and our nation, will be remembered for many years to come.

SECTION 245(i) EXTENSION ACT OF 2001

HON. ELTON GALLEGLY

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, I voted in favor of H.R. 1885, a bill sponsored by Immigration and Claims Subcommittee Chairman GEORGE GEKAS, which will extend by four months the time illegal immigrants may apply for legal residence while remaining in the United States. The measure requires illegal immigrants who utilize Section 245(i) of the immigration law to have been in the United States as of December 21, 2000. In addition, H.R. 1885 requires that the family relationship or employment existed by April 30, 2001. These two important provisions contained in H.R. 1885 will ensure that the extension of Section 245(i) does not provide future incentives for illegal immigration or punish legal immigrants waiting in line for their applications to be processed.

I supported this short-term extension of Section 245(i) because it will assist those immigrants who were eligible to apply for a green card as of April 30, but were unable to meet the deadline due to administrative problems, such as the INS not issuing regulations on Section 245(i) until March of this year. At the same time, H.R. 1885 will not reward those who enter illegally with the hope of becoming legal without first returning to their native country. Most importantly, it will send the message that legal immigrants, who waited in line and obeyed our immigration laws, should get first priority in the processing of immigration applications.

Although I supported this four-month extension of Section 245(i) for the reasons discussed above, I will not support any extension beyond this time period. This is not the first time that this ill-conceived provision has been extended. Section 245(i) was first added to the immigration law in 1994. Since that time, it has been extended on numerous occasions, including most recently in December of last year. This has provided persons who wanted to apply for permanent residency status more than enough time to submit their application to INS.

A longer extension than the period of time contained in H.R. 1885 will further encourage illegal immigration and punish legal immigrants waiting for their application to be processed. Also, because U.S. State Department consular officers are better suited than INS employees to determine if the illegal immigrant has a criminal background, a longer extension of Section 245(i) will undermine the important law enforcement goal of preventing criminal aliens from remaining in our country.

CONGRATULATING JOSE DE ESCANDON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL ON BEING NAMED A ''BLUE RIBBON SCHOOL''

HON. RUBÉN HINOJOSA

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. HINOJOSA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the Jose De Escandon Elementary School in the La Joya Independent School District in my South Texas district on being named a ''Blue Ribbon School.''

Quality education is the passport to a successful future and Escandon Elementary has been relentless in its pursuit of educational excellence. This award truly symbolizes the many successful futures this school has forged for its students.

La Joya is not a wealthy school district. The majority of the students are Hispanic and many live below the poverty level. It is in an isolated, rural community along the Texas-Mexico border. Despite these seeming disadvantages, under the leadership of Superintendent Dr. Robert Zamora and principal Benita Salazar, Escandon has demonstrated what can be achieved when parents, teachers, school officials and the community join together to utilize every resource to its fullest potential. In addition to the Blue Ribbon Award. Escandon has been recognized by the State of Texas as an Exemplalry Elementary School, having over 90 percent of its students pass the 3rd grade Texas Assessment of Academic Skills test.

Blue Ribbon Awards are exclusive in nature and are presented to only 264 elementary schools across the country including both public and private institutions. Schools receiving the award must demonstrate strong leadership; a clear vision and sense of mission; high-quality teaching; challenging up-to-date curriculum; policies and practices that ensure a safe environment conducive to learning; solid evidence of family involvement; evidence that the school is helping ALL students achieve high standards; and a commitment to share best practices with other schools.

On Monday, I will be visiting Escandon Elementary to celebrate its great achievement. The citizens of La Joya are fiercely proud of their town and their school. This award is not only a reflection of the exemplary work that the children have done, but also a reflection of the values and dedication of the whole community. I would encourage every locality to follow La Joya's example. When the entire community works together and commits to helping every child succeed, it will happen and all of our children will receive the quality education they deserve.

Mr. BARRETT of Wisconsin. CONCERNING PARTICIPATION OF TAIWAN IN WORLD HEALTH ORGANIZATION

SPEECH OF

HON. SILVESTRE REYES

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 15, 2001

Mr. REYES. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 428, a bill which calls for Taiwan's participation in the World Health Organization (WHO). I would also like to commend the author of the legislation, my friend and colleague from Ohio, Mr. SHERROD BROWN, for his leadership on this issue. I am proud to join as a co-sponsor of this important bipartisan legislation.

Mr. Speaker, as you know, the World Health Organization is the most important international health organization in the world. In its charter, the WHO sets forth the crucial objective of attaining the highest possible level of health for all people, yet today the 23 million citizens of Taiwan are denied appropriate and meaningful participation in the international health forums and programs conducted by the WHO. Currently, there are over 190 participants in the WHO; Taiwan is not one of them. What this means is that Taiwan is not permitted to receive WHO benefits.

Access to the WHO ensures that the highest standards of health information and services are provided, facilitating the eradication of disease and improvement of public health on a world-wide basis. The work of the WHO is particularly crucial today given the tremendous volume of international travel, which has heightened the transmission of communicable diseases between borders. Lack of access to WHO protections has caused people of Taiwan to suffer needlessly.

Mr. Speaker, there is no good reason why Taiwan should be denied observer status with the World Health Organization. As a strong democracy and one of the world's most robust economies, Taiwan should participate in the health services and medical protections offered by the WHO. In addition, the WHO stands to benefit significantly from the financial and technological contributions that Taiwan has to offer.

Mr. Speaker, I strongly urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this legislation.

COMMENDING JUDY BELL—FIRST LADY OF GOLF

HON. MARGE ROUKEMA

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Speaker, I rise to direct the attention of my Colleagues to Hasbrouck Heights, New Jersey where this evening one of golf's legends will be honored. The Professional Golf Association (PGA) will honor Judy Bell as recipient of this year's ''First Lady of Golf Award''. The PGA First Lady of Golf Award, inaugurated in 1998, is presented to a woman who has made significant contributions to the promotion of the game of golf.

With interest and participation in golf growing to new heights every year, it is appropriate that the stewards of the game honor those who laid a strong foundation for today's success.

Judy Bell's golf career—which spans the 50's, 60's, 70's 80's, 90's and has now reached into the new millennium—has been marked by one outstanding achievement after another. She has made significant contributions as a champion player, Rules official and an industry leader. Her lifetime record of service to the golf industry includes becoming the first woman to be elected president of the United States Golf Association. Bell was elected the USGA's 54th president from 1996–97. Today, the 64-year-old Bell is in her 34th year of service to the USGA, and is consulting director of the USGA Foundation.

Bell is a 1961 graduate of Wichita State University, where she was a two-time NCAA runner-up during a prolific amateur career. She won three Kansas State Amateur championships, and competed at age 14 in the 1950 U.S. Women's Open, which would be the first of 38 USGA championship appearances. She was a two-time Curtis Cup Team member (1960, '62) and a two-time Curtis Cup Team Captain (1986, '88). She is the only individual to captain both a men's and women's U.S. World Amateur Team, leading the women in Stockholm, Sweden in 1988, and the men in Badsarrow, Germany in 2000. In addition, Judy Bell has been a USGA Rules official since the 1970s and has worked both the U.S. Open and U.S. Women's Open.

Judy Bell has been a source of inspiration to all she meets. By her work, by her words and by her example, she has brought a countless men, women and youngsters into the game. I urge my Colleagues to join me in paying tribute to Judy Bell—this year's recipient of the PGA's ''First Lady of Golf'' award.

INTRODUCING LEGISLATION CONGRATULATING THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA ON ITS 150TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. MARTIN OLAV SABO

OF MINNESOTA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, today, along with my colleagues from Minnesota, I am introducing legislation congratulating the University of Minnesota and its faculty, staff, students, alumni, and friends on the occasion of its 150th anniversary.

Mr. Speaker, the University of Minnesota is a land grant institution established in 1851, seven years before the state of Minnesota was accepted into the Union. Since its creation, the University of Minnesota has become one of the most comprehensive and prestigious universities in the United States, and is a major research institution spanning four campuses and outreach centers statewide.

The University of Minnesota's faculty, staff, and students have made significant contributions to our nation, and our world, which include the establishment of the world's leading kidney transplant center, as well as the invention of the flight recorder (commonly known as the ''black box''), retractable seat belt, and the heart-lung machine used in the world's first open-heart surgery.

The University of Minnesota has also made contributions in other areas such as agriculture, manufacturing, and physical sciences, including the creation of more than 80 new crop varieties, the development of the taconite process, and the isolation of uranium-235.

The University of Minnesota reaches across the state with its Extension Service, which has contact with 700,000 Minnesotans each year. With program areas ranging from crop management to effective parenting, all Minnesotans benefit from the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

Mr. Speaker, the University of Minnesota is an esteemed institution of higher learning, and as we mark its 150th Anniversary, I invite my colleagues to join me, and my fellow Minnesota colleagues, in honoring this remarkable university and its contributions to us all.

TRIBUTE TO BECKY TRINKLEIN

HON. JAMES A. BARCIA

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. BARCIA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Becky Trinklein as she prepares to celebrate twenty-five years of dutiful service as an educator, the past twenty years of which she spent at Immanuel Lutheran School in Frankenmuth, Michigan. Becky's faithfulness and dedication in sharing the good news of God's love in Christ with her students and others has made her an invaluable part of Lutheran education in her community.

A native of Frankenmuth, Becky is the only child of Victor and Marguerite Trinklein. The love and support of her family has carried her through every facet of her career and molded her into the unique, caring woman that she is today.

Becky holds a bachelor's degree in education with a special concentration in art education and a master's degree in education with a focus on early childhood education from Concordia Teacher's College. Her strong faith and adherence to God's will led her from St. John Lutheran School of Edgerton, Wisconsin, where she taught kindergarten and preschool for five years, to a similar job at Immanuel Lutheran School in the fall of 1981.

While Becky's teaching ministry has been distinguished, her noteworthiness extends far beyond the classroom walls. She has held leadership positions in the Michigan District Early Childhood Educators Conference, the North and East Lutheran Schools Early Childhood Educators Conference, and the Bay-Midland Lutheran Teachers Conference. The Michigan Region Five Odyssey of the Mind Board and the Bay Arenac Skill Center Advisory Committee have also benefited from her time and attention to service. Immanuel Lutheran has flourished from the commitment of this exceptional teacher and her presence has graced many committees and projects.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I wish to praise Becky for her continued adherence to excellence in education. The early school years put an indelible stamp on children and Becky Trinklein's strong influence has helped instill in them a sense of self-worth and pride that will carry them far in achieving success in life. I ask my colleagues to join me in expressing gratitude to Ms. Trinklein for her dedicated service to the children and in wishing her continued success.

Mr. Speaker, on Tuesday, May 22, my home city of Newark, New Jersey will have the privilege of hosting Otumfuo Osei Tutu II, sixteenth Asantehene, direct successor to Opemsuo Osei Tutu I from Ghana. I would like to ask my colleagues here in the United States House of Representatives to join me in welcoming the leader of Ghana to New Jersey. Our nation has a special relationship with Ghana, which in 1957 became the first country in colonial Africa to achieve independence. Kwame Nkrumah, the first president of the Republic of Ghana, earned a college degree from Lincoln University in Pennsylvania in 1939, creating a close bond between the people of Ghana and African Americans. When I had the great honor of accompanying President Clinton on his historic trip to Africa, we received a warm and enthusiastic welcome when over 500,000 Ghanaians came out to greet us.

Otumfuo Osei Tutu II has won admiration for the unique leadership he has provided the people of Asante and Ghana in general since he assumed the high office of Asantehene and the heavy responsibilities that go with the position. This dynamic, personable king has succeeded in refocusing the attention of the Asante nation and Ghana, on the development of the country's most valuable resource—its people. It is for this reason that his vision encompasses education, health and industry. A healthy people equipped with the requisite technical and scientific skill and knowledge constitute an invaluable asset to any community, any nation that aspires to achieve maximum industrialization.

Born on the 6th of May 1950 and named Barima Kwaku Duah, Otumfuo Osei Tutu II is the youngest of the five children of Nana Afua Kobi Scrwaa Ampem II, Asantchemaa (Queen Mother of Asante). Under his Majesty's leadership and direction numerous and very drastic efforts have been made to assess and redefine traditional roles, integrating some into global standards based in practicality, sustainability and functionality. What has emerged is a much better administrative design of six strategically functional and articulate units of the system.

As part of mobilization efforts to relax some aspects of Asante culture to embrace development and progress, Otumfuo has embarked on a drastic overhaul of the Kingdom and its logistics to enable the Manhyia Palace to better equip and prepare itself and its traditional leaders to accommodate the impeding challenges of development. By liberalizing various aspects of the Kingdom, Otumfuo has enhanced governance and emphasized development.

HONORING CAPTAIN WILLIAM W. COPPERNOL

HON. PAUL RYAN

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. RYAN of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I would like to share with my colleagues an accomplishment by a young man serving in the United States Army. Captain William W. Coppernol, who is from Burlington, Wisconsin, has received the General Douglas MacArthur Leadership Award. This award is given to those Army officers who embody the leadership ideals of General MacArthur. After my meeting with him this afternoon, I can certainly see why he was chosen for this prestigious award.

Captain Coppernol is an excellent example of the American military servicemember. He grew up in a city not far from me in southern Wisconsin. His family is still there, with his father working in Milwaukee for the FAA and his mother working at Burlington Catholic Central High School. Captain Coppernol is now stationed in Minnesota, which he is happy about because his parents can see their grandson, William, more often.

While Captain Coppernol is a family man, he is also an Army man. He is a bright man who plans to make a career out of the Army, and our country should be thankful for it. This ''Army of One'' is a true asset to the United States of America. I congratulate Captain Coppernol on receiving the General Douglas MacArthur Leadership Award.

VETERINARY HEALTH ENHANCEMENT ACT FOR UNDER-SERVED AREAS

HON. CHARLES W. ''CHIP'' PICKERING

OF MISSISSIPPI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. PICKERING. Mr. Speaker, many rural and inner city areas of the United States lack proper veterinary care within their communities. As a result, the health of both animals and humans in these areas is at risk. In many cases, veterinarians, upon graduating from a school of veterinary medicine, opt to practice in prosperous urban settings which often provide opportunities for higher standings of living. The result is a lack of animal health care professionals in hundreds of communities and rural regions.

Rural areas of the United States are going through a unique transformation. Thousands of small-town, agrarian communities are literally vanishing. These agricultural communities are dependent upon livestock veterinarians to help ensure the well-being of their rural economies. Unfortunately, lower earning potential, long hours, unfavorable weather conditions, danger, and fewer farmers are making livestock veterinarians remarkably scarce in these agrarian communities.

In the same respect, inner-city areas have also noticed a shortage of animal health care professionals within their communities. These areas are potential hotbeds for dangerous diseases carried by rodents and stray animals. These diseases can be easily transmitted to residents, particularly more highly-susceptible children. Veterinarians may often be the key in preventing the spread of such diseases in highly-populated, inner-city areas.

In response to the growing number of under-served areas that are lacking animal health care professionals, I am introducing the ''Veterinary Health Enhancement Act for Under-served Areas'' to meet the health care needs of these communities. Under this proposal, veterinary students will be provided scholarships and tuition debt relief if they choose to choose to practice in under-served areas for an agreed upon period of time. The result of having veterinarians provide their services to these communities will improve animal health, will ensure that the risk of disease transfer from animals to humans is minimal, and will improve economic opportunities for agriculture producers who depend on livestock veterinarians.

This is non-controversial legislation that will provide benefits to the entire country. I urge my colleagues to show their commitment to communities throughout their respective districts which lack proper veterinary care by lending their support for the ''Veterinary Health Enhancement Act for Under-Served Areas''.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize an outstanding Marine Corps Officer, Major Stewart H. Holmes, who served with distinction and dedication for two and a half years for the Secretary of the Navy, Commandant of the Marine Corps and under the Assistant Secretary of the Navy (FM&C) as the Marine Corps Appropriations Liaison Officer in the Appropriations Matters Office. During his tenure in the Appropriations Matters Office, which began in December of 1998, Major Holmes has provided members of the House Appropriations Committee, Subcommittee on Defense as well as our professional and associate staffs with timely and accurate support regarding Marine Corps plans, programs and budget decisions. His valuable contributions have enabled the Defense Subcommittee and the Marine Corps to strengthen its close working relationship and to ensure the most modern, well-trained and well-equipped marine forces attainable for our nation's defense.

HONORING RYAN PATTERSON

HON. SCOTT McINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this moment to honor one of the bright young minds of western Colorado. Central High School junior Ryan Patterson, amazed people for the second year in a row at a science fair for creating a compact device capable of digitally translating sign language onto a small electronic readout.

Ryan is no stranger at science fairs. He was the winner of last years science fair and went on to win first place and nearly $10,000 at the Intel International Science and Engineering Fair in Detroit. In total, Ryan has won numerous science awards, $192,000 in scholarships, $15,750 in cash, two lap-tops, and two trips to Stockholm, Sweden, for the Nobel Prize ceremonies. Seventeen year-old Ryan recently won the top award in the International Science Fair in San Jose, California.

The device that brought young Ryan all this fame is a glove that translates American Sign Language into digital information that can be read on a portable screen. The device will assist those with speaking disabilities communicate anywhere without a translator. Ryan came up with this while in a Burger King. ''I was in Burger King when I saw some people ordering their food in sign language with someone else translating for them,'' ''So I thought something like this would help them become more independent by being able to communicate easier.''

''For me, it's been an incredible journey,'' said John McConnell, a retired physicist. ''I'm 70 years old and he's one of the greatest joys of my life.'' Tests for the device were promising enough that Ryan plans on seeking a patent and he hopes to manufacture it.

Mr. Speaker, Ryan has a bright future ahead of him, and I would like to congratulate him on behalf of Congress and wish him the best of luck in his future endeavors. Ryan's family, classmates, and Western Colorado can be proud of Ryan for his accomplishments.

RECOGNITION OF NATIONAL MARITIME DAY 2001

HON. STEPHEN HORN

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize today, May 22, 2001, as National Maritime Day. In 1933 the 73rd Congress passed Senate Joint Resolution 7 designating May 22nd as National Maritime Day. Since that time every President starting with Franklin Roosevelt has issued an annual proclamation declaring May 22nd as National Maritime Day. I am pleased that President Bush has continued that proud tradition again this year.

With yesterday's passage of House Concurrent Resolution 109, this body took a positive step toward recognizing the significant contributions of the United States Merchant Marine to our maritime defense and national security. This resolution acknowledges the critical role played by vessels of the U.S. Merchant Marine fleet in transporting equipment, supplies, and personnel to support the nation's defense and recognizing the historical significance of May 22nd as National Maritime Day. It encourages the American people and appropriate government agencies to recognize the services and sacrifices of the U.S. Merchant Marine through ceremonies. And it requests that all U.s. ships prominently display the American flag on this day. As a co-sponsor of this legislation, I am pleased to see its passage in the House.

It is fitting to honor the past and present members of the U.S. Merchant Marine. To this end, I introduced legislation in the last Congress to authorize additional federal funding for the Merchant Marine Memorial Wall in San Pedro, California. This provision has been incorporated into broader legislation, H.R. 1098 and I am pleased with the legislative progress of the Maritime Policy Improvement Act of 2001 thus far. The House passed this measure in March by a bi-partisan vote of 415 to 3. The Senate Committee on Commerce recently approved this legislation. It is my hope that the full Senate will act soon on H.R. 1098 and that we will send this legislation to the President shortly.

I am proud to acknowledge the U.S. maritime fleet on National Maritime Day. Each day U.S. mariners diligently transport tons of imports and exports from ports around the country, many working in my district at the Ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach. On this day, we thank those people civilian and military, who spend their days on the water serving the American people.

THANKING JEAN HULL FOR HER YEARS OF VOLUNTEER WORK

HON. SCOTT McINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take a moment and say thank you to a resident of Glenwood Springs, Colorado. For 45 years, Jean Hull has volunteered her time with the hospital auxiliary. Throughout these 45 years, Jean has been a warm, friendly face for not only visitors but hospital employees as well.

Jean started out volunteering at the information desk in 1956 when the Valley View Hospital Auxiliary was formed. ''She has lent her support for literally the entire existence of Valley View,'' said Gary Brewer, the Hospital Administrator. ''Her gentle, competent and positive presence is valued by the hospital, and by our patients and families.'' Jean now volunteers every Thursday in the gift shop, where she is known as a very persuasive seller. Jean also helps with fund-raisers.

Other groups have benefited from Jean's willingness to volunteer her time. Jean was part of the Parent-Teacher Association. She is an active member of the First Presbyterian Church of Glenwood Springs, and for the past 28 years, she has been a member of the P.E.O., which raises money to help young women finish their education. ''It's a tremendous way for someone just moving into Glenwood to become acquainted. It's a wonderful way of doing something worthwhile. You feel like you're doing something for the community.''

During the month of May, Valley View Hospital named Jean ''Volunteer of the Year''. ''I was just overwhelmed, and very flattered of course,'' Jean said. ''Many volunteers have many more hours than I do.''

Mr. Speaker, I hope that you and Congress will join me in congratulating Jean on her award and thank her for all she has done for the community of Glenwood Springs.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. HAROLD ROGERS

OF KENTUCKY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. ROGERS of Kentucky. Mr. Speaker, I was unavoidably detained for several rollcall votes on May 21st and May 22nd due to flight delays and cancellations. The votes were on passage of H. Con. Res. 56, and on adoption of several amendments to H.R. 1, to Leave No Child Behind Act of 2001. If I had been present, I would have voted the following: rollcall vote No. 126—''yea''; rollcall vote No. 128—''yea''; rollcall vote No. 129—''yea''; rollcall vote No. 130—''nay''; and rollcall vote No. 131—''yea''.

In particular, I want to voice my strong support for H. Con. Res. 56, a resolution recognizing National Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day. This resolution pays tribute to the roughly 2,400 American citizens who died in the attack that day, and to the more than 12,000 members of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association. The story of Pearl Harbor will always invoke tragic memories for all of us, and it is appropriate that we pay special tribute and respect towards the military men and women who have paid the ultimate price to preserve the freedoms we Americans enjoy to this day.

TRIBUTE TO WATERSHED PIONEER LYNDON V. ''LINDY'' GRANAT

HON. SCOTT McINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, May 22, 2001

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, a most respected member of Western Colorado passed away on May 12, 2001. Lyndon V. ''Lindy'' Granat was a pioneer in Western Colorado, and I would like Congress to pause a moment and recognize Lindy for his years of work and dedication to the community. Everyone who knew him will sorely miss him.

Lindy was born in Eagle Bend, Minnesota, and in 1920 at the age of seven he moved to Palisade, Colorado in 1920 with his family. He graduated from Palisade High School in 1930 and three years later he met his future wife, Violet Wolverton. He and Violet married in 1935. Lindy was a peach rancher until his retirement in 1978. According to his family, ''Lindy had a lifelong love of Palisade, calling it 'God's Country' and Palisade is richer efforts.''

Lindy spent a lifetime booster the town, fighting for every cause. During his life he belonged to countless organizations like the Peach Board of Control and the United Fruit Growers Association where he served on the board of directors. He was a lifetime member of the NRA and the Western Colorado Horticulture Society.

Lindy is best known for helping to build the Palisade Watershed along with George Nesbitt, Ray Denison, and Bob Flockhart. As a result, Lindy was often the unofficial tour guide. In 1995 the Town of Palisade named the Granat Reservoir in his honor because of his intimate knowledge of the watershed's development. The Palisade Watershed is how the town receives its water from the Grand Mesa.

''He was a true gentle giant because his heart overflowed with love—love for his family, friends and his town. He was loyal, the kind of man you could count on, no matter what the need,'' said the Palisade Tribune.

Mr. Speaker, Lyndon V. ''Lindy'' Granat deserves the thanks and praise of Congress for all of his work for the Town of Palisade throughout his life. The memory of Lindy will last forever with wife and his sons Gary and Roger, his daughter Ruth and his grandchildren.
